My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1680-Woman To Sign The Papers

Seven o'clock in the evening.

Byron's car arrived at Lawrence Mansion.

The mansion was brightly lit. Byron sat in the car alone for a few minutes before getting out. His footsteps were heavy.

He walked from the gate to the main door of the mansion.

Along the way, he adjusted his expression.

"Young Master."

The butler greeted him respectfully. "The madam and the master are having dinner."

Byron nodded and followed behind.

He saw Melody and Benedict sitting at the dining table as soon as he entered.

It was uncertain what his parents were talking about. Melody's face was a little displeased, while Benedict looked very helpless.

Benedict noticed his son coming in. He said in a deep voice, "Why are you here all of a sudden? Have you eaten yet? Come join us if you haven't."

Byron nodded and sat down opposite Melody.

Only then did Melody speak. "You're just in time. Your dad and I are talking about Chloe! That girl from the Lincoln family, do you remember? You grew up together."

His mother jogged Byron's memory of such a person.

The two grew up together since they were young, but the Lincoln family went abroad to develop a few years ago.

"Chloe returned to Somerland two days ago. She told us about wanting to see you and wondered when you would be free."

Melody kept going, "Let me tell you, Chloe is many times better than Rosalie Jacobs. Make her the young madam of the Lawrence family. The girl comes from a good background. She's gentle and won't cause trouble like Wendy Fuller!"

She told Benedict the same thing just now.

However, Benedict stood firm with his previous take and felt his wife was being unreasonable. The atmosphere between the two reached a little stalemate.

When she continued to say this in front of Byron, Benedict felt it was inappropriate. "Don't meddle in Byron's relationship. They both haven't seen each other for many years. Chloe may not feel the same!"

Melody was dissatisfied. "Our son is excellent. Even if Chloe doesn't feel anything now, she definitely will after spending some time together!

Besides, how do you know that Chloe has no feelings for Byron?"

The two argued again, completely ignoring Byron's existence.

"Then talk to her," Byron blurted out.

The dining table suddenly fell silent.

Both Melody and Benedict looked at him in disbelief.

"What did you say?" Benedict was the first to recover. He frowned and put down his cutlery.

Byron repeated indifferently, "Since you think Chloe is good, then talk to her. If she's willing to be the young lady of the Lawrence family. I'll have no objection."

The reason he came to look for his mother was simply that he had had no contact with other women except Wendy for all these years.

Even though he had agreed to Xander's request to marry another woman, no candidate came to mind.

He could only come to his mother for advice.

She had always disliked Rosalie, so she must have been looking for other candidates in private.

It did not matter to him whether it was Chloe or another woman.

All he needed now was a woman who could sign the papers with him as soon as possible!

Melody and Benedict looked at each other and then back at him in suspicion.

No one would believe that their son would have a sudden change of heart.

“You want to marry Chloe? What about Rosalie? Didn’t you insist on her before? What about Estie?” Benedict sternly looked at his son.

When Rosalie was mentioned, Byron’s eyes darkened slightly. He quickly shook it off before his parents realized it.

“As for Estie, I will talk to her. If she wanted to follow her mother, I will not stop her.’

He only talked about his arrangements for Estie, but not a word about his feelings for Rosalie.

Melody found it even more shocking that her son had already considered Estie’s arrangements.

“Byron, what’s wrong with you today? Are you feeling unwell? Did you have a fever?”

Melody had always disliked Rosalie, but no one knows better than her how obsessed her son has become with that woman.

She was already prepared for a long struggle in this matter. Why would he let Rosalie go so easily?

This does not seem right.

Byron looked at her indifferently, and asked firmly, “Hasn’t it always been your wish that I marry another woman? Why are you reacting this way now that I propose to marry another?”

Melody was left speechless. She still felt that something was wrong and could only look at Benedict.

Worried, Benedict looked at his son. 'What happened? Did you quarrel with Rosalie?'

Apart from this, he could not think of a reason why his son would suggest such a thing.

Byron remained silent about Rosalie and urged Melody. 'I don't have Chloe's contact information. Please invite her here for me, or I can go find her.'

Melody's eyes were full of suspicion.

"Only tonight. I might change my mind after tonight." Byron turned his head and met Melody's gaze.

Melody hesitated for a moment.

Indeed, she wanted her son to marry another woman, but...

Tonight, something was amiss about Byron.

"Byron, what's the matter? Talk to us, even if I can't help, there's still your father!' She patiently asked what happened.

Byron could not wait any longer. He put down his cutlery and got up. "If you don't want to, then I'm going to find someone else myself."

As he walked towards the door. Melody's heart tightened, and she quickly agreed. "Alright, I'll call Chloe and ask her to come over!"

Immediately, she took out her mobile phone and called Chloe.

The other end quickly picked up the call.

Melody pulled a face as she spoke over the phone. "Chloe, do you have time now? You mentioned that you wanted to see Byron after you came back, right? He is here with me now; do you think you could come over?"

Melody had never asked someone out in the middle of dinner before.

Fortunately, Chloe did not mind. On the contrary, she was very happy to hear that he could see Byron and agreed immediately.

Melody hung up the phone and looked at her son helplessly. 'Chloe said she would come right away. Have a seat and eat some more.'

Then, she sighed in distress.

'What happened? What's going on with my son?'

Byron said nothing as he sat in the same position as before.

Melody looked at him and then at Benedict, knowing that Byron would not budge. She hoped that Benedict would be able to get something from their son.

Benedict just looked at Byron sternly and stood up from his seat. "I won't interfere with your decision, but you have to be responsible for your decision."

With that, the senior Lawrence turned and went upstairs.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1682-Melody and Byron sat in the living room, waiting for Chloe's arrival.

Both mother and son were relatively silent.

After an unknown amount of time, there was a sound at the door.

Melody glanced at her son and got up to greet her in person.

"Hello, Aunty."

At the door, a woman with a graceful temperament walked in. She had a sweet smile and a soft voice. Her gestures were elegant and ladylike.

Chloe wore a long, dark green dress and a white handbag. She wrapped Melody's arm affectionately with the other hand.

When she returned to Somerland, the two had already met several times. They had gotten close over this period.

Melody was satisfied with her in every possible way.

In her mind, this was the best daughter-in-law she imagined having!

"I'm really sorry. I don't know if you have eaten dinner. This was such a bad time for Auntie to call you." Melody greeted her with a smile.

Chloe smiled like she did not mind. Oh, don't worry. I'm on a diet lately, and I don't eat at night."

The two walked into the living room, laughing all the way.

Byron heard their voices and stood up to greet her in a gentlemanly manner.

“Byron, long time no see. You’ve matured.” When Chloe saw him, her eyes flickered with admiration.

When the two separated, they were still teenagers.

Over the past few years, she often saw Byron on TV and knew that he had changed a lot.

However, nothing compared to meeting him in person. She could truly feel how much Byron has changed.

Byron reached out his hand politely and shook hers. “Long time no see. You’ve become beautiful.”

Chloe smiled bashfully.

Melody noticed the pleasant atmosphere between them and pushed her earlier doubts aside. She said with a smile, “Carry on, you both. I’ll go get some tea for you.”

With that, she turned and left, leaving the two young adults alone.

Chloe sat down on the sofa beside Byron and looked him up and down.

When she was with Melody two days ago, Melody told her a lot about Byron and Rosalie.

As she looked at Byron now, it was hard to imagine that he would do that for a woman.

‘Moreover, he came to see me on his own. Wouldn’t he be afraid that Miss Jacobs might misunderstand?’

Thoughts were swirling in Chloe’s eyes.

Byron cut straight to the point. “Do you have a boyfriend or someone you fancy?”

Chloe could not help being taken aback and looked at the person in front of her incomprehensibly.

‘Emotional matters are very personal, but Byron asked me as soon as we met...’

Chloe was aware that Byron looked serious. He was not here for a casual chat, so she subconsciously became serious too. “No... Why?”

Byron said, 'What do you think of me? If you can accept me, let's sign the marriage papers now.'

Chloe was stunned.

'What is going on? Getting married as soon as we met?

'If my memory serves me right, Melody clearly said that Byron has someone he cares about. So, what is this all about?

'Moreover, it's already late at night. How would we get the papers?'

"Byron, are...are you drunk? Do you know what you're talking about?" She asked him hesitantly.

Unmoved, Byron looked at her, and his tone was calm. "I'm not drunk."

Chloe felt even more confused by his confirmation.

Byron's voice was deep. "This is the reason I invited you here today. Would you consider marrying me?"

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1683-Suddenly, Chloe did not know how to react. The only he talked about was marriage.

At the same time, Melody overheard Byron just as she was about to serve them tea. She was surprised too.

She thought that her son was being emotional and that he would change his mind after meeting Chloe.

She never expected that he would propose.

On top of that, he did it so bluntly!

"Byron, what's the matter with you? Why did you suddenly propose to marry me?"

When Chloe came back to her senses, her intuition told her something.

'Something must've happened for Byron to do this!

'What is it, then?'

Melody paused at Chloe's question and looked at her son in puzzlement.

'I've asked him repeatedly, but he wouldn't tell me. Now, even Chloe thinks so. There must be something wrong.

'I wonder if he will tell Chloe the truth.'

She was waiting at the kitchen door.

She thought Byron would say something. However, after waiting for a while, Byron unexpectedly turned his head and looked over.

The mother and son's eyes met. Melody was taken aback for a moment. Then, she placed the cups on the table as if nothing had happened.

"Have some tea. Let's chat while drinking!"

With that, she wanted to sit down beside them.

Byron interjected. "Mom, would you please excuse us? I want to talk to Miss Lincoln privately."

Melody paused. The expression on her face froze. 'What is it that you must say without me?'

She was displeased.

Byron did not intend to explain.

At that point, the atmosphere was tense.

Chloe quickly spoke up to ease the situation. "Auntie, I crave that little snack you made. Is it okay if you..."

Melody finally gave in. "Alright, you both carry on. Auntie will make you some snacks."

Then, she turned around reluctantly and went back to the kitchen.

Byron and Chloe continued talking.

In the kitchen, Melody was making snacks while trying her best to eavesdrop on their conversation.

However, she could only hear chatter but not the specific content.

More than half an hour later, Melody became restless. She could not help but stop what she was doing. She wanted to go out and have a look.

She exited the kitchen to see them get up from the sofa. They looked like they were planning to go out.

“What is going on?” Melody looked at them puzzled.

Chloe smiled at her. “Sorry, Auntie. I’m in a hurry. I may not be able to enjoy your snacks today, please save them for me. I’ll come back another day.”

‘In a hurry?’

Melody glanced at her son suspiciously.

Byron met her gaze and said indifferently, “I’m taking her to sign the marriage certificate. I’ve already informed the Civil Affairs Bureau, and they will only wait for us for half an hour.”

He turned his head and glanced at Chloe, motioning her to hurry up.

What they talked about just now was unclear, but Chloe did not seem fazed at all. Instead, she picked up her handbag cooperatively and walked quickly to his side.

The two walked toward the door, one after the other.

Although Melody was happy that her son would marry another woman as she wished, she was suspicious at the fact they seemed so urgent that they would not even wait half an hour.

“Why the hurry? Does Estie know?”

She followed them quickly.

Byron did not turn back. “I’ll tell her after I get the certificate.”

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1684- Find A Candidate So Quickly

The two got in the car as soon as they left the mansion.

On the way to the Civil Affairs Bureau, Chloe just felt a little unbelievable.

'I actually said yes.

'Signing the marriage papers with my long-lost childhood friend that I haven't seen for many years.

'Unreal.'

Byron noticed she was distracted and asked, "What are you thinking?"

Chloe came back to her senses and smiled nonchalantly. "Oh, nothing. This just feels like a dream. I never expected the Lawrence family to be so powerful that you could even control the Civil Affairs Bureau office hours."

Byron responded indifferently. 'It's just stamping a seal. This would take only one person's effort, not a big deal."

Chloe smiled and said nothing.

Half an hour later, Byron arrived on time at the entrance of the Civil Affairs Bureau. The two went in to apply for a marriage certificate.

They left the Civil Affairs Bureau and Byron drove towards Lancer Ancestral Residence.

Chloe did not respond either. She just held the marriage certificate and looked at it curiously.

"We're here.'

Byron spoke as he stopped the car at Lancer Ancestral Residence.

Chloe responded in acknowledgment and handed the marriage certificate to him. Byron put the marriage certificate in his pocket and the two entered the residence.

"President Lawrence, this is..."

After what happened last time, Byron's sudden visit gave the butler anxiety. He wanted to stop Byron but held back in fear.

However, Byron stopped and said to him, "I'm looking for Mr. Lancer.

Please inform him, he will see me."

The butler heaved a sigh of relief. He quickly agreed and turned around to inform their arrival.

“Master, President Lawrence is here, and...he brought a woman with him.”

When Xander came back from the hotel, the anger in his heart still had not dissipated. Void of expression, he drank moodily alone.

A deep look flashed across his eyes as he heard the butler. He got the servants to put away the wine glasses on the table. “Welcome them in!”

The butler agreed and went out to invite them in respectfully.

After a while, Byron and Chloe appeared in front of Xander.

Xander raised his eyes and looked at Chloe, then pulled his lips. “President Lawrence, you’ve got a great eye. With this last-ditch effort, you still managed to find such a lovely lady. You are indeed the great President Lawrence.’

When Chloe saw Xander, she only felt his dangerous aura. Her heart tightened slightly as she stood behind Byron vigilantly.

Xander snorted at her little gesture and sneered. “Hmm, were you sneaking behind Miss Jacobs’ back while she was still awake, with someone Mrs. Lawrence scouted for you? Otherwise, how did you manage to find a candidate so quickly? “Or, perhaps this young lady is desperate to marry into the Lawrence family?”

Byron’s face turned slightly cold at his comment. “Mr. Lancer, you can insult me, but don’t hurt others.’

He took a step back and introduced Chloe to him, allowing her to stand in front of Xander. “This is Chloe. We grew up together. The Lincoln family went abroad for development a few years ago, and she followed suit. She returned to Somerland only two days ago. As you said, she is indeed a lady of a prominent family. Therefore, you’d better watch your words, Mr.

Lancer.”

These words were not just to introduce Chloe to Xander, but a discreet warning.

The Lincolns and the Lawrences had solid ties. In these years, the former had also gone abroad for development and can now be regarded as influential and powerful as well.

If Xander behaved badly toward Chloe, even if the Lawrence family’s hands are tied because of his coercion, the Lincoln family would never let him go!
