

Chapter 1404

The next day, Andrius represented Scott and Liliana and went to the cemetery to pay respects to the Joneses.

Kate also stood to the side.

“Please rest in peace.” Andrius stood in the cold wind alone, saying solemnly, “I will destroy the Conway family the same way they destroyed the Joneses in the past! I’ll also teach Scott and Liliana carefully, so rest in peace...”

With that, Andrius bowed respectfully.

At that moment, a voice full of hatred sounded from behind. “Rest in peace? They will never rest in peace. Not in this lifetime.

“Not only that. I’ll dig them up, expose their bodies to the wilderness, leave them under the sun for three days and three nights, then bring them back to the Conways’ main hall to whip their corpses!”

Andrius frowned and turned around.

The speaker was Louis. He was not alone. Behind him followed a group of bodyguards dressed in black suits, carrying a coffin as they approached imposingly.

Louis had already investigated the deaths of his two sons last night and learned about the personal information Andrius left behind when bidding for Horizon Moon.

“Andrius Moonshade, if you kneel and crawl all the way to my sons’ graves to repent, I’ll leave you with a complete corpse without harming your family. Otherwise, not only will you die, but your friends and family will also disappear from this world because of your actions!”

Andrius laughed. He glanced at the numerous bodyguards with disdain and said indifferently, “You and what army? I can wipe them out as easily as crushing a group of ants. I advise you to kneel and repent instead. Otherwise, you’ll regret it!”

As soon as Andrius spoke...

“With me!” a majestic voice echoed through the area.

Then, a figure suddenly appeared and landed beside Louis. It was none other than the one-eyed old man, Tegan.

Whirr...

After landing, he twirled his spear, took a step forward, and stood proudly like a master.

Andrius glanced at him, his disdain becoming even more apparent.

However, before he could speak...

"Y-you..." Kate, who was on the side, observed carefully and said with uncertainty, "That's the Medicine Sect's Rainblossom Spear, and you're blind in one eye... You're the Medicine Sect's traitor that stole the sect's secret manuals, Tegan Hess!"

This time, it was Tegan's turn to be surprised.

Mount Cura was more than a thousand kilometers away from Argos!

He traveled far and hid for many years, but his identity was exposed by a little girl...

One could only imagine his shock and suspicion.

"Who are you, girl? How do you know me?"
Tegan's expression was shocked and gloomy.

"Who am I?" Kate sneered and said unceremoniously, "I'm from the Medicine Sect. Of course, I'll recognize an ungrateful traitor like you!"

The Medicine Sect!

Tegan was shocked and angry when he heard those words. He was shocked that he still encountered someone from the Medicine Sect even after traveling so far. He was angry that he had been blinded in one eye, but this little girl dared to reveal his identity before he could avenge himself.

"I see, I see!" Tegan smiled sinisterly. "Since you know my identity, you'll have to die too!"

As soon as he finished speaking, a powerful inner energy surged up.

"You want to kill me?" Kate could not help but sneer. "Instead of hiding, a traitor like you is trying to kill me. Aren't you afraid that the experts from the Medicine Sect will come and blast you to pieces?"

"Hahaha..." Tegan laughed. "As long as I kill you, who will know?"

He was a Martial Emperor!

In his eyes, Martial Emperors were rare in the ancient martial world.

Chapter 1404

SURPRISE GIFT: 100 BONUS FREE FOR YOU

GET IT

COMMENTS

SUPPORT