

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2091

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2091-“But I can’t just let this go.

Raine’s anger had subsided a little, but she was still fuming mad.

‘If it was a failure on my part, I would not have such a hard time accepting this. But losing to Nicole? Right in front of her face too? It’s a direct slap to my face,’ Raine thought.

“Alright, alright. We ought to bear this burden of humiliation but remember, it’s all for our future,” James continued through gritted teeth.

“Sooner or later, I’ll bring her down.’

“Let’s go home.” James dragged Raine into the car after he noticed she had finally calmed down, whereupon they left the place.

On the other hand, it did not take long for Nicole and Lulu to conclude their business meeting and get into the car.

“Nicole, I didn’t expect it would go so smoothly,” Lulu remarked, feeling very impressed by herself when she landed the project with Mr. Harmon.

It was also her very first project after joining Riddle Corporation. Therefore, it filled her with excitement just thinking about it.

“I told you not to worry,’ Nicole smiled. “But then, I must admit, your comebacks have gotten better.”

Nicole recalled Raine’s perplexed expression as she was rendered speechless and was intrigued by it.

In reply, Lulu flashed her a bashful smile and scratched her head. “Would you believe me if I told you I’ve gotten training through my previous company?”

“I do.” Nicole nodded, finally understanding why June had persuaded Lulu to resign from her previous job.

“Nicole, do you know that it’s great that you’re finally back!?’ Lulu brought Nicole into a tight embrace in excitement. “I’ve gone through so much in the past five years, but ever since you came back, things have gotten much better.”

This did not simply mark the end to Lulu’s series of predicaments; in the end, she had also gotten a better job. With that, Lulu’s drive to do better at her job had been ignited. Now more than ever, she was determined to work harder to live up to Nicole’s expectations of her.

Back at the Riddle Corporation, both Nicole and Lulu went their separate ways. Lulu was determined to spend her time learning and picking up the ropes, which Nicole was more than happy to let her do.

Soon after, Nicole heard an unexpected knock on her door, and Steve suddenly came striding in with an anxious look on his face.

“Steve, what’s the matter?” Nicole asked as she looked at Steve in confusion.

Steve carefully studied Nicole from top to toe. ‘Oh thank

God. She doesn’t seem to be hurt anywhere.’

Then, he breathed a sigh of relief before saying, “Thank goodness you’re alright. I heard that you went out for a business meeting earlier and bumped into Raine and James.

I was worried for a moment there.”

“Steve, don’t worry about it. I’m fine, see?”

‘Raine isn’t even capable of laying a finger on me,’ Nicole thought.

“Then what happened earlier today? How did you bump into them?” Steve asked, feeling a little puzzled.

The corner of Nicole’s mouth twitched in glee. “Someone got a little too ambitious and couldn’t keep their greed under wraps.”

“Ambitious?” Steve was at loss. ‘Who was trying to be too ambitious? Raine?’

“Yeah. There’s something I have been keeping from you.”

Nicole then cautiously told Steve about everything that had happened when she returned to visit the Riddle mansion, including the undisputed decision of the family afterwards.

Steve nodded his head in agreement. "Well, Sean can technically do that."

"Yeah, because of what Sean had said about us being heartless. But please, don't make it too obvious that you know about this," Nicole told Steve, who was a little dumbfounded.

'If everyone were to act as if they're oblivious to this situation, won't it make things worse?' Steve thought.

Steve gasped. "I think that's why he wanted me to bring Sally home for dinner."

"Not entirely." Nicole said, feeling that it was for the sake of her sister-in-law.

"Let's forget it. We can talk about this another time, but what did you mention earlier about Raine being ambitious?' she asked in surprise.

"Could it be that she wants some of the inheritance? Could it?"

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2092

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2092-'There were many people before her who wanted the inheritance too. It would be almost impossible for her to wait until it was her turn. Who was next in line after me?'

"She can't but there could be someone who is willing to let her have it.1 An icy glint flashed in Nicole's eyes. "James is not an easy person to deal with."

Nicole was unfamiliar with James, but after the fiasco that had occurred earlier today, Nicole was certain that James was brilliant in scheming.

'People from the less influential families are not favored by our family as they have no status nor power, but it's a certainty that James harbors lofty ambitions. It's just that he is much better at hiding it,' Nicole thought.

"I really underestimated that fella." Steve scoffed, having been swayed by Nicole's words.

'Now, with Raine's brilliant mind and abilities, how could she possibly join the working team in the company and expect to inherit the Riddle Corporation? She's known to be reluctant and powerless. However, with James' involvement, this has become a serious problem,' Steve pondered.

"For the time being, we can't make any glaring moves, or we'll have to deal with them a little more often than we want to."

'No matter how thoughtful and scheming they are, they have nothing to do with us as long as they don't step into the headquarters.'

"Okay. I'll assign some of my folks to get some intel."

'The idea is that everything will be fine as long as Raine and James stay in the other branch office without stepping foot into HQ,' Steve thought.

Nicole nodded in agreement.

"Okay then, I'll get going." Steve turned around and walked off.

Nicole leaned back against her seat as contempt flashed across her eyes. 'Dillon's company is already filled with so many problems. They're barely surviving and now, even with Raine in the team, I don't think that she'll have the skills to improve the situation of their branch,' Nicole thought, before getting back to work.

Soon it was lunch time, Nicole was still deciding on what to have for lunch before her phone rang, derailing her train of thought.

It was a call from Lawrence.

"Leo."

"You promised to buy me a meal sometime. Can you fulfill that promise now?" Lawrence said with a smile.

"Are you downstairs?" Nicole asked hesitantly.

She knew that Lawrence would not casually ask her to go out for lunch without an ulterior motive.

Smiling, she replied, "Okay, I'll head down now."

After hanging up, Nicole left her office and headed downstairs.

She had promised Lawrence a while ago that she would treat him to a meal. 'I guess that it's better to fulfill what I've promised him rather than to stay indebted.'

Soon Nicole arrived downstairs where she saw Lawrence, who was waiting for her.

"What do you want to have?" Nicole asked right off the bat, since she was just doing this to thank him.

"It's up to you, you can decide," Lawrence replied, hoping that Nicole could decide on something that would suit her taste buds more.

Then, Nicole glanced at the restaurant across the street and said, "Why not go there?"

"Yeah, sure." Lawrence instinctively agreed.

Soon enough, the two of them arrived at the restaurant across the street and picked a spot that was quiet.

After they had ordered their food, Lawrence casually started, "Has it been busy for you recently?"

"It's fine." Nicole responded politely.

"Nolan accepted some missions again yesterday," Lawrence said, changing the topic upon noticing that Nicole was reluctant to talk about work.

Nicole nodded. "Nolan was a little bored so he accepted a small mission to pass time."

Nicole knew that anything related to Nolan would not get past him. If her code name had any progress, Lawrence would know. From there, he would be able to monitor them and tell whether Nolan or Nicole had accepted the mission or not.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2093

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2093-“Yeah, he also called to chat with me for a bit.” Lawrence looked at Nicole with eyes beaming with hope as Nolan had given him some pep talk to work harder during the night prior.

Otherwise, someone else might just whisk her away.

Lawrence came to approach Nicole for that exact reason, as his masculine senses had informed him that it was a crisis. Before this, Nolan had contacted Lawrence to help him find occasions and circumstances in which he could set them both up. Nolan had been urging Lawrence to work hard to woo his mother, adding that he would not stand a chance if he did not.

Though Lawrence had attempted to gather some information from Nolan regarding his desperate desire to get him to pursue his mother, there was no success, as he could not discover anything. All he could tell was that something must have happened.

Nicole’s pupils shrank slightly; she understood that Nolan must have said something to Lawrence, prompting him to come over for a visit today.

“Leo, the kids have a thing with playful banter. There are certain things we don’t have to take seriously,” she explained.

Nicole had made that clear to Lawrence once before and ever since returning to San Joto. It was evident that something within Lawrence had changed a little.

“Pretty sure I can tell a truth and a lie apart,” he said.

‘Regardless of whether it was Nolan’s childish words or my own, my objective and goal is clear, especially what my heart wants. For five years, I have been silently giving her everything she wanted and how she wanted them. I gave her space, and I did not push into doing things she did not want to do. Never have I imagined that I would be on the verge of losing her because of an accident, and now, we’re drifting further and further away from one another,’ he thought as he became uneasy with the knowledge that things were not heading the way he wanted them to be.

“Leo, I think you have to understand that, between the two of us, we’re just friends.” Nicole frowned, reminding him of their previous conversation.

Lawrence proceeded to interrupt her. "You also said that you weren't going to come back here."

"The world is evolving each day, and there are things that are beyond our control. Now that I've returned, I have to do what I should be doing," she replied.

Initially, Nicole did not want to return to San Joto at all because she wanted to elude her enemies and keep her children safe.

Perhaps it was fate that brought me back here. It's not something I can run from forever.'

"Yeah, there are things we can't control but there are things we definitely can control,' he helplessly argued.

It was uncertain as to whether it was Lawrence's love for Nicole that had prompted him to work so hard to prevent her from returning to San Joto or it was because she had no recollection of San Joto. But to his dismay, their relationship had changed as they got more and more distant with one another, a situation which Lawrence was dying to fix.

"Leo." A tinge of embarrassment flashed in her eyes at once.

She knew what Lawrence meant but she had not expected such determination from him, making her feel powerless.

Nicole knew that she had stated very clearly that the two of them could only be friends, a proposition to which Lawrence had respected. However, his perception on this had changed.

"Let's eat," Lawrence said as he stifled the mental breakdown within, not wanting to press on further as he was worried that Nicole would sever all communication with him.

Nicole paused for a moment before hesitating. Meanwhile, Lawrence had already dug in while helping her with her food.

"I can do it myself," she said.

Lawrence quickly changed the subject of conversation. He avoided all mentions of the issue earlier and about Nolan entirely. From then on, he stuck to discussions about work matters. Nicole on the other hand was amenable to having discussions about the partnership for their business together.

'I guess we can discuss this further in detail next time,' Nicole thought.

After lunch was over, the awkwardness and friction between the two of them had completely disappeared, with both of them looking much more relaxed.

"I'll send you back." Lawrence got up and left the restaurant with Nicole.

Soon, the two of them arrived at the entrance of the Riddle Corporation. They went their separate ways as Nicole walked into the office and Lawrence got into his car.

"Mr. Royce," Ian greeted, noting that Lawrence was looking a little pale.

"You don't look too good. Did something happen?" Ian asked.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2094

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2094-Lawrence shot a cold look at Ian. "How are things going with Holder Entertainment?"

"Everything's good. The Johnston Group has not given a response afterwards. It seems like they're admitting defeat and are letting us have the project," Ian said gleefully.

"It was that easy?" Lawrence's eyes squinted, not believing that it would be this easy.

'Something is wrong here.'

"Yeah. We've been keeping an eye on Holder Entertainment for a while now. It wouldn't be much of a problem," Ian promised.

Lawrence nodded his head. "Okay. Keep a close eye on them."

'Jared is not an easy person to deal with. I know for sure I cannot afford to be unprepared when it comes to him. I can't relax until we've secured our deal.'

Ian nodded his head in response. "Yes, Mr. Royce. You can leave it to me."

Then, Lawrence leaned back against his seat and pondered, ' Today's persuasion had made one thing clear. Though Nicole has not fully recovered her memories and there is little to no progress between Jared and Nicole, her heart has still been swayed.'

Lawrence felt restless as he stared out the car window, his eyes glinting as he went deep in thought.

At the office, Nicole issued a sigh of defeat and shook her head, not knowing that such a day in which she was faced with this sort of situation would come. Nicole had always taken Lawrence as her own friend. He had saved her life before and helped her get back onto her feet, but alas, she had done nothing to repay him for his good deeds.

Nicole sat down at her desk, as she bit her lip and opened a server that she never thought she would open again. Nicole was very well aware that the server was very dear to Lawrence.

'I guess I can consider this as a repayment for all that he has done to help me for the past five years.'

Soon the sun began to set, with Nicole having spent her entire afternoon trying to decipher and crack the server, but to no avail. By then, she looked very annoyed and unkempt. She walked out of her office, unconsciously covering her eyes with her arm as if she was not used to the light from the outside, which blinded her for a brief moment.

Jared got out of his car and jogged over to her, and with a tone of concern, he asked, "What happened? Was work too demanding for you today?"

Nicole shook her head. "It was fine."

Nicole did not tell anyone that she was in the midst of cracking the server, as it was something that was very dear to Lawrence. Not even Lana and Nolan knew, and Nicole had no intentions of telling Jared either. After all, it was Lawrence's secret, and she would just be returning a favor once she succeeded. Nicole genuinely thought that once the job had been completed, her ties with Lawrence would then end.

“Let’s go home.” Jared helped her into the car upon noticing that her complexion was poor.

After they had picked Nolan and Lana from the kindergarten, they all returned to the Riddle residence.

Jared then informed both the children that their mother was too tired from work and pleaded with the two of them to be quiet, to which they both cooperated really well. Nolan and Lana obediently went on to watch TV after they had reached home. In the meantime, Jared took Nicole back to their room.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2095

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2095-Nicole was at a loss on how to respond and so, she said, “Don’t sweat it. I feel much better now.”

She was too focused on cracking the system during the evening and had forgotten to catch a break. However, she was all good now.

“You must rest, or I will make you,” Jared threatened, noticing that Nicole had no intentions of resting.

Nicole froze, smoothed her hair awkwardly, and averted her gaze. In all her shrewdness, Nicole did not ask Jared about the methods he would employ to make her rest. She could already feel that his answer would put her in an awkward position.

Helpless, Nicole did as she was told; she laid down and began to get some shuteye. This was the safest option for her. Seeing that Nicole had settled down, Jared nodded in satisfaction and pulled the blanket over her.

“Just stay here. I’ll be back soon.”

After Jared had left, Nicole breathed a sigh of relief. ‘Why do I feel so nervous when Jared comes near me?’

Staring at the ceiling, Nicole got lost in her thoughts.

When Jared arrived downstairs, Daniel and Gloria asked with concern, “How’s Nicole?”

“She’s a little tired from work. She’ll be fine after some rest,”

Jared briefly explained.

“Ah well, Nicole has always been self-sufficient,” Gloria said, her eyes welling up with tears.

“Don’t worry, Gloria. It’s just that Dillion has been up to no good recently. That’s why she was a little stressed out,” Jared reassured. “She’ll be fine soon.”

“What about Dillion?” Daniel furrowed his brows, his expression turning grim.

“Not much. He’s just interested in the inheritance and assets of the Riddle family,” Jared snorted coldly and walked toward the kitchen.

Jared knew about the meeting Nicole had with Mr. Harmon today. When he saw Nicole in a bad mood after work, he had figured that it was probably because of that.

Noting Jared’s reluctance to discuss the matter any further, Daniel and Gloria exchanged glances and stopped asking.

“Oh well,” Gloria sighed, feeling speechless and helpless in the face of Dillion and Damien’s actions.

“I’ll inform Sean to take better care of Nicole,” Daniel said, placing his hopes on Sean.

After all, in terms of skill and competence, Sean was miles ahead of everyone else.

“Don’t forget Steve. He’s in the company too. Let them take care of their sister,” Gloria added.

“Mom, Dad? Don’t worry too much. If Nicole didn’t possess the capabilities, how could she possibly secure the position of chairman? She’s just probably still not used to it,” Stanley said, having entered the room and overheard the conversation.

“That’s easy for you to say. You don’t even care about your sister,” Gloria glared at Stanley with dismay written all over her face.

Hearing that, Stanley immediately felt aggrieved. “How can I not worry about her? With everything we’re capable of, Nicole will have no worries if she stays at home all day, doing nothing. But do you think she would be happy with that?”

If they were worried about Nicole, the best way was to not let her work. However, they all understood that was not the life Nicole wanted. After all, Nicole had taken over the company without any reluctance, even though she had not regained her memories yet. It meant that, deep down, she was still the same Nicole as before.

Daniel and Gloria exchanged glances, feeling even more heartbroken for Nicole because they knew what Stanley said made sense. At that moment, Jared walked out of the kitchen with a tray of light but nutritious dishes. He then went upstairs, taking big steps along the way.

“I’m back,” Spencer, who entered the house, announced.

Then, when he saw Jared going upstairs, he curiously asked, “What’s wrong with Mr. Johnston? Why’d he take his dinner upstairs?”

“Nicole’s not feeling well,” Gloria explained the situation briefly.

Hearing that, Spencer expressed his concern. “Can she handle eating?”

“Mr. Johnston said she just needed some rest,” Stanley explained.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2096

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2096-“Well, the current situation is still a little too much for Nicole to handle. It would have been better if she had recovered her memories,” Spencer sighed.

He felt that if Nicole had regained her memories first, these things would not be much of a challenge to her.

“Well, this... Ugh.” Everyone breathed a collective sigh.

Although they did hope that Nicole could regain her memories sooner than later, all of them understood that it was not easy. Otherwise, Nicole would not have gone for five years without recovering any of her memories.

“Dinner is ready,” the butler came over and said.

“Come on, Mom. Let’s eat first,”

Regardless of what happened, they still had to pull themselves together.

“Alright, let’s eat,” Gloria agreed.

She then looked at the two kids and said, Nolan, Lana? Do you want to eat some more?”

Both of them shook their heads together and replied, “No thanks, Grandma. We’ve eaten enough in kindergarten.”

“Alright then, you guys be good and watch TV. We are going to have our dinner,” Spencer admonished them.

Nolan and Lana nodded their heads and watched as the adults entered the dining room. Then, they lifted their heads and looked upstairs.

“Mommy isn’t really sick, is she?” Lana asked, feeling a little worried.

“She’s not. Mommy’s just tired,” Nolan comforted.

Still, Lana sniffled. “Those are bad guys! They are bullying Mommy!”

The two little ones had overheard the adults’ entire conversation and from that, they knew someone was bullying their mother. That was the reason as to why their mother was feeling so tired and unwell.

Nolan’s expression turned grim as well.

Then, he narrowed his brows, and said, “I’ll go upstairs first.”

“Me too,” Lana knew what Nolan intended to do as soon as that expression crossed his face, so she followed him upstairs.

Once they had entered their room, Nolan turned his computer on and began working on what he had planned out.

“Nolan, do you know who they are?” Lana asked.

She knew Nolan was going to seek revenge on behalf of Nicole, but it went without saying that he should at least have a target.

“I have no idea. But I can find out,” Nolan said confidently.

“Huh? How?” Lana knew that both Nolan and Nicole were very impressive in terms of their skills with the computer, but she could not understand what Nolan meant.

“Moments ago, Grandpa mentioned the names, Dillion and Damien. So I should start by checking Grandpa’s information,” Nolan explained while his tiny hands rapidly darted across the keyboard.

Once they had discovered who Dillion and Damien were, everything would naturally fall into place.

After dinner, Gloria noticed Nolan and Lana’s absence and hurriedly went upstairs.

Seeing that the kids were in the room, she breathed a sigh of relief, “So you were upstairs all along?”

“Oh, yep. We felt that the TV programs were too boring, so we came upto play,” Nolan replied, making up a random excuse out of thin air.

“Well, aren’t you well-behaved? You know Mommy’s not feeling well, so you’re taking care of yourself,” Gloria expressed her relief.

She felt that the two kids were a little quiet today, although it astounded her that they did not need the adults to worry for them.

“Grandma, you should get some rest too. We’ll go to sleep soon,” Nolan said.

He was at a very crucial moment of finding out who his adversaries were, and so, he wanted to continue his work.

“Don’t you want Grandma to tuck you in?” Gloria hesitated.

Although they were well-behaved, she doubted that they could sleep on their own.

“Grandma, I’m not sleepy yet. I want to play a little longer. I’ll sleep in a bit,” Nolan insisted.

He could not sleep now anyway, so there was no need for anyone to tuck him into bed. If anything, he was rather busy now.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2097

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2097-“Grandma, I want to sleep. Why don’t you tuck me in?” Lana softly pleaded with Gloria, having understood what her brother was trying to do.

“Alright, Grandma will stay with you,” Gloria’s eyes wrinkled with a smile.

Lana had her ways of touching people’s hearts.

As Gloria led Lana away, the latter signaled Nolan with a glance, to which he nodded his head. Only then did she walk off with a smug sense of satisfaction. Although Lana could not understand what Nolan was doing, she knew he wanted to avenge their Mommy. That was enough for Lana, as the bad guys should be taught a lesson.

After Gloria had taken Lana away, Nolan continued typing away on his computer. Soon, he raised his chin in triumph and keyed one last line in. He then closed his computer in contentment, happy at the masterpiece he had created.

After giving himself a rinse, he climbed into bed, covered himself with a blanket, and slept.

Nicole, who knew nothing about anything, simply ate dinner and prepared herself for some good rest, with Jared joining her in finishing their meal. He waited for the maids to place all the tableware away, after which he followed Nicole to bed.

Jared saw Nicole’s complexion return to normal as he laid down, feeling relieved. “You don’t have to work so hard.

They can’t hurt you. They’re not capable of it.”

Nicole froze for a moment, carefully pondering about his statement before understanding that Jared was talking about Damien and Dillion. She also understood why Jared had assumed that her exhaustion was due to the issue of inheritance.

“I know,” Nicole bit her lips.

Deep down, she felt that there was no better candidate than Sean.

Jared reached out to embrace Nicole in his arms. “Since you’re aware of it, don’t bother about any unnecessary things in the future.”

Jared knew these jobs were not enough to make Nicole so stressed out. It was the people and the issues surrounding them that had affected her mood.

As she was being held by Jared, Nicole’s heartbeat quickened, and her breathing became sporadic.

“It’s really nothing. I was too focused on work this evening and forgot to rest,” Nicole explained, trying to struggle out of Jared’s embrace.

She was simply unable to sleep in this position.

Jared saw through Nicole’s intentions and subtly tightened his embrace, ensuring it would not constrict her, or allow her to escape from his embrace.

Nicole noticed that the more she struggled, the tighter his embrace was. She rolled her eyes in frustration, thinking, ‘This guy did it on purpose. But I don’t have enough strength to break free from his arms.’

Thus, she decisively chose to give up. Nicole could not afford to struggle anymore. The fact was that there was still some space between them now. If she continued to struggle, Jared’s embrace would only get tighter, and there would be little to no space left between them.

With a sigh of frustration, Nicole decided to cease moving. She closed her eyes and went to sleep. Unexpectedly, Nicole’s panicked heartbeat somehow calmed, and soon, she became drowsy and fell asleep.

Hearing Nicole’s even breathing as she was sound asleep, Jared’s gaze softened, and a slight smile appeared.

The sunlight rose, casting its rays through the curtains into the room. Feeling the glare of the lights through her eyelids, Nicole frowned and instinctively raised her hand to shield her eyes. Then, she slowly opened them.

As the lights went through the gaps of her finger, Nicole’s momentary confusion faded, and she quickly returned to her senses.

“You’re awake,” Jared’s voice blared out, and Nicole turned to face him, her lips inadvertently brushing against Jared’s cheeks.

Jared’s pupils contracted abruptly, and his gaze darkened a little, exuding a vibe that hinted at danger. Instantly feeling the change in the aura around her, she rolled off the bed and hurried into the bathroom.

Watching Nicole’s fleeing figure, Jared shook his head lightly with a helpless smile.

Then, he wondered, ‘When will she get used to me? Do I really have to wait for her to regain all of her memories?’

In the bathroom, Nicole splashed her face with cold water a few times before becoming completely awake. She could not help but blush with embarrassment.

Deep within, she was thinking, ‘Nicole. Oh, Nicole. That was an accident. But that accident was just so embarrassing. Why can’t I just disappear on the spot?’

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2098

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2098-“Are you done?” Jared’s voice sounded out outside the bathroom door.

Hearing that, Nicole instantly tensed up and she stammered, “E-Em yes. I’m ready.”

After dawdling for a while, Nicole came out of the bathroom with the intention of leaving it for Jared. While he was at it, she would seize the opportunity to hurry downstairs.

However, to her surprise, she ran directly into a sturdy embrace and was forcefully kissed the instant she stepped out of the bathroom.

“Hmm...” Nicole was about to protest, but then, her delay in reaction gave Jared a chance to take control right away as his sense of rationality began to slip.

After a passionate kiss, Jared released Nicole with a satisfied smile. “Wait for me.”

With that, Jared went into the bathroom, leaving a dazed Nicole to snap back to reality and grit her teeth in frustration. "Jared!"

A low, soft laugh came from inside the bathroom, making Nicole even more frustrated and helpless.

"Mommy," The room door opened, and Nolan and Lana poked their little heads in.

When Nicole saw the two cuties, her expression instantly changed, and she smiled, "You're up already,"

"Yep, is Mommy ready too?" Lana asked as she opened the door and came in.

Holding Lana's soft hands, Nicole said, "Let's go downstairs."

"What about Daddy?" Lana asked when she did not find Jared after looking around.

"He's washing up. We can wait for him downstairs," Nicole replied. She was still embarrassed about everything that had happened with Jared just now and wanted to leave the room as quickly as possible.

"Alright," Lana answered and followed Nicole out of the room.

Noticing the unusual look on Nolan's face, Nicole asked, "Nolan, what's wrong?"

"Oh, nothing," Nolan responded without allowing his gaze to meet Nicole's.

"Mommy, there's really nothing going on. Let's go down," Lana butted in, helping Nolan to shift the focus away from the question. It was then that Nicole raised her eyebrows a little. It seemed to her that Nolan had done something with Lana's knowledge. This surprised her a little, and she could not help but wonder what Nolan had done to gain Lana's support.

The two children looked very guilty after Nicole had stared at them, almost as if they were going to surrender and reveal everything they had done.

"What are you doing?" Jared's voice echoed through the room.

"Daddy!" Lana jumped into Jared's embrace as if she found her savior.

With a loving gaze, Jared picked Lana up. “What are you talking about?”

Upon being asked that question by Jared, Lana instinctively glanced at Nolan, who found a random excuse to elude the conversation. “Let’s go downstairs and eat.”

Lana pouted her lip, but echoed Nolan’s words anyway. “Yep, we should eat.”

“Alright, let’s go then,” Jared trusted Lana’s word without any doubts and walked out, carrying her in his arms.

Nicole’s mouth twitched. ‘Why have I never realized how easy it is to deceive Jared? I could see that the two children were hiding something, but for some reason, Jared hasn’t noticed it.’

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2099

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2099-As she stared at Jared’s figure in the front, Nicole shook her head and thought, ‘Lana sure is daddy’s daughter. He might have noticed it, but he is choosing not to acknowledge it.’

“Okay,” Nicole uttered, deciding to drop the matter.

She figured that no matter how naughty Nolan was, he would never drag Lana along into something dangerous.

After they had gotten downstairs, the others slowly came down too.

“Mom, Dad.”

“Grandma, Grandpa.”

After greeting one another, Gloria could not help but ask, “You worked till it was so late yesterday. Why did you get up so early today?”

Gloria thought Nicole would have slept in until noon, not expecting her to be up this early.

“I heard about the company’s situation, so what’s going on?” Samuel asked, looking at Nicole with a mix of concern and guilt.

However, before he could finish what he was about to say, Nicole spoke first. "Don't overthink it. Sean, Steve, and I can handle it."

Nicole understood what Samuel wanted to ask. She was not in a good state yesterday, and everyone had assumed that it was due to the issues in the company. However, she could not reveal the true reason to anyone. Therefore, she had to rely on this excuse in order to allay their concerns.

"We are all worried about her, but I feel like the only help we can provide her is our support to her every decision. As for the others, we should just leave them. We are practically useless even if we were to show up at the company anyways," Stanley advised.

They were not interested in managing the company, so it was better not to interfere.

"But even if we fetch and carry everything for her, it's still our attitude," Samuel said, feeling that if someone could take care of Nicole, perhaps she would not be so exhausted.

"Don't worry, someone's taking care of me," Nicole said and looked at Spencer.

Feeling a little baffled, Spencer asked, "Are you talking about me?"

Indeed, if Nicole wanted him to go to the company, he would agree.

"It's not you, but I think she can represent you." Nicole raised her eyebrows.

"What?" Spencer was still confused, not understanding what Nicole was talking about.

"She's talking about Lulu. She's Nicole's special assistant now." Samuel laughed, causing everyone to rubberneck at him.

Spencer's expression stiffened, and he frowned. "She went to Riddle Corporation?! How did you know?"

"June told me!" Samuel naturally replied.

Knowing that what Samuel said was not a lie, Spencer looked at Nicole, dumbfounded, and asked, "How did she do it?"

“Initially, I had arranged for her a position, but since she had gone to the HR Department and passed the interview, I just brought her over,” Nicole explained.

She had intended to let Lulu into her company, hoping that Lulu could aid her. However, she had not anticipated that Lulu would apply for a position and start from the bottom.

“As long as you’re satisfied with the situation,” Spencer frankly said.

As for what Nicole was planning, he did not further inquire. He trusted that Nicole had her own plans. However, he also felt that Nicole needed someone she could trust by her side. After all, no one could be around her constantly. Having Lulu assist her at work was a great choice for Nicole.

“Spencer, when are you going to bring her back and introduce her to our parents?” Nicole playfully asked.

Feeling a little nervous, Spencer tried to change the subject. “Erm. It’s getting late. We should eat first.”

“Just answer the question. Mom and Dad must be curious too,” Samuel joined in on the gossip.

Daniel and Gloria were in fact looking at Spencer with anxious looks on their faces, wanting to know if what everyone had said was true. They were rather curious to know if Spencer really did have a girlfriend. They had heard the siblings mention it occasionally before, but Spencer had never admitted it.

Read Novel MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2100

MY WIFE IS A HACKER CHAPTER 2100-Since they had set a trap for Spencer, no one shall be spared from being dragged down by him.

“No, wait? What’s going on?” Gloria asked Samuel, having caught the keyword at once.

“Nothing. Nothing’s going on. Let’s eat,” Samuel said, wanting to shift the attention away from himself, as he did not dare to admit it.

“Why, you two b*stards! What is going on?” Gloria anxiously asked.

Spencer and Samuel then exchanged glances and reached an unspoken consensus.

“Oh wait, I suddenly remembered that there are still some details to go over for today’s press conference. I’ll skip breakfast. You guys go ahead,” Spencer said and left in a hurry.

“Wait for me. I just remembered that I have a sudden training session too,” Samuel followed Spencer out, completely ignoring the fact that he was still wearing his pajamas.

“These two are really...” Gloria felt frustrated.

Whenever they got around to touching this topic, they would always flee from it. Gloria really did not understand why they were avoiding it like they were avoiding the plague.

“Relax. They know what they’re doing,” Nicole comforted Gloria, not expecting them to run away either.

“Exactly. They’ve been like this for the past few years. Let them be,” Daniel advised.

Gloria sighed, knowing there was no other way around it.” Ugh. Alright, let’s go eat our breakfast.”

The family headed toward the dining table thereafter. However, Nicole could not help but to feel puzzled. ‘Spencer with Lulu and Samuel with June seem to be in great relationships. But why have they not made it public, or introduced them to our parents?’

After everyone had been seated at the dining table, everyone started eating. Their conversation topic had changed, so Nicole made no mentions about the subject again. However, deep down, she was still wondering what was going on with them.

After breakfast, Jared and Nicole left the place with Nolan and Lana.

Noticing how preoccupied Nicole looked, Jared whispered,” What’s on your mind?”

“Nothing much. I just find it a little strange,” Nicole responded casually, still feeling curious.

“Because of Spencer and Samuel?” Jared pointed out.

Nicole nodded, “Yeah. Their relationships seem to be going on fine.”

“They have their own things to consider,” Jared said blandly, thinking it was better to leave them to work things out on their own.

“I understand, it’s just that…” Nicole suddenly recalled something and frowned. “Could it be because of our identities?”

One was a violinist, while the other was a basketball star. Both were now very famous. Could they be maintaining the image of being single for the sake of their fame?

Thinking about this, Nicole’s face soured. She would be very pissed if Spencer and Samuel really had such ideas.

‘How could they be like this?’

Noticing Nicole’s sudden change of emotions, Jared gently held her hand and said, “Don’t overthink it. They won’t.”

Spencer and Samuel were upstanding individuals with good personalities. There must be other reasons prompting them to behave the way they did.

“Hmm, yeah.” Nicole nodded.

Her emotions began to calm a little once she thought that it was probably not the case. She must have misunderstood them.

After sending Nolan and Lana to the kindergarten, they reached Riddle Corporation. By then, Nicole had already regained her composure. She then bade her farewell to Jared and got out of the car. As for the issue with Spencer and Samuel, she figured that it would be best for her to wait and trust that they would solve it well.