

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1601

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1601-'Okay, now she's being too generous.'

"It's a deal." Jared's mood improved tremendously.

The smile at the corner of Nicole's mouth widened as the two of them continued to sweet talk one another throughout the night.

During the next day itself, Nicole had packed their belongings and moved back to the Riddle residence along with Samuel and Spencer, who had done the same. When Nicole arrived home, she noticed that Sean had brought Mrs. Wallace Sr. to the Riddle residence. There, she saw that her parents were chatting with Mrs. Wallace Sr.

"Nicole, your brother suddenly came to my place and brought me over here asking me to live here. Is everything alright with you?" Mrs. Wallace Sr. asked.

She had been living with Tia at the Sea View Villa, and though she felt lonely, she had already gotten used to the peace and tranquility. Thus, she knew something was up when Nicole suggested that she moved in with them.

Nicole looked at Mrs. Wallace Sr. and couldn't help but smile. "I'm fine, Grandma. It's my parents who wanted me to move back here. They're not allowing me to live alone anymore, which is why I have to bring you here for a while."

"Oh..." Mrs. Wallace Sr. sighed in relief.

She truly missed her granddaughter, and now that Nicole had found her family, she was more than grateful that Nicole was willing to stay over at her place for a few days a month. It went without mentioning that it was Nicole who had bought her the mansion by the sea.

'I never would've dreamt of having to live with Nicole and her family...' Mrs. Wallace Sr. thought.

"Won't it be a hassle to have me here..." she asked.

"Nonsense," Gloria said with a smile on her face. "You've raised Nicole for so many years now. You're her grandma, and you're considered an elder. You living here would be of no problem at all. Please don't feel that you'll be a burden to us."

The moment Mrs. Wallace Sr. noticed the sincerity on Gloria's face, her heart began to surge with warmth.

She turned to look at Nicole and said, "You're just like your mother, both kind-hearted and understanding. The both of you share such wonderful traits."

Gloria's face flushed red the second she heard the praise from Mrs. Wallace Sr. "You're flattering me. I have arranged a room for you on the first floor so that it'll be convenient for you to move around. If there's anything else that you need, please feel free to tell me."

"No, no, everything's fine. The Riddle family is very lively. As compared to before, I lived alone, and everything just felt deserted," the old woman said.

"True, a large family like this will surely be lively in the future." Gloria smiled.

Seeing that Mrs. Wallace Sr. and Gloria had gotten along very well, Nicole then glanced at Tia, who was beside her. "I apologize for all the trouble, but you would have to come here to take care of her from now onwards."

Though Tia would be staying at the Riddle residence, taking care of Mrs. Wallace Sr. would here would pose a challenge for her.

"Don't worry, Nicole. I will do my utmost best to take care of Mrs. Wallace Sr." Tia promised with a solemn look on her face, to which Nicole nodded in satisfaction.

'The entire family is now here.' Nicole breathed a sigh of relief deep within. Now that they are all here, it'll easier to protect them, and it's also much more convenient for the people that Jared had hired to protect them.'

It was like killing two birds with a stone. Otherwise she would not have agreed to have Mrs. Wallace Sr. moving in with them.

Sean walked over to Nicole from the side and said, "Dad's asking us to go to his study."

"Oh." Nicole nodded her head, whereupon she followed her brother to the study.

As the two of them entered, Nicole noticed that Steve was also in the study.

"Nicole is here."

Nicole noticed the expression on both Daniel and Steve's faces, prompting her to ask, "What happened?"

Daniel remained silent, and instead, Steve got up and said, "It's Norah...she attempted suicide at the detention center last night."

Nicole narrowed her eyes. 'Norah, suicide? How could someone like her commit suicide?'

"Perhaps it was because she was given a life sentence yesterday, and she couldn't bear the consequences and so, she attempted suicide. It was fortunate that she was discovered just in time, but her injuries were quite serious. Her trachea was cut, and now, she can't breathe on her own. She's in the Critical Care Unit as of now."

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1602

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1602-Nicole raised her eyebrows slightly, 'I did not expect her to be so courageous by slashing her throat and committing suicide...but then again, she didn't die, so it's very likely that it was just another one of her tricks.'

She then looked at Daniel and Steve before asking, "Well then, why did you ask me to come here?"

'I am not interested in Norah's affairs, and I don't even wish to pay attention to any of it,' she thought.

Daniel sighed. "Norah may be out of prison for now, but we're afraid that once she gets discharged, she might think of ways to hurt you again..."

Not expecting her father to have so much care for her, Nicole beamed, unable to hide the smile any longer.

"It's okay, she won't be out of jail for long," she replied.

'Though it was one of Norah's diabolical plans, she had underestimated what Jared was capable of. But to think of such petty ways to escape being imprisoned? That's clever of how. I've got to give her that,' Nicole thought.

"Really?" Steve was taken aback by Nicole's sudden burst of confidence, and had a hard time believing what she had said.

"Don't worry, within five days, she'll definitely return to prison," Nicole stated with absolute confidence.

Sean saw right through Nicole and understood what she meant right away. "As long as we know what's going on with Norah, what we need to discuss is the next big thing."

As soon as Sean had spoken, he handed Nicole a folder. Within the folder, Nicole caught sight of various information about the Fisher family. It was updated with all of the recent crises suffered by the Fishers. That was when her eyes glinted with understanding of the situation.

Nicole had not contacted the Fishers because she had already guessed that they would not be good business partners. As of now, everyone was eager to cooperate with the Riddle family and would be more than willing to terminate their collaborations with the Fishers.

Nicole's eyes narrowed slightly as she continued to peruse all that was within the folder. 'Interesting...'

The Fisher family was in a crisis, and yet, they had planned to unite a few new families and some businesses that were at odds with the Riddle family. These new families and companies were the ones that did not have much of a historical background, were not a part of the alliance formed due to the Reby Family Crest, and were they controlled by it.

In addition, there were a few century-old families who did not care about their ancestral decrees, and had not attended the banquet that the Riddles had hosted.

Nicole analyzed what each of those families were capable of, and found that they were not weak. Yet, she would be overwhelmed if she were to unite them under the Riddle family.

"Don't worry about it. We can think of other ways to deal with them later," Nicole said, calm and without a hint of being flustered.

Steve was impressed by Nicole. "I think so too, but then... since you're not perturbed by it. Do you perhaps know a thing or two about business management?"

During the time Nicole had spent at home, her identity was continuously exposed, and so, it was no surprise that she did not know a lot about business management.

Nicole shook her head. "I haven't learned much on the business side of things."

Sean felt what she said made sense. After all, Nicole was sent to receive special training from a young age.

"However, due to some requirements at work, I could only understand the discrepancies in the reports. After all, we had to monitor a few companies in secret," she said.

As soon as those words were uttered, Sean and Steve shared a look. Based on their previous experiences, they felt that Nicole was not as simple as she made herself out to be.

'If she can monitor any abnormalities within the companies, she can definitely notice any problems with the accounts and other materials in a glance.'

Daniel knew deep down that his daughter's skills should not be underestimated, but he said nonetheless, "Though it is a bit too early for me to say this, you ought to know that there are many people with their eyes on you, your identity, and everything right now. Even if you're busy with school, you should go and learn more about the company during your free time and help your brothers out. Learn a thing or two about business management."

Nicole was the holder of the Fire Crest after all. The value she possessed influenced those who cooperated with the Riddle family. Sooner or later, Nicole herself would join the company. Hence, it was only right for her to learn about the company affairs as soon as she could.

“Okay, I understand.” Nicole nodded her head, ‘I ought to listen to my parents’ advice.’

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1603

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1603-‘However, I’ve been thinking about what happens after I retire, and if I could, I’ll definitely be of help to the Riddle family,’ Nicole thought as she was dumbfounded for a moment.

‘Once, Jared had mentioned about it before, and here I am, thinking about retirement...Men are indeed toxic.’

After the meeting at Daniel’s study had ended, Nicole headed downstairs where the Riddle family proceeded to eat in peace. The family then discussed about the company’s annual meeting, which would be held on the weekend.

Spencer and Samuel were both in a pickle. “The clothes for the annual meeting are ready, but our plus one...”

Stanley, who was seated beside them, sighed. “How are you two? It’s totally normal for people your age to not have any plus ones.”

“Who said so? Stanley, it would be embarrassing if you show up without a plus one.”

Once these words were uttered, Stanley’s expression turned sour, “Who told you that I’m not bringing a plus one?”

As those words left his mouth, everyone around the table looked at him, with Spencer smirking at him. “Stanley, you’ve already found your plus one?”

The second he was asked, Stanley immediately paused, irritated at himself for not being able to contain his emotions well as he saw the whole family staring at him with anticipation. Then, he looked at Tia who had been silent for the entire time as she sat next to Mrs. Wallace Sr.

“Here, isn’t this already out of the box?”

A sudden mention by Stanley took Tia by surprise, “Mr. Stanley, are you talking about me?”

Indeed, Tia did not expect that Stanley would call out to her.

Nicole would not have guessed that Stanley would have Tia as his plus one, so she flashed them a playful smile and continued to watch the scene unfolding before her.

Stanley nodded earnestly, and as he noticed that Tia was a little taken aback, his voice softened. "Well, do you want to be my plus one?"

Gloria and Daniel looked at Stanley directly before exchanging glances, having arrived at an understanding. 'Our son is old enough to make his own decisions.'

"I... Can I go? Nicole?" Tia hesitated for a moment, and proceeded to ask Nicole for permission.

Though she was not a servant of the Riddle family, with Mrs. Wallace Sr. not regarding her as one either, she still did not feel that she was qualified to attend any occasions related to the Riddle family.

"My brother invited you. If he thinks that you can, then you can." Nicole smiled, attempting to reassure Tia.

And in a tone showing that he felt discouraged, Samuel said, "It's over. We should not even have asked. The three of us should have taken the lead. We've forgotten that there's a cute girl living in our house."

Nicole looked at Samuel who seemed dejected, and that was when an idea came to mind. "Spencer and Samuel, I can help you solve your plus one concerns."

"Really?" Spencer asked, taking a sudden interest in the conversation.

"Who is it? Do we know each other?" Samuel added, becoming curious as well.

In response, Nicole playfully mentioned, "June Wallace and Lulu Barrera."

Spencer and Samuel were stunned for a moment. They had previously met for a couple of times, and although their interactions were limited, they were not problematic individuals. With that said, the twins did not really have any choice left, as they did not know anyone who would be reliable enough for the role. Though there were a lot of girls in their school to choose from, both Lulu and June were known to be the only mindless fanatics who would swoon over them.

"Sure, why not!" The two of them agreed at once, fearing that they would lose the opportunity if they did not take it, and that they would have to worry about this again.

"Okay!"

'This is not only troublesome, but June and Lulu will be ecstatic once they find out...'

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1604

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1604-Steve could not help but click his tongue. "It seems to me the three of you are all grown up."

In response, Stanley looked at Steve and joked, "Oh, you're too kind, but we're not like you. For you, plus ones are never in short supply."

Stanley's words were so abrupt that Steve almost choked on the water he was drinking.

"Stanley, stop spewing hogwash, will you?" Steve said.

At that moment, something came to mind and Samuel joined in on the joke. "Yeah! I heard that Steve always has different women as his plus ones for every event."

Steve eyed his father's expression with a hint of guilt on his face, after which he glared at Samuel.

"Shut up. Enough with the nonsense. They're my colleagues from my company," Steve argued.

However, the way Gloria had interpreted it, sounded like something entirely different.

Then, she gave Steve a friendly smile. "Steve is getting old as we speak. You are now at the age when you're supposed to get your own girlfriend now. If there's a person you like, you can bring her home and introduce her to us."

"Mom, stop teasing me," Steve protested. "I'm a career- orientated person. Besides, I have Sean as an older brother.

How can I have a girlfriend before he does?"

The words that left Steve's mouth shifted the attention to Sean, who then shot Steve a death stare, shutting him up at once.

However, Gloria was already nodding along. "Yeah, Sean! You've been busy at the office all day. Have you gotten yourself a girl? You can bring her to the event meeting."

Sean sighed. "Mom, you know that I'm a busy person. How am I even supposed to find the time to date someone?"

Gloria shook her head immediately, and looked back at Nicole, "You should learn a thing or two from Nicole. She's busy with both her work and her studies, and yet, she's soon to settle down with marriage in the talks. Come to think of it, I was engaged to your father as soon as I turned 18, but you guys..."

After Gloria had spoken to all of the young Riddles, everyone looked at Nicole with their eyes narrowed.

A look of helplessness washed over her face at an instant. 'Why was I brought into this? Now, I've become the butt of the joke.'

Spencer spoke up and said, "Yes, there's no need to worry about Nicole, she's definitely going to attend the event with Jared as her plus one, and they sure won't let you down on that."

"Yeah, I'm also envious." Samuel nodded his head.

Sensing the envy from everyone around her, Nicole's face turned bright red from embarrassment.

Then, she took a deep breath and said, "If you are all jealous of me, how about I help you out and get you all girlfriends?"

As soon as these words exited her mouth, the Riddle brothers immediately fell silent.

Steve quickly shook his head, "Forget it. I still want to be single for a few more years. I want to enjoy the freedom of being single."

Stanley also shook his head, "I just want to focus on my studies, and I still need to learn more about the company."

Noticing that both Steve and Stanley were embarrassed, Spencer could not help but burst into a laughing fit. "Wow, Steve and Stanley are scared!"

Indeed, it was a rare sight to see, and in retaliation, Steve frowned. "If you're not a coward, let Nicole get you a girlfriend!"

Spencer's smirk suddenly froze, and with a smile, Nicole said, "It's a deal."

Nicole sipped on her tea before Samuel spoke up, beating Spencer to it, "I... I want one too!"

"Sure." Nicole smiled,

Samuel's wish might come true soon enough, for there was no need for Nicole to search long and hard.

Spencer suddenly sighed before he yelled, "Shut up!"

'Does this fella really think I want a girlfriend?'

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1605

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1605—Samuel had gotten the wrong idea. “Why should I shut up? We’re twins. If you’re the only one to have a girlfriend, then others would laugh at me.

How could I be left behind!?”

“You!” Spencer uttered, and was left speechless soon after. ‘His brain cells are literally close to none!’

Gloria was amused, and Daniel covered his mouth in a fit of pigeon laughter, entertained by the silliness displayed by Samuel. Meanwhile, Sean and Steve, who could no longer hold laughter back, busted out in a fresh gale, leading the entire family to burst into a laughing fit, leaving a confused Samuel at loss.

“What? Did I say something wrong?” He joined them in merriment as he watched his family guffawing away at him.

The Riddle family on Daniel’s side were filled with laughter, but at Damien Riddle’s residence, it was dark and gloomy.

“Damien, what’s been going on recently? There were rumors in that b*tch’s circle that the fourth son of the Riddle family is now in charge of the company. Do you know how they’re treating me right now?” Miley asked.

The Rogers family had been removed from the list of top ten most influential families after the incident. Miley had initially regained power by relying on the Riddle family. She was thriving with the recent recovery of Mr. Rogers Sr., who was totally counting on her. However, everything was cut short as the news of Damien having no real power at the company spread, which left Miley being outcast once more.

‘How can he be so calm?’ she wondered.

Damien had a prickly expression on his face, “What are you screaming about? Do you think I wanted this? It was those big influential families that wanted to work with Daniel. They didn’t contact me at all. Daniel is now managing all the new projects.”

The golden era had finally dawned upon the Riddle family, but sadly, none of those major projects landed in Damien’s hands.

‘It seems to me that I’m the nominal director and president of the company now, with no real power!’ Damien began to worry that after all this while, Mr. Riddle Sr. would cast him aside just like how the old man had done to Daniel before.

“How can you sit around? You’re the boss! Aside from Mr. Riddle Sr., you’re the person with the biggest percentage of shares in the company. He won’t kick you to the curb now, will he?” she asked.

Damien’s eyes darted toward Everett. He had his attention on him ever since he defended Damien’s family. Though he was often sidelined, Damien noticed that his son was still under Sean’s company, making progress, and not just idling around like he was.

“Everett, you’re working under Sean’s company as the branch manager, right? Therefore, you should know his business well, don’t you?”

Though Damien spoke vaguely, Everett instantly knew that his father had queried him the way he did to test if there was a turning point in their given situation. Everett had long waited for this day; the day when his father would pay attention to him.

He opened his mouth and calmly said, “I very much do. Daniel has six major projects under his belt, all of which are tremendously profitable with an estimated revenue of more than 500 million dollars.”

“That much?!” Damien’s eyes widened, as both him and his wife were left perplexed.

Damien had managed the company for so many years, and yet, the highest in revenue per annum.

‘The Riddle family is going to change! Even with such massive profits, they won’t get any benefit from it as they’ll just be paid a dividend at the end of the year. This is really infuriating, to just sit around and be unable to do anything.’

“This does not include the four major projects in their hands. There are seven or eight more minor projects on the side altogether. I’m afraid it’ll be around three to four billion in revenue as Stanley had recently joined the company,” Everett continued.

“Enough.” Damien interrupted, his head dizzy upon hearing the news.

Miley too, was stunned. “Two of their four sons have joined the company?!”

Three years ago, Mr. Riddle Sr. had allowed his grandchildren to join the company, during which only Sean and Everett were allowed, as they were the eldest in their family. And because Everett had not managed to graduate with a management degree when he first joined the company, Sean was already working as his superior. As a result, Everett had to work under Sean, which got Miley feeling very distressed. To top that off, it was unforeseen to them that Stanley had been selected to join the company.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1606

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1606—This was something which the other three families did not have.

“Mr. Riddle Sr., how could you do that? Stanley hasn’t graduated yet! Even if we had not provided you a grandson, there’s Preston from your second son and Emery from your third son! Why did you have to favor your fourth son?”

Miley’s face turned red, and she could not resist from throwing a tantrum. Everett seemed to be used to seeing his mother’s shouts, as he only stood there and calmly watched.

On the other hand, Damien was getting annoyed. “Enough! Gloria was fertile. Not only did she give birth to five sons, her daughter is also competitive. She’s nothing like you!”

Miley was left utterly flabbergasted by the sudden reprimand, as Damien would usually pamper her. Deep down, she could not help but wonder if he hated her now.

Chloe, who had been sitting at the corner in silence, went off on her father after witnessing Miley getting an earful. “Dad! How could you use such mean words against Mom? If Nicole had not gotten the Fire Crest, how would Uncle Daniel and his family get promoted so quickly? Didn’t you go around looking for other crests? Is there even any news yet?”

Damien smashed his mug upon being questioned in such fashion by his daughter. With a loud pang, the mug shattered into several pieces, frightening Chloe to the point that she backed away.

Damien suddenly stood up angrily. “What position are you in to comment about these things in the family? What right do you have to question me?”

‘Does she think that I’m not interested in looking for it? I’ve spent a fortune on investigators, and yet, there are no leads at all. That thing is simply impossible to find! God knows where Nicole got it from?’ he fumed.

Chloe felt depressed after being yelled at. When she was doing well in the film industry previously, her parents would support and pamper her wholeheartedly, but now, Damien had actually treated her in such a cruel manner.

Biting her lips, Chloe turned around sadly and left, and as she did, she knew that he had to regain her position in order to not allow anyone to pick on her ever again.

As Chloe left, Miley’s eyes began to well up, during which she turned back and stared at Damien. “What right do you have to talk to Chloe like that? What right do you have to say that about me? If you think that Gloria is the best, why don’t you live with her?”

As soon as Miley had blurted those words, she quickly turned around and hurried upstairs for fear of being beaten.

In the midst of it all, Damien looked haggard, as if he had just competed in a wrestling match. Indeed, he had been drained

Noticing how sad Damien was, Everett knew that it was his chance.

He slowly moved forward and said, "Dad, about the search for the Crest, why don't you leave it to me? Perhaps I have some ideas on how to do it."

After all, Damien was old. There were many ways to get things done in the black market which Damien had no knowledge about. Thus, it would be better for Everett to do it.

"You have ideas?" Damien's eyes lit up instantly, feeling that his own son had been behaving really well these days.

"I can try other ways. Perhaps we might find something there." Everett nodded, though he dared not promise him anything either.

"Oh well, the only person who can share my burden in this house is you. Go ahead. It doesn't matter if you can't find anything, I'll accept the results whatever they may be." Damien patted Everett's shoulder affectionately.

Feeling that his own father had finally recognized him, a sense of fulfillment grew in Everett's heart.

'So, this is how it feels like to be recognized by my own parents. I'll make sure to find the rest of the crests, and if I really can't find any, I'll steal it from Nicole!' Everett thought.

As soon as night had fallen, Nicole began to research on the Fire Crest's system and the ways in which to crack the code. Once the problem had been solved, she would immediately sever her ties to the Fire Crest and pass it to Zane.

However, the system was too complicated. During her last attempt at cracking it, it took up a lot of her time. It seemed like cracking such a high-level security system would take her forever.

After an hour's worth of research, Nicole decided to get some information from The Hunters. Surprisingly however, once Nicole logged into the page, she saw a comment from Zeke for her.

It seemed that Zeke had spotted a mission, which required Nicole's attention.

Much to her surprise, Nicole saw a mission online that pertained to searching for the other crests of the Reby Family.

Additionally, there were no limited number of intakes. The more people who took up the job, the better. Whoever found some lead would receive a cash prize.

Seeing this, Nicole could not help but frown.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1607

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1607—'I did not expect these people to start hunting for the Crest. To add to that, this person knows about the existence of The Hunter. He or she must not be an average Jane or Joe.' Nicole pondered, as she observed that a number of hackers had enquired about the mission.

Nicole could not help but grow curious about who that person was. She attempted to track the sender's IP address. However, the sender in question seemed careful as well. There was no specific IP address available. She could only get a hold on the general location, and as it turned out, the person was located at San Joto.

"San Joto..."

Things were getting more interesting. Nicole really wanted to know who the person hunting for the other Crest was.

As she was thinking, a notification tone emanated from her phone. It was a video call.

Nicole raised her eyebrows, 'Oh gosh, it's that brat, Jared again. He's starting to do video calls.'

After giving it some thought, she ended up answering the call.

"Why are you video calling me today?" she asked.

'This dude rarely video calls since he's either in a meeting or outside,' she thought.

Jared looked at Nicole through the screen and flashed her a devilish smile. "I miss you."

He had a hoarse voice and was garbed in a white robe. At an instant, Nicole could tell that he had just come out of the shower. And to top it off, he was actually seducing her, being the shameless man he was.

"Your parents took Grandma away," he said.

Furthermore, it was not a question, but a statement. There were also hints of annoyance in his voice.

“What happened?” Nicole raised her eyebrows, “Isn’t that great? It would be easier for your people to focus on one area and do their job.”

“It isn’t great.” Jared snorted unhappily, “I wanted to stay at your place tonight.”

‘And yet, all this girl wants to do is stay at home,’ he sulked.

It would not be appropriate for Jared to act in the way he did at the Riddle family manor, and that was, by using grandpa’s illness as an excuse to stay over.

The corner of Nicole’s lips twitched, for all that man wanted was to kiss her.

“You better not think about it for the next few weeks,” she reprimanded.

Nicole needed to recover. The last time they met, she almost broke her back.

“Don’t you miss me?” Jared’s voice became deep and sultry all of a sudden.

His gaze even became seductive.

Nicole’s cheeks began to flush. “Oh, stop it, you idiot!”

‘Why is he becoming increasingly cheekier as of recent?’ she asked herself.

Seeing that Nicole was blushing and too shy to even look at him, Jared coquettishly curled his lips. “Don’t worry. We’ll meet soon.”

Then, he flashed her a bright and handsome smile.

Nicole took a deep breath, “When?”

“The banquet. I’m your partner.” Jared propped his head on the pillow and laid in bed playfully.

Nicole could not help but rebuke him, for Jared really knew how to show his charm. Every move that he made would get the hearts of many racing at an instant, and if it were any other woman, they would have fallen head over heels for Jared. Fortunately for Nicole, she had a very strong sense of self-control.

“When did I say I wanted you to be my partner?” Nicole rolled her eyes and grilled him for his narcissistic remark.

“You don’t want me? Then who would you go there with? Harvey? Or Lloyd? ” Jared’s gaze darkened.

It seemed that he had taken her words seriously.

Nicole immediately gulped and said, "Have you been becoming greener with each passing day?"

Nicole had not met Harvey for many days now. Even after school had reopened, she had not seen him. As for Lloyd, she could not fathom how Lloyd had fallen into Jared's list of potential enemies.

"What's wrong with that?" he asked. 'This woman has been becoming more kittenish as of recent.'

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1608

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1608—Nicole rolled her eyes, "It seems to me that Mr. Jared Johnston hasn't been that confident these days."

Jared remained silent for a moment. Then, the corner of his lips lifted slyly.

'This lady really has a way of riling me up these days,' he thought.

"Why would I? I don't really care about them. The only person I care about is you and you only." Jared's eyes deepened, almost capturing Nicole's eyes and heart.

"Fine. I'll let you be my partner for the night. Stop fooling around." Nicole looked away in annoyance.

Jared had succeeded in doing what he had set out to do, and so, he gave her a devilish smile and remained quiet.

Nicole finally heaved a sigh of relief. "Alright then, I'm going to take a shower now."

As she spoke, Nicole was ready to hang up.

However, Jared observed her for a moment. "Okay...I've already allowed you to see me after I've exited the shower. After you're done..."

"Don't even think about it! You pervert!" she shouted.

And with a bam, she hung up at once, after which she took a deep breath, worried that she would burst out in anger.

Jared stared at the black screen while a smile crossed his face. Then, he sent her a voice message.

"I was just saying that you should video call me after you're done showering. What are you mad about?"

When Nicole saw that Jared still had the nerve to send her a voice message, she became fired up, ready to tell him off after she had heard the message.

Much to her surprise, Nicole's face flushed right after she had listened to the message. 'You're such a b*stard! You deliberately said some really misleading things!'

As it turned out, Nicole had misunderstood him, but instead of replying, she threw her phone aside and headed straight to the bathroom.

By nightfall, the Riddle family manor returned to its usual state of peace and quietude.

The next morning, Nicole arrived at school.

This semester, she had come to school prepared with some foundation from the previous semester. Thus, no one would dare to disturb her anymore.

Nonetheless, Austin and the rest still fawned over and idolized her. As usual, they followed her loyally and respectfully from behind.

In the morning, after bidding goodbye to Spencer and Samuel, Nicole went back to her classroom just to realize that all of her classmates in the room were staring at her. They were also looking at their phones from time to time.

Nicole was curious as to what had happened.

At that moment, Lulu and June walked into the classroom. Once they saw Nicole, they immediately approached her.

"Nicole! You've become a celebrity in our school!"

Nicole raised her eyebrows as she did not understand them.

Lulu knew Nicole well enough to surmise that she had not been filled in on the gossips.

So, she quickly whipped her phone out and showed it to Nicole. "Take a look! The production team of Lukewarm' has made an announcement!

You're the female lead!"

"Oh my god! This is too exciting. Are you going to be the best actress in the future? Quick, give me your signature first!" As June was talking, she took her notebook out and passed it to Nicole.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1609

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1609—Hearing this, Bradley quickly ran over and joined the group,” I want your signature too!”

Initially, Nicole had half the mind to give them the signature. However, those who were not as close to Nicole, and who had not dared to approach her, soon began to flock over.

Those who were closer to Bradley stood up in excitement.” Nicole, can you give me an autograph as well? I’m worried I can’t ask for it anymore once you’ve made it big…”

One piled in after another, and in an instant, the entire classroom erupted in a pandemonium, with almost everyone coming forward and asking Nicole for an autograph.

Nicole instantly felt annoyed. Her biggest fear was being surrounded by these clueless people. Facing the books which were stacking up on her table, Nicole’s face twitched, as if she was about to lose her temper.

At that very moment, the school bell rang, and Ms. Emerson walked in to see Nicole being surrounded by that entire group of people.

Thinking that something had happened, she immediately shouted, “What are you guys doing? Get back to your seats right now!”

It was only then that Nicole managed to heave a sigh of relief. Lulu and June had gotten their signatures first, so they went back to their seats happily. As for Bradley and the rest, they could only return with crestfallen looks on their faces. However, their eyes, which were still fixed on Nicole, were still filled with hope.

Initially, Ms. Emerson thought that these people were targeting Nicole. However, as soon as she saw that Nicole was fine, and that everyone had a notebook in hand, she concluded that they were asking Nicole about homework. At that, Ms. Emerson felt relieved.

“I understand that everyone is passionate about studying. But don’t flock toward the class president for just about any questions. It’ll be quite a burden for them,” she said.

Everyone immediately knew that Ms. Emerson had misunderstood the situation. Yet, no one had bothered to clarify it to her.

Nicole, on the other hand, felt touched that Ms. Emerson knew about her problem.

She did not expect Lloyd to announce the news before she could even begin acting. It was truly troubling her. However, things had already happened, and now, all Nicole could do was to accept it.

Ms. Emerson then began to teach and the entire class fell silent. No one noticed that Gary had been staring at Nicole. With school finally reopening, Gary could see Nicole again. However, all he could do now was to stare at her from behind, for there was nothing else he could do to interact with her.

Recalling the last semester, Gary had indeed acted like a fool. He still wanted to help Nicole and remind her about things she might have missed, but now, he no longer had the right to even get close to her. That feeling was extremely suffocating.

Soon, lunch break came around, and Ms. Emerson made an announcement. "This year, our country will be organizing a competition in computer science. A few famous universities from San Joto will be sending some top students from the field of computer science to participate. As for our senior level students, we don't have any computer science course, but I know there are some of you in this class who are proficient in it. So, the school will be providing everyone a chance to register voluntarily. Each class will have three representatives. If anyone is interested, you may sign up with me."

As soon as the word was out, everyone looked at Gary. The Finley family owned the biggest Information Technology firm in San Joto. Gary's brother, Ryder, was the top student in the computer science course in the university. As for Gary, he was the most famous computer guy among the seniors. Even the teachers would look for Gary regarding anything about computers in the advanced level.

Furthermore, surveillance cameras from all around were also provided by the Finley family. It was not a secret at all.

"Brother, school has just reopened, and you have the chance to show what you're capable of."

In Mathematics Olympiad during the previous semester,

Nicole had stolen the show. This time around, however, Gary would be made known again. He must regain his status this semester.

"Of course, Gary will have to join, there's no question about that. The only issue is that each class must send three representatives. Are there other students who are interested in a competition in computer science?" Ms. Emerson looked at everyone with a smile, though she had nothing but complaints, deep down.

Previously, when the district organized a computer science competition, every class was only required to send one student. Thus, Gary would just participate. The rest of the students were not interested in these competitions at all. After all, senior year students would prioritize their academics. They were soon to be final year students.

Everyone was occupied with their students. Therefore, how would they find the time to participate in a computer science competition?

However, this year's competition was at the national level. Thus, every class must send three representatives. Other than Gary, Ms. Emerson really did not know who else was knowledgeable enough in such a field. Even if she were to arbitrarily appoint someone, she did not know who to appoint.

As expected, the entire class fell into pin drop silence after Ms. Emerson had raised the question.

Vivian murmured in a soft voice, "Ms... We're only high school students. And none of us major in computers.

Usually, we would only use computers for our studies and nothing more. How could we participate in the competition?

I even heard that you'll have to create codes during the competition and design a software as well...If we can't do any of that while we're participating, it'll be really embarrassing."

"That's right..."

The rest of the girls also began to murmur.

In an instance, the whole class became silent. Other than Gary, there really was no talk about anyone being an expert in regards to computers.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1610

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1610—Ms. Emerson looked at the entire class, her face growing stiff from smiling.

Noticing how troubled Ms. Emerson looked, Nicole sighed.

Although it was just a soft sigh, Ms. Emerson had taken notice of it, giving her a glimmer of hope. "Nicole...do you know anything about computers?"

Nicole's performance in the previous semester had prompted Ms. Emerson to notice her. It seemed to her that Nicole was an all-rounder who knew a little about everything. The only thing Ms. Emerson was not sure about, was whether Nicole possessed any skills when it came to computers.

At that moment, everyone's eyes were fixed on Nicole.

Nicole could not decline Ms. Emerson in front of everyone, so she nodded her head lightly. "Yeah, a little."

'If it's just for a national competition, I don't think I need to do much. Just a little demonstration of what I know will do, I suppose,' she inferred.

Once Nicole had replied, Ms. Emerson immediately breathed a sigh of relief. "That's great. That's great. All of you don't have to feel the pressure. Even though each class has to send three representatives, you don't have to be exceptional. It's good enough if you could just represent the school, attend the preliminary round, and gain a certificate of participation."

In truth, Ms. Emerson did not have high expectations for anyone. She was happy as long as there were people willing to join the event.

'I definitely made the right decision appointing Nicole as the class president. No matter what, she would be willing to cooperate with me,' Ms. Emerson thought/

After hearing Ms. Emerson mentioning that all they had to do was to attend the competition and gain a certificate of participation, Bradley became interested too. After all, he liked to play with computers as well.

"Ms. Emerson, if you do not mind, I'll fill up the empty slot and join the team. But I don't really know much. I usually play games only..."

Jack could not resist kicking Bradley from behind. "And yet you have the nerve to join this competition? If it's just about playing video games, I know how to do that as well."

On the other side of the room, Wayne chimed in as soon as he heard that they could play video games while joining the competition. "You're going with our boss? Well, sign me up as well!"

Wayne had done so, as he felt that she should not be looked down upon by other people.

With this three more students wanting to join the competition. Ms. Emerson was pleasantly surprised. "Alright then, all of you may go together. The principal will be happy to have more representatives in the team too."

Conversely, Nicole rolled her eyes at Bradley. 'If he wanted to join the competition, why didn't he say so earlier? He could bring Wayne and the two big lugs along. They did not need me to fill the spot up at all.'

However, now that Ms. Emerson had appointed the five of them to join the competition, it seemed like there was no way out anymore.

Bradley broke into cold sweat once he received a stare from Nicole. 'What did I do? I was just cooperating with Ms.

Emerson and Nicole. I even pulled two more people in with us. Why is Nicole so unhappy?'

Once he saw that Ms. Emerson had left, Bradley quickly asked Nicole in a low voice, "Nicole, did I do anything wrong? Why were you staring at me?"

Nicole responded to him with a blank look. "Nothing. You did well. Extremely well..."

Nicole balled her hands into fists as she uttered those last few words. Bradley was so frightened that the hairs on his back began to stand on end.

At that moment, Bradley began to feel a strong urge to urinate. "I-I'm going to the washroom."

Indeed, Bradley was such a wuss that he had almost wet himself. But then again, Nicole's presence could be truly frightening at times.

Watching as Bradley escaped in a hurry, Lulu became confused. "Nicole, what happened? Are you unhappy?"

In response, Nicole grunted. "I'm pissed at that copycat, Bradley! If he wanted to join, he could have said it earlier."

Lulu and June did not understand Nicole. They looked at each other with their faces brimming with confusion.

The air between the three of them was not pleasant at all. However, Gary, who was seated right behind, was inexplicably happy.

'Finally! I get to join a competition with Nicole again!'

It did not matter what competition it was. As long as he could be with Nicole and show his strengths to her, Gary would be very happy.

When Wayne spotted his classmate's rare smile, he teased Gary, "Boss, why are you suddenly in such a good mood?"