

Widow 536

Chapter 536

Bella was happy in her heart, but she didn't show it on her face. She pretended to be gentle and said, "Of course, I will definitely help you. You are my cousin."

Looking at her sincere expression, Farley lowered his head and said, "But I'm afraid... I'm afraid that Crystal will hate me after I do this."

Bella wanted to jump up and point at Farley's nose to scold him for being a coward. Which one mattered to him more? Was it the fact that Crystal hated him or the fact that he could never get Crystal?

She endured it and still looked like a kind-hearted person who was helping others. "Cousin, she won't. Although Crystal refused your confession before, wasn't it due to aunt's disagreement about you being with her? She must have refused you because she didn't want you to be in a difficult position. You treated her so well and grew up with her. How could she hate you?"

"... Really?"

"Of course." Bella said, "Not only will she not hate you, but she will also be grateful to you." She curled her lips and said word by word, "After all, you are the one saving her from a boundless sea of suffering."

she was a child. Because there were no children who were willing to play with her, she had to play by herself. She dug wild vegetables and played with crabs. She even tried to climb up the trees to get bird eggs. In the end, she a small bungalow. Crystal liked to come here after she got beaten and felt aggrieved. Debbie would not be age of nineteen, she felt as if summer or rainy days." Crystal stood under a huge rock. There was no sun all year round, higher than hers, and she would feel warm when she was next arms and placed his chin on her shoulder. His voice was was confused. "Why

you're willing to take me to visit your

"It's not some have witnessed

was clear, and there were unknown wildflowers on the fields. There were