

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 800

□ □ □

Chapter 800

“What’s going on? There’s a good deal waiting for me right after I logged in.” Fixing this kind of issue was child’s play to Nicole.

She could fix it in a short while. That was like free money to her.

“Ms. Riddle, here’s your coffee.” Claus put down the coffee carefully.

“Okay.”

Nicole started fixing the website that got attacked immediately after she took up the job. Shortly after, the loophole on the website was fixed. She earned the monetary reward easily.

“Intrusion Detection and Removing Virus”

“What’s going on today? Jobs that were posted were all so easy.” Nicole whispered. She immediately took up the job.

With her extraordinary technical expertise, the location of the intrusion was detected quickly. She then fixed the intrusion point immediately. After that, she gradually looked for the source of the virus.

After a bit of hard work, she finally found the virus in a hidden folder. Nicole immediately removed the virus using the anti-virus system she developed.

Just when she thought she had finished the task, an alert popped out suddenly. At the same time, Jared pushed the cafe's door and walked toward her.

Nicole fixed the issue easily. She then closed her laptop. "Have you been waiting for a long time?" Jared sat down.

"Not too long. I was doing some work."

Jared nodded his head as he said, "The collaboration with the Turmann family is in place. So, I might be very busy soon, I might not have the time for you. But I'm free today." "Oh?" Nicole raised her eyebrows as she looked at him. She was able to read between the lines.

"But I'm not on break today." "Don't worry about it." Jared grabbed Nicole's hand and walked out of the cafe immediately.

"Slow down. My bag."

A sudden friction sound of tires rubbing against the ground could be heard. The car then went off like an arrow.

“Jared, where are you bringing me? My class is starting soon.”

“I took the day off for you. You’ll like the place where I’m bringing you to.” Jared had already solved Nicole’s concern.

Nicole was a bit excited as she looked at Jared’s excited face.

The sports car was traveling on the coastal highway. The reflection of the beautiful ocean view could be seen in Nicole’s eyes.

A squeaking sound could be heard. The sports car stopped steadily. Nicole got down the car in surprise. “Deep-sea Diving Club!” Nicole was very excited as she stared at the huge plaque. She had always wanted to come here, but she was too busy.

“Seems like Mr. Johnston has made an effort.” Nicole turned around to glance at Jared.

“Let’s have a look inside.” Jared walked toward the door with Nicole.

The two bellboys immediately opened the door and welcomed them as they saw Jared.

Nicole thought the place would be crowded. But the lobby was empty.

“Why is there no one here? Is the club closed today?”

Nicole asked curiously. The bellboy quickly explained, “It’s empty because

Mr. Johnston booked the entire club for exclusive use.”
Nicole smiled as she looked at Jared. She knew exactly why he did that. Nicole had a special identity. It would be best if fewer people had contact with her. But it would take more than just money to be able to book the entire Deep-sea Diving Club for exclusive use.

“Thank you.”

“Let’s have a look at the equipment, shall we?” Jared looked at Nicole.

□ □ □