

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 920

□ □ □

Chapter 920

With that, Nicole was about to leave the lab when Martin called out to her. “Nicole.”

“Is there something else?” She looked back at him.

“If you have time, let’s have dinner together and discuss. “Martin made the experiment as an excuse to invite her.

Nicole thought about it. “Okay.”

Upon leaving the hospital, Nicole drove for a while when two cars tailed her from behind. She wanted to find out if the two cars were really following her, so she stepped on the gas pedal and the car sped ahead instantly.

She looked through the rearview mirror and saw the two cars were also catching up fast behind her. That confirmed her suspicion . Since she was still in the city, she could not deal with them here and decided to lure them toward the outskirts.

On an open road, the Lamborghini was speeding steadily in front and the two cars slowly approached, looking like they were trying to sandwich her on both sides. Nicole waited patiently for them to level with her.

Just as they were leveling up with her and were about to sandwich her, Nicole floored the gas pedal and the Lamborghini shot ahead like a bullet. The two cars collided with each other and were destroyed. She drove the car toward Sean's office. The car stopped and attracted a lot of attention. Nicole got out of the car and walked into the lobby with people staring at her. "Is Mr. Riddle in?" Nicole asked the receptionist. "Mr. Riddle is in the conference room. Would you want me to inform him?" The receptionist knew who Nicole was. "That is okay. I will just wait for him in his office." Nicole walked straight into Sean's office. After sitting in the office for a long time, Sean pushed open the door. "Why brought you here, Nicole? Are you here to see me?" "I'm not here to see you. I have something I need your help with." Nicole took out Martin's list and handed it to Sean. "What's this?" Sean took it with puzzlement. "Can you get these raw materials?" Sean glanced at the list and frowned. "I can get some of them, but the others are hard to get." "Then prepare those that you can get and send them here." Nicole left Sean an address.

“What are you doing? What’s with all these materials?” Sean asked curiously.

“It is not for me, but Martin.” Nicole had no qualms to let Sean know.

“Martin? Isn’t he a doctor? What’s with all this stuff?” Sean asked three questions in a row.

“You don’t have to worry about that. Just send these materials over for me. Thanks. I’m off.” Nicole turned around and was about to leave.

“I heard Grandpa asked everyone to go for a gathering in a few days. Do you know that?” Sean said.

“Yeah, I know.”

“Then both you and Jared will be there, right?”

“Sure.”

“Do you think Grandpa has something important to announce?” Sean looked at Nicole in bafflement.

“I don’t know. See you later, bye.” With that, she left.

She drove to Jared’s office. She had not heard from Kelly for days, and she wanted to go over and check on her situation.

Inside the studio, Chloe was still working, and Kelly was standing by, rushing over to hand Chloe water as soon as the director called for a cut.

“What’s taking so long to shoot this one? How much longer is it going to take?” Chloe was obviously a little impatient. She was already tired of standing.

“It’s going to be quick, just a little longer.” The director was patient and reassuring.

Chloe had no choice but to be patient. Just then, she saw someone looking like Nicole from the corner of the eye. She frowned, and the director immediately shouted, “Pay attention to your expression!”

Chloe immediately adjusted her expression, and soon the shooting was done. She walked toward Kelly for water. “It was her, obviously. How come she disappeared in the blink of an eye?”

□ □ □