

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 857

□ □ □

Chapter 857

Daniel saw the clue and immediately made himself scarce, leaving only Nicole and Harvey in the living room.

"What would you like to drink?" Nicole asked.

"Anything..."

He would love it as long as it was Nicole who made it. Nicole got up and went into the dining room. She came back with a glass of water and put it in front of him.

"Thank you."

"Nicole, I saw your wonderful performance on the sports day. I'm sure you must be very fond of sports on normal days."

Harvey started by asking about her interests and did not seem to have any intention of talking about the tender.

"Uh-huh."

"How about we go play tennis together someday?"

Harvey extended the invitation again.

"Sure."

"Harvey, this project is one of the best projects this year. Looking through the bidding proposal, what do you think our chances of winning will be?"

Nicole had to bring the conversation back to the tender.
"My analysis is that we have an eighty percent chance of winning."

Harvey was confident in his work.

Riddle Corporation was stronger than McCarthy Corporation, and with the Ellison Group connections, the scale definitely tipped in their favor.

"There still seems to be a twenty percent uncertainty."
Nicole mused.

Harvey saw Nicole's concern and reassured her.

"For a project of this magnitude, eighty percent certainty is as good as 100 percent. So you don't have to worry. I've got everything."

Harvey looked at Nicole with determination.

As they spoke, Sean walked in and hurried over to them.

"I'm sorry for keeping you waiting, Harvey." Sean looked at him with an apologetic face.

Harvey looked at Sean, who appeared all of a sudden and was confused about the situation for a while.

"Where did you guys get to in your discussion?" Sean went straight to the point.

"We're discussing whether we can win the tender."

Nicole could see Harvey's confusion and hurriedly chimed in to avoid Harvey's question.

"Oh, I did the bidding document this time. What do you think, Harvey?"

Sean wanted to hear Harvey's opinion.

"The bidding document was well done, and I had told Steve about a few details yesterday."

Harvey's mind was still wondering how Sean could come back in such a hurry when he was so busy.

"That's good. I've made adjustments to those details this morning. Here's the new bid document. Take a look." Sean said as he took the new bid document out of his briefcase and handed it to Harvey.

Harvey glanced at Nicole, who only smiled with a nod. So he took it in his hand and browsed through it.

"Good," Harvey said.

"I just got word that the bidding date has been moved up." Sean brought heavy news.

"The date has been moved up? What day?" Nicole and Harvey asked in unison.

"Tomorrow." Sean looked at them with a serious face.

"Tomorrow? So soon." Nicole whispered.

Harvey said softly to Nicole, "Relax, we will win the tender."

"Since the bidding session is tomorrow, I have to go back and get ready, too."

Harvey got to his feet at once.

Nicole nodded.

"I will see you tomorrow at the tender."

Harvey expected Nicole to see him out, but instead, she just said goodbye.

"Okay, see you tomorrow."

"I will see you out."

Sean looked over at him.

Harvey glanced at Sean and nodded gently. Nicole felt much at ease after Harvey left. She felt the atmosphere was weird with him around..

□ □ □