

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 803

□ □ □

Chapter 803

Jared was heartbroken as he looked at Nicole. He nodded his head.

The doctor spread the medical powder to Nicole's wound. He raised his head to look at Nicole. He did not expect Nicole to not frowned at all. He said in surprise, "Young lady, you're the toughest person I've ever met."

"Normally, even guys would scream when they use this medical powder. But you didn't even frown. I'm impressed!" Nicole got a thumbs up from the doctor.

Treatment had been completed. The doctor left after he advised them something Jared looked at Nicole with sympathy. "I'm so sorry for today. You wouldn't be in danger if I didn't give you the surprise. You're even injured now."

"It's fine. It's just a minor injury. I'm very happy today." Nicole smiled slightly at Jared.

"It's obvious that the attackers' target was you. But why?" Jared could not help but wonder.

“I think they were my online jobs competitors. I’ve beaten them a lot of times these years. They didn’t like me long ago.” Nicole fabricated an excuse to comfort Jared.

After all, He did not know about her other identity.

Nicole saw a familiar totem when she was fighting with the attackers in the water. So, she knew exactly who those people that tried to assassinate her were,

But it did not bother her. They were no threat to her.

The reason was that she had already destroyed those organizations. The attackers were probably the remnants of those organizations hiding in every corner of the world.

The remnants were idle in different parts of the world after their organizations were destroyed. They had not forgotten about their organizations. They hated Nicole. They had always been looking for her. They would mess with her whenever there was a chance. They were persistent.

‘I didn’t expect them to ruin Jared’s surprise. I’m a little banged up. But luckily, Jared is fine. And we had dealt with them successfully.’

“I didn’t think they would actually try to kill you just because of failed tasks. Is it possible that they already knew who you are?”

Jared was worried about Nicole’s safety.

‘Impossible. It was just a coincidence.’

“Don’t worry about what happened. I can deal with it. The most important thing now is to send me home.”

Nicole tried to get up as she said that.

Jared immediately held her down. “I can stay out of this. But you must stay here. I’ve already talked to your school. You can recuperate here for a few days without any worries.’

“It’s just a minor injury. I don’t need to rest.’ Nicole glanced at Jared. But Nicole compromised in the end so Jared could go to work with peace of mind.

“Alright. I’ll recuperate here for a few days. You still have a lot of work to do, right? Go on.”

Jared was relieved. “And, come up with a reason for your family.”

“Alright, don’t worry about it.”

“Call me if you need anything.” Jared left only after he made sure Nicole was taken care of.

“Since I can’t go home or go to school now, what I can do now is only....

Nicole opened her laptop. When she saw multiple alert dialogue boxes pop up on her screen, she frowned slightly. However, it was not difficult for her to deal with.

She typed on her keyboard with her slender fingers. She resolved the dialogue boxes one by one. However, after five minutes, alerts popped out again unexpectedly. However, that was not a dialogue box. It was rather a defiant, evil smile.

It made Nicole, who was experienced, smile. 'Looks like this isn't a virus. But rather, someone is controlling everything behind.

Although her enemy erased his traces very carefully, Nicole managed to find his trace with tiny clues. By following her enemy's operating habits, Nicole deduced her enemy's intention and his next operating point. She was a step ahead of her opponent. She hid a virus in the operating point. Her opponent followed the necessary steps to reach the operating point. Nicole's virus that was placed in advance intruded into her opponent's laptop. It was too late for him to remedy the situation. He watched his laptop explode in front of his eyes.

Nicole's task was completed. She secured her big reward.

Nicole was very happy. But as she recalled her opponent's techniques, she picked up her phone and sent an ID to Zeke, "Find out who's using this ID recently."

□ □ □