

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 846

□ □ □

Chapter 846

"On your marks. Ready."

Bang! As soon as the starter pistol sounded, Gary launched first, and other classmates were on his heels. As he approached the finish line, he sprang forward with a quick burst of strength and crossed the finish line.

Gary finished first at 11.22 seconds.

"Not bad. It's already an outstanding result."

Nicole was happy with Gary's performance.

"You all have got the explosive power there, but physical strength is still not up to par."

Nicole looked at her breathless classmates and thought of a solution.

"Prepare for the relay race."

Nicole had used half the time of a lesson to review all the items.

"The overall performance is not bad. I can tell that everyone has improved in terms of skills, but there is room for improvement in physical fitness. It's okay; we will focus on training for physical fitness for the next few days." Nicole pointed out their strengths and weaknesses and gave solutions.

Because Nicole's class had been doing well in the past two weeks, it had aroused jealousy from other classes. While Nicole was speaking in front of her team, a group of students led by Norali walked toward them from alarm.

"We will also train in this sports field today. Please make way for us," Norali unceremoniously led her classmates to clash with students from Class B. But Nicole did not even bother to look at her.

"Alright, You may use it after we are done."

"What did you say? We are also students of the school, and the sports field is for everyone. Why should we queue behind you?"

Norah yelled at Nicole in a peeve.

"Anyone can use the sports field, but with the first-come first served rule."

"Guys, double the sandbags' weight, and get ready."

Nicole continued to mentor Class B's students.

Seeing that Nicole did not take her seriously, Norah turned to look at her classmates behind her and said,

"Hurry up and start training in the middle of the sports field."

Norah was thinking of hogging the sports field while Class B's students went to get the sandbags.

Just as Class A's students were about to go, Nicole shot her dagger like eyes at them. They were all startled, looking at each other, and no one dared to take a step forward.

"What are you all afraid of? It's not like she will eat you." Norah scolded her classmates.

"Nicole, what are you doing? Are you going to hit them?" Norah glared at her.

Nicole said nothing but stood there with an intimidating look on her face.

Norah was unwilling to back down after Nicole stole all the limelight. She reached out to push Nicole, trying to shove her away while she stood up there. But Nicole dodged her hand in a flash.

Norah missed. She lost her balance and fell straight into the sand pit.

Norah cried out in pain, but everyone looked at her with ridicule, and no one offered to help her up. She tremblingly got up from the sand pit with sand in her hair and glared at everyone.

"I'm helping you get a training ground, yet you all laugh at me along with them. Don't you all feel ashamed?"

Norah cried angrily, pushed her classmates away, and left the scene in a whirlwind. After Norah left, Nicole glanced at Class A's students.

"What are you all still doing here?"

Class A's students immediately left with tails between their legs.

When other students returned with sandbags, Nicole continued to train with them.

The Royal Creek Institute has several sports fields, and the one where Nicole and her classmates were having training sessions was one of them. It was apparent that Norah was just picking a fight this time.

Meanwhile, Mr. Ellison was seeing the CEO of Aegis Corporation out. As they passed by the training grounds where Nicole was, he called out to her.

Nicole looked back. She walked over when she saw it was Mr. Ellison.

□ □ □