My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1479—When Did It Happen?

Watching his actions, Wendy was still a little worried.

The man gave her a calm look, he was indeed in the Messenger chat interface.

Upon this, Wendy could not ask any more questions.

After breakfast, the man very gentlemanly suggested, "I'll send you home."

Wendy refused without hesitation. "No need, I can go back by myself." i

If this man sees the current state of the Fuller family's downfall, he will probably not take another look at her in the future, she can forget about using this man!

Fortunately, the man did not insist.

Coming out of the hotel, Wendy casually flagged a taxi. When leaving, she did not forget to check in the rearview mirror to see if the man had followed.

Seeing that the man did not follow, she told the driver her address in the suburb.

At the same time, the man stood at the hotel door, the smile on his face gradually changed.

The phone in his hand lit up, and it was a message from his assistant.

"Director Murray, those photos have been sent to all major media in Coast City, and they should erupt soon."

Alistair Murray stretched his lower lip in satisfaction. "Alright, noted."

When Byron debuted a few years ago, almost all young talents in the business world were overwhelmed by him.

Alistair could not stand the feeling of being trampled by others, so he chose to go abroad for development. He only came back two days ago and knew nothing about the engagement dissolution between the Lawrence and Fuller families and all the great scandal that entailed some time ago.

After returning to Somerland, while drinking with friends at the bar, he saw Wendy drinking with the young lady of the Quirke family.

Alistair chose to take advantage of her almost without hesitation.

Byron had been trampling on him all the time. This time, he will make Byron make a fool of himself!

If the outside world knew that his fiancée was such a promiscuous woman, I wonder where he would put his face!

Thinking of the way that woman foolishly believed in him just now, and even tried to use him in reverse, Alistair only felt she was ridiculous.

'Such a stupid woman, I really don't know how Byron fell in love with her!' i

That afternoon, a photo was widely circulated on the Internet.

In the photo, Wendy wore a night robe from the hotel, with disheveled hair and bright red hickey marks on her neck, which was undeniably fresh.

For a while, the Internet exploded again.

Alistair was the first to hear the news, he kept his eyes glued to the comments online without blinking.

He thought everyone would say that Byron was weak and incompetent, not even capable of taking care of his fiancée.

Alas, there was only a lot of backlash toward Wendy on the Internet.

For Byron, on the contrary, they were very supportive!

"No wonder President Lawrence said that she has a character problem. She kept saying that she had waited for President Lawrence for six years. This woman had just broken off the engagement for a few days, she is already sleeping with another man!" "Tsk, she looks flirtatious at first glance, now she has finally shown her true colors! She really doesn't deserve President Lawrence!" "From this point of view, President Lawrence and his original partner are really a match made in heaven! Wendy can dream on!"

The public opinion on the Internet cast a shadow of doubt for Alistair.

'Broken off the engagement? When did it happen? I didn't hear a word of this!'

He turned off the interface of the social media software, scrolled to the phone number of his good friend in Coast City, Kai Walden, and called him.

The other end quickly picked up, "Hey, Busy Man, why did you think of calling me? I heard that you have returned. When shall we meet?"

However, Alistair was not in the mood for pleasantries, and cut straight to the point. "What's going on with Byron Lawrence and his fiancée?"

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1480– True Business Genius "Fiancée?"

Kai asked rhetorically. "Which fiancée are you asking about? Don't you know? During this period of time, there have been many stories about President Lawrence!"

Hearing this, Alistair's heart sank slightly. "What do you mean? Isn't Wendy Fuller Byron's fiancée?"

Amused, Kai laughed. "That was all eight hundred years ago! Before this, I thought Byron was lukewarm towards Wendy, and I wondered how their engagement could be maintained like this for so many years?"

Alistair did not say anything and just listened to his ramblings.

"Two days ago, Lawrence Corporation issued a direct statement that he had broken off the engagement with the Fuller family. In the statement, Byron even implicitly mentioned that Wendy had poor character. Soon, news broke that Byron's ex-wife had returned to Coast City with two children. Now the Fullers were forced to go bankrupt by the Lawrence Corporation, while things are heating up between Byron and his ex-wife!"

Kai spoke about the gossip with gusto, as if he could have a hand in it.

Back then, who would have thought that Byron's love story would have such ups and downs?

Alistair was also surprised when he heard it.

Based on his knowledge of Byron, that man has always been cold to the outside world, yet he can do such a thing!

Thinking about the useless work he did last night, Alistair said regretfully, ' It's a pity that they broke off their engagement, but speaking of which, that woman is quite interesting."

This time it was Kai's turn to be shocked. "What woman are you talking about?" 'Could it be that my buddy slept with Byron's ex-wife as soon as he returned to Coast City?'

Alistair clicked his tongue. "Of course it's Wendy, who else? I thought they didn't break off the engagement!"

What happened last night was too sudden.

He only saw Andrea and Wendy together, so he thought that the relationship between the three families was still the same as it was before and was not able to get hold of the situation.

'But, that wasn't bad, that woman tasted really good.'

The only thing that bothered him was that he slept with Byron's unwanted garbage.

On the other side, Kai breathed a sigh of relief. "Now that Fuller Industries is in this state now, with your financial resources, it is more than enough to buy her for one night."

As soon as he finished speaking, he suddenly realized something. "Was it you who posted the photos on the Internet?"

Alistair admitted frankly. "It's me, but it's a pity that I didn't achieve what I wanted."

Kai has been friends with him for many years, so he knows what the man wants to do.

Alistair has been suppressed by Byron all this time; he wanted nothing more than to use this to humiliate Byron.

Unfortunately, as always, it did not work out.

Kai sighed regretfully in his heart, and asked again, "You made such a big move as soon as you returned. It seems that you have made up your mind to compete with Byron when you come back this time?"

There was undisguised ambition in Alistair's eyes, but his tone sounded nonchalant.

"I just wanted to show him off, but since I've failed, forget it. I'm not in a hurry to compete. Byron has developed in Coast City for so many years, and he won't be defeated overnight. I have to take it step by step."

Alistair did not say what was next in his mind.

'Sooner or later, one day, I will trample Byron under my feet, and let everyone know that Byron is just my defeated opponent!'

"I, Alistair Murray, is the true business genius!"

Kai smiled and complimented him. "I'm on your side, waiting for you to give Byron your best shot."

Alistair chuckled but said no more.
