

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1785

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 1785-Kyle turned to look at his daughter. His daughter was a graduate from the International School of Business, the entire Karfeldt Incorporated had relied on her for many things in the past two years.

Mona saw her father's firm look and could only grit her teeth. "Of course, that's what I meant. As long as Mr. Johnston is able to agree to us today, then we shall seal the deal right here and then."

Mona had gone all out, she did not believe that Jared would be completely brazen about his abrupt decision making. After all, she was very dear to him.

However, Nicole burst out laughing and took the lead. "Okay then. Congratulations to the two of you on a successful partnership."

Mona's face froze upon hearing the sentence. "You... agree?"

'Nicole... was she testing me earlier?'

"Of course." Nicole raised her eyebrows and nodded with a chic look on her face. Jared had also felt that Nicole had worked hard recently and felt that she seemed to be slowly inching her way into his world. Jared cooperated calmly. "Since the lady of honor has spoken, I have nothing to say but thank you in advance for your cooperation."

Jared stretched out his hand in a gentleman manner which pushed Mona into the corner with no way of backing out on this agreement. She could only stretch out her hand stiffly to shake Jared's large palm.

"We look forward to working with you..."

Mona's heart stopped as she said those words. 'This is less than the initial profit we pitched for. Talk about unexpected!' As Mona thought about it, she could not help glaring at Nicole.

'It's all her fault! If it weren't for her tricks I wouldn't have agreed so easily! Does she think she's that important? I bet she doesn't know anything about artificial intelligence at all. She probably bought it all! She won't gain an inch of advantage. Instead she'll end up worse! Let's see how long she'll be able to hold out.'

'Though the profit made from this is the bare minimum, I can't lose out on this piece of technology to her. I'll have to find my way and look for an opportunity to negotiate with Jared.'

Kyle looked at his daughter who had agreed to the terms. He assured himself that Mona had other plans in store.

Kyle's face was sullen as he agreed along. "Since we've all agreed, Mr. Johnston, why don't you prepare the contract? My daughter and I will be in the country for the next three days. We can sign the contract within those dates."

"Okay," Jared agreed frankly. The entire negotiation was completely unexpected. Due to Nicole's presence, the negotiation had been concluded easily.

"Now that that's settled, we shall be off now." Kyle did not want to stay there any longer. He was eager to question Mona about what was going through her brain.

"Take care. Bye." Jared did not bother to send them off, so he asked Kelly to send them off as an act of courtesy.

Kyle's complexion was terrible, but he had to endure it until after they left. Mona did not miss the chance to look at Nicole with menacing eyes.

Nicole looked at the father and daughter duo and smiled playfully. "It's quite relieving to see them so burned out."

Jared, who noticed Nicole was happy, felt elated and played along. "As long as it makes you happy."

Jared had wanted to stretch out some flexibility in his conditions, noting that Nicole did not favor the Mohr much. Thus, Jared was firm on refusing to let Nicole go to lead the team in Mercadia when Mona proposed so. It was surprising that Mona had agreed to their terms.

"Mona is one smart lady, she knew I was your weakness." Nicole gave Jared a cold look.

Jared smiled triumphantly. "But she isn't as smart as you are. So tell me, why did you agree to her condition?"

'Nicole was still in school. She definitely could not keep going back and forth between two countries.'

Nicole smiled. "Have you heard of stereoscopic images?"