

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 948

□ □ □

Chapter 948

“No way. Zane’s men wouldn’t meddle with such little things.” The Raven leader pondered, wondering where the other rival had come from, snatching away what he had been eyeing for so long.

“Do you want to send someone to hunt down and kill these two people?” The leader of Team A asked.

“Don’t act rashly. Since these two people dare to take something from The Raven, they are either fledglings or...” The leader’s expression turned grave. What he was most worried about was the latter, which would be more problematic.

“It doesn’t matter who they are. Let’s catch them and make them hand over the things and then give them a good beating as a warning.” The leader of Team A gritted his teeth as if that would make him feel better.

“Team B, find out who these two people who robbed us are.”

“Aye.”

“Team C, set off at once and take control of that company first.” The leader knew that only by controlling the company was he controlling the production plant so that the two products that had been stolen would no longer matter.

“Aye.”

He was going to turn the production plant into his base, and a large number of Brave, which would do his bidding, would roll out of the assembly line in the future. By that time, he would have the world under his control.

“What do we do?” The leader of Team A became reckless, and he saw that Team B and C had already been assigned tasks.

“You guys stand by. Get out first.” The Raven leader asked him to leave so that he could think for himself.

Inside the villa, Jared sat Nicole down on the couch.

“Tired from flying?” Jared looked at her with concern. Nicole looked at Jared, wondering what had happened to him. Since saving her, he seemed to have changed, his care for her meticulous.

“How tired could it be after sleeping on the plane for so long?”

“Want to eat something? I can satisfy you as long as it is what you want to eat.” Jared looked at her matter-of-factly. He felt she must not have rested well when she was injured, so he had to compensate her for it now.

Nicole's eyes lit up after thinking seriously for a moment. "I want to eat the steak you cooked."

Remembering the last time Jared cooked a steak for her, she started drooling.

"Okay, I will cook it for you now." Jared switched on the TV for Nicole and headed for the kitchen.

Nicole sat on the couch and looked at Jared, who was busy in the kitchen, then pulled out her phone and snapped a few pictures of him. She smiled as she looked at Jared in the photos.

Suddenly, she remembered Mrs. Wallace Sr. and dialed Tia's phone. "Hey, Tia, is Grandma okay?"

"Nicole? Mrs. Wallace Sr. is fine, but every now and then, she would ask me when you would come back.

We all miss you." Tia said mushily.

"I have just been away for a while, and you guys started to miss already?"

"Of course. Before this, you were basically here every day. Mrs. Wallace Sr. and I couldn't get used to it when we suddenly couldn't see you for days."

"Okay, you guys are just not used to it, not that you miss me."

"No, no, no, I'd love you to come back quickly." Tia pretended to cry.

“I’m just kidding. I will go back to see Grandma the day after tomorrow.” Nicole really could do nothing with the cute Tia.

Putting down the phone, Nicole turned off the TV and slipped to the kitchen to enjoy Jared’s cooking, “What are you doing here? Go back to the couch and take a rest.” Jared shot her a serious look.

“I feel bored sitting there. I might as well be here to give you company.”

Jared shook his head, then picked up a side dish that he had cooked and fed it to Nicole. “How does it taste?”

□ □ □