

Work Hard 671

Chapter 671: It's Not As Serious As You Think

In addition, she carefully studied the surrounding surveillance cameras, took note of where each one was located and understood the best blind spots. Apart from this, she also hid in the research lab and studied drug interactions for a few days. She needed to find the most flawless method of attack.

...

During the past few days, Tangning's mood was restless. She constantly felt like someone was spying on her in the shadows, monitoring her every move.

Auntie Bai explained that it was because she was getting closer to childbirth, so it was natural to become highly sensitive to her surrounding environment. Tangning thought about Auntie Bai's explanation for a moment and felt it was quite reasonable

"Ever since Huo Jingjing's incident, your heart hasn't been stable for even a day. If there's something wrong, make sure to communicate it to Mr. Mo, don't keep it to yourself."

After listening to Auntie Bai, Tangning nodded her head and smiled, "I can talk to him about it, but...when a woman is pregnant, there are some feelings that a man would never understand."

"That's true," Auntie Bai nodded her head, "When I was pregnant with Xiao Xing, I often felt that I was unexplainably irritable. Xiao Xing's father couldn't understand how he had provoked me, so all he could do was stretch his arm in front of me and allow me to release my anger by biting him."

With the mention of Chen Xingyan's father, Tangning remembered that he had been missing since Chen Xingyan was very young. However, Bai Lihua had never mentioned him until now.

"Xingyan's father..."

"He went missing when he was an extra. At that time, Xiao Xing was only 6-years-old. Since then, he has never returned again. Let's not talk about him."

Tangning didn't like to probe into someone's matters persistently. Plus, she understood that this matter was Bai Lihua's weakness, so she decided to move away from the topic.

"Are you going to the hospital for a checkup tomorrow? What do you want to eat? I'll cook it for you."

"Everything you cook tastes good," Tangning reassured quickly.

However, Tangning had no idea that the checkup this time would result in a crisis because the person that had been stalking her was already prepared to strike.

...

Afternoon the next day. Mo Ting accompanied Tangning to her checkup and brought the bodyguards along as usual. After Bai Li Hua escorted them to the front door, she returned to the villa.

A moment later, the strong smell of smoke suddenly drifted from the garden, triggering the fire alarm and alerting the security. The security immediately searched for the cause and quickly knocked on the door of Tangning and Mo Ting's villa.

It took Auntie Bai a while to open the door. As soon as she saw the security, she looked at them confusedly, "What's wrong?"

"Madam, your garden is on fire. For your safety, could you please vacate the premises immediately?"

Bai Lihua paused for a moment. She was especially scared of fire, "In that case...wait for me as I lock the doors."

"Madam, please leave first. We have to assess the security risks of the villa," one of the members of security said as he pushed Bai Lihua to a colleague behind him.

Bai Lihua did not know how to react as the security dragged her away to a safe location. However, while the security were assessing the villa, a dark figure snuck in through the front door and hid in the grocery closet without making a sound.

Roughly half an hour later, the person hiding in the grocery closet heard the security talking to Bai Lihua, "Madam, sorry for the inconvenience. The fire is under control. Luckily, it did not spread, so you can return home now."

"Have you discovered the cause?" Bai Lihua asked. "Why was there a fire in our garden?"

"Don't worry, we will search for the cause in detail. As soon as we have an answer, we will let you know."

Bai Lihua nodded and did not ask any further. After returning to the villa, she calmed down a little and went back to preparing a rich and nutritious meal for Tangning as usual.

4pm. Mo Ting escorted Tangning home before he returned to Hai Rui. However, as soon as Tangning stepped in through the front door, an unpleasant smell caught her attention.

"Auntie Bai, is something in the house burning?"

"No, there was a fire outside this afternoon..." Auntie Bai walked out of the kitchen and explained while wiping her hands. "Are you hungry? Hurry and sit down. Dinner is almost ready."

"Take your time, I can still endure it," Tangning leaned back on the sofa. Now that she was almost 8 months pregnant, daily movements had already become unbearably difficult.

Bai Lihua sensed her exhaustion and smiled, "The first pregnancy is always like this. The second one will be a lot easier."

"I haven't thought that far ahead," Tangning held the back of her head with one hand while she stroked her stomach with the other. During her checkup today, the results showed that Hua Wenfeng's claim about an unhealthy and deformed child was completely incorrect. As for the gender of their child, Mo Ting hoped for a girl...and she hoped for a boy.

“You can think about it later,” Bai Lihua said as she placed a delicious bowl of chicken soup in front of Tangning, “I’ve already separated the oil, this soup won’t make you fat...”

Tangning looked at Bai Lihua. She was slightly moved because she knew Bai Lihua was actually Mo Ting’s birth mother. Just based on this small gesture, Hua Wenfeng could not compare.

At least Bai Lihua always tried to do the best for her.

Tangning enjoyed the care shown by Bai Lihua. After receiving the chicken soup from her, she took one sip after another. However, she felt that the taste of the chicken soup was very different from usual.

“What’s wrong?” Bai Lihua immediately asked after seeing Tangning stop.

“The soup tastes odd.”

Bai Lihua took the bowl from Tangning’s hands and took a sniff; her expression changed, “Oh no, there’s a smell of chemicals. Do you feel unwell?”

Tangning shook her head, “No.”

“I’m a bit worried. I think you should go to the hospital to get it checked.” Bai Lihua was, after all, a researcher of biotechnology, so she was cautious towards chemicals. She immediately helped Tangning up and gave a sample of the chicken soup to the bodyguard so he could take it to the hospital to be examined.

Tangning wasn’t as anxious as Bai Lihua in the beginning. Even after she was examined at the hospital, she still did not show any symptoms. However, after she received the test results for the chicken soup...

“Why is there so much Quinidine in the chicken soup?”

Hearing the name of this drug, Bai Lihua’s face turned pale.

Others may not know, but she was well aware of what it was. Quinidine was not something that often appeared in the daily lives of an average person. It was a drug used in the treatment of abnormal heart rhythms. But, if consumed by a pregnant woman, it may cause an abortion or affect the heart of the fetus! However, the thing that surprised her the most was, how did a drug like this appear in her chicken soup.

Worst of all, Tangning had taken two sips!

Thinking of this, Bai Lihua trembled in fear. What was she to do? What was Tangning to do?

What was going to happen to her grandchild?

After receiving the test result, Bai Lihua’s knees were weak as she pulled out her phone and called Mo Ting, “Mr. Mo, I’m sorry. Please come to the hospital right now.”

As soon as he heard ‘hospital’, Mo Ting subconsciously thought of Tangning. So, he put down the work in his hands and rushed over.

As he arrived, Tangning was being examined in a hospital room. Bai Lihua saw Mo Ting and hurried over with a choked up voice, "Tangning accidentally consumed a restricted drug...I'm afraid something might happen to her."

Just as Mo Ting was about to question Bai Lihua about the situation, the doctor stepped out of the room and said to the two, "It's not as serious as you think!"

Chapter 672: He Doted On His Own Woman

"Family members shouldn't worry. She only consumed a very small amount of Quinidine; it has little effect on the patient and her child. She is very fortunate," the doctor said as he removed his gloves. He then looked at the two with a curious expression, "Logically speaking, a drug like Quinidine cannot be bought outside of the hospital. It isn't something that is used by ordinary patients. How did it appear in the chicken soup?"

Mo Ting looked at Bai Lihua and Bai Lihua shook her head confusedly, "I honestly don't know."

Bai Lihua had no idea when her chicken soup had been spiked.

"Mr. Mo, please trust me. I would never hurt Tangning and her child."

Mo Ting's handsome face tensed up a little; his expression was icy cold. But, he still maintained a basic trust towards Bai Lihua, so he simply nodded his head.

"The patient is now stable, so family members can go in and see her."

After listening to the doctor, Mo Ting was about to enter the room. However, just as he took a step forward, the nurse inside suddenly rushed out and stopped the doctor from leaving, "Doctor, there's something not quite right about the patient..."

Hearing this, Mo Ting immediately tried to rush in. However, the nurse stood in his way, "Sir, you can't enter right now. Otherwise, you may delay the treatment of the patient."

"Get out of my way!" Mo Ting immediately pushed the woman aside and rushed into the hospital room. As soon as he saw Tangning's pale face, he quickly held onto her hand, "Don't be afraid, I am right here by your side. If anything happens to you and our child, I will kill everyone involved before I come and join you."

They obviously weren't on a film set and these words were obviously only suited to novels and ancient times. But, upon hearing Mo Ting's words, the medical staff did not think that he was telling a lie.

"Nothing will happen to me..." Tangning said as she clasped tightly to Mo Ting's hand. Possibly because of the pain, Tangning's palms were covered in a cold sweat, "Nothing will happen to me. Ting, don't worry."

"Doctor, the patient is having contractions, we need to operate immediately," the nurse notified the doctor as she monitored Tangning's condition.

"It seems, I have underestimated the impact of Quinidine on the patient. Quick!"

Bai Lihua froze in fear as she waited anxiously outside the room, unsure what she could do. Meanwhile, Mo Ting was pushed out of the room as he watched Tangning being taken into the delivery room.

“Mo Ting...”

“You may not be the one who drugged the soup, but what happened to your responsibility to take care of her?”

Bai Lihua was stunned as she lowered her head in self-blame, “It was all my fault.”

“Think carefully, where did things go wrong?” Mo Ting did not continue to release his anger on someone that was on the same side. When it came to taking care of Tangning, his responsibility was obviously bigger.

A moment later, the doctor came out of the delivery room followed by Tangning’s bed.

“False alarm; it was just a false contraction,” the doctor let out a sigh of relief after providing his explanation. “I suggest that the patient remain in the hospital for a couple of days so I can continue to observe her condition. If the same situation happens or if the patient requires premature labor, we can treat her promptly.”

After listening to the doctor’s words, Mo Ting looked at Tangning. His heart ached so much that it felt numb.

If the pregnancy could still be terminated, he would rather not have this child so Tangning wouldn’t have to suffer.

After Bai Lihua heard that it was a false contraction, she collapsed in tears.

“Family members do not need to worry. The patient is stable now and a situation like this should not happen again...”

Actually, the reason why the doctor said this, was simply to appease Mo Ting because he could feel his cold and dangerous temper.

Afterwards, Tangning was delivered to her hospital room. Mo Ting stripped off his jacket and threw it to one side as he sat down on the edge of Tangning’s bed and held her hand.

“That woman looks like Tangning...”

“Shhh...do you have a death wish? Haven’t you noticed the scary look in President Mo’s eyes?” two young nurses whispered outside the hospital room door.

Mo Ting recovered from his worries and pulled out his phone to call Lu Che, “Investigate every single person that entered Hyatt Regency between yesterday and today. Do not let a single person escape. I want you to find every single person, even if it’s a ghost.”

Lu Che did not know what had happened, “President, I don’t quite understand.”

Mo Ting took a minute to regain his composure. Meanwhile, Lu Che did not dare to hang up.

“Come to the hospital first.”

As soon as he heard the word 'hospital', Lu Che roughly figured out the reason why Mo Ting had abandoned his meeting at work. Only Tangning had the ability to make him forget about everything around him.

It didn't take long before Lu Che arrived at the hospital and located Tangning's hospital room. After Auntie Bai recalled the incident that had happened, Lu Che was shocked. He couldn't believe that someone was so brave as to walk straight into the villa and commit a crime.

"Help me fetch two sets of clothing and bring a particular person here."

"Who is this person?"

This person was none other than Hua Wenfeng.

Apart from Hua Wenfeng, Mo Ting couldn't think of another person who could sneak into their home without anyone knowing and was familiar with a drug like Quinidine. Who else could it be?

He usually turned a blind eye because Tangning insisted on dealing with matters on her own. He doted on his own woman, but he wasn't going to remain quiet and allow others to act immorally.

Hua Wenfeng had made preparations for so long, but she meant absolutely nothing in Mo Ting's eyes.

...

As night hit, Lu Che arrived at Hyatt Regency and waited patiently outside Hua Wenfeng and Father Mo's home.

As soon as Hua Wenfeng saw Lu Che, she pretended to be calm, "Assistant Lu Che, you must be at the wrong place. Mo Ting's home is elsewhere!"

"Whether I have gone to the wrong place, we will know after you follow me," Lu Che said impolitely, "The President is waiting for you."

"When has Mo Ting been this rude when meeting with his mother?" Father Mo asked furiously, "Did that woman teach him to be like this?"

Lu Che was aware that these two people were utterly shameless, so he immediately gestured for his bodyguards to make a move.

Hua Wenfeng's expression changed as she looked at Father Mo for help. But, Lu Che stopped Father Mo and said, "In order not to hurt the innocent, it's best if Professor Mo waits here."

"Wenfeng...Wenfeng..."

"Lu Che, bring her back!"

Lu Che turned his head and boarded his car before he drove off with Hua Wenfeng. Father Mo was worried that his wife would suffer, so he immediately boarded his own car and followed behind.

The corridors of the hospital were long and cold and stunk with the strong smell of disinfectant. However, the peaceful corridor was quickly filled with the sounds of Hua Wenfeng's struggles.

In order not to disturb Tangning, Mo Ting walked out of the hospital room when Hua Wenfeng was still a fair distance away. He sat down on a chair and looked at Hua Wenfeng with deep meaning...

Seeing this, Hua Wenfeng couldn't help but feel scared...

"How did you drug the soup?"

Chapter 673: It's Not My First Time Disregarding All Relationships!

"What drug?" Hua Wenfeng pretended to be oblivious.

"Quinidine," Mo Ting said in a deep, dangerous, and of course, threatening tone.

Although Hua Wenfeng was frightened by Mo Ting, she forcefully maintained her composure and continued to be in denial, "I don't know what you're talking about. Mo Ting, is this how you treat your mother?"

"Mother or not, let's put that aside for now. I simply want to know if you are aware of a drug called Quinidine?"

Hua Wenfeng was forced to look directly into Mo Ting's eyes. She was paralyzed by his intimidating gaze. In fact, there was a voice in her head that was telling her, if she continued to remain stubborn, she would definitely be sliced to shreds. But, she couldn't possibly confess to her crime.

"I am involved with biotechnology, of course I know what Quinidine is. Mo Ting, what is the meaning of your question?"

"Did you start the fire in the afternoon?"

"What fire? What are you talking about? Mo Ting, you need to tell me why you are treating me like this?" Hua Wenfeng speculated that Mo Ting had no evidence, so she calmed down a little and questioned him confidently.

"Why are you wearing flat shoes?"

Mo Ting looked down at Hua Wenfeng's feet with ridicule as he changed the subject.

"Because it's comfortable," Hua Wenfeng replied.

"It's covered in mud because you entered a garden, didn't you? If I look for mud in my house, I should be able to find your footprints, right?" Mo Ting guessed. "I assume you're not planning to confess even if you die."

"I never went to anyone's back garden."

"I never said it was a back garden," Mo Ting latched onto the main flaw in Hua Wenfeng's words.

"I can never clarify myself in front of you. Since I am already in your hands, do whatever you want," Hua Wenfeng knew that everything she said was wrong and was aware that Mo Ting was a cautious person. So, she decided to keep her mouth closed. She refused to believe that her footprint could be found in Mo Ting's home.

Soon, Father Mo arrived at the hospital. Seeing that Hua Wenfeng was being restrained in front of Mo Ting, he immediately rushed over and gestured for the bodyguards to let her go, “Mo Ting, are you crazy?”

Mo Ting couldn't be bothered talking to Father Mo, so he raised his chin at Lu Che, gesturing for him to drag Father Mo away.

“Mo Ting, are you a monster? What are you trying to do to your parents?”

“I should be the one asking you that!” Mo Ting refuted. “You may leave, but this woman needs to pay back tenfold for everything she has done to Tangning.”

“Are you crazy? That b*tch is being punished for what she's done. What has that got to do with your mother?”

Hearing his father call Tangning a b*tch, Mo Ting's voice turned colder, “Twenty-fold!”

“What poison has that woman fed you?”

“Thirty-fold...”

“Is that b*tch...”

“Forty-fold.”

Father Mo finally realized that he couldn't insult Tangning, so he finally changed from calling her a 'b*tch' to calling her 'that woman', “It seems like you've been truly bewitched by that woman. Let your mother go!”

“Lu Che.” This time, Mo Ting did not want to waste his breath as he gestured for Lu Che to send the man away.

Seeing this, Hua Wenfeng fell into a panic as her hands began to tremble.

“What do you plan to do to your mother because of that woman? You're an animal! I'm going to call the police!” Father Mo pulled out his phone, but Mo Ting made a phone call first.

“Chief Ren? I am Mo Ting. My wife was drugged and almost lost her life. Please organize an investigation.” After hanging up the phone, Mo Ting looked up at Hua Wenfeng and said simply, “How long do you think it would take for the police to solve the case?”

Hua Wenfeng was completely stunned and could not move.

At this time, Mo Ting gestured for the bodyguards to let go of Hua Wenfeng. But, even though Hua Wenfeng was given her freedom...

...she did not move.

She never imagined that Mo Ting would call the police.

She thought, based on their relationship, he would never go public with this incident. But, he ended up being so heartless.

“Wenfeng, let’s go...Why aren’t you moving?” Father Mo anxiously walked over and grabbed Hua Wenfeng’s hand. But, Hua Wenfeng brushed away his hand and rushed over to Mo Ting.

“Mo Ting, son, I didn’t do this on purpose. Please, spare me this time.”

“I really didn’t do it on purpose. I was momentarily possessed.”

Mo Ting did not react. He simply tilted his head, “I gave you a chance.”

“What kind of chance is this?”

“You were the one that didn’t want it.”

Hua Wenfeng was in a panic. Without caring about her identity, she immediately dropped to her knees in front of Mo Ting, “Please don’t report me to the police. I don’t want to go to prison.”

“Wenfeng?” Father Mo was surprised by the scene before him. “Are you admitting that the person that drugged that woman was you?”

“My mind was not in the right place. Hubby, I didn’t do it on purpose. Old Mo, save me.”

Father Mo finally understood why Mo Ting was angered. So, he sighed and spoke in a much gentler tone than earlier. In fact, he tried to persuade Mo Ting nicely, “Mo Ting, this is your mother and there are plenty of people coming and going in this corridor; it doesn’t look good for you either. Forgive her this once. Didn’t Tangning end up OK in the end?”

“What if something happened to her?”

“Even if something happened, Wenfeng is still your mother, you can’t send your mother to prison.”

In other words, Hua Wenfeng was allowed to hurt others, but if someone was to hurt her, they would deserve to be punished.

After listening to Father Mo, Mo Ting’s lips suddenly curved upwards, “Not only will I send her to prison. Before that, I want her to suffer.”

“Mo Ting!”

“Before you defend her, you should look at her carefully. Is she really the wife that you married?”

As soon as Mo Ting said this, everyone was stunned, including Bai Lihua.

What did Mo Ting mean by this?

“Identify your wife first before you come asking for this woman.” After speaking, Mo Ting stood up from his seat like an almighty king overlooking the world.

All of a sudden, everyone had different thoughts in their minds.

Of course, Mo Ting’s mind was still the most frightening.

After all, Hua Wenfeng and Father Mo didn’t know the extent of Mo Ting’s anger. What did he plan to do and how far could his anger go?

“Mo Ting...son, cancel your report to the police. I can do anything. Just don't call them!”

At a time like this, Hua Wenfeng still tried to call him her son.

Mo Ting fell silent, no longer saying another word. Because of his presence, the people behind him simply stood quietly. They ended up standing there for 2 hours until Father Mo finally spoke up, “How long do you plan to keep this up?”

“Until my wife wakes up,” Mo Ting replied coldly. “Don't you think that she deserves an explanation from the two of you?”

“Mo Ting, is that woman the only thing that's important to you?”

Mo Ting sneered; Father Mo's question seemed a bit naive.

“It's not my first time disregarding all relationships!”

Chapter 674: Settle The Issue The Way That She Wanted To Settle It

While Mo Ting and Father Mo were arguing, Hua Wenfeng took the opportunity to slowly retreat and remove her shoes while no one noticed. She wanted to sneakily dispose of the shoes in the rubbish bin nearby, but Mo Ting would never give her that chance.

“What are you trying to do?” the bodyguards grabbed Hua Wenfeng and took the shoes from her hands.

“Slander! This is pure slander, Mo Ting! Your bodyguards obviously did it and they are trying to frame me...I didn't do anything. I'm innocent!”

Everyone was shocked by Hua Wenfeng's behavior. Just a moment ago, she appeared so sincere that they thought she had learned her lesson. But, contrary to everyone's expectations, she had other plans up her sleeves. Mo Ting had pointed out her shoes earlier because she had been too negligent. Now that her shoes had the fingerprints of others on it, it could no longer be used as evidence.

As for any fingerprints left around the home, she could easily say that they were left behind from the time that she stayed at the villa.

The bodyguards were stunned. They never expected that Hua Wenfeng would be so foul.

Mo Ting stared coldly at Hua Wenfeng as she put on an act. He grabbed her collar and said in a threatening tone, “You are disturbing Tangning. If you make another sound, I will make it so you can never say a word again.”

Father Mo immediately stepped forward, tore the two apart and protected Hua Wenfeng. But compared to his previous enthusiasm, his approach this time was a lot calmer. He had personally witnessed how Hua Wenfeng went from admitting her faults to denying all involvement. This...was slightly different to the wife that he knew. She suddenly felt like a stranger – like a person he had never truly known.

“Hubby, Mo Ting wanted to frame me. He wanted to frame his own mother...”

“Shut your mouth. You are being too noisy,” Bai Lihua could no longer endure Hua Wenfeng’s acting as she stepped forward from where she had been standing for a while. “I never thought that people like you existed in this world. But, after today, I suddenly feel like I had been blind up until this point.”

“This is a Mo Family issue, what has it got to do with you?” Father Mo turned and questioned Bai Lihua with an obvious trace of irritability.

“Mo Shaoyuan, you are a worthless piece of trash!”

Father Mo couldn’t help but raise his hand at Bai Lihua. Seeing this, Bai Lihua couldn’t hide her mockery even though she was wearing a mask, “Calling you worthless is not enough. You are completely blind!”

Father Mo did not make a move. However, Hua Wenfeng directly stepped forward and tore off Bai Lihua’s mask. Seeing the scars on her face, Hua Wenfeng laughed, “You’re nothing but an ugly monster!”

Mo Ting did not get involved with the argument. Instead, he headed into Tangning’s room because she had finally woken up.

However, he left behind the bodyguards to protect Bai Lihua and prevent her from suffering a loss.

Bai Lihua covered her exposed face and glared at Hua Wenfeng hatefully, “This is all thanks to you!”

Hearing this, Hua Wenfeng froze in place, “What are you talking about?”

“I’m referring to the explosion at the research facility 19 years ago! You stole my identity, you fraud!”

Hua Wenfeng was shocked. She never expected that Bai Lihua was still alive and that she’d actually show up and identify her.

Hua Wenfeng quickly hid behind Father Mo, “Old Mo, this woman must be crazy. I don’t understand a word that she’s saying.”

“Ugly woman, are you crazy? How dare you slander my wife? Do you think that I wouldn’t be able to recognize my own wife?” Father Mo scoffed. “Or perhaps, did the performer pay you to put on an act?”

Bai Lihua couldn’t help but sneer at the way that Father Mo continued to protect Hua Wenfeng, “The summer after we first met, we arranged to go for a holiday in France. However, just as we boarded the plane, you were called back by a phone call. At that time, I told you that we weren’t fated to be together.”

After hearing this, Father Mo’s heart felt like it had been struck by a heavy blow.

“On the night of our wedding, I told you I was in no rush to have a child and you told me it was OK. At that time, I had already decided on a name. If we had a son, he’d be called Mo Ting, and if we had a daughter, she’d be called Mo Xin,” Bai Lihua recalled one memory after another. “Can the b*tch tell you all this? All she can say is that the fire was too fierce, so she lost her memory.”

Father Mo looked at Bai Lihua in detail. No wonder he felt a strange sense of familiarity.

But...

“That’s impossible. Even if you know all this, you can’t pretend to be my wife. I know her face.”

Bai Lihua did not argue nor hold any expectations for Father Mo. Her heart had already given up on this man, "You will pay a heavy price for what you have said to me today. As for the b*tch behind you, she will definitely come to a horrible end."

"You can't scare us! With your face, did you think that you could pretend to be me? Why don't you check your reflection in the toilet bowl?"

...

Tangning had been awake for a while and her mind had already cleared a lot. As soon as she heard the arguing outside, she asked, "Why is it so noisy outside?"

Mo Ting hugged her and recalled everything briefly. After hearing what had happened, Tangning didn't know whether to laugh or cry, "This Hua Wenfeng is indeed tricky."

"I left her for you to deal with."

To put it simply, he was telling her to settle the issue the way that she wanted to settle it.

"Let's put my matter aside for the moment. We need to help your mother reclaim her identity," Tangning said softly. Perhaps, because of all that she had suffered, her body was weak and her mouth was dry.

What Tangning was trying to say was, she was going to first expose Hua Wenfeng's identity and tear off her mask before she sought revenge for what she had done. And what she meant by 'putting her matter aside', simply meant that she was going to rearrange the sequence of events.

This time, Tangning was almost forced to have an abortion and her child was almost hurt in the process. The nature of this incident was worse than the incident with Tang Xuan.

Since Bai Lihua had crossed Tangning's bottom line, she would need to pay for it.

Tangning was going to take away everything that Hua Wenfeng had!

"Are you feeling better?" Seeing Tangning in such a weak state made Mo Ting feel guilty. "If something happened to you and our child, I wouldn't know what to do."

"I'm fine," Tangning reassured. "I'm honestly fine and so is our child."

Mo Ting remained silent. He simply hugged Tangning tightly as his heart filled with mixed emotions. After quite some time, he finally said, "If I knew having a child would cause you to suffer so much, I'd rather not have it."

"What nonsense are you speaking? This is a stage in life that every woman has to go through. I'm already much luckier than other women because I have you by side. Sometimes, I feel like you have it harder than I do." After speaking, Tangning patted the empty spot beside her, gesturing for Mo Ting to lie down. "With an amazing man like you, I am already content."

"Let's deal with the issue outside tomorrow. For now, let's get some rest together. You must be tired."

Chapter 675: She Has No Brains And No Principles !

In the meantime, Hua Wenfeng decided to reveal the story to the public herself, even though Bai Lihua did not do anything. She called it the 'biggest joke in the world' and expressed her surprise towards a person trying to claim someone else's identity in the 21st-century.

Hua Wenfeng contacted a reporter and started crying. First, she admitted that she had been wrong and that she shouldn't have targeted Tangning in the past. Afterwards, she conveyed the real message that she wanted to get across: someone had called her a fraud, said that she wasn't Mo Ting's mother and claimed that the identity belonged to someone else.

"I can't believe someone would try to claim something that can be easily proven by a DNA test. I am shocked."

"I have no choice but to expose someone like this." As a result, Hua Wenfeng began spreading photos of Bai Lihua to the public.

Onlookers originally thought that the Mo Family had nothing else to gossip about. After all, Tangning was a master of handling problems. But suddenly, the question of whether Mo Ting's mother was real or fake made the netizens anticipate another good show. So, they simply sat back and waited to witness the argument.

In the current modern society, it was practically impossible for someone to claim someone else's identity. With the development of medical science, there were many things that could be easily clarified by a simple examination.

So, why did Bai Lihua make such a claim?

The issue escalated. But, Hua Wenfeng relied confidently on her perfectly unscathed face and the fact that no one would be able to find any flaws in her DNA.

She wanted to seize ownership over another woman's home; she wanted to stake claim on Bai Lihua's husband and enjoy everything that originally belonged to her.

So, to prove her innocence, Hua Wenfeng even held a press conference to clarify the truth and set the record straight.

She was so eloquent that Father Mo once again fell into her trap. If she hadn't been wronged, why would she try to clarify herself in front of so many people? Therefore, his original doubts were dismissed by Hua Wenfeng's simple scheme. Again, he chose to believe Hua Wenfeng.

Faced with Hua Wenfeng's provocation, Bai Lihua was not afraid.

Hua Wenfeng was already so sinister as to use her hands to hurt Tangning. Was she going to remain quiet and do nothing?

Even if Mo Ting was to blame her in the future, she didn't care. If worse came to worst, after the entire incident was over, she could always find a secluded location to spend the rest of her life on her own and no longer add to Mo Ting and Tangning's troubles.

Hua Wenfeng chose to hold a press conference again. Why was it that every time there was a big incident, Hua Wenfeng would choose to use the media? She obviously couldn't beat the people in the entertainment industry – not even someone of small significance.

“Auntie Bai, come in,” Tangning already knew that Bai Lihua had the intention to reveal everything. So, naturally, she no longer had to hide her identity.

Bai Lihua already anticipated what Tangning wanted to say. In fact, she already prepared herself to be rejected. But...

...as she walked into the hospital room, Tangning smiled at her comfortingly, “Ting and I will help you. We will help you retrieve what originally belonged to you and help you get your revenge.”

Bai Lihua was stunned as she glanced at Mo Ting who was standing to the side. Her tears suddenly started flowing as she pounced onto his shoulder and cried painfully, “It’s mom’s fault for being useless. I couldn’t even protect my own identity and you guys suffered as a result of that.”

Mo Ting did not say anything nor did he know what words of comfort he could provide. After all, they had already been separated for many years, so his feelings for her couldn’t possibly be very deep.

However, he still wrapped his arms around Bai Lihua as a sign of comfort.

“You...Don’t you mind the look of my face?”

“To be honest, we already knew about this long ago. That’s why we were helping Xingyan all this time,” Tangning explained as she gently patted Bai Lihua on the back of her hand.

Bai Lihua paused for a few moments. In the end, she could only laugh and cry as she nodded her head, “You are both intelligent people. I shouldn’t have assumed that I’d be able to fool you. But, my face...”

“Mom...Ting and I aren’t vain people,” Tangning replied gently. “Don’t worry, OK?”

“Don’t you guys worry either. I will definitely take back everything that belongs to me...”

However, Hua Wenfeng wasn’t easy to deal with...

...

Meanwhile, Chen Xingyan was in the middle of filming in the forest. When she saw the news, she jumped out of her chair in surprise. No wonder people had been looking at her weirdly the whole day; a bully was picking on her family.

She didn’t know what the truth was, but she wasn’t going to let her mother get bullied.

So, she asked for leave from the director, “Director, you saw what happened...”

“But, you are the female lead. It’s bad enough that you often make mistakes, if you insist on taking time off, I can’t continue to stretch the rules for you. Moreover, even if you return, there’s nothing you can do anyway,” the director said helplessly.

At this moment, Lin Sheng wasn’t standing too far away. So, Chen Xingyan immediately looked to him for help. Lin Sheng shook his head and waved her over, “The crew can’t sit around waiting for you. Since you’ve decided to join the cast, you should follow the rules.”

“But, my mom...”

“Approve her leave,” a voice suddenly echoed from behind, surprising everyone. “I guarantee that she only needs two days. She won’t cause any delays.”

The director and Lin Sheng both looked at An Zihao. Lin Sheng did not make another sound as the director was put in a difficult position, “Zihao, you should know...”

“I’ll take responsibility if any problems occur,” An Zihao reassured the director, “We only need two days. After she returns, she will work harder than before.”

“Can your current financial situation handle such a huge risk?”

“Director, if Chen Xingyan actually turns out to be Mo Ting’s sister, I think you should leave yourself a bit of leeway for this possibility.”

An Zihao didn’t want Chen Xingyan to know about his financial situation, so he had no choice but to threaten the director with Hai Rui.

The director contemplated for a few seconds and nodded his head, “You said it. If anything goes wrong, you will take responsibility for it.”

“Mark my word. Everyone present can be witnesses.” After speaking, An Zihao gestured for Chen Xingyan to get up, “Why aren’t you getting changed?”

Chen Xingyan looked at him thankfully before she hurried into the changeroom. At this time, Lin Sheng approached An Zihao and said, “You are spoiling her too much by doing this.”

“I’ll leave the rules for a strict mentor like you to handle. I simply want to do things that make her happy.”

After hearing An Zihao’s response, Lin Sheng revealed a meaningful smile, “Even if she is Mo Ting’s sister, she is still not my type. You don’t need to worry.”

“I trust you, but I don’t trust her,” An Zihao replied coldly. “After all, she has no brains and no principles!”

Lin Sheng chuckled quietly without saying another word. He knew that Chen Xingyan had a lot of flaws, but for some reason, he couldn’t get himself to dislike her. In fact, he couldn’t resist treating her like a younger sister.

This was perhaps fate.

As for An Zihao, Lin Sheng was more than happy to accept him as a brother-in-law. Unfortunately, the little brat still seemed quite clueless...

Chapter 676: The Time Was Right

On the way back to Beijing, Chen Xingyan’s mind was full of questions. Why were there suddenly rumors that her mother was pretending to be Mo Ting’s mother?

Who was Mo Ting?

And who was Hua Wenfeng?

“How did my mother get involved with two big names?”

An Zihao drove with one arm on the steering wheel as he tilted slightly to look at her. “If anyone else was in your position, they would be jumping in joy at the possibility of being Mo Ting’s sister. To be honest, you must be feeling that deep down too right?” he scoffed.

Hearing this, Chen Xingyan turned and looked at An Zihao, “Years of experience have told me that I have never been an average person.”

“You’re not a very modest person either.”

“No. I’m more curious as to why this is happening and how my mother got involved with the Mo Family.” Chen Xingyan did not see any benefits in being Mo Ting’s sister. At least, she definitely wasn’t jumping in joy the way that An Zihao described.

“If I’m correct, I think your mother was Mo Ting’s mother before she gave birth to you.”

“But...how could those that know my mother not recognize her and instead allow Hua Wenfeng to take over her identity?” This was the thing that confused Chen Xingyan the most.

“Have you never seen your mother’s face before she got burnt?” An Zihao guessed. “If you’ve seen it, your question may be easily answered.”

“Arrgh...” Chen Xingyan groaned, “I never thought that something like this would happen to my mom. Are you sure we aren’t in a film?”

Life had always exceeded art. However, the processing of information wasn’t very fast in the past, so there were many examples that had never been heard of. The world was big and identity theft wasn’t actually that strange.

“No matter what, I won’t let my mom get bullied.”

“I don’t think your support is needed this time,” An Zihao said with a deeper meaning. With Tangning and Mo Ting around, no one could bully anyone in their hands.

...

“I never knew that I had a twin sister,” Bai Lihua explained to Tangning emotionally as she sat on the edge of Tangning’s bed that night. “I investigated the Bei Family and no one seems to know about this either. Worst of all, my mother has already passed away and the hospital I was born in, no longer exists. The only person left that could possibly know the truth is Hua Wenfeng.”

“I don’t know when she began scheming against me. But, it’s obvious that she had been spying on me for a while.”

“As you know, even if we look identical, time would eventually reveal flaws. Yet, she managed to fool Mo Shaoyuan for so many years. It’s clear to see how calculative she is.”

Tangning understood how Bai Lihua felt. Her identity had been stolen for so many years, yet she had no one to vent to; it must have been extremely painful. The anger and injustice could have easily swallowed a person alive. But, of course, Bai Lihua managed to pull through because of a loving husband and the responsibility she had to uphold towards Chen Xingyan.

Tangning listened to Bai Lihua as Mo Ting walked out of the room with his phone. He gave Bei Chendong a phone call, "Where's your mother?"

"I saw the news and my mother has heard about it as well. She is flying back in shock. Your family loves to create big news, don't they?"

"Where's grandfather?"

"He was stunned after seeing the news. He will let you resolve it," Bei Chendong explained.

"Grandfather Bei is going to wait for the truth to be revealed."

...

Meanwhile...

"It's hard to investigate something that happened 19 years ago. Plus, we have no evidence that Hua Wenfeng used me to poison you. I don't know how I can prove my identity..."

Hua Wenfeng had stolen Bai Lihua's identity for so many years that every piece of evidence had already been destroyed...

Her name had been changed and her personality had changed too. Hua Wenfeng simply claimed that she had lost her memory and everything fell into place. The life of this fraudster was much too easy.

Tangning patted the back of Bai Lihua's hand comfortingly, "Mom, even identical twins have differences."

"But, that would take too much work to uncover and the chances are slim."

Tangning smiled with meaning, "Hua Wenfeng is sly, but I like it when sly people fall into my trap."

Bai Lihua was filled with mixed emotions. She was once consumed by hatred, but after giving birth to Chen Xingyan, she simply wanted to live her life in peace. It wasn't until she came in contact with Mo Ting and Tangning did her hatred get rediscovered. However, she had never been a calculative person.

When compared to Hua Wenfeng, she did not think that she stood a chance.

After all, she had lost her appearance. This was enough to damage her self confidence.

Bai Lihua had crawled out from death and a layer of her skin had been removed. This made Tangning wonder how far Mo Ting was going to go with his revenge.

The scandal went completely viral. After all, it was such a novel piece of news that involved the entertainment industry. Reporters were excited, wishing that the press conference would immediately start.

Meanwhile, Hua Wenfeng was extremely confident. She believed in the power of genetics and she knew that Bai Lihua had nothing. Most importantly, Bai Lihua's face, which was the most identifiable factor, was now covered in scars.

If Hua Wenfeng hadn't covered all bases in the past, Bai Lihua may have kicked her out by now.

However, she had put in so much effort over the years. There was no way that she'd let Bai Lihua return to her original position.

"Wenfeng, don't be afraid. We have a DNA test in our hands. You don't have to be afraid of anything."

"Old Mo, you're still the person that treats me the best." Hua Wenfeng's biggest source of support was Father Mo. As long as Father Mo still believed her, her identity as Mother Mo was still as stable as ever.

"I will always be on your side," Father Mo had completely forgotten everything that Bai Lihua had said to him earlier. Because, to him, Hua Wenfeng was undeniably his wife.

"Don't worry, I will get justice for myself!"

But, justice?

What justice?

...

As Chen Xingyan entered the hospital, she did not care about the possible change in her identity. All she cared about was whether her mother was OK.

Bai Lihua looked at Chen Xingyan happily, "I'm fine. You didn't need to rush over here."

"What are you talking about? Without me, who would protect you? Are the bodyguards outside as capable as I am?" Chen Xingyan pointed to herself in an unconvinced manner. "Whether it's arguing or fighting, I, Chen Xingyan have never been afraid."

An Zihao was helpless around Chen Xingyan. He was worried that she'd destroy the image they had worked so hard to clean up.

"You should take care of yourself first. You were also 'quite famous', not too long ago."

Chen Xingyan turned around and stuck up her middle finger at An Zihao.

Regardless of everything else, everyone that needed to be present was now here. So, the time was right...

It was time for Hua Wenfeng to pay back everything she owed.

Chapter 677: If You Have Evidence, Then Show It !

The scandal this time was a big socialite scandal involving true and false identities. So, not only did it appear on entertainment news, it also appeared on local newspapers for everyone to gossip about.

"How could an identity be so easy to fake? This 'nobody' is playing with fire?"

"This woman is quite mysterious. Do you perhaps remember, back when Hua Wenfeng claimed that Tangning cut her, an 'old acquaintance' appeared online and said that she'd take back everything that belonged to her?"

“I actually think that Hua Wenfeng is the one that has something to hide. A normal person’s reaction would be to laugh it off, no one would make such a big fuss and try to clarify themselves. What is there to clarify? Doesn’t she appear more suspicious with her conspicuous response?”

“But, with current technology...it’s not possible to assume another person’s identity, right?”

Everyone online was involved in discussions about this topic; it was more exciting than any celebrity cheating scandal. In fact, it was like an addictive TV drama that people couldn’t draw themselves away from.

“If Hua Wenfeng is stepping out to prove her innocence, Ms. Bai will definitely strike back. Let’s sit back and watch a good show.”

“Yes, let’s watch the show.”

Since they were celebrities, Mo Ting and Tangning had always been prepared to have every aspect of their lives revealed to the public at some point. To enjoy being treated as celebrities, they also had to accept that they were constantly under public scrutiny; it was unavoidable.

Soon, the day of Hua Wenfeng’s press conference arrived.

Inside the fifth-floor conference hall at Hilton Hotel, Hua Wenfeng had invited members of the media and appeared ready to swallow Bai Lihua whole.

Father Mo accompanied next to her as her most solid source of support, but apart from him, she had no family members by her side...nor any friends.

“Please excuse the ridiculousness created by the rocky relationship between Tangning and I,” Hua Wenfeng suddenly sounded polite and dignified; she even bowed to the reporters.

“Family matters should not be exposed to the public and cause a disturbance to society. But, I really couldn’t stand it anymore.”

With a choked up voice, Hua Wenfeng pulled out her DNA report, “Previously, in private, Tangning had once said to me that I wasn’t Mo Ting’s mother. At that time, I was so annoyed that I went to get a DNA test done. The result, as you can see, is that there is no doubt that I am Mo Ting’s mother.”

“However, when I took the results to show Tangning, she claimed that the DNA sample did not come from Mo Ting, but from her maid. She even claimed that I had bribed the doctors! I felt extremely wronged by this.”

“It’s not the first time that Tangning has turned a blind eye to something. But, in the face of scientific evidence, how could she still ignore what’s right and wrong. I’ve had enough of it!”

“She’s indeed amazing, I must bow down to her!”

“So, today, I am showing everyone this evidence to rebuke all claims of me stealing someone else’s identity and being a fraud. This is not a TV drama, if I am not real, then how could the people beside me not know?”

“It’s ridiculous!”

Hua Wenfeng got angrier as she spoke. In the end, she threw the report in her hands onto the ground.

“Absolutely ridiculous!”

...

“You are the one that’s ridiculous,” a hoarse voice suddenly sounded from the entrance of the hall. Due to injuries to her throat from the fire years ago, when Bai Lihua raised her voice, the damage was apparent.

The reporters quickly looked towards the doorway to see a woman wearing a face mask. The rumored woman had appeared right in front of their cameras and Chen Xingyan was following from behind protecting her every move.

“You’re here right on time. I would like to know if you planned this ridiculous story or if Tangning did it?” Hua Wenfeng stormed over to Bai Lihua from the stage. “In what way are we alike?”

“No one planned it. You are just too sinister,” Bai Lihua glared at Hua Wenfeng with hatred and anger as her eyes turned red; tears almost rolling out of her eyes. “Have you forgotten about the explosion at the research facility, over a decade ago?”

“What has that got to do with you?”

Bai Lihua sneered as she removed her face mask, revealing her festering wounds to the public, “This was a result of that explosion.”

“What a joke! What evidence do you have? I could show up with any injury and claim it as being caused by an explosion.”

Bai Lihua knew that she would deny it, so she pulled out another piece of evidence, “I know that it was a long time ago and most of the evidence has already been destroyed. But, look what I have here.”

“What’s this? How are you trying to manipulate the public this time?” Hua Wenfeng shrugged her shoulders at the media as she laughed.

“This is a DNA test between you and I,” Bai Lihua announced. She then opened the report and showed it to the media, “As we are identical twins, we look practically the same. Because of this, you were given the opportunity to assume my identity.”

“The only reason why you are so confident as to stand up here and tell everyone that you are Mo Ting’s mother is because you know that twins will both show up with the same DNA results. As for the only thing that can differentiate us – my fingerprints – those were destroyed in the fire.”

“In other words, you are saying that you have no other evidence to prove that I have stolen your identity. If we look at things from a different perspective, it appears that you are the one that is trying to be me?” Hua Wenfeng laughed. “Fine, since you are calling me a fraud, no one here has the right to say anything. The only person that qualifies to speak is my husband, Mo Shaoyuan.”

Bai Lihua looked at Mo Shaoyuan. She knew that the chances of him helping her were practically impossible.

“I’ll give you one minute. Since you claim that you are Mo Shaoyuan’s wife...prove it.”

Bai Lihua bit her lip nervously. Just as she was about to speak, Mo Shaoyuan suddenly cut in, “You don’t need to say anything. You aren’t my wife. My wife has always been Hua Wenfeng. I don’t know what motive you have, but I only have one word for you: shoo! Ugly people sure like causing trouble...”

“I dare you to say that again,” Chen Xingyan warned as she pointed to Mo Shaoyuan. “Assh*le, you couldn’t recognize your own wife and you were taken for a ride all these years without knowing it. You’re just a jerk. If you speak again, I’m going to break your spine!”

Father Mo: “...”

“Look at how Mo Ting is and look at you. I’m suspecting that even you are a fraud!”

“You...”

“You little wench! Don’t go around confusing everyone. Did you think that you can help your mother by doing this?” Hua Wenfeng drew the conversation back. “The Bei Family never had any twins and I never had a twin sister. Stop trying to fool everyone.”

“It seems, you don’t know how to turn back before it’s too late...” Bai Lihua glared at Hua Wenfeng.

“If you have evidence, then show it!” Hua Wenfeng challenged arrogantly.

Chapter 678: She Is A Fraud

“Did you ask for evidence?” a familiar voice resounded from the entrance, followed by the surprised gasps of the media.

“It’s actually Tangning. Tangning’s here!”

“But, why is Tangning in a wheelchair...?”

No one expected that Tangning would be a part of the show, even less expected was the fact that she would appear in a wheelchair.

Seeing Tangning appear, Hua Wenfeng subconsciously furrowed her brows. She knew what her appearance meant. Whenever Tangning appeared, she never lost a battle. In other words, Bai Lihua was not going to lose this battle.

That couldn’t happen...

Hua Wenfeng clenched her fists in secret.

It was impossible for Bai Lihua to present any evidence, but Hua Wenfeng knew that she simply had to grit her teeth and endure for a while and everything would be solved for her.

So, she decided to strike first by pointing to Tangning, “This was all because of you, you evil b*tch. Did you think, by designing all these schemes, you’d be able to beat me?”

Tangning was unlike Bai Lihua; she remained as calm as ever. In fact, she looked at Hua Wenfeng like she was enjoying a performance.

“Ms. Hua, you’ve overestimated yourself. Please don’t keep adding to your act,” Tangning said calmly, “I really don’t have the spare time to frame you...”

“Then why did you find someone to try and steal my identity?”

“Hua Wenfeng, I’ve said it before, this world is based on karma; it is fair and just. If someone has done something bad, they will definitely leave flaws.” After speaking, Tangning looked at Long Jie behind her and signaled for her to present the evidence they had, “You asked for evidence, didn’t you?”

“I’ll give you evidence right now.”

Hua Wenfeng saw the item in Tangning’s hands and smiled disdainfully, “What kind of evidence is that? I also have one of my own!”

“This DNA report was performed by the most authoritative organization. You must think that it’s impossible to identify the real mother between twins, but you are wrong. One simply has to spend more time...or perhaps money...”

“After a total of one month and long hours spent by the staff at the research facility, they finally discovered tiny differences in your DNA. They also found over 20 matching DNA sequences in Bai Lihua and Mo Ting’s DNA that wasn’t present in yours.”

“You said I’m turning a blind eye to the truth, but what about you?” Tangning asked as she turned to look at Long Jie, “Hai Rui will release a comparison chart to the public in a moment. If anyone has any doubts, they can contact the DNA testing center in Beijing.”

“This is a nationally accredited report, it’s definitely correct.”

“I studied medicine before and I know how to read this chart. Looking at the variety of DNA sequences, we can see that President Mo and Ms. Bai have a lot of matches that Hua Wenfeng does not have. When this occurs multiple times, it becomes obvious who the birth mother is.”

“This is solid evidence!”

Solid evidence!

Hearing these two words made Hua Wenfeng’s expression change. She immediately grabbed the report from Tangning’s hands. After seeing the clear comparison in DNA, Hua Wenfeng glared at Tangning. Even though she believed that the report was real and her lips were already quivering in fear, she still yelled loudly at Tangning, “This is impossible! Tangning, don’t you dare manipulate the public with your fake evidence.”

“I think the media can tell whether I am manipulating them or not,” Tangning skillfully deflected.

“Exactly, do you think we are stupid? This is the most authoritative institution,” the reporters began to cut in.

“Unbelievable! I originally thought that something like this was impossible. I didn’t expect the plot to be reversed. It turns out, Bai Lihua is the true Madam Mo.”

“But, what exactly happened? Tangning, can you please explain it to us in detail?”

Hua Wenfeng noticed that the media had been swayed, so she immediately tried to stop Tangning from talking, “Tangning, how did I offend you? Why are you framing me like this?”

Tangning did not pay attention to Hua Wenfeng’s commotion as she placed her cool gaze on Bai Lihua and said to the media, “I think, in regards to this matter, I have no right to say anything. Only Ms Bai Lihua can provide you with the answers.”

“You are liars, you are all liars!” Hua Wenfeng tried to stop Bai Lihua from walking onto the stage, but Chen Xingya easily pushed her away.

Afterwards, Bai Lihua walked onto the stage and looked at the sea of reporters in front of her with her time-worn eyes.

“One particular afternoon, 19 years ago, I was having lunch inside the research lab when an explosion suddenly occurred and I was sent flying out of the room. By the time I woke up again, I was already on the way to the hospital. The person that had saved me told me that I was covered in blood when he found me lying randomly in a remote mountain area in the US.”

“I remained in the hospital for 8 months and accepted 8 months of treatment. However, when I finally left the hospital, the research facility had already moved to an unknown location and my identity had been stolen by someone that looked exactly the same as me.”

“I didn’t know who she was, nor did I know her motive. Her and my husband were in love, she used my name and she took possession of everything that I once owned. But, due to my disfigured face, I couldn’t appear in front of people and couldn’t retrieve my identity.”

“A while later, I started a relationship with the kind man that saved me and gave birth to an adorable daughter. I originally thought that this was what God had planned for me. But...I never imagined that Hua Wenfeng would use my identity to harm my son and daughter-in-law.”

“I couldn’t accept it. What gave her the right to do that?”

“She’s a fraud, how could she have any right?”

“That’s why I’m standing here today. Even though my face has been destroyed, I still want to take back my identity and everything that belongs to me.”

“I am the daughter of the Bei Family and the mother of Mo Ting. What is she? She is nothing but a fraud!”

“You’re a liar!” Bai Lihua immediately rebutted, “You’re the fraud. You want to steal my husband and everything I own.”

“I have no interest in your husband. I just want my son and daughter-in-law to be safe,” Bai Lihua replied fiercely. “Since I’m standing here today, I know I can’t make baseless claims with no evidence. So, just a moment ago, weren’t you all curious why Tangning appeared in a wheelchair?”

“Let me tell you the answer: someone drugged Tangning’s chicken soup with Quinidine, causing her and her child to almost lose their lives!”

“Bai Lihua, don’t forget, you’re the one in charge of Tangning’s meals,” Hua Wenfeng sneered. “Are you trying to frame me? No way!”

Knowing that Hua Wenfeng would definitely deny all involvement, Tangning immediately grabbed onto Bai Lihua, “Mom, I will explain my own matters to the media.”

“So Tangning is sitting in a wheelchair because of something so evil.”

“What is Quinidine?”

“What kind of drug could kill an unborn child and cause an abortion?”

The reporters below the stage erupted in discussions.

Chapter 679: You Are Scum !

“Everyone can see how patient I’ve been with Ms. Hua,” Tangning said to the media as she sat in her wheelchair. “It has been a while since the moment we first laid eyes on each other and I’m sure the media have seen all the things she has done to me during this time. She tried to frame me for cutting her, she claimed my unborn child was unwell, she appeared at my home multiple times to insult me, she created rumors that An Zihao and I were cheating, and yesterday, she drugged my soup. Every single incident has sent chills down my spine.”

“Throughout my pregnancy, I’ve lived by the principle of setting a good example in front of my child, so I’ve decided not to handle matters out in the open. But, in exchange, Hua Wenfeng has taken it as an opportunity to further test her limits.”

“However, tolerance has its limits, especially when someone is trying to hurt mine and Mo Ting’s child.”

“Today, not only will I get justice for my mother-in-law, Ms. Bai, I also want Hua Wenfeng to give me an explanation. Will you admit that you placed Quinidine in my chicken soup?”

“Now that you have the upper hand, you can say whatever you want,” Hua Wenfeng said in a defeated tone. In reality, she was pretending to be a victim that was being harassed.

She was sure that Tangning had no evidence.

It was impossible for Tangning to prove that she was guilty.

“You’re even capable of overthrowing your own confession. I never expected that you’d actually confess,” Tangning glared coldly at Hua Wenfeng with extreme mockery. “Quinidine is not an average prescription drug. It’s not something that’s easy to get your hands on, and as a biological researcher, applying for Quinidine is required to be on file. I have been to your lab and retrieved the form you used to apply for Quinidine. Can you tell me where you used the drug?”

“Of course I used it in an experiment.”

“An experiment?” Tangning laughed mockingly. “But, from what I see, you took a few days of leave from the lab. So, where could you have done your experiment? You didn’t take any experimental equipment with you, you only took the Quinidine. What a coincidence!”

“Are you claiming that I’m the culprit simply based on the fact that I applied for Quinidine? I’m afraid that can’t be used as evidence,” Hua Wenfeng tried her best to defend herself.

“But, you can’t clear your name by telling us where you used the Quinidine either,” Tangning raised an eyebrow. “You can try to ask any doctor if they’d possibly lose track of where a drug like this would go. If you can’t tell us where you’ve used it, apart from using it illegally, where else could it have gone?”

“I...”

“Furthermore, midday on the day of the incident, there was a fire in my back garden. Surveillance cameras did not capture the cause of the fire. But, don’t tell me, with the current climate, the garden’s vegetation would spontaneously ignite. So, this proved one thing, the arsonist must be very familiar with the surveillance system in Hyatt Regency, that’s how they perfectly avoided it.”

“Everything you’ve said, Bai Lihua is also capable of,” Hua Wenfeng immediately dragged Bai Lihua into the conversation. “How would I know if the two of you teamed up to frame me?”

“Do you think, with your history of crimes, people would believe you or me?” Tangning looked at the media expectantly.

To promote justice, the media naturally stood on the side of the victim.

Whether it was Bai Lihua or Tangning.

“If this was before I was pregnant, according to my temper, you would have been torn apart multiple times already. I would never allow you to stand up here and create your own facts.”

“How could a fake person that would put another person’s life at risk for the sake of fame and fortune have the right to speak?”

In the end, Hua Wenfeng could not beat Tangning in an argument, nor could she withstand the ridiculing looks from the media.

So, she placed her helpless gaze on Father Mo and ran over to grab him, “Old Mo, we’ve been a married couple for many years. Tell them who I am!”

Father Mo had been watching the entire time. So the woman in front of him now sent chills down his spine.

“Actually, I don’t know you very well,” Father Mo replied.

“Old Mo, it’s not what you think. Tangning and ‘that woman’ are framing me...”

“The DNA report has already been done. How could you still deny it?” Father Mo forcefully brushed Hua Wenfeng onto the floor.

“I wondered what you were doing with the Quinidine. I never knew you were using it on Tangning! Did you know that this is attempted murder?”

After being brushed aside, Hua Wenfeng quickly crawled back to Father Mo's side and grabbed onto his legs, "Old Mo, that's not how it is. It isn't..."

"The truth is clearly in front of us. You have been pretending to be my wife all along. You are a sl*t!"

"I can't believe I protected you and helped you to go against Tangning. Now that I think about, it's completely ironic."

"Old Mo, you need to believe me. We've been a married couple for so many years."

"That's enough, you're making me feel disgusted," Father Mo trembled in anger. "All along, I thought that Tangning ignored general interest and targeted you unreasonably. But, it turns out, you were so evil that you tried to hurt an 8-month old child in her stomach."

"Tangning, report this to the police. I can be a witness. Hua Wenfeng did indeed take some Quinidine and she even took it home."

Hearing this, Hua Wenfeng completely broke down as she lay on the floor and cried, "Old Mo, you can't do this to me. I did all this because I was afraid of losing you."

"Unfortunately, I have already reported this to the police," Tangning looked at Hua Wenfeng in her helpless state, but she was already prepared to send her to her demise. "Hua Wenfeng, since you like to complain so much, you can complain to the police."

"No, no..." Hua Wenfeng was terrified as she quickly jumped up from the floor, ready to escape. But, there was no way that the current situation would allow her to leave as she pleased. "I don't want to go to the police station, I don't!"

At this time, Tangning watched as Hua Wenfeng and the reporters twisted into a mess. She did not stop them, nor did she immediately call the police. Her revenge wasn't going to end on simply exposing Hua Wenfeng.

Meanwhile, Father Mo looked at Bai Lihua. Just as he stretched out his arms to pull her towards him, Bai Lihua quickly avoided him, "You're not worthy."

Father Mo looked upset. It was obvious that he felt guilty.

But, Bai Lihua did not give him a chance to repent.

"Since you've been Hua Wenfeng's husband for so many years and have tried to protect her with your life. You should follow her."

"I may be disfigured, but I am still the daughter of the Bei Family and Mo Ting's mother."

"Mo Shaoyuan, you are scum!" After speaking, Bai Lihua stepped off the stage and walked over to Tangning's side.

Father Mo looked at them with mournful eyes, especially as he thought about the way he had previously treated Bai Lihua...

Chapter 680: Don't Underestimate The Media's Ability To Trample A Person

But, who would expect, a woman that had accompanied them for 19 years would turn out to be a fraud, while their real wife practically crawled back from the grave and experienced the worst torture after being robbed of everything!

Thinking of this, Father Mo's heart ached painfully; he knew he had lost his right to ever face Bai Lihua again.

Hua Wenfeng was completely surrounded by reporters and couldn't break loose. But, Tangning and her party easily left Hilton Hotel under the protection of Chen Xingyan and the other bodyguards.

The Tangning at that moment had not yet wondered why Hua Wenfeng suddenly struck after such a long break. By the time she realized, the situation in Beijing was already very different...

...

Song Xin's popularity continued to rise because Hai Rui continued to fill up her schedule with projects. Although she had increased in fame, she still did not compare to Tangning.

After Hua Wenfeng's press conference, Song Xin saw a recording of it from her assistant. She leaned her head back and scoffed, "I never thought that Hua Wenfeng would be defeated so easily. I thought she would be able to persist for a little while."

"How pathetic."

"What should we do now? This incident did not damage Tangning at all." The assistant put away the recording and glanced at Song Xin cautiously, "Do you still want to compete with her?"

"Tangning is pregnant and can't possibly partake in any projects at the moment. Since my career is on the rise, I need to grasp onto these next few months. By the time she announces her comeback, the era that belonged to her will be overturned," Song Xin smiled confidently before she closed her eyes for a rest. "Keep her under observation. We are lurking in the shadows and she is out in the light, we will definitely find an opportunity to strike. By the way, to prevent Hua Wenfeng from recognizing you, it's best you keep a distance from me. Or perhaps, make some changes to your appearance."

The assistant nodded her head and set the tablet aside.

However, even if Song Xin didn't make a move, would that mean Tangning wouldn't notice her involvement?

Not necessarily...

After the press conference, Tangning and the others returned to Hyatt Regency. But Bai Lihua was curious as to how Tangning managed to pull out evidence at the right timing, "What's with the DNA comparison? Xiao Ning, when did you guys go to get the test done?"

Tangning sat down on the sofa with Chen Xingyan's help; the smile on her face was full of confidence, "I fooled her...the report I showed was created from a combination of online sources."

Bai Lihua froze. She suddenly didn't know whether to laugh or cry, "What if the media actually call up the DNA testing center in Beijing to check?"

"I simply said it came from the DNA testing center in Beijing, I didn't say which one. The media assumed the rest, I didn't say anything else."

After hearing Tangning's words, Bai Lihua was defeated by her response.

"The media don't need the truth, they simply believe what they see. And everything they saw today was enough for them to write an entire story..."

This was Tangning's wisdom. She understood Hua Wenfeng's mind and she was also capable of controlling the media.

"Are we just going to let the wench off like that?" Chen Xingyan asked as she stood beside Tangning. "She hurt my mom and she also hurt you!"

"Don't underestimate the media's ability to trample a person," Tangning replied. "The black sea of cameras is enough to force Hua Wenfeng to her destruction."

Of course, Tangning wasn't going to tell Chen Xingyan that she still had a follow-up plan. After all, this was a matter between her and Mo Ting.

"Xiao Ning, I really need to thank you regarding this matter." After speaking, Bai Lihua tugged on Chen Xingyan's sleeve, "Greet your sister-in-law..."

Chen Xingyan's face flushed red...

Chen Xingyan was used to living her life freely. She never expected that she had other relatives. Chen Xingyan scratched her head; she couldn't get herself to say the words 'sister-in-law'. Even if Mo Ting stood before her, she wouldn't be able to call him 'brother' either.

"Wild little monkey, return to your film set. Stop causing trouble for An Zihao to fix," Tangning chuckled.

"When have I asked for him to fix anything?" Chen Xingyan had no idea that An Zihao had been secretly doing more and more things for her.

However, Chen Xingyan did not delay her return. Although she wanted to find Hua Wenfeng and give her a good beating, she remembered what An Zihao had promised the director. So, she glanced at An Zihao, "Let's go."

"Are you sure? I thought that after you became an heiress, you would become snobby and precious."

"What's with your nonsense?" Chen Xingyan approached An Zihao and dragged him out by his shirt.

After boarding their car, she couldn't help but ask, "If I want to beat someone up, is that possible?"

"What do you think?" An Zihao asked as he fastened his seatbelt.

"But...my hands are really itchy!"

"I'm afraid you won't get the chance to make a move." After speaking, An Zihao started the car and sped back to the film set. After all, any losses suffered by the production crew were his responsibility.

Chen Xingyan didn't understand what An Zihao meant, but An Zihao understood Tangning. Tangning always gave people an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth.

Later, lurking amongst the icy cold night air, Hua Wenfeng tried her best to find a place to hide. After much effort, she finally managed to escape the media. Seeing that there was no one around, she finally crawled out from a pile of rubbish.

At that moment, she was cold and hungry and her appearance was extremely helpless. She had nowhere to turn to...

A moment later, two big and strong bodyguards appeared, dragged her into a car and drove her to an unknown location...

“Who are you guys? What do you want to do to me?”

“Explain the entire process of how you poisoned Tangning. Otherwise...I will make it so you live the rest of your life in darkness.”

Hua Wenfeng looked at the two bodyguards and assumed they were Tangning’s men. So her whole body began to tremble in fear, “Don’t hurt me.”

“As long as you are honest.”

Hua Wenfeng could not escape and she was afraid that the bodyguards would be rough on her, so she explained how she hurt Tangning in detail. From her explanation, Tangning was able to locate the original bottle that held the Quinidine.

It turned out, Hua Wenfeng had hidden it amongst the condiment bottles in the kitchen. If she didn’t personally reveal it, who would have thought it was there?

“What a sneaky woman.”

Of course, under the interrogation of the bodyguards, Hua Wenfeng also said a few things that she shouldn’t of.

Including the reason why she decided to poison Tangning.

“A short-haired woman claimed that she had heard from Hai Rui that Tangning wanted to use my organs to save her child. I had no choice but to make a move.”

Tangning told the bodyguards to ask for a name and picture. But, even when they searched all the staff in Hai Rui, they did not find this person.

Hua Wenfeng managed to describe the woman, but Hai Rui did not have such a member of staff.

However, one thing was certain...

...Hua Wenfeng attacked her because someone provoked it!
