

Widow 483

Chapter 483

Peggie fell asleep on Crystal's legs. Crystal stroked its big tail and asked, "He just fired. Is that person dead?"

Corey paused for a moment and then said, "I don't think so. He didn't hurt the vital parts." Crystal, who was far away, didn't see it clearly. She sighed and said, "He is really fierce." Corey smiled and said, "People like them can't survive if they're not fierce."

"Jeremy's biological father is a gambler. He doesn't know who his mother is. It must be some prostitute standing in the street. After giving birth to Jeremy, she threw him to her father's door." Corey's tone was indifferent. "Where did his father get the money to raise him? His neighbors were the ones who raised him. Later, when Jeremy was four years old, his father lost him."

"Lost him?"

"Yes." Corey said, "His father lost everything and went mad. He even made a bet with his son, but unfortunately, he still lost the bet. From then on, Jeremy has been hanging out with a man called Grover."

"He worked hard and climbed up step by step. When he was seventeen, he was already Grover's confidant. But Grover probably didn't realize that he raised a venomous snake and wanted to marry his little daughter to him. Unfortunately, Jeremy was not a good person. When he was nineteen years old, he killed Grover and took the throne himself. Over these years, he has been standing higher than Grover."

Confused, Crystal said, "By right, Grover is Jeremy's benefactor."
