

Widow 433

Chapter 433

As soon as the voice fell, everyone had different thoughts.

There was one hidden rule in Fairby that everyone knew. Any family that would hold a wedding or a birthday party or any other occasion would send an invitation to the White family. However, it was unknown if Harold or other family members would attend or not.

It was the same for the Shamus family. They had sent an invitation to Harold, but they had never thought that Harold would be here in person. He rarely came to such an occasion. Since he was here today, the Shamus Family naturally felt proud, but they couldn't help but panic. After all, this big shot was always unpredictable.

The Marcy family was about to make a scene, but after hearing this, they calmed down. Although the Marcy family had a reputation in Fairby, it was nothing in front of Harold. This young master was unpredictable. He was a cruel character in Fairby.

black shirt. The buttons were tightly fastened to the top, and the collar was hand embroidered with a circle of dark silver trim, which set off the man's indifferent and cold eyes. There was no doubt that he was very good-looking, but this kind of good-looking face was completely suppressed by his cold and cruel aura. No one dared to look directly at his face. The military boots wrapped around the man's slender legs. He matter what it was, at this moment, a order, but Harold said slowly, "It doesn't matter. On my way here, I happened to hear something.

Erik's forehead. He didn't know could tell that not show it on his face, but he would have a little habit of rubbing the joints of said, "I'm afraid that Master White will laugh at the son were of the same generation, but now she made him frivolous before." Harold raised his hand. lightly. Luke understood and ordered someone to bring a