

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 1198

□ □ □

Chapter 1198

Ike looked at Harvey.

Had Harvey not come off as a jerk, Ike would have informed him of the mistake there and then.

After Nicole had pointed it out, Harvey realized that the error was entirely avoidable.

Perhaps he was just distracted because Ike was in the office, causing him to overlook the inaccuracies.

"It's done. Let's try again."

Nicole restarted the program and centered her gaze on the screen. As expected, it worked according to plan and everything turned out just as they had wanted.

"This is my first time seeing such a unique design!" one of the designers remarked.

"Miss Riddle, we might need some examine and analyze it," Ike explained to Nicole.

"Sure, we'll discuss about it today. Don't hesitate to tell me if there's anything we need to improve upon. We'll get it done right away."

Nicole looked at everyone with nothing sincerity in her eyes.

Everyone nodded before they began their discussion with their eyes on the screen.

With some of them expounding upon the areas that needed improvement, Nicole immediately arranged for one of the engineers to fix the issues that were mentioned while she took the lead directing the process.

Harvey found a chair and took a seat as he watched Nicole giving instructions to the group of engineers.

The meeting room was busy, and he felt that he was not a part of it.

Realizing that he was not needed there, he went out to get a breath of fresh air.

As he sat on bar stool, drinking coffee, a figure appeared out of nowhere and came up to him.

"Harvey, you're drinking coffee again?" Kelly asked, having entered the lounge and seen him staring into space by himself.

Harvey turned to her.

"Are you on a break?"

"Yeah, and is Miss Riddle still working with Mr. Ike in the development department?" Kelly asked.

"Yeah, they're still busy," Harvey responded without a hint of emotion on his face.

"Harvey, why do I feel like you're in a rather bad mood today?" Kelly blinked at him.

"Is that so? Perhaps it's because it was too noisy in the meeting room," Harvey said, unable to bring himself to be happy.

"Wow, even you've had enough, huh," Kelly observed.

"The meeting must've been really noisy then, right?"

"Noisy would be an understatement. It felt like there was a hive of bees buzzing around my ear."

Harvey shook his head and took another sip from his cup.

"Well, of course. It's a major project, and that's why everyone wants to have the best solution."

"Enjoy your break I'm heading back in."

Harvey placed his cup down and bade her farewell before making his way back to the development department.

The moment he swung the door to the meeting room open, he saw Ike talking to Nicole at a corner.

Harvey frowned as he thought, 'I just went out for a cup of coffee and Ike has already glued himself to

Nicole. Seems like I can't leave them alone at all"

"Hey, what are you talking about?"

Harvey stood in between them and asked.

□ □ □