

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children

Chapter 733

Chapter 733 Elder Dorien trembled slightly. "W-What are you talking about? I don't understand what you're saying." "How about I assign several people to conduct a search at your house?"

Terry sounded icy.

"Auguste was cheated over a few decades because he couldn't understand the accounts, but this doesn't mean I'm as ignorant as him! I can turn a blind eye to the money you've misappropriated when Auguste was in power. But you've embezzled a billion dollars within a month since I took over Auguste's position. This will make up a total of ten billion dollars in a year! It's no wonder the Black Party is getting worse every day. it's all because of people like you committing such a deed in the middle of it!" Elder Dorien was caught off guard. Terry's words stabbed him like an ice dagger. Elder Dorien could not find an excuse to defend himself, and he was so scared that he trembled uncontrollably. Meanwhile, Elder Murphy who had been standing by the side went up to them. "Is there any misunderstanding?" he asked calmly. Elder Elliot followed suit. "Elder Dorien is very poor. He can't even afford a mansion, let alone misappropriate such a massive sum of money." Terry looked at them. "It seems like you can't wait for me to settle an account with each and every one of you, huh?" Terry flung several stacks of documents placed on the pillow next to him at their faces. "Elder Murphy is rather successful in diplomacy. Every foreign politician who visited Hestia Border claimed to have been threatened with death in our territory.

Some of them were forced to pay a ransom amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars. Elder Murphy, I suppose you've given your consent in silencing this matter?" "Elder Elliot, you're in charge of reconstructing buildings that were destroyed in Hestia Border. The civilian building on the southeast has been under construction for three years and is still unsafe for residents to stay in. As a result, many people live on the streets. How are you going to explain that?". Elder Murphy and Elder Elliot sweated under Terry's interrogation. "Elder Murphy and Elder Elliot, I'll have someone to investigate regarding your cases. As for you, Elder Dorien ..." Terry smiled coldly. "You're not allowed to interfere in the Black Party's financial matters lest the party ends up in bankruptcy." Elder Dorien looked shocked. "I've been in the financial position for over two decades! What am I supposed to do if I'm not given this job?". "You'll be reinstated to your position on the day you return all the money you've misappropriated." Elder Dorien was struck dumb upon hearing his words. He had spent all the money on buying heavy weapons. The underground basement in his house was a warehouse filled with heavy weaponry. He couldn't afford to pay back even a penny. Elder Dorien was about to say something when Elder Felix tugged on his sleeve. The master bedroom fell silent. Terry looked at them one by one. "Elder Brody, you'll be in charge of the financial matters from now on. Elder Calvin, you'll oversee the town construction project." Elder Calvin and Elder Brody were the youngest elders of all. They did not have any power. Thus, they were over the moon when Terry assigned such important jobs to them. "Noted. We won't let you down," they intoned respectfully. The meeting lasted for two hours. The elders sweated helplessly after they left the master bedroom. Elder Brody and Elder Calvin looked happy. When Elder Dorien saw them, he snorted. "Don't forget that Elder Maurice is the one who promoted you two. You are betraying him if you work for Terry." Elder Calvin said indifferently, "Terry is the leader of the Black Party. It's our duty to serve him." "Elder Dorien, it's best that you raise one billion dollars as soon as possible, then hand the money to Mr. Terry," said Elder Brody. "If he gets angry, you'll face severe consequences." After saying that, they left in a hurry. Elder Dorien was so angry that he nearly suffered a stroke. "Dorien, don't worry." Elder Murphy went up to him. "The couple I found will come in handy very soon... If Terry dies, everything will be fine again"
