Chapter 1321

Before heading out, Ninian prepared some money for transport.

She got into the car of a beautiful and rich lady before she left the high-end housing area. Then, she blended into a crowd, entered a subway station, and soon, she started traveling.

'Daddy might be smart, but he'll never expect me to take the subway.'

When she reached her destination, she took her phone to call Everett. But suddenly, someone snatched her phone from behind.

"Huh?!" Ninian shrieked in shock. She turned and was greeted by Everett's voice.

"Shh." He gestured to her to be quiet as he fiddled with her phone. He disabled its location tracker and signal.

Then, he put his arms around her, shielding her from the crowd. They then headed to a more secluded part of the subway to leave the area.

Ninian rarely felt this excited in her life. She was exhilarated.

Chapter 1322

“Ninian, you said you wanted to develop your career, right? Mr. Barnes and I have shortlisted some fairly good movies and TV shows for you to choose from. Do you want to see the list now?” Amber took the initiative and asked Ninian.

Ninian put on a serious expression when she heard this. “ Yes, please.”

Amber and Zayn exchanged glances and got down to business.

“So far, we have five scripts, two TV shows, and three movies in mind. These five scripts are very good, be it concerning the production team, the script characters, or the intellectual property work. They are works that will get loads of viewership. In fact, they might even be ranked as the top most-viewed shows of the month.

“It’s a literary film directed by a famous director who’s ready to win awards with it. Another one is a cultural drama where most of the veteran actors are involved in it, which is good to increase your career status. There is also a spy war drama, which tests a lot of an actor’s basic acting skills. You need to have absolute depth and connotation in your acting.

“As for TV shows, one of them is an adaptation of a major electronic literature novel with a great female protagonist. The original novel itself has a strong fan base. As for the other one, it’s a remake of a famous martial arts drama with a strong patriotic theme.

“Think about it and let us know which one you prefer.”

After Amber briefly summed it up and let Ninian make the decision.

With Everett's approval, Ninian happily went through the script.

Amber looked at him resentfully.

"This young man is not only trying to make Ninian miserable. He's also making ME miserable! Now, I need to think of backup plans.

'I wonder if the director will approve of this shattering news.'

"Don't worry about the director," Everett said softly, "I'll give him a chance to work with me as a deal."

Amber's eyes lit up when she heard this.

'Right now, Everett is the combination of a non-conformist and a top-notch actor. Such a dual combination is destined to make him popular. He has long been conferred an idol. He has been breaking new ground in the entertainment industry again and again.

“To have a challenge means to have growth and breakthrough.”

Ninian hugged the script and said excitedly, “Ms. Ward, tell the director to give me a chance to audition. I will not pull strings to get the role. I want to fight for this role with my own hands.”

‘Even though I didn’t get any formal acting training or am as good as those who came from acting schools and have countless skills and experiences, I can still put myself in and expound the life of this character immersively.

‘Whenever I was acting as Elliot White in “In Full Bloom”, I was able to integrate myself into the era where I am willing to lay my life down for my ideals; Now, I need to immerse myself in the role of a patriotic who’s willing to die for my country and the army.

When Amber heard what Ninian said, she was surprised and became excited, “So, you’ve decided not to take this role? You’ve finally straightened out your thinking!”

“No, that’s not it!”

When George noticed his two childish siblings were about to get into a fight, he jumped in and stopped them.

“Enough. Stop quarreling.” He looked at Ninian and said, “Mom is okay, but Dad was furious. Have you braced yourself?”

“Yeah, right,” Ninian snorted. “I don’t even know what he’s angry about. He’s probably getting ready to make Brooklyn and Everett’s life difficult tomorrow. I’ll never let Everett feel any grievance! I did this to warn Daddy that if he mistreats my Everett, his precious daughter will leave him for someone else.”

George chuckled when he saw her throw a tantrum and acting willfully like a child.

“Alright, alright. Do you really think Mom and Dad don’t know what you’re trying to prove? They’re the ones who sent me here to fetch you home, and to tell Everett thanks.” He shifted his gaze to Everett, “After all, in order to play along with your games, he tried his best to cover up for you.”

Everett started to put himself in “work mode”.

On the other side, Ninian braced herself to be interrogated by her parents when she returned to the Winters family’s mansion.

To be precise, it was her father, Duke, who interrogated her by himself.

He was sitting on the couch. Over the years, even though he did not look his age, he became more grounded and kinder.

However, for obvious reasons, he looked nothing like that at the current moment.

He was holding a newspaper, and his handsome face had an indifferent expression.

“Daddy...” Ninian said wheedlingly.

Duke ignored her.

Ninian wanted to cry when she heard this “bad news”.

'Daddy is such a fox. I can't defeat him!'

'But I understand why my parents have made this decision. If I can become successful quickly and reach the peak of my career under the encouragement of my relationship with Everett, my family might feel more at ease with Everett.

'Poor Everett, he has to wait for me at the altar a little longer.'

She called Everett and told him what her parents said.

He was silent for a moment, and unsurprisingly, he agreed.

He said that they had their whole life ahead of them.

These words gave her infinite fighting spirit to immerse herself in the script and improve her acting skill with the help of her new acting coach.

The next day, the Winters siblings brought their respective partners home for the family dinner.

Duke and Adina watched as the couples walked in.

'I would be willing to help with anything.

'But I'll give my dad's cooking a pass.

'Let's forget about our love for each other for a moment.'

Under everyone's strange gazes, Everett calmly picked up the food, put it in his mouth, chewed it, and swallowed it. There was no change in his expression at all.

He then smiled at Duke and said, "Thank you, Mr. Winters. It tastes great."

The Winters family members were dumbfounded.

Even Duke, who passed the food to him, shuddered as he held his spoon.

"Take more if you like it." Alden took the serving spoon and scooped more for Everett. He then put down the spoon calmly.

Alden's wedding would be held in three years. He frowned, dissatisfied with the decision. On the other hand, Nerola let out a sigh of relief.

'Luckily, I still have some time to adapt to this phase.

Getting married after dating for such a short while isn't realistic.'

Melody was the one who disagreed with this decision the most.

"My brothers and I are quadruplets. We are born on the same day. Why do I need to wait for four years to get married?" Melody expressed her disagreement.

'Moreover, Brooklyn and I have known each other for many years. We've had a tacit understanding. I never realized my own feelings. That's why we never confessed to each other.

'Now that I've understood what love is, naturally, I want to be with Brooklyn. The sooner we get Ninian found herself speechless.

Was this what he meant by absolutely believing in her?

He even prepared the money for bribery.

The corners of Ninian's lips kept twitching, and someone called her from the back. "Ninian?"

Ninian turned back, glanced at the actress behind her, and felt slightly surprised. "Are you... Reverie Wood?"

Reverie was a small-time actress whom Ninian knew in the crew of "In Full Bloom". They had acted together in some scenes, and their ages were similar, so they were quite close.

After the filming of "In Full Bloom" ended, the two of them only shared a brief conversation with each other, and, after that, they barely spoke to each other again.
