Chapter 568

Duke squatted down and softly said, "Mel, proceed with whatever trick you have up your sleeves."

Melody blinked and said, "Find the bridal shoe. If you can find it, I'll let you marry Mommy."

"Finding the bridal shoe is the last gate!" After the exercise, Trent was drenched in sweat as he said, "Eilam, hurry up and get over here. Stop dawdling. Start looking for the bridal shoe!"

They began searching every corner of the room for the bridal shoe.

They looked in the toilet tank, the ventilation fan, outside the window, under the bed, in the wardrobe...

Eventually, Trent took out a piece of candy and coaxed the little girl. "Mel, you're a good girl. Can you tell me where you hid the bridal shoe?"

Melody shook her head firmly. "George, Hal, and Al said I can't tell you!"

"Fine!" Trent wiped the sweat off his forehead. "Duke, didn't you keep bragging about how thoughtful your sweetheart is? I think you're going to lose to her today."

Duke was quite gloomy too. He thought Alden would set the most difficult test, but he did not expect it to be Melody.

"Dad, you can't ask Mel!" Harold opened his arms wide and shielded Melody. "You have to find the bridal shoe on your own.

You have to marry Mommy on your own merit, or else, Mommy is ours!"

Alden smiled obediently and said, "Dad, take your time. It's actually very easy to find."

Duke glanced around the room.

There were relatives, as well as guests, who were standing at the door and watching the show. He, the kids, and his best men were standing in the room, while Adina and the other three bridesmaids were sitting on the bed.

If he were asked to hide the bridal shoe, where would he hide it?

He instantly looked at the wedding gown.

Melody widened her eyes at that moment. She quickly climbed onto the bed by instinct and sat on Adina's wedding gown.

Adina was speechless.

Did that not indirectly tell Duke where the bridal shoe was?

Duke smiled faintly and walked to the bed. "Mel, is the bridal shoe underneath the wedding gown?"

"No!" Melody shook her head vigorously. "Dad, you're wrong. It's not here!"

Duke grabbed the girl and held her in his arms while he touched the wedding gown. Then, he took out a red high heel.

Melody pouted. "I'll hide it in a better place next time."

"Silly girl." Duke chuckled. "There won't be a next time."

This would be the only wedding in his life.

He squatted down and carefully put the bridal shoe on Adina.

Then, he reached out to hold Adina. Amidst everyone's loud cheering, he carried Adina into the car.

Melody quickly followed them as she held the wedding bouquet. Meanwhile, George, Harold, and Alden helped to lift the gown. The family of six entered an extended black wedding car as the crowd stared at them with admiration.

They soon arrived at the biggest five-star hotel in Sea City. It was crowded by guests who were dressed nicely, and the atmosphere was lively.

Many reporters had been invited to wait at the entrance. When Duke and Adina stepped out of the wedding car, numerous flashing lights came on instantly.

They were also followed by their four beautiful children.

The three boys looked like princes who just stepped out of a fairy tale. They were all equally handsome, which made it hard for others to take their eyes off them

Meanwhile, the little girl had fair skin, voluminous hair, and red cherry lips. She resembled a princess who only existed in a comic book.

All the netizens who were watching the news burst into a ruckus.

(Oh, my! I want to prepare a sack and steal these four kids home!

(Hey, you're going too far! You should call ask me to commit the crime instead!)

(Oh, gosh! Doesn't anyone suspect how Adina and Duke have four kids? Besides, they seem to be the same age. They should be quadruplets!)

Il can only sigh for the strong genes. Kids of a beautiful couple look more beautiful and exquisite than the kids of a normal couple. Sob! I feel like having a kid too. What should I do?]

(Wake up! The kids you have will be spoiled brats whom you'll want to kill every day!

(The wedding is starting!)

The Wedding March began to play in the auditorium, and Adina down the aisle with Ethan by her side.

She had cut off ties with the Daugherty family, and Mdm. Daugherty had only sent Adina a gift and her wishes without being present. In other words, no one from the Daugherty family attended the wedding.

So, Ethan took the place of her father.

He slowly led Adina to Duke before he placed Adina's hand on Duke's palm.

“Duke, I hope you can love and protect Addy forever. If she does anything wrong, please let me know. I’ll do my best to help my cousin.”

“Don’t worry, Ethan. Whether Addy is good or bad, she’ll always be the one I love deeply.”

Duke held Adina’s hand tightly as he led her into the hall.

Adina allowed Duke to hold her hand. She had given herself to him, and they would be one every day for years to come.

It was a very strange feeling, but it was also a feeling that made her happy and delighted.

The two of them stood opposite each other in the hall, and the wedding officiant’s voice reverberated in the spacious hall.

“Mr. Duke Winters, will you take this woman to be your lawfully wedded wife? Will you love her, respect her, be faithful to her, and stay with her from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, till death do you part?”

Duke stared at Adina lovingly.

He moved his elegant thin lips and affectionately answered, “I will.”

“Ms. Adina Daugherty, will you take this man to be your lawfully wedded husband? Will you love him, respect him, be faithful to him, and stay with him from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, till death do you part?”

Adina smiled gently.

Her eyes instantly sparkled like fireworks.

“I will.”

“Now, please exchange your rings.”

Right after the officiant spoke, George and Alden each walked up the stage with a brocade.

Duke took a radiant aquamarine diamond ring from George before he gently put it on Adina’s ring finger.

Adina then took a simple diamond ring from Alden. She had commissioned the design from a well-known foreign designer in a hurry.

Despite the little time given, she was happy with the ring.

It was a simple ring with a tiny aquamarine diamond in the middle, which was only visible upon closer look.

The two rings looked very different, but the aquamarine diamonds came from the same source. They could be considered wedding rings in a sense.

“Please give a round of applause to this intimate couple. Next, the bride and groom will share the cake and champagne with all the guests present. Let’s give the couple our best wishes together!”

Duke held Adina’s hand while they cut the cake, and the ceremony officially ended.

All the guests stayed in the banquet hall for wine and cake, but the wedding banquet officially started only after half an hour.

Subsequently, Adina and Duke went to the resting lounge at the back to get changed.

Adina

had been up since 4.00 am. She was so exhausted that her whole body was aching. Duke kissed her on the forehead with affection. “I’ll bring you home so that you can have a good rest after the toast.”

“It doesn’t matter how tiring it is. It’s just one day.” Adina leaned in his arms and softly said, “You’ve just been discharged from the hospital. You should drink less when you make your toast later.”

“I’ll do as you say, Dear.” Duke kissed her cheek again before he turned around and went to the resting lounge next door to get changed.

Adina’s gown was complex, and two stylists had to help her before she could successfully wear it. They then immediately put on new makeup on her face.

This gown was red. It looked festive with its beautiful lace and gold embroidery.

Adina looked in the mirror and fixed her makeup before she walked out of her dressing room and knocked on the next room's door.

The makeup artist there respectfully said, "Mr. Winters finished changing half an hour ago. He should be greeting the guests in the lobby now."

Adina nodded and thanked her before she lifted the hem of her gown and walked toward the lobby.

She stood at the entrance as she glanced at the whole banquet hall, but she did not see the stunning man.

That man was like a light that shone brightly wherever he went, so much so that it was impossible to look at him directly.

Theoretically, she should be able to spot him immediately.

"Mommy, you're so beautiful!"

"Wow, Mommy! What's on your head? Why is it so beautiful?"

The children showed up from nowhere and surrounded her.

Adina smiled and said, "It's a golden hair clip. It's an antique piece of jewelry, and it matches my gown. Mel, if you like it, I'll give it to you once the wedding's over."

Melody smiled happily. "Thank you, Mommy." "Oh yeah, where's your dad?" Adina smiled and asked. The guests were already seated. According to the schedule, the bride and the groom should be entering the hall and making the toast.

George blinked and said, "I saw Dad walking outside the hotel just now. I don't know what he's up to."

Alden nodded. "Dad seemed worried."

Adina frowned.

For some reason, her heart felt a little uneasy, and her right eyelid suddenly throbbed.

“Addy, you finally got changed.” Mrs. Winters smiled and walked over out of the blue. “Duke had to leave because of something urgent. I’ll accompany you as you toast to the guests.”

Adina pursed her lips. “What is he busy with?”

What else would be more important than his wedding on his wedding day?

“The Winters Cemetery is on fire.” Mrs. Winters lowered her voice and said, “It’s not a big deal, but only the bloodline of the Winters family’s first son is allowed to enter the cemetery, so Duke has to go there personally. We can’t let the kids go, can we?”

That indeed made some sense.

Yet, the unknown ominous feeling in Adina’s heart grew stronger.

She took out her phone and said, “Mom, I’ll give Duke a call first.”

There was a glint in Mrs. Winters’ eyes, but she smiled and said, “Okay, be quick. The guests are waiting for us.”

Adina walked to the side and dialed Duke’s number.

After two rings, someone picked up the phone, and she heard the man’s familiar voice from the other end of the line.
