

Chapter 1424

"Then..." Andrius thought about it and asked again, "What if we cleanse the Insect Ruler's forces within this month? As long as we wipe out his insect soldier army and prevent him from resurrecting the Demon Emperor, won't everything be resolved?"

Andrius' idea was good, but it relied on a perfect resolution.

However, Old Hagstorm's response left him speechless.

"What if we fail? The Insect Ruler has several Martial Saint insect soldiers under his command. How can you ensure that you can eliminate them all?"

"At that point, the Insect Ruler might be driven to madness and resort to mutual destruction. The whole of Florence would plunge into chaos. How will you deal with it then?"

Indeed, there was no way to deal with it.

The Martial Saint...

Chapter 1424

If experts of that realm were determined to stir up trouble, anyone would feel a chill down their spine. None of their ideas would work.

Andrius asked, "What should we do then, Master? We can't just stand idly by! Won't we be at an absolute disadvantage if we wait until the Insect Ruler resurrects the Demon Emperor?"

Old Hagstorm said, "Your current priority is to go to the Kleins' treasure hall and learn the technique on the mural. Leave the rest for me to handle. As long as you can successfully cultivate the technique before the final battle, you'll have the strength to match the Demon Emperor for a short period. Furthermore, you can deal with the noble families before the final battle."

Andrius instantly understood.

Yes, as long as he got stronger, everything could be resolved smoothly!

"I understand, Master."

Old Hagstorm nodded, then said to Registus, "As for you, what you need to do is to rally the martial families within Florence to join forces with you to deal with Murrfield and besiege the Insect Ruler.

Chapter 1424

"Whether they're sincere about joining you or just pretending to, you must present a convincing front and demonstrate great sincerity and determination to provide cover for Andrius to cultivate!"

It was feigning one thing while doing another!

On the surface, an imminent war was brewing, but in reality, both the Insect Ruler and Andrius needed time.

"Okay, I'll go arrange it now, Master!"

With that, Registus went to handle the matter.

Andrius then called Luna. "Luna, the Insect Ruler has made all his preparations. A major battle in Florence is likely to erupt soon. I need to learn the technique from the Kleins' treasure hall as soon as possible. Quickly come with Halle."

On the other end of the phone, Luna asked, "When do we leave?"

Andrius thought about it and said, "I have to finish laying out strategic plans here before I can leave for Mount Albus."

"Okay, I got it."

He hung up the phone.

Andrius felt that it might take a long time to learn the technique on the mural. He needed to make arrangements for the Lycan Manor and the Hawkeye Group for that period.

Thus, he contacted Noir, informed him of the current plans, and made arrangements.

Not long after, an imperial guard came over. "Wolf King, His Majesty sent me to tell you that the leaders of various sects have arrived. Please come for a meeting."

"Got it. Lead the way." Andrius nodded and followed the guard to the meeting.
