

Widow 402

Chapter 402

Marcus was taller than 1.8 meters. It was indeed inconvenient for him to help the old madam, so he did not refuse.

Crystal followed them through the garden and arrived at Old Madam's room. A servant opened the door and Madam Kyla said to Marcus, "Marcus, open the box and take out the clothes."

Marcus answered and opened the wooden box. There was only a folded wedding dress lying inside, which was placed on a rosewood tray.

He took out the tray. Madam Kyla's dry fingers stroked the delicate embroidery on it. She closed her eyes and said, "Miss, come and have a look."

When Crystal approached, she saw that the embroidery on the wedding dress was indeed Bolton Clan's needle technique. Moreover, it was a very time-consuming project. If it was all embroidered by one person, it would take one or two years at the very least.

Marcus shook the dress and saw that the hem of the wedding dress was actually burned by the fire. The embroidery could no longer be seen, which made the exquisite wedding dress that could be displayed in the museum instantly worthless.

at the place where the fire burned and she said, "Over the years, I have found a lot of people to amend it, but they couldn't do in surprise, "How could this wedding dress them, regardless of whether it was a wedding dress or a wedding said, "When Chloe and Daxton got married, dress. Later, Chloe always regretted it and wanted to fix this dress, but she couldn't find the embroidery master who made her dress again. After she passed away,

married, there

Helena was very shocked.

almost 30 years ago when Chloe married into the Evans family. At that time, she was not born yet, so it was it?" Under Old Grandma's gaze, Crystal gently shook her head and said, "I'm sorry, Old Madam. This wedding dress has been severely damaged. I don't know what the raised her eyebrows