My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1656-“You heard everything?”

Andrius watched Byron’s car disappear. He turned around, entered the living room, looked in the direction of the kitchen, and spoke out loud.

The living room was empty at this moment. Andrea was the only one in the kitchen.

It is self-evident to whom this was spoken.

Andrea’s heart tightened slightly, and she walked out of the kitchen sheepishly. “Brother, you knew I’m here...”

Andrius noticed her presence when he went downstairs.

He never exposed her because he also knew what his sister was thinking. On the contrary, he tried to divert Byron’s attention several times when the latter was about to discover her.

“You can’t say a word about what you heard just now! If I find out that you mentioned it to outsiders, you will never be included in Quirke Enterprise matters again in your life!”

Andrius warned with a serious face.

Hearing this, Andrea nodded hesitantly.

Andrius frowned and looked at her. His heart was full of helplessness as he tried to analyze the situation with her earnestly.

“The Quirke family is closely related to the interests of the Lawrence family. If something happens to the Lawrence family, our family would be unable to protect ourselves. If people knew that Byron is currently being coerced and cannot take care of himself, they would take the opportunity to attack the Lawrence family. Then, the Quirke family’s interests would be affected too. I hope you are aware.” 1

Andrea turned solemn when the Quirke family was mentioned. “I know, I won’t tell anybody.”

Andrius stared at her for a long time.

Just when Andrea couldn’t stand his scrutiny and wanted to flee upstairs, Andrius spoke slowly.

"The Lawrence family business is the Quirke family business. Since you have heard it all, you must help to find a solution."

Andrea's expression froze and she declined with a smirk. "You have all the Quirke family ties, brother. Even if I want to help. I'm powerless."

With a straight face, Andrius said, "You have your connections too, sister."

She could not hold back the smile on her face anymore. "I don't understand what you're talking about... Where would I have connections?"

Andrius frowned, and his tone became more dignified. "I believe that you previously got close to Wendy Fuller for the Quirke family's sake. Now, Xander Lancer has provoked us. If you really care about the Quirke family, don't be stupid and side with outsiders instead of your own!"

Andrea's eyes were guilty, but she bit the bullet and continued to deny it.

Andrius did not give her a chance to speak. "A few days ago, you left the company in the afternoon and came back late at night. Who did you meet?"

After the words fell, Andrea's expression changed suddenly. "I..." "Don't tell me that you went for a night drive."

Andrius cut off her words coldly. "I have already sent someone to check your whereabouts. You drove to a villa in the suburbs that day. The man who sent Wendy away lived there, right?"

Due to Andrea's foolish behavior in the past, his trust in her was next to none.

Andrius was still concerned that night, despite Andrea's explanation. So, he dispatched someone to conduct another investigation.

The result of the investigation was beyond his expectations.

Andrea lied to him again!

Andrius wanted to see what she was planning with that man, so he never revealed it.

It seemed that man must have some contacts of his own.

Andrius had to hope that he could help.

"No matter what you and Wendy have done to Dr. Jacobs before, this is your best chance to make up for it."

He warned in a deep voice. "His connections would never be simple because he has the ability to send Wendy away under the nose of the Lawrence family. He may have contacts who can help Dr. Jacobs."

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1657-Who Does He Think He Is

Hesitation flashed across Andrea's eyes.

Then, she considered Rosalie being an indispensable part of their plans and finally agreed. "I see, I'll ask him."

Andrius said again, "After this incident, don't contact him again! He is bad news if he could help Wendy escape!"

Andrea was displeased but obediently agreed. Then, she turned to go upstairs.

Back in the room, Andrea dialed the phone number Alistair had left for her for the first time.

The other end quickly picked up.

"Miss Quirke, why call at this hour?"

Alistair's voice was flirtatious. "Did you miss me?"

Bewitched by his voice, Andrea froze for a few seconds.

Alistair gave a low chuckle. His eyes were filled with cunning joy. "We do have good chemistry."

Hearing this, Andrea could not react in time. "Chemistry?"

Alistair said, "I just happened to be thinking about you and you called me. Isn't this chemistry?"

Andrea's face slowly blushed. After a few seconds, she suppressed her joy and bashfulness and forced herself to be calm. "I called you for something important."

Alistair looked bored, but his tone was sweet and considerate. "What's the matter? As long as it's you, I will spare no effort."

For a naive woman like Andrea, this could not be easier for Alistair.

These words made Andrea's heart thump and her voice softened a lot. "Rosalie has been poisoned, and no one can save her for the time being. I want to ask; do you know any powerful doctors?"

What happened to Rosalie?

Alistair's expression suddenly froze.

If he remembered correctly, Rosalie was Byron's lover, how dare anyone attack her?

"Who did it? What's the purpose?" Alistair asked coldly.

Andrea took a moment to react to the change in his tone. "It's Xander Lancer. I heard my brother talking to Byron. Xander seems to be blackmailing Byron with Rosalie and wants to gain financial benefits from him." "Him? How is he worthy of attacking the Lawrence family?"

Alistair gave a cold snort of disdain. "Just a mere medical family, who does he think he is? How dare he set his mind on my prey!" "The Lawrence family's opponent can only be me!"

'Anyone else who dared to get involved is a provocation to Alistair Murray!'

Andrea was frightened by his tone. Suddenly, she was reminded of the man who was negotiating with Wendy that night again. The giddy thumping in her heart disappeared instantly, she just felt afraid, kept silent, and dared not speak out.

Alistair said, "I see, there is indeed a hidden famous doctor in the north. I will send someone for him immediately. You tell Byron not to agree to Xander's conditions!"

If Lawrence Corporation was affected by this incident, it would be so boring when he dealt with the Lawrence Corporation later!

Andrea agreed in a whisper.

As if aware of her fear, Alistair softened his voice again. "I'll make a move because of you. If it wasn't for you, I wouldn't care if that woman lives or not."

Despite his previous tone, Andrea could not help but believe what he said. Her heart skipped a beat again.

"If I can invite that famous doctor, I will go back with him tomorrow. Will you come to pick me up?" Alistair coaxed with narrowed eyes.

Andrea's heart was beating wildly. "Yes, as long as you tell me the time."

Alistair gave a deep laugh and sweet-talked her a little more before hanging up the phone.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1658-In the hospital.

Mary was worried about Rosalie, so she sent all the experts into the ward, and a group of people studied in the ward all afternoon.

It was now the wee hours of the morning, and there was still no result. Nevertheless, Mary was still unwilling to give up.

As a doctor, she hoped she could use her skills to wake Rosalie up!

However, the experts stayed up all night yesterday. They were all older doctors in retirement age have long lost their energy after staying up until now.

Helpless, Mary could only let them rest for now.

"Rosie, your medical skills are so good. Could you give me some hints?

Tell me how to save you."

The ward fell silent. Mary turned around and looked at the person on the bed, holding her hand and muttering to herself.

'It would be great if the person lying on the hospital bed was me.

'If it's me, Rosalie would have a way to save me...'

Just when she felt desperate and blamed herself, she suddenly saw that Rosalie's eyelashes seemed to be trembling.

Mary frowned, thinking it was her illusion. She unconsciously increased her grip over her best friend's hand. "Rosie? Can you hear me?"

Rosalie's eyebrows gradually frowned, as if she were about to wake up.

Only then did Mary confirm that she was not mistaken. She got up excitedly and rang the bell beside the bed.

The experts outside the door had not gone far. Mary hurriedly strode out and called them back loudly.

"Dr. Wilson, what happened? Did Miss Jacobs respond?" The expert also became nervous.

Mary nodded repeatedly. "Come and take a look, she seems to be waking up!"

After that, she turned around and entered the ward to confirm Rosalie's condition.

Experts followed suit.

The news that Rosalie might wake up jolted the expert awake. They looked at Rosalie on the hospital bed anxiously.

Rosalie's brows tightened gradually. Even in a coma, the expression on her face turned painful and terrible.

"In my opinion, this is not a sign of Miss Jacobs waking up, but rather..." An expert spoke worriedly, but he was afraid to continue because he would get in trouble.

Mary was also a doctor herself. She quickly understood Rosalie's reaction.

Her eyes were full of urgency. "Quick, get ready for first aid!"

Those present were all experienced experts, and all the instruments in the ward were ready.

The team quickly appointed the attending doctor, and the others cooperated skillfully.

Rosalie seemed to be in extreme pain. Her face was flushed, and she gasped unconsciously.

Mary held Rosalie's hand tightly and suddenly felt her best friend grab her hand tight in return until it hurt.

Mary looked down to find the blue veins on Rosalie's pale hands throbbing!

"Rosie..." Mary's eyes turn red.

'How painful it must be for a person to exert such strength in a coma!

'Xander Lancer...what did he do to Rosie!

'I will never let that hypocrite go!'

Mary quietly made up her mind.

"Don't be afraid, you'll be fine soon! I will cure you! I will definitely cure you!"

Even though Mary knew that Rosalie couldn't hear her, her voice was still full of reassurance and firmness. 1

After an unknown amount of time, the expert in charge wiped off his cold sweat. He looked terrible when he spoke.

"Miss Jacobs' blood vessels are constricting and dilating violently, that's why she is in pain. We can't let her go on like this! Sedatives must be administered!"

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1659-Byron walked to the door of the ward. His heart dropped when he could not see the experts outside. Immediately, he strode in.

As soon as he opened the door, he heard what the expert said, and his face sank instantly.

"President Lawrence..."

When the experts saw him, they could not help feeling a little guilty.

Before Byron left, he asked them to take good care of Rosalie. Now that he witnessed Rosalie's deterioration, they would be blamed.

Byron approached the hospital bed, heartbroken at Rosalie's expression of extreme pain. He said in a deep voice, "Don't worry about me, help her first!"

Even from what Yves did to her the last time, Byron had never seen this little woman in such pain.

'What kind of drug did Xander use on her?

'To make her suffer like this even in a coma!'

Byron could feel her pain even just looking at her on the hospital bed.

'Otherwise, why would my heart hurt so much?'

He was in so much pain that he could hardly breathe...

When Mary saw him return, although she was worried about Rosalie, she stepped aside for him and went to help the experts.

Byron stood by the bed, holding Rosalie's hand. His heart weighed a ton. He was unable to say a word, only wishing that he was the one lying on the bed now!

After the tranquilizer was injected, Rosalie's condition improved. However, everyone's mood was still very heavy.

Although the tranquilizer temporarily relieved Rosalie's symptoms, vasoconstriction was not a trivial matter. She was at risk of bleeding to death at anytime.

However, they could not find the reason for the vasoconstriction...

After another round of emergency treatment, Rosalie's condition returned to normal. One by one, The experts were drenched in sweat.

This rescue also exhausted their mental strength.

"Good job everyone, please rest first. We will figure out a way together tomorrow."

Mary thanked her and sent the experts out.

There were only three of them left in the ward.

Rosalie's breathing was inaudible, and her complexion was as pale as paper.

Both Mary and Byron felt distressed.

"Have you been to the Quirkies? What did Young Master Quirke say?" Mary asked.

Byron closed his eyes, suppressed the surging emotions in his heart, and repeated Andrius' words.

Mary turned solemn. 'This means, the Quirke family could not provide immediate help. If they have to wait for those famous doctors to revert, I don't know how long it will take. Rosie is...'

She was unsure if Rosalie could last until then.

Mary finally could not control her emotions thinking of this. Her eyes turned red. "I've been a doctor for so long. This is the first time I saw a patient react so violently while in a coma. I can't imagine the pain Rosie is enduring."

The person on the hospital bed is petite. How could she bear it?

Byron held Rosalie's hand tightly. Not sure to whom he was talking, he blurted. "I will cure her! She will be fine!" 'We haven't held a wedding yet, and there are so many regrets we haven't made amends to, how could it just end like this?'

Mary held back her tears. "The three days proposed by Xander were probably the time when the side effects would kick in. It's been less than three days now, and Rosalie is already suffering like this..."

If that day came...

Mary could not imagine the person in the hospital bed dying in a coma from physical pain... This possibility alone was enough to suffocate her.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1660-As Byron heard the possibility proposed by Mary and looked at Rosalie's bloodless face on the hospital bed, he felt his heart being squeezed by a giant hand, his heart struggling to beat.

'If it is true that the poison would take effect in three days, and if I can't find a way to save her by then...'

He thought of the pain this little woman might face, and the possibility of losing her because of this. Byron could no longer suppress the rage in his heart. He was filled with murderous intent, i

Initially, he thought, 'Worst case scenario, I'll just die with her.

'But... Our three kids...

'They already grew up in dysfunctional families.

'Now that our family of five is finally reunited, are we going to abandon them again?

'How cruel would that be to the kids?'

All these made Byron want to tear Xander into thousands of pieces!

Since this incident happened because of him, why did Xander not target him instead? Why must he do such a cruel thing to this little woman?!

“President Lawrence...”

Mary was startled when she noticed the astonishingly murderous aura in the ward. She comforted him with teary eyes. “Hey, I believe you. You can definitely wake Rosalie up. Even if it’s for the kids’ sake or you, she will find a way to survive this!”

Byron’s eyes were extremely dark. “Xander! I will never let him go!”

He would make Xander suffer a fate ten thousand times worse than that of Yves Graham!

Mary’s eyes were full of hatred at the mention of that hypocrite. “Of course, that’s a given. However, Rosalie is the most important thing now. Three days will pass soon, we have to find a way quickly!”

Byron gritted his teeth deeply to calm himself down, let go of Rosalie’s hand, and said to Mary, “I will. You have been tired all day, go get some rest.”

Although Mary was reluctant to leave, she also knew that her sadness would never compare to Byron’s.

‘Perhaps he has something to say to Rosalie in private.’

Thinking of this, Mary just gave Rosalie a reluctant look, then turned around and retreated from the room.

As the door shuts tight, Byron turned to look at the person on the bed dejectedly.

“Rosalie, if I can’t think of a way after three days, please don’t blame me when you wake up...”

Every word Mary said just now hit Byron’s heart like a heavy hammer.

When he came back just now, the little woman had been in pain for a while.

What he saw may not have been her most painful moment.

Can she take this for three days?

Even if she could, Byron was not willing to let her go through such pain again...

Thinking of the scene just now, Byron was gradually surrounded by a sense of powerlessness.

For the first time, he felt so powerless.

He also repeatedly assured Rosalie that he would protect her and the children.

Yet now, it was he who pushed her into such a situation!

“Am I too useless?” He grabbed Rosalie’s hand and kissed it lightly, trying to comfort the pain in his heart.

“If I still cant think of a solution in three days, I could only agree to Xander’s request.” i

In the silent ward, Byron murmured. “When you wake up, you can hate me if you want to, it’s better than forgetting me. If I agree to his request, at least, I would still see you alive...”

If that happens, he would not mind letting this little woman leave far away with their three children.

Even if she ended up hating him, staying away from him was better than lying lifeless on the hospital bed like this.
