As I slept after the dream of the mysterious woman, I began to hear an emotionless and almost robotic voice.

"(Hmmm...hmm?)" (me)

"(Finally evolution, maybe it's because of my [Meditation: 4] ability that I manage to keep my consciousness clearer and more rational than the previous time.)" (me)

"(It seems that I have more options to evolve, it seems that there is a race for Rabbit and one for Goblin for me to evolve, this must be because I reached 100% in both strains.)" (me)

"(Does this mean that by reaching a pure bloodline of some race I can unlock your evolution tree?)" (me)

"(Well that's just better for me, I don't even have to think about it, I'll finally have arms and legs again hahahahaha)" (me)

"(I choose Blood Goblin.)" (me)

zz...

The next day I woke up feeling different, for the first time in this world I was able to smell things and found that this warehouse stinks of mildew, it's making me nauseous.

That wasn't all, when I tried to plug my nose that was when I finally woke up and realized I had hands and a nose, then I looked down and saw that I had legs too.

"Hahahahaha!" (me)

I started to laugh out loud with so much joy that I felt, soon a subject of extreme importance came to my head, a subject that worries all men in the world, I got worried and slowly looked down to check the size of my younger brother, but it seemed that my worry was unnecessary, it wasn't as big as I would have liked but it was a normal size.

Ufa!

Soon I started to inspect my entire body and also went to the pool of water to see my reflection.

I must say that my new look surprised me, I had black skin with the same tribal tattoos I had when I was an Evil Leech, these tattoos take over my back and run over my arms, legs, and chest. My hair is blood red and short, my ears are goblin-grilled, my nose would be considered big for a human but it was much smaller than the goblins' nose I've seen so far, my eyes keep the same colors in the iris of one being dark purple and the other being golden, my skin was similar to my subordinate's without any wrinkles which made my appearance not as ugly and repulsive as other Goblins.

After checking my appearance I started checking out my new body, doing ten push-ups, ten squats, and ten sit-ups. I did these simple exercises to feel and get used to my new body, my body was thin with no muscle.

As I did this I noticed that my subordinate woke up and was looking at me differently, she was looking at me with a hunger that wasn't for food, her lust and desire were obvious for anyone to see, but I didn't intend to do anything with her yet.

I can understand her desire, it's not because I'm pretty or anything like that, as soon as I saw her I started feeling the urge to push her into my bed as well, it's probably because of the ability [Improved Sexual Stamina: 1] I learned from eating Goblins, this must be a skill that all goblins are born with, the reason my subordinate hasn't demonstrated this behavior so far is that as Leech I had no gender, but now that I have a male body this can cause some problem and distraction for her, especially now since I'm not wearing any clothes.

When she noticed I was looking in her direction she ran to the pile of meat to eat, and I took this opportunity to see my status.

I got a headache with so much information popping into my head at the same time, it took me a few seconds to sort everything out in my mind before I could make sense of it all.

"(My stats have gone up more than I thought, now my status shows my gender and the name the mystery woman gave me is also there.)" (me)

"(Zenos this is my name in this world

Now before checking my skills I should look for a pair of pants, looking better my height seems to be around 1.20 meters, if you take my height into account my little brother might be a little bit, the size of a normal adult human, that thought made me happier than I imagined.

Now that I had arms I started looking at the boxes and trunks inside this old warehouse, and inside a trunk I found simple children's clothes that I had sinned to wear, it was a white sleeveless shirt and red long pants, no it was news that even though it was children's clothes it was still loose on me.

I took the sword I got yesterday and cut the shirt a little so it wouldn't get too big and shortened the pant legs to brag at me, I made some holes in the waistband of my pants to pass a rope to use as a belt.

After dressing in my new outfit I continued looking for another one for my subordinate and found another one for her like e mine, in the end there were many similar clothes but most were for adults and it would be more difficult to adapt for both of us so I looked for children's clothes.

I adapted her clothes as I did mine and separated them in a corner until she finished eating, I continued looking in the boxes and found another piece of children's clothing, I also separated some adult clothes for the future, the other clothes were very torn and even moldy over time.

I found a box with kitchen utensils, most of them were made of wood and were in terrible condition, but I found a small chest inside the box that had silver spoons, forks, and knives that must belong to someone important, I separated them along with the cloth, es.

Unfortunately I didn't find any weapons or armor in good condition, the weapons I found were rusty beyond what could still be considered usable, it was so bad that when I dropped a sword it broke, the armors were potholed probably the insects ate them along with most clothes.

I cut the leather armor a little, just the parts that, were still intact and set it aside for later use.

After,r all that is done I look at my subordinate who is drinking water and go over to talk to her.

"Clean up...wear this." (me)

"..." (Subordinate Goblin)

Ding!

<[Her skill leveled up [Goblin Language: 5> 6]]>

I told her to clean up and then put on the clothes I adapted for her, she was a little confused but I explained to her how to use the clothes, after seeing that she understood I go back to bed to check my skills.
