My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1571-At nine o'clock in the evening, Luther received a phone call from the technical department director and rushed to the company immediately.

Looking at the photos of naked children, he was dumbfounded.

He could not do anything that even the technical department could not do. In a split second, the thought of calling the police flashed across his mind.

"This... situation seems familiar."

Suddenly, an employee muttered.

All eyes were fixed on him.

The man scratched his head and hesitated before speaking, "If I remember correctly, an attack similar to this had struck Fuller Industries' system. Their screen showed photos of kids, and President Lawrence sent me there to settle it."

Before he could finish his words, the supervisor smacked him on the head.

"Since you know what it is, why aren't you settling the problem?"

The employee looked innocent. "I didn't manage to solve the issue the last time. President Lawrence did it personally and recovered Fuller Industries' system."

Everyone looked at each other, bewildered.

They were employees President Lawrence paid high salaries to employ. If they could not even settle an issue like this and needed President Lawrence to do it himself, what was the point of Lawrence Corporation having them?

However...

The crowd looked at the screen with the naked kids. They had to admit they could not resolve the virus attack.

It worried them that the virus might affect the documents in their devices if this matter was prolonged...

"Continue examining. I'll call President Lawrence."

Luther immediately decided.

He was not from the technical department and did not care much about the dignity they had to preserve.

With that, he headed out to call Byron.

Lawrence Manor.

The family of five had just had their dinner.

Byron wanted to take them out for fresh air, but Luther's call came in.

Knowing someone had attacked the company's firewall, he had to settle it personally. Byron was worried. "Got it. I'll be there soon." "What's the matter?"

Rosalie looked at him in a puzzle.

Byron spoke in his deep voice, 'There's something wrong with the company. I'm going over now.'

Then, he got up and took his coat, and went out.

The three little ones looked at each other with solemn faces.

'Is it because of the virus we left?

'However, aren't the employees off work now?

'Moreover, the virus we left behind is simple. Daddy doesn't have to resolve it himself.'

Nox tried to convince himself.

After Byron left, the kids silently sat on the sofa out of guilt, deep in thought.

The living room fell silent.

Rosalie also could not help but think of the negotiation with Xander, and her mood sank.

Meanwhile, Byron had already rushed to Lawrence Corporation's office.

When he saw the three kids on the screen, they looked familiar.

Three children were on the screen, and the two boys looked alike.

It reminded him of the three little ones.

What Rosalie said just now also struck him.

His doubt grew the more he thought about it.

“President Lawrence, this is the same situation that happened in Fuller Industries the last time,” the supervisor spoke carefully.

Byron glanced at him, sat on the chair, and tapped the keyboard expressionlessly.

Soon, codes ran across the screen.

The staff watched intently from behind, amazed. In a short time, the virus was solved by Byron.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1572-Just when they thought he would stop, they saw Byron type another string of codes.

It seemed that he was tracking the IP address!

After typing the code, Byron stood up and looked back at the people in the technical department.

The employees hung their heads guiltily.

Byron was not only their boss. He was also their idol in the industry as he had excellent skills.

Each one of them was not offended by his reprimand.

“Lawrence Corporation employed all of you with high salaries not for charity.”

Byron was dissatisfied. “This issue has happened twice, and you couldn’t even settle a simple issue like this. You couldn’t even track who’s behind this!”

Everyone looked at each other, and no one dared to speak.

“President Lawrence, the skills of the hacker is better than us. We suspect

Someone tried to explain.

Before he could finish, he heard Byron's cold snort.

The crowd looked at him in a puzzle.

All they saw was him sitting back before the computer and looking at the hacker's IP address. He seemed shocked.

However, he looked... proud at the same time?

Looking at the expression on Byron's face confused everyone. They even doubted if they were daydreaming.

"If you can't even resolve the virus placed by two kids, you'll have to reflect on your ability!"

Byron closed the interface and said that abruptly.

Two kids?

The IT employees were puzzled.

They even thought... he was being sarcastic.

Byron did not want to waste time explaining to them and spoke to Luther," Cancel the bonus for the technical department this month."

Then, he turned around and walked out.

It was bad news for all the staff in the technical department.

What bad luck for them!

They were working overtime when the hacker hacked suddenly, making them lose their bonus for the month.

However, none of them dared to protest since President Lawrence resolved the problem himself.

It was almost ten when they walked out of the technical department.

Byron walked to the door entrance and stopped abruptly before he looked at the dark sky.

"Sir, don't be mad. They..."

Luther had been following behind him. When he saw Byron stopped walking, he thought Byron was angry and spoke out for the technical department cautiously.

Before he could finish his words, he heard Byron speaking.

“Make arrangements for the helicopter I used last time.”

Luther stopped talking.

He wanted to ask why but saw Byron walking away, heading straight to the car.

Luther could do nothing but swallow his doubts and make the arrangements.

Meanwhile, Byron drove back to Lawrence Manor.

As soon as he entered the door, he saw Rosalie and the three little ones still sitting on the sofa in the same position as when he left the house just now.

He did not notice when he left, but now that he had found out the hacker’s IP address and their real identity, he saw that the three little children looked nervous.

The little ones even shuddered when he came back. Then, they quickly put on flattering expressions as they ran toward him when he returned.

“Daddy, you’re back. Is everything at work fine?”

They were even concerned about his company.

He looked at them with a slight frown. “Don’t you guys have anything to tell me?”

The smiles on the three kids’ faded. They looked at each other, and none of them dared to speak.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1573-Rosalie noticed the strangely tense atmosphere and stood up from the sofa, confused.

The three seemed to have found their savior and immediately hid behind their mommy.

“What happened?”

Subconsciously, Rosalie protected them behind her and looked at Byron. She still looked worried.

Their eyes met, and Byron glanced at the three little ones hiding behind her. He was both amused and helpless, 1 “Why don’t you ask them? They might be young, but they are bold indeed.”

With that, Rosalie looked at her children behind her.

“Mommy, we’re sorry...”

Nox grabbed Rosalie’s sleeve carefully and apologized. “Can you ask Daddy to forgive us and not be mad at us?”

Estelle supported her brother. “We were just pranking them and never thought it might bring trouble to Daddy.”

Lucian looked at Byron obediently and promised, “We’re sorry, Daddy. We promise we will never do something like this again.”

Rosalie was still puzzled as she did not know what had happened, yet those little kids were already apologizing to her. Confused, Rosalie looked at Byron again.

Byron approached the little ones and pinched their cheeks. “If I hadn’t gone there today, Luther would have called the police.”

The little ones felt even guiltier upon hearing this. “Mm. We realize our mistake. Daddy, please don’t be mad at us!” “It’s my fault. I’m the one who wanted to hack into Daddy’s company’s system. Please don’t blame Lucian and Estie. I did it.”

Nox stood out and took the blame. He wanted to be responsible for what he had done. “I wanted to prove to Estie that I’m good at coding.”

Then, he muttered with a frown, “The virus I planted in the system was simple and only a prank. I didn’t expect...”

Never did he expect Byron’s employees could not resolve it and even needed Byron to do it himself.

Byron heard the little one’s complaint and was amused. “Alright. I’m not blaming you guys for it. Instead, I’m surprised you’re so good at coding.”

Nox’s face bloomed upon hearing his daddy’s compliment.

“You can skip the basic course. I’ll test your abilities this week and arrange your lessons based on your level.”

Byron continued.

The kids knew Byron's skill was above theirs and agreed readily.

Realizing what happened, Rosalie frowned and scolded, "What you guys did was too much. How could you play a prank by hacking into your daddy's company's system?"

Then, she looked at Byron anxiously. "Did you lose any important documents?"

Byron appeased her by shaking his head as he smiled.

"No. Lucian and Nox are good at coding, and they're talented. Moreover, they knew their limits and only pranked my staff. Luther was shocked and wanted to call the police, but someone recalled I could resolve it. So, he called me." "It was only a prank, Mommy," Nox hugged Rosalie's thigh and spoke.

Since Byron had said so and the kids were so good at coaxing her, Rosalie could not scold them anymore and only warned them sternly.

"Mommy knows you're good at coding, but it doesn't mean you can use it to prank others. You have to use your skills properly."

The kids nodded obediently and looked apologetic.

Noticing Rosalie's anger, Byron stood before the kids and embraced Rosalie.

"They're still kids. It's good enough that they knew the boundaries and only pulled this small prank today. We can teach them slowly about the rest."
