

Widow 379

Chapter 379

The whole office was so quiet that even a pin drop could be heard.

Everyone stood at the door, trembling with fear. They were not this afraid even when their boss was here to inspect. Once the man sitting in the chair frowned, they didn't even dare to breathe in an instant.

-They didn't even know who this man was. They just instinctively obeyed his orders.

With a "Pa" sound, the folder was placed on the table. Harold raised his eyes. His gaze was no longer as fierce as before, but it was deeper and more oppressive, making people think of the calm sea before the storm came. It looked calm, but in fact, it was turbulent and scarier.

"You..." The group leader in charge of tonight's performance swallowed and summoned up his courage to say, "Do... do you have any other orders?"

Harold lowered his eyelashes and asked, "Are all the names of the cast members listed here?" "Yes... they are all here." The group leader wiped his sweat and said, "We are very strict. We don't use newcomers for this kind of large-scale performance. They have all worked with us for more than a year."

put on the costumes, you won't be able to recognize who they are." Harold stood up and looked at the time on for a moment and then asked, "What do you mean by that? Is there a problem with our fame. The superiors attached great importance to it. If it is canceled all of a sudden, we will definitely be scolded to death!" "There's no need to cancel it." Harold said coldly, "It'll only get worse if it's canceled." Everyone was confused, but they didn't you have no right to take glanced at him and he string of numbers on the blank paper and said, "After six o'clock, you can contact this number. He will take over be of the door. His back was against the light, showing a kind of indomitable sharpness, like did not answer this woke up in a daze and found herself sitting many furry toys in all kinds of styles. There were sweet and lovely ones, weird and scary ones that were