My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1606-Rosalie failed to get any information about that afternoon from her children.

Lucian and Nox were afraid she might be persistent and quickly requested to play games.

With that, Rosalie could not continue asking and had to play with them instead.

Soon, the four were having fun in the living room.

When Byron was back, Rosalie and the little ones were still playing.

“Have you settled what you went out for?”

Noticing Byron’s cold expression, Rosalie asked with concern.

The kids were obedient and immediately remained silent.

Byron nodded as he glanced at Lucian and Nox. However, looking at them reminded him of what his mother had said just now, making him feel sorry for them.

“Daddy, come join us!”

The little boys could see their daddy was blaming himself and tried to comfort him by grabbing his hand.

Byron was startled for a few seconds before holding their hands as he walked to Rosalie’s side with them.

Then, the two adults accompanied the kids by playing with them.

Looking at the happy little boys, Byron gradually felt less guilty.

It was soon late, and Rosalie started to urge the kids to go to bed.

They looked at the dearest kids while the kids slept.

“Why don’t you go to bed first? I’ll try making a few calls before I join you.”

When they walked out of the kids’ bedroom, Rosalie spoke to Byron.

With a slight frown, Byron asked, “Who are you calling at such an hour?”

Rosalie sighed and looked troubled. "I want to try calling my teacher and see if he can contact any suppliers from overseas for me."

It broke Byron's heart to see Rosalie looking so worried. However, it was, after all, her job. He could not say anything about it. All he could do was nod and support her.

Rosalie headed to the study to contact Quentin.

Quentin picked up the call as soon as it rang.

He was proud to hear Rosalie had invented a new drug and agreed to help her contact some of the suppliers he knew.

However, Lancer Corporation's medicinal materials were of rare quality, and most of those herbs were only found in their home country.

It would be challenging to find substitute suppliers abroad, so Quentin could only try his best.

Rosalie thanked her teacher.

Then, they exchanged pleasantries before hanging up the call.

It was already almost ten when Rosalie went back to their bedroom.

Byron had already taken his bath. He was sitting on the bed with his back leaning against the headboard, and on his lap was a laptop. His focus seemed to be on the screen.

When Rosalie walked in, he put away his laptop and looked at her. "How is everything?"

Rosalie's brows knitted, and she sounded worried. "Teacher said he'll help, but... he told me to try to get a supplier here."

Byron had already stood up from the bed. He walked to her side and gave her a peck on her lips before comforting her, "There'll be a solution to this matter. I'm here to help you."

Rosalie smiled.

Then, their kiss deepened.

Rosalie's face flushed red when she noticed that Byron was already in the mood. She pushed him away a little and said, "I need to take a bath. Let's sleep early today."

Byron lifted his eyebrows and said, "I'll join you."

Puzzled, Rosalie glanced at him. "Haven't you already taken your bath?"

However, Byron had already taken her to the bathroom. As they walked, he stripped himself naked. "I can take another bath with you and help you relax a little."

At the same time, he let the shower water run as he kissed Rosalie again.

Rosalie wanted to say something, but Byron stopped her from speaking by blocking her mouth with his lips.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1607-After having a long passionate moment in the bathroom, Byron was finally done, yet Rosalie was so exhausted that she almost passed out.

Byron carried her out of the bathroom and had the second round of pleasure until midnight.

The following day, Rosalie felt that her bones were about to fall apart when she woke up.

The man was not beside her. She had no idea where he went.

Rosalie endured the pain as she got up. The idea of sleeping in separate rooms with Byron flashed across her mind again.

"You're awake?"

Byron opened the door suddenly.

Shocked, Rosalie felt her legs turn to jelly, and she almost fell.

Fortunately, Byron reacted fast enough and held her waist before she fell.

Rosalie was wearing a low-cut night dress. It was Byron who changed her into this last night.

As she lowered her body, her loose collar revealed her fair chest and the hickeys Byron printed on her.

One glance at it made Byron's desire rise.

Rosalie, in his embrace, was relieved that she did not fall. However, soon, she felt something hard behind her, and the memory of last night gushed into her mind.

Immediately, she pushed the man away from her and glared at him. "Are you a beast?"

The pain in her back struck her as she spoke, making her freeze. 2

Byron looked at Rosalie innocently and said, "It was you who kept clinging to me after we got onto the bed last night..."

Before he could finish his words, Rosalie's face flushed red, and she stopped him. "Enough!"

Then, she quickly headed to the bathroom.

Byron chuckled and grabbed her by her waist. His hand was big enough to massage her back.

Ignoring Rosalie's reluctance, Byron brought another pleasurable yet tiring moment to her in the bathroom.

When they left the bathroom, Rosalie was so annoyed that she ignored him.

"Andrius is waiting for you downstairs," Byron said suddenly.

Rosalie was startled for a moment before she looked at Byron angrily and said, "Why didn't you tell me such an important matter just now?"

Byron answered her with a playful gaze.

Frustrated but unable to do anything, Rosalie gave in and wore her clothes. After getting herself dressed and making sure she looked presentable, she headed downstairs to meet Andrius.

Meanwhile, Byron followed behind her.

Downstairs, Andrius was having his second cup of tea, and the couple finally came downstairs.

"Sorry for keeping you waiting for so long, Mr. Quirke."

Rosalie looked at Andrius apologetically.

Andrius looked at her and Byron behind her. When he saw Byron's expression, he was in a puzzle.

However, when Rosalie sat before him, he saw the hickeys on her neck and understood everything. Then, he glanced at Byron meaningfully before he spoke to Rosalie, “Rosalie, you don’t have to address me by title. You can call me by my name, like Byron.”

Rosalie was taken aback and felt it was inappropriate to call him by name.

Since she returned to her home country, Andrius had been helping her a lot, but their relationship was not that close yet...

“Andrius is my childhood friend. You don’t have to be so formal with him.”

Byron sat beside her and held her hand naturally.

Andrius was around, and Rosalie felt embarrassed. She tried to pull her hand out of Byron’s grip but failed. Thus, she gave in eventually.

Looking at his best friend being so intimate with Rosalie made Andrius feel happy.

He felt proud as he had contributed much by helping Byron plan his dates.

Moreover... Andrius could tell Byron and Rosalie were already living like a married couple from Byron’s expression.

Now he knew why Byron seemed to be in a good mood when Byron came downstairs to welcome him in.

Andrius felt the waiting was worth it when he saw his hard work of getting them back together paid off.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1608-“Okay... Andrius, Byron said you wanted to meet me. May I know why you came? Is it because you’ve found a substitute supplier to replace Lancer Corporation for the research institute?”

Rosalie hesitated for a moment before changing the way she addressed Andrius.

Andrius’ face bloomed, and he nodded. ‘Thanks to the good reputation of the research institute under your lead, the suppliers agreed to cooperate when they heard the research institute’s name.’

Rosalie glanced at the man beside her, then back at Andrius.

She had only been working in the research institute for a while.

With what she knew about the business field, the suppliers might have agreed because Andrius went to negotiate personally and because he might have mentioned Lawrence Corporation.

That was probably why the medicinal material suppliers agreed without hesitation.

Byron held Rosalie's hand like Andrius did not exist and massaged her back with another hand. It seemed he was afraid Andrius would not know Rosalie was his.

Rosalie could only try her best to ignore the hand on her waist and speak to Andrius about the details.

"May I know how you found those suppliers?"

Andrius smiled mysteriously. "Quirke Enterprise is also a magnate in the pharmaceutical industry. Of course, we have more resources than the research institute. I directly found the main supplier for those particular herbs, and as for those that I couldn't find, I found trading companies to cooperate with."

Rosalie nodded, and she had to admit that Quirke Enterprise was better than her.

"However..." Andrius paused before he looked at Byron. "You get what you pay for. The quality of the medicinal materials provided by these places is guaranteed. At the same time, the price is much higher."

Byron had told him to ignore the price and get the supplies.

Only then did Andrius have the confidence to contact the suppliers.

Even if Rosalie could not afford it, Byron would not stand by and watch.

Rosalie was excited that she finally had suppliers that could substitute Lancer Corporation. She did not notice Andrius's gaze on Byron.

"It's okay. Even if it's expensive, I was already planning to purchase Lancer Corporation's medicinal materials at three times their price anyway."

However, Lancer Corporation rejected it. I'm sure the other suppliers' price would not be higher than that."

Andrius was shocked. "Buying Lancer Corporation's supply at three times its price?"

He wondered if Rosalie's research institute was that rich.

Rosalie grinned awkwardly and said, "I was thinking getting it at that price would not be a problem as the drug would bring greater benefits in the future."

Andrius chuckled and nodded. "You're right. The suppliers' prices won't exceed that amount."

Rosalie let out a sigh of relief. "I can accept any price below that."

After that, Rosalie got the details of the medicinal materials from Andrius, and Andrius explained them to her patiently.

Relieved, Rosalie said, "I have no problem with that. May I know when they can sign the contract? I need the medicinal materials urgently."

Andrius looked at Byron with hesitation, trying to ask Byron to speak.

Noticing Andrius' gaze, Rosalie frowned in a puzzle.

Byron explained in his deep voice, 'The suppliers want to sign the contract with Quirke Enterprise. They'll supply the medicinal materials to Quirke Enterprise, and Quirke Enterprise will then supply it to the research institute like a middleman. Moreover, they requested Lawrence Corporation to be the guarantor.'

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1609-Byron and Andrius were nervous while waiting for Rosalie's response.

After all, those medicinal materials were for the research institute, yet the suppliers wanted to go through those two companies. They were afraid Rosalie would mind it.

Rosalie looked at them and was amused by their nervous expressions. "I'm fine with that. After all, you went through the trouble to get me the suppliers."

She could tolerate anything as long as the research institute could get the supplies.

The two men were relieved upon hearing that.

Andrius said, "Let's hold a press conference this afternoon!"

Rosalie was dumbfounded upon hearing this. "Why are we holding a press conference for this?"

Andrius sounded helpless. 'Those medicinal material suppliers can finally have something to do with Lawrence Corporation. Of course, they want to tell the public about it. However, they won't attend. It'll only be the three of us.'

Byron looked at Rosalie. "I can tell them that we want to announce it through Lawrence Corporation's official page if you don't want to attend the press conference."

This press conference was to let everyone know that the suppliers were cooperating with Lawrence Corporation.

Rosalie pondered and decided to give in. 'What time is the press conference? I'll get myself prepared.'

Andrius said, "The time arranged is 2.00 p.m. However, if it's inconvenient for Byron and you, I can contact the media and tell them to delay it."

Rosalie said, "It's okay. I'll be there on time. Thank you."

Andrius grinned and said, "All I did was make a few calls. You invented a new drug, and it can help so many people. Good doctors are getting fewer now, and you're one of the good ones."

Rosalie smiled upon hearing the praise and said, 'Thank you for the compliment.'

Andrius looked serious. "I'm serious. I'm not flattering you. Even if you aren't Byron's wife, I would say the same thing."

Rosalie was grateful.

Soon, the atmosphere became serious.

Andrius immediately chuckled and stood up. "Excuse myself first, then. Remember to attend the press conference on time."

Then, he pointed at Rosalie's neck carefully. "Erm... Remember to wear a high collar to hide those later."

He did not want the business press conference to turn into a scandal.

If that happened, the suppliers might be pissed off.

Rosalie looked at her neck when Andrius pointed it.

She did not see anything, but she did realize what Andrius meant, and her face flushed red. At the same time, she glared at Byron, blaming him for giving her those hickeys.

Byron looked at Andrius coldly and said, 'Why are you talking so much nonsense even when you're already leaving? Keep everything for the conference.'

Andrius grinned and left immediately.

Only Byron and Rosalie were left in the living room.

Rosalie glared at Byron embarrassedly again and headed to the mirror to look at the position of the hickeys.

She was unsure if Byron did it on purpose. The hickeys were between her neck and shoulder. They would be exposed even if she moved just a little.

Recalling Andrius' gaze on her when she headed downstairs just now, Rosalie realized Andrius might have already noticed the hickeys from that moment.

It made her blush upon thinking of it.

Suddenly, Byron's face appeared in the mirror, and he stood behind her.

A flush crept up Rosalie's ears, and she wanted to scold the man.

However, Byron spoke first with a smile, "I didn't expect that we would cooperate one day. Dr. Jacobs, I wish us a happy cooperation."
