

Widow 351

Chapter 351

Only when Crystal arrived at the bar did she understand why Antony had brought her there in such a hurry.

As soon as she entered, she heard Leroy's heart-wrenching singing. There was no skill. It was full of feelings. Even the harshest words were words of support. The most real reaction of the audience should be to get a chair and let the singer shut up.

Crystal covered her ears in pain. "I don't think there's any need for me to persuade him. Can't you just give him a good beating?"

Antony said, "Since he's already here, why don't you give it a try? The main reason is that Leroy, that son of a b*tch, has a grudge against me. If I beat him up today, I don't know when he'll set me up. No one would dare to take the lead."

Crystal looked at Leroy, who was holding a high stool and singing while crying. She made up her mind. Then she stepped forward and asked, "Brother Leroy?"

"Even if I die, I'll love you... If I'll love you with all my heart..." Hearing the voice, Leroy turned his head and looked at Crystal. After a while, he said, "Crystal! Crystal! Why are you here? It's perfect. You can sing with me. Do you know how to sing?"

Crystal replied, "No."

Crystal quickly said, "Wait a minute, let's not sing first. Brother Leroy, your singing is so good. We can't let them
