Chapter 882

By the time Norah had made everyone's breakfast and brought it to the table, Nicole had washed up and come downstairs.

"Nicole, come and try the breakfast that Norah has made. It's the second time she has made it, and it is a success," Gloria said to Nicole ecstatically.

Hearing that Norah had made breakfast, Nicole instantly lost her appetite.

"I don't feel like eating this morning." Without looking at Norah, she carried her bag and went out.

Gloria chased after her and asked with concern,

"Where are you going? Are you not feeling well?"

"No, it's simply that I ate too much last night," Nicole said.

"I'm going to meet Jared."

"Be safe." Gloria turned around and saw Spencer and Samuel walking out.

"Where are you guys going? It's not like you have class today." Gloria looked at them both in puzzlement.

"Our classmate invited us to play cricket."

“It is still early in the morning? Have something to eat before you go.” Gloria tried to stop them, but it did not work. The two of them left.

Back in the dining room, where only the three of them were left. Gloria called Daniel, who was sitting in the living room, “Come and have breakfast.” Sitting down at the table, Gloria saw Norah looked not too happy and knew it was because the three of them did not eat the breakfast Norah had made. So she took a bite of breakfast and started complimenting Norah. “This is the most delicious breakfast I have ever had.”

Norah felt much better when she saw how much Gloria liked it. “You can try this.” Gloria was given a piece of cake.

“Dad, try this.” Norah fetched a piece for Daniel as well.

“Mmm, yummy.”

Samuel and Spencer picked up their paces and caught up with Nicole. “Where are you going, Nicole?”

Nicole looked back and saw them both. She knew they had not eaten either. “Come on, let’s go get something to eat together.”

Samuel and Spencer nod their heads.

At a breakfast restaurant, Samuel asked Nicole,
“Where are you going later?”

“I’m going to Jared’s place.” “I wish I were you, having a place to closet yourself. Unlike us, we don’t even have a place to go.”

Samuel bit into his croissant wearily.

“If you don’t have anywhere to go, come with me later.”

“Really?” Samuel looked at Nicole with delight.

“Stop that surprised look, eat quickly.” Nicole was about to finish her meal while Samuel had still not finished his croissant.

After breakfast, they took a cab to Jared’s villa.

At the office, Jared received a message about Nicole going to his villa. He hurriedly finished his work and hurried back to his home. When he walked into the villa, he heard laughter inside. He wondered if there was someone else.

“Jared, you’re back.” Nicole saw Jared walk in and walked over to him.

“Hello, Mr. Johnston.” Spencer and Samuel stood up and greeted him politely.

“You guys take a seat. I go up to get changed,” Jared said to them both. “Nicole, can you come up with me for a minute?”

Coming into Jared's room, Jared spoke to Nicole as he got changed. "What's the deal with them, and what are they doing here?"

"Norah returned to my family, so we all came out to avoid her. And they both had nowhere to go, so I brought them here temporarily," Nicole said.

"Norah is back at your house again?"
