

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 788

□ □ □

Chapter 788

After receiving the call, the hospital CEO had already led someone to wait at the entrance.

When he saw Jared's car pulled up in front of the hospital, he went up at once.

"Miss Riddle, who is his condition?" the hospital CEO asked nervously.

"He has been drugged with that poison. Call the doctor who could treat him to come over."

The hospital CEO gasped and then explained a predicament.

"We have no doctor who can treat that kind of poison."

"No?"

"I will call another hospital to send someone over."

The hospital CEO took out his mobile phone at once.

"It's too late. Take us to the dispensing room."

Nicole looked at Jared, whose face was flushed.

"Alright, come with me."

The hospital CEO immediately led the way.

In the dispensing room-

"Leave us alone. I'll handle this. Also, don't tell anyone about it."

After saying that, Nicole closed the door.

After giving Jared a glass of water and putting him on the bed to rest, Nicole started dispensing medicine at the dispensing table. She kept an eye on his condition from time to time while speeding up what she was doing. Soon, she came to Jared with the prepared medicine.

"Jared, wake up. Take this."

Nicole handed the medicine to his mouth.

"Nicole..."

"It's okay. Just take medicine."

Nicole fed him the medicine and then helped him lie down to rest. She then checked his pulse; it was gradually calming down.

Nicole breathed a sigh of relief and sat quietly beside Jared.

Sometime later, Jared regained consciousness and frowned when he found himself in a strange place.

"Are you feeling better?" Nicole asked with concern.

Hearing Nicole's voice, Jared's brows eased up, and he looked at her.

"You have been here to keep watch over me all the time? You must be tired."

"Not at all. I'm relieved that you have regained your consciousness."

"Are we in a hospital?" Jared glanced around.

"Yeah."

"Where is the doctor? Show me the diagnosis. Why did I suddenly feel giddy and hot?" Jared asked.

"There is no doctor, no diagnosis."

"What? So how was I cured?" Jared asked in bafflement.

"I dispensed medication for you. You got better after some rest."

Nicole calmly explained to him.

"You know how to do that?"

Jared looked at her in disbelief, not expecting that Nicole was an antidote expert.

"This poison is very common in the countryside, so most of us can treat it."

Afraid that Jared would think too much, Nicole made up a story.

In fact, this poison was a standard tool of interrogation. It was used to torture subjects to extract the information the interrogators sought.

"I didn't know that. So, do you know how I got poisoned?" Jared looked at her in puzzlement.

"This poison is very common, so it's unclear what causes it." Nicole smiled gently.

□ □ □