

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1731

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1731-However, Ryder still seemed furious. "She had hurt my brother! I can't forgive her that easily!"

'Did you really think that the Finley family is one you can toy with?'

Nicole laughed and replied to Ryder, "Gary's fine. He was putting on a show just now. I think he should be sent back here by the ambulance soon."

Sure enough, as soon as Nicole finished speaking, an ambulance siren came from the school's gate and drove in.

Gary got down from the ambulance with flair. Then, he looked up to the third floor and saw Nicole standing there with Ryder. He shouted, "Have you caught the culprit?"

After he said those words, Snow finally came to a realization. "All... all of you purposely lured Alverlyn to confess just now! Gary's fine!"

Nicole glanced at Snow. "I guess you're not that dumb after all. However, it's too late for that. Go, pack your things, and leave quietly!"

These two sisters, Nicole had given them way too many second chances! And yet they did not appreciate any of it, so no one could call her cruel.

"Nicole... What a bitch! Did you think you'll be fine after chasing me out? For someone like you, there will definitely be people who'll get rid of you in the future!"

Snow was yelling on the floor crazily.

However, Nicole was unbothered. She leisurely walked downstairs.

Ryder also glanced at Snow coldly. Since his brother was fine, he would not deal with her anymore.

Then, Ryder followed after Nicole and murmured, "I did not expect you to be so good at this."

Just now, Nicole's act of pushing Snow beyond the railing was terrifying. Even a man like Ryder would not dare do such things.

"They were the ones who went overboard with their bullying. They've mistaken my kindness as opportunities to be crueler." Nicole lifted her chin and glanced at Ryder. "You should go back. I'll go to the principal's office to report this matter."

“Oh, okay...” Ryder was a prefect, and yet he had to listen to Nicole.

Seeing that Nicole had gone downstairs, Ryder walked toward Gary and smiled at him. He was in a daze.

It was not until Nicole brought Gary to the school’s office that Ryder regained his senses. He shook his head and went back to his class.

While walking back, the more he thought about it, the stranger he felt.

‘Hold on, Gary’s fine. But the one that stepped up was me.

‘After going around the bush, I was toyed around by Nicole!’

At that thought, Ryder felt sad.

But inexplicably, it also felt good to be toyed by her.

“Ryder, have you gone mad?” While muttering, Ryder gave himself two slaps to wake himself up.

In the blink of an eye, school had ended. As Nicole stepped out of school, Samuel and Spencer were waiting eagerly.

“Nicole! We heard what happened! Snow has been expelled!”

“You’re amazing! I saw the video of you pushing Snow up the railing!”

“Yeah, Nicole, you’re so cool!” Samuel could not contain his excitement.

Nicole laughed shyly. “She went overboard with her bullying.”

‘She thought of electrocuting me to death and actually had the intention of killing me. I couldn’t let go of her easily.’

“Mr. Ellison had personally issued an order to expel Snow and to never accept her anymore! She’s been blacklisted!” Spencer was also excited. “Who asked them to be so prideful? Now, they’ve even lost a seat in this school!”

‘Well, let’s see if they dare to act this ruthlessly again!’

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1732

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1732-“There’s more to it.” Nicole said coldly. “I’ve also told Grandpa about what she did to Gary. I guess Snow would precede Raine and be driven out of San Joto.”

A family member like this would ruin the Riddle family's image. Mr. Riddle Sr. would never keep them by his side!

When Spencer and Samuel found out that those two evil girls, Raine and Snow, might be sent away, they felt a huge sense of relief. "For people like them, they deserve to be sent away as far as possible!"

Nicole leaned on the chair, relaxed. "I agree. Now, their family should tone down a little already."

Soon, Nicole had arrived at home.

When the family members found out about Snow's incident, they began to discuss and question. Once they heard that Snow wanted to hurt Nicole, they were enraged.

"How could Uncle Dillon have such an evil pair of daughters? They even thought of electrocuting Nicole to death?" Stanley's face was fuming.

"This is too much...We're already being too nice to them by just sending them out of San Joto!" Steve felt that they spared them a little too easily.

Sean glanced at Nicole. "Are you really fine?"

He knew that Nicole had always loved to be independent.

He was worried that Nicole purposely hid it from them.

"Yeah, I'm fine. Really. This time around, Gary suffered on behalf of me."

"Gary? He's Ryder's younger brother?" Stanley knew who that was.

"Yeah, she almost involved both of the Finley brothers in the matter." Nicole nodded.

Sean added, "Those two boys aren't good people. You better stay away from them."

Nicole smiled gently. "We're not close either. It's just that we're joining a computer competition together."

"Computer competition? You've registered?" Steve was a little surprised.

Speaking about it, Samuel and Spencer got excited.

"Nicole's such a genius. Of course she should join the competition!" Samuel stood up proudly. "All of you are unaware of it but Nicole's skills are way above the Finley brothers! She even humiliated Ryder in class!"

“Now, everyone knows that our sister’s the master of hacking!”

At that moment, everyone was stunned. Nicole... was even a master hacker?

“Nicole, are the boys telling the truth?” Steve looked at Nicole hopefully.

Nicole could not help but glance at Samuel and Spencer in annoyance.

‘These two big mouths! They literally spill everything to the public.’

Nicole could only reply awkwardly, “I just love to research it, so I only know some things about it.”

Steve laughed aloud. “If you say that you only know some things about it, you’re being too humble. I believe you’re much better than that!”

Nicole looked at Steve awkwardly. “I’m just alright.”

It felt like Steve was so happy, as if he had found gold.

“Well, Nicole, if you’re really good at hacking, I would need your talent since I’m in the finance industry. Are you free to investigate a few things for me?” Steve’s handsome face seemed evil and he was rubbing his palms nervously.

Nicole immediately raised her eyebrows. “I’m not interested.”

Seeing that Nicole did not reject entirely but mention that she had no interest, Steve could sense that Nicole probably had a way to get it!

“Nicole, this concerns the Riddle family’s profit. Also, the other party had been crossing the line. They had placed people around to spy on me and my last two bargain prices were all revealed. If you don’t help me, my company’s partnership with the Riddle Corporation’s first partnership would be ruined. When that time comes, Grandpa won’t think about me anymore.” Steve purposely spoke in a pitiful tone.

Nicole raised her eyebrows. “There’s such an incident?”

As Sean witnessed how Steve had begged Nicole, he could only tell the truth. “You know that the Fisher Group would work with brands and businesses despite them carrying a bad reputation. They did all this just to sustain themselves and not go bankrupt. These people love to use such sly methods. Other than snatching away a few of Uncle Damien and Uncle Dillon’s cases, they’re now trying to interfere with Steve’s project.”

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1733

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1733-Stanley, who was beside, commented, "Although the other party has great interest in working with the Riddle Corporation, our lowest offer had been exposed during the last two biddings. Then, the other party would offer a higher price than us. Even if others would like to choose us, they'd consider the cost too."

Nicole immediately fell into deep thought. "So there was such a situation.

Why didn't you tell me earlier?"

Daniel let out a deep sigh. "You're still studying and busy with shooting as well. You're quite busy already. Also, your grandpa had already mentioned that when it comes to the company's matters, you'll only get involved after you've graduated and entered the company. For now, we're still around to take care of it."

Nicole could tell that her father and brothers were protecting her and trying to not make her worry.

It was only then that Nicole let out a sigh. "But this kind of matter is a piece of cake for me. Give me their company's name and HI be able to find out their database. HI help you find out their third lowest price."

Since the other party was unkind, Nicole would have to take even more unkind steps.

"Really?" Steve was stunned.

'From the way Nicole put it, this is an easy thing for her.'

Sean was a little surprised. "Nicole, you should be careful with such things. If you miss something and leave a piece of evidence for them, they could sue us..."

However, Nicole smiled. "Sean, don't worry about it. If I say it can be done, HI make sure there are no traces left behind."

What a joke! This was Lucifer.

The world's top hacker. Not just the lowest price, even if it was the whole project's data, Nicole would be able to get it as long as it was stored in a computer.

Except, Nicole was not that mean.

"Nicole, are you sure you can do it? Don't force yourself." Gloria was worried about her own daughter.

However, Nicole shook her head. “Dad, mom, don’t worry. I won’t take on anything I’m unsure of.”

Samuel was also encouraging them from the side. “Hey, don’t worry about her. Mom, Dad, Nicole’s really an expert in this! That Finley boy is San Joto’s best computer expert, but Nicole’s skills had made Gary come crawling and begging for help to solve the virus!”

Samuel’s words surprised the whole family.

“God... so much has happened in the school. Why didn’t I hear any of you mention it before?” Gloria looked at Spencer and Samuel in disbelief. Their eyes were filled with astonishment.

But Sean believed in their words even more this time.

It seemed like Nicole was really a genius when it came to computer stuff.

But this did not come as a surprise to them.

They had already known that their sister was a genius.

So, he should not be surprised to find that she knew a lot of things.

“Then I guess we’ll go on with it.” Sean nodded. “Let’s have our dinner.

After eating, we’ll give it a try.” “So soon?” Nicole raised her eyebrows and looked at Sean.

Steve nodded. “Of course! We have already dragged the situation until now as we couldn’t think of other solutions! The third bidding is in two days’ time!”

Nicole thought things through. “Alright, let’s settle it tonight.”

As they were speaking, the brothers began to eat.

Samuel and Spencer ate the fastest. They also wanted to witness Nicole at work.

However, Sean and Steve stopped the two little ones after they had finished eating. “The study room is quite small. It’s best if the both of you could just stay here.” “Huh? We also want to see Nicole’s skills,” Samuel said, annoyed.

Steve pushed them aside. “The both of you are too noisy. Stay here!”

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1734

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1734-Spencer and Samuel froze immediately.

Daniel added, "The two of you, don't disturb the adults working."

Then, the two younger ones looked at Nicole.

'But Nicole's obviously younger than us...'

Nonetheless, they could only stare at Nicole sadly and remain silent.

The both of them would dare to compare themselves to everyone else, but they would not dare to compare themselves to Nicole.

At that point, Nicole was almost done with her meal. She slowly got up and said, "Let's head upstairs."

And just like that, Sean and Steve brought Nicole to the study room.

On the other hand, Daniel was slowly enjoying his meal with Gloria.

Stanley looked at Spencer and Samuel who were angry and said, "The two of you should behave yourselves. Don't disturb your sister at work."

Samuel seemed frustrated. "Even Nicole could help out with the family business. We're the only two that are students now."

Spencer also cupped his chin. "Yeah, we're also influential people in the school... Now we're good for nothing because of Nicole."

When Stanley heard what the both of them had said, he smiled. "It's not just the both of you. I'm also slowly feeling like I'm not as good as Nicole already."

The three brothers looked at each other empathetically. However, deep down they know that no one could match up to Nicole's strengths. It was their honor to have Nicole as their sister!

At that point, Nicole had already reached the study room. Sean passed their rival company's details to Nicole.

Although Nicole hesitated for a while, she thought of the family and decisively accessed The Hunters' server.

When Steve saw The Hunters' webpage, he blinked his eyes once. For a moment, he thought he had seen something wrong.

It was until Nicole logged in to her account, entered the page, began checking those companies' secrets, and received information that Steve became shocked.

"Nicole, y-you're a hacker of The Hunters?" He knew that Nicole might be even better than how she had described herself. But he did not expect her to be a professional hacker!

"Yeah."

At that moment, Steve also noticed Nicole's profile picture. He could not help but murmur.

"Lucifer?" 'This name seems familiar!'

Steve immediately came to a realization...

"Lucifer. It's the number one hacker on The Hunter's ranking list!" "Nicole...You're Lucifer?"

The two brothers were surprised. However, Nicole seemed calm. "Yeah."

At that moment, Steve's glasses almost dropped so he quickly tucked it back up his nose.

On the other hand, Sean poured a glass of water for Steve. The both of them tried to calm down.

No wonder Nicole spoke so confidently that she would not leave any trace behind...

Lucifer was the best hacker in the country!

If she left any trace or mark behind, how good could other hackers be?

The reason why she could become the best was because of how good she was. In the virtual world, she could come and go without being noticed at all!

In that moment, Steve did not dare blink his eyes at all. He stood very still behind Nicole and watched as she worked. She collected some dark secrets and information about the core figures' names on The Hunters. She also invaded the rival company's computer system. Although the boys did not understand anything, they saw how fast Nicole's fingers were running through the keyboard. Their faces were filled with shock.

Nicole invaded the other party's security system with ease and murmured, "Even though they're using the latest security system, it's the most superficially clever one. There isn't any challenge at all."

Then, Nicole quickly located the higher management's computers.

At that moment, in the office building opposite, their computers began to light up and the monitors were flickering. However, the office was empty, and no one noticed it at all.

After searching through the higher management's computers, Nicole did not manage to find the lowest price. She began to seem annoyed.

"It seems like these people did set up some defense mechanisms. Who's the main person in charge of this project?" Nicole asked Sean.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1735

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1735-Sean mentioned a name, and Nicole easily narrowed down her search, swiftly obtaining the person's IP address before hacking into their system. It was not long until they found the project file that they had wanted to get their hands on. However, the other party was clever, for they had encrypted the file.

Sean sighed when he saw the encrypted file, "They've encrypted it. Seems like they're afraid of hackers." "Nicole, can you break the code?" Steve asked, looking a little disappointed, though he still had a little faith in Nicole's abilities.

Nicole looked at her two older brothers and smirked. "If I can't crack minor things like these, it would be embarrassing for me to hold the title as San Joto's number one hacker."

With that said, Nicole plugged a USB flash drive that she designed to break the file encryption. The devices were being screened, and as time passed, Sean began to lose hope. However, it was at that moment when the screen flashed, indicating that they had succeeded.

"Oh, my goodness! We did it! Steve was impressed. "You didn't even do anything, and this USB just decrypted the file on its own?!" "I've installed a decryption software in this flash drive. There are multiple algorithms that can be calculated, even if the files are layered with multiple encryptions, so there's no issue."

Sean breathed a sigh of relief. "Let's look into it before someone notices us.

'If the other party finds out, the market price might change.' Nicole nodded her head and immediately opened the documents, finding within the pile a reserved price document that was signed for a low price.

Sean and Steve were instantly overwhelmed with excitement. "This is it!"

Nicole raised her eyebrows. "What are you still doing? Quick, take a picture!

“Oh yeah!” Steve quickly whipped his phone out and took a picture.

Once they had gotten everything they needed, Sean said, “Okay, let’s get out of here.”

Nicole smiled. “We’ve been attacked twice, though we have treated them the same way. I guess we ought to save the best for last.”

With that said, Nicole sifted through some of the account documents from the person’s computer.

“All the company’s accounts will be a little filthy, but they should be the correct versions that have not been submitted to the tax bureau. Sean, you should keep a copy of this,” Nicole added.

Sean was a little impressed, as he did not expect Nicole to remove his bill, though given how despicable the other party was, he should not be too courteous and kind.

“Okay.”

Nicole snorted coldly then erased all her traces before exiting the person’s computer interface. Nicole turned around and said to Sean, “If the other party still refuses to give in at the end, this bill will play a definite role.

However, if we win the way we want to and they decide to cause ruckus then, this will come in handy.” ‘It would be of great use for self-defense,’ he thought.

Sean looked at Nicole’s sly expression, and his eyes instantly brimmed with adoration, though Nicole was young but she was filled with knowledge and was very well-versed in business and its strategies.

‘Nicole really knows her way around those sly old men,’ Sean thought.

Sean had expectations of getting Nicole to join the company sooner as he believed that she was better than everyone else.

“Alright, I’ll be heading home to get some rest now. I look forward to your good news!” Nicole smiled and bid them goodbye.

“Okay.” Sean nodded.

“You’ve worked hard, Nicole.” Steve waved to Nicole as she left.

The two brothers looked at the closed door before glancing at each other.

“How many hidden identities does she have? Each time, she displays a different talent. Honestly, I’ve got to say that it’s a miraculous surprise.”

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1736

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1736-“Who knows...” Sean took a deep breath. “But it’s an honor to have a sister such as herself.” “Yeah, that’s true.’ Steve smiled and said with a sigh of relief. “I wish to head home and get some rest too. I believe things will go smoothly from here on out.” “Yeah, it will be.” Sean smiled as he walked out alongside Steve.

In the meantime, Samuel and Spencer had heard Nicole’s voice echoing from upstairs, only to find Sean and Steve walking out.

“How was it? Sean? Steve?” they asked.

“Nicole should never be underestimated!” The looks on the faces of the brothers were to be expected, as they had hoped to get the scoop on everything that had happened.

Steve could not help himself from shooting a glance at Sean as he put on a show of deliberate vagueness in front of both Samuel and Spencer. “She’s really brilliant! The problem was a piece of cake. You two don’t have to worry about anything.” “How did you solve it? Tell me everything about it!” Samuel bombarded, as he really wanted to hear about the details.

“It was nothing, you won’t even understand what we did even if we tell you about it. Let’s go.” Steve said while hooking his arm around Samuel’s shoulders, leading them toward their rooms.

“No! I want to hear it!” Samuel yelled, struggling under Steve’s grasp.

Meanwhile, Spencer looked at Sean. “Sean...are you also planning not to tell me?”

Sean smiled, “There’s really nothing much to tell, honestly.”

Nicole herself had not talked much about her own identity, and thus, she had not truly given Sean the right to tell others about it, especially to Samuel and Spencer, who were known to gossip around, and who might leak valuable information to others.

“Alright then, I won’t waste my time. I’ll ask her myself.” As soon as the words had left his mouth, Spencer walked away with a look of disappointment.

Sean then returned back to his room with a smile on his face. Nicole, on the other hand, was already back in her room, ready to take a shower.

Soon after, Nicole stepped out of the shower, whereupon her phone beeped. It was a text message from Anna.

[The crew has found out some hints, they are due to return tomorrow.] [OK.] Nicole replied, but before she was able to put her phone down, her phone suddenly rang.

It was a call from Lloyd.

“Nicole, how...urn, have you been resting well?” Lloyd was surprised for a moment there when Nicole answered his call.

He did not expect Nicole to answer his call so instantaneously.

“I’m great, have you found out much about the matter?” Nicole raised her eyebrows.

Lloyd nodded his head. “Yeah, we’ve discovered the truth. I’ll bring that perpetrator over when you come back tomorrow, so that they can apologize to you in person.” “Okay.” Nicole nodded. ‘It was good that things played out the way I wanted them to be. I don’t want Jared to get all worried about me.’

The phone call dropped into a dead silence with Lloyd not uttering a word.

This prompted Nicole to speak up. “Is there anything else you need?” “No... I’m just worried about you. Don’t worry about the follow up scenes. I will definitely conduct an on-site inspection,” Lloyd said in an attempt to reassure Nicole.

“No worries. I’m not some princess who can’t handle some hiccups here and there. There are things that we can and cannot control,” she replied.

Nicole was clear about her motives when she asserted that she did not require anyone’s protection or owe anyone favors.

“Okay then...I get it. Good night.” Lloyd said.

He was reluctant to hang up, but he could not think of any other topic about which he could converse anymore.

“Yeah, you too.” Nicole nodded and hung up.

She then laid down on her bed and sent Jared a message.

‘He seems to be very busy today. He hasn’t gotten back to me even after I’ve sent him two texts in a row...’ Nicole thought, after which she turned her phone off and went to sleep.

Meanwhile, the party had come to an end as Jared walked out of it to see that Nicole had sent him texts that left him grinning from ear to ear.

‘Wow, now this is progress. Her taking the initiative to speak to me.’

Without thinking twice, he then called Nicole.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1737

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1737-“The number you dialed is unreachable...”

Jared’s smile froze and his heart plummeted. ‘This woman knows that I’ve missed her, and yet she does this to me by turning off her phone.’

Jared hung up, feeling depressed, and whispered, ‘I’ll deal with you tomorrow...’

The next day, Raine and Snow’s dismissal from the school caused a ruckus. The two ‘IT’ girls, as it seemed, had gotten expelled with such relative ease at the start of the semester that Dillon’s family had become the laughingstock. With Snow’s dismissal from Royal Creek completed, he did not even have the guts to show up in person.

Nicole knew that both of their knees had not healed due to all the kneeling they had to do to beg for forgiveness, and that they would not be appearing in public anymore. Otherwise, judging from Karen’s brash and ruthless personality, she would make a beeline for Nicole in an attempt to start a fight with her.

Royal Creed without both Raine and Snow was eerily silent, and this made Nicole extremely content. However, the only thing that was making her a little unhappy was Jared.

‘Today’s another regular meeting at the student union to discuss the school’s celebration.’ Nicole checked the details of the school celebration carefully, noticing that their celebration was different from their centennial celebration that had previously been held at their school’s founding celebration last semester.

‘This celebration seems to be more akin to a campus funfair in that it’s open to the public. Each class would have to contribute to the activities to rake some profits in.’

Nicole had her fair share of school festivals and funfairs in Janlizeka before, and thus, she had no such desire for an open school celebration. She really wanted nothing to do with the event and above that, she wanted nothing to do with Harvey.

However, as soon as she noted that Harvey was overseeing the student council meeting and was talking freely from his seat, Nicole was instantly displeased. She suppressed her impatience and listened on; not expecting Harvey to suddenly call her name.

“I don’t know, perhaps the president of the student council would like to give her input for the ideas I’ve suggested to the classes?” he asked.

Nicole glanced at Harvey. 'All his ideas are worthless and plagiarizing. He's blatantly copying ideas from the Japanese schools.' "It's completely up to you. I'll leave this matter for the vice president to handle.'

In response, Harvey smirked. "The president here seems to have agreed with the things I have said earlier, right?"

Nicole raised her eyebrows. In truth, she had not paid any attention to what he had said earlier.

Because of this, he absentmindedly replied, "Yeah."

Noticing that Nicole had given him a response, he immediately smiled.

"Alright then. The Royal Creed department will be handed over to Preston and Edwin whereas the student union committee members will take charge of implementing these projects. The president, Nicole, who just started her role. She and I will be working together as we overlook the projects for each class," he announced.

As soon as the words were said, Nicole was stunned. 'Damn it! When did Harvey even mention that he would be in the same group as me?'

Harvey grinned as he noticed Nicole's pale complexion. "Since the president has personally agreed, everything's settled. Let's end the meeting here."

Before Nicole could react, the meeting had ended. Everyone in the meeting room stood up in pairs and trios, whereupon they left the room together. Seeing that, Nicole could not resist herself from cursing out mentally.

'These b*stards! Don't they know who the president is!? I've not even dismissed this meeting and they've all left! All of this is the fault of that damned Harvey! If it's not for his grandfather, and his status as vice president, nobody would even listen to what he has to say!'

Nicole was helpless. She did not want to interact with Harvey, and so, she walked out with her notebook in her hands.

Harvey followed behind with a smile. "Wow, I really did not expect you to agree to be in the same group as me."

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1738

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1738-Unwilling to bother with Harvey, Nicole said, "I've never intended to be in the same group as you. I didn't catch what you said earlier." 'This vile person knew that I had not heard him at all,' she thought.

“It doesn’t matter anyway since we’re both the president and vice president. It’s expected that we are both to handle the school affairs together. You ought to start getting used to it.” Harvey said with a smile, and emphasized the last few words.

Nicole glared at him, “It seems to me that you do not remember anything that had happened last time.” ‘I was a little too easy on him,’ she thought.

Harvey smirked before giving her an arrogant smile. “Enough. I’ve suffered enough, so much so that I’ve been left limping for two days. I couldn’t even give him a proper answer when my grandpa asked me what had happened!”

Harvey’s eyes were brimming with diabolical intentions when Nicole noticed that he was using his grandfather as a shield. “Don’t think that you’ll be able to weasel your way out, even if you pull your grandfather’s card.”

It was Mr. Ellison who had admitted Nicole into Royal Creed as a favor to her for having saved his life before this. Nicole was never indebted to anyone.

“Well then, spare me no mercy. In the worst-case scenario, you can just beat me to death, but as long as I am still alive and well, I’ll not stop pestering you until the day I die!” As Harvey was speaking, he inched closer to Nicole and caressed her hand.

Nicole immediately withdrew her hand in disgust, “Harvey! Are you crazy?”

Harvey looked at Nicole and smiled with his eyes, during which the atmosphere became a tad bit chilly. “Yeah. Like I said before, I will make you mine at all costs...”

Nicole looked at him coldly. “Do you think you’ll ever succeed?”

Harvey flashed her a slight smile in response. “It seems to me that you don’t know me well enough. As for Jared? He’ll soon become nothing.”

Nicole’s heart sank. “What do you mean? What did you do to him?”

Harvey saw the tense expression on Nicole’s face, and his heart felt like it had been stabbed a thousand times over, leaving it in a state of inexplicable pain.

“As expected, it is only Jared that could get you to react like this.” Harvey was still smiling but the curve on the corner of his mouth suddenly made his smile wicked.

Noticing his anger, Nicole bluntly said, “He’s my fiancée. Of course I would care about him.”

Though Harvey’s heart was aching from those words, his eyes became determined. “Okay, the more you care about him, the more determined I’ll be to bring him down!”

Nicole snorted coldly. "I would like to see you try and we'll see who ends up losing!" 'Jared is my man and not just some random dude who is easily replaceable. Harvey is too deluded if he thinks that I would sway,' she fumed.

Harvey laughed at Nicole's reaction of disbelief. "It's okay. You will know soon enough. However, the work here still needs to be done, or are you afraid that you'll catch feelings after working long hours with me?"

All Harvey could ever envision day and night was the two of them getting along nicely. He refused to believe that there was not one moment where Nicole was attracted to him.

Nicole on the other hand, was particularly determined. "Sometimes I really admire your determination. Where did you get such a powerful imagination from? Even if you stand here buck naked in front of me, I would not even be tempted."

After uttering those words, Nicole spun around and left, leaving Harvey in a daze.

'What did she just say? Even if I strip down naked, she won't be tempted? I can't believe it. Those words actually came out of her mouth!' Unable to contain himself, he started laughing out of anger.

'It seems that Nicole really hates me, to the point she is able to say such things so casually. She must be really pissed,' he surmised.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1739

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1739-'However, I still loved the way she had responded to me. Yes, I still love it, in spite of the fact that she's furious at me.'

While he was thinking about this, he instinctively trailed behind Nicole once more. He followed her around the campus, and even with her cold temperament, he still followed her around while giving her explanations about the school festivals.

When school was finally over, Nicole turned her phone on and gave Jared a call. On the other end, Jared, who had waited for her call, answered it with displeasure in his voice.

"What why? I guess it's only now that you bother to return my call.

Someone left me two messages last night and fell asleep without awaiting my reply," he said.

Nicole issued a sigh of relief as she heard his voice, and her heart calmed down almost immediately as she smiled. "Why? Are you not happy?" 'This dude is getting more and more clingy, and he's getting better at teasing too,' she thought.

“Of course. Back then, whenever I found myself unable to contact you, your phone would not even be switched off. I’ve waited the entire night for your reply,” he responded.

‘Not bad,’ Nicole thought as she assessed her fiancé.

She then took a deep breath and said, “Alright, I won’t turn off my phone at night from now on. I just didn’t want others to interrupt my rest at night.”

Nicole had hoped that she would be able to get a well-rested night without disruptions from others. As for Jared, he became quiet as soon as he had heard Nicole’s thoughts out loud. He understood her perspective and where she was coming from.

“I understand now. Listen, I will get separate phones for us both, and we’ll be the only ones to know about them.”

Nicole felt butterflies in her stomach as she replied, “Okay!”

It was only after Nicole had agreed that Jared felt better.

“How’s your company these days? Have you encountered any problems?” Nicole asked, as she could not get Harvey’s words out of her mind.

After all, Harvey was not the sort of person who would just bark, and not bite.

Jared was silent for a while as he realized that Nicole might have discovered something.

He pondered for a while before responding with a smile. “Yeah, everything’s going well. There are some unscrupulous characters trying to pull some dirty tricks on me, but don’t worry about them. Don’t stress it though. I’ve come prepared.”

Nicole immediately understood who Jared was mentioning about.

“That b*stard actually pulled some tricks on you!?” she exclaimed.

‘I should’ve beat him to pulp when I had the chance to. That scum really is asking for it,’ she seethed.

Jared smiled. “Back at the Riddle banquet, what he said were not complete lies. I’ve been long prepared for things like these, so don’t worry too much about it. He won’t be able to lay a finger on me and on top of it all, he might help me make more money from it, inadvertently of course.”

Jared’s tone was filled with confidence, and this made Nicole feel relieved. “Really?” “Yeah, don’t worry much about it, okay? Just worry about yourself. I’m concerned that he will stir some crap for you in school,” he replied.

Nicole shook her head. "He won't dare to. Mr. Ellison is still the principal of Royal Creed. He won't have the guts to cross me."

At this point, it was a certainty that Mr. Ellison would try his best not to offend her as she now had the Fire Crest in her possession.

"Though Harvey is not aware of who you really are and the many identities you hold, you ought to be careful about them." Jared was concerned that Harvey would be cornered by him, which would not bring any good for Nicole.

"It's okay, don't worry about it." Nicole smiled and said in an attempt to reassure him.

"Do you want to have a date night?" Jared looked at his watch, reckoning that he would be getting off work by seven.

In response, Nicole shook her head. "Lloyd called me last night to tell me that we are going to start filming again tonight. He had already found the guy." "Oh?" Jared raised his eyebrows. "He has really found the person who had done this? Legit?"

Jared had gotten Max to investigate. However, there were no findings on his end. It was truly sketchy to him that Lloyd had found the person before they even could.

"It doesn't matter. I should do the stuff I've promised sooner or later, don't you think? It's impossible to keep pushing this back," she said.

Indeed, Nicole had already foreseen it coming. "But what's more is that, whether Lloyd is being truthful or not, only he himself would know about it. He wouldn't keep things like this from me."

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1740

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1740-"Okay, I'll go ahead and let Max know about this. He might've pushed this issue aside due to some individual pulling tricks on us for the past few days." "Sure, I'll wait for your updates." Nicole nodded. 'Even if Lloyd had lied to me, I know that Jared will not ever lie. He would get to the bottom of the issue just to see if it's the same person.' "Well, that's good to hear. Since you're busy and can't have a date night today, we can arrange it for another night." Jared took a deep breath; his tone filled with disappointment, and his heart filled with yearning for her.

"Okay." Nicole nodded again.

It was at this time that Nicole noticed the crew's car driving over. Fortunately, Nicole had already informed Samuel and Spencer beforehand that they would not be going home together. With that in mind, Nicole immediately hopped onto the van where Anna was sat.

“Shouldn’t you be with Lloyd?” Nicole asked, feeling slightly surprised.

It was kind of rare for Anna to pick Nicole up, as she had only done so once before.

“Mr. Holder had asked me to come and pick you up personally today, as a token of his apology,” Anna said with a gentle smile on her face. “He’s really sorry for everything that had happened before.”

Nicole withdrew her gaze and responded flatly, “It’s actually nothing to be sorry about. I didn’t get hurt or anything.”

Nicole had not paid much attention to this matter before but for once, Jared was right. She ought to find out for herself who this person was, or else, they might continue to give Nicole hell in the foreseeable future.

“This is the crew’s mistake, so it is only right that I must give you a proper explanation regarding this matter.” Anna nodded, before telling the chauffeur to drive.

Soon after, both Anna and Nicole arrived at the set.

Anna personally guided Nicole to the set before sending her to the dressing room to get ready.

“You should go ahead and get yourself ready. The person we’ve caught has yet to arrive. I’ll bring him over later.” Anna whispered in Nicole’s ear.

“Okay.” Nicole nodded, as she was not expecting Lloyd to personally arrest someone in front of her.

‘This ought to be fun to witness,’ Nicole thought.

After 20 minutes, Nicole completed her makeup routine and walked out of the dressing room where most of the crew had already arrived. Nicole then took a seat while going through the script.

Both Lloyd and Anna noticed that the time was getting nearer, and that was when the latter walked up to the middle of the set.

“About the prop car accident from before, we’ve discovered that someone had deliberately tampered with the brakes! Though the on-site surveillance cameras have been deactivated, we’ve examined the car and found the real culprit!” she announced.

As soon as the words left Anna’s mouth, everyone on the set fell silent. The manager who was standing next to Chloe was so frightened that he spilled Chloe’s coffee.

“What are you doing!?” Chloe yelled once she noticed the spilled coffee on the small table.

Her manager hurriedly apologized, “I’m sorry, I’m sorry...”

Then, he hurriedly got paper towels and began to wipe the table down in fear that the coffee would drip onto Chloe’s clothes.

Lloyd and Anna’s eyes immediately dimmed as they watched the manager’s flustered action.

Anna then stepped up and said, “You don’t need to clean this up anymore.

Follow me.”

The manager, who was completely terrified, quickly looked up. “No... It wasn’t me!”