

Widow 91

Chapter 91

The three of them walked out of the police station. Alissa wiped her tears and held Crystal's hand, saying, "Thank you very much for what happened today... I've never dared to call the police. I was afraid that he would treat Bernard... But now I've figured it out. No matter whether I call the police or not, he won't let me go. Why should I tolerate him?"

Crystal took out a tissue from Antony's jacket pocket and wiped Alissa's tears. He said, "Sister Alissa, don't cry. Why should you cry for such a person?"

"That's right..." Alissa choked and said, "For such a person..."

She finally couldn't help crying, squatting on the side of the road and crying like a child. "... I grew up following the rules and followed my parents' arrangements. When I was in college, I knew Caleb. I had never been in contact with his world... I went crazy. I fell out with my parents for him. I didn't finish my studies. I married him and had a son with him..."

"But Caleb is a b*stard... He just wanted to play with me... He hit me when he was drunk. I almost had a miscarriage several times, but I had no way out. My parents no longer want me, and my friends left me as well..."

She covered her face and said in a hoarse voice, "Two months ago, I gave him all the money I saved for these years, and he finally agreed to divorce me. I thought this was my new beginning..." Alissa tugged at her hair in pain and said in a choked voice, "But Caleb is always haunting me. He still won't let me off..."

Crystal hugged Alissa, and said softly,

Crystal ran her hand through away Alissa's messy hair and said, "They and said, "But my father said that they won't regard me as their daughter anymore... I went back to will also be angry. You have done something wrong, so your parents. No matter what, they will definitely love you as much as you

Crystal bit her and ask them." Crystal said, "Ask

Crystal wiped her tears and said, "I got will know."

I won't be able to run the business the next few days. You don't have to go to work