My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1743-There was a flash of warmth in Byron's eyes as he witnessed the warm atmosphere inside.

"Byron, do you really not want to go in?" Andrius urged, seeing the change in his expression.

Byron's face darkened. 'No, not until Xander is finished.'

Only after Xander paid his dues, could he sit beside that little woman with peace of mind.

He might be softened and hold back because of that little woman if he went in now.

Andrius knew what his buddy was thinking, so he stopped persuading him.

He glanced at his phone and said, "The plan has already started."

Byron's eyes darkened like he was dissatisfied with the original plan. He pondered for a moment, and said coldly, "After this, Lawrence and Quirke will join forces to attack Lancer's stocks abroad. Then, we'll release the news to all the other local institutions and abroad, join forces to bring down Lancer's stock price."

Andrius nodded in agreement and immediately began to order his assistants to do it.

One o'clock after midnight.

There was another uproar on the Internet.

[Explosive! The Century-Old Lancer family falsified its operating profits and deceived shareholders!] [Lancer's stock price is inflated! The market prospect is bleak!]

!]

Every kind of negative news about the Lancer Corporation broke out.

Some people even started to physically attack Lancer Corporation employees.

"The Lancers are fakes. The annual free clinic is just a publicity stunt, yet this year's medicine is getting more and more expensive!" "The audacity to still claim to be a century-old medical family! Their quality is mediocre at best. All they care about is profits!"

Many of Lancer's stockholders lost sleep as they looked at the unfolding scandal and the stock market.

In just one hour, under pressure from all parties, Lancer's stock price plummeted by 65%!

And it kept crashing!

The stockholders wanted to sell in a hurry but to no avail. Some even had heart attacks from the frustration!

Soon, the group of stockholders joined the public opinion and cursed the Lancers.

Overnight, Lancer's century-old legacy and stock price fell to the bottom.

Panic continued to spread.

In the middle of the night, Old Master Lancer had just fallen asleep when he was awakened by frantic knocking on the door.

For the past few days, Xander first sent the old man back to North City. Then, Xander worried that the old man would treat Rosalie in person, so he sent people to take the old man back to the Ancestral Residence and put him under strict surveillance.

This was equivalent to putting the old man under house arrest.

The old man has lived longer than most. When has he suffered this kind of grievance?

However, the Lancer family's executive authority was no longer in his hands. The old man just endured it, living like the walking dead, no matter how angry he was.

When the old man heard the knock on the door, he thought that Xander had come back to brainwash him again. He turned over and ignored it.

Immediately afterward, the bodyguard's voice sounded.

"Master, someone is looking for you downstairs." "Someone looking for me?"

Old Master Lancer slowly got up from the bed.

'Xander hardly allowed me to see anyone as a precaution.

'What's going on now?'

He staggered to the door, opened it, and was about to ask the bodyguard who was looking for him, but he heard the commotion from downstairs.

“Where is Xander? Tell him to come out! He must give us an explanation today!” “Come out, that Lancer brat! If you don’t come out, we won’t play nice anymore!”

This tone was sheer hostility.

Old Master Lancer’s heart sank slightly, and he glanced at the bodyguard suspiciously.

Speechless, the bodyguard lowered his head guiltily.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1744-“Slow down, everyone. Tell me, what happened?”

Old Master Lancer could vaguely guess that his grandson had caused trouble. Since it was Lancer family-related, he chose to come forward after all.

Everyone maintained a level of decorum when they saw the old man coming forward. “Sir, this matter has nothing to do with you. Ask Xander to talk to us!”

Old Master Lancer had been in the medical industry for so many years. Everyone knew his character well.

Many people present had also received the old man’s favor and kindness, and they did not want to hurt the old man.

Old Master Lancer glanced at the room briefly to find the living room filled with company leaders who had business relations with the Lancers.

Some have cooperated with Long for many years, but their faces were filled with anger.

This made the old man feel even more flustered. He spoke calmly, “Xander is not here now. Please, tell me what happened. If he did something wrong, on behalf of the Lancers, let me apologize to everyone first.”

Everyone looked at each other in blank dismay.

However, the silence only lasted for a few minutes.

The living room exploded again when it became apparent that the old man did not plan to hand Xander over.

"Sir, can you explain to us? Our company has cooperated with the Lancers for so many years because we believe in you and Lancer's stability and long-term development. But now? All the money we've invested is gone from this incident!" "Your grandson did all this! Now the Lancers are simply street pariahs. In this case, will the final payment that Xander promised us arrive as scheduled? The project is already coming to an end!"

Incident? Street pariahs?

Old Master Lancer panicked as his head spun from all the questioning." You...What's going on here? What happened to the Lancer Corporation?"

The old man's face turned sickly. The crowd could not bear to see him that way, so they stopped talking.

Some people only cared about their benefits and immediately revealed what happened to the company.

"Lancer Corporation is now involved in a lawsuit. I heard that the police have sealed up all Lancer's warehouses! I'm sure you wouldn't be able to supply medicine as usual tomorrow! Moreover, Lancer's company stock has collapsed in the stock market! This is all Xander's wonderful job!"

Old Master Lancer's complexion instantly turned ashen. "That evil child, evil child! I have already told him not to meddle in the Lancer Corporation's affairs! I have warned him a long time ago, I, I..."

Mid-sentence, the old man glanced at the people present but swallowed the rest of his words.

He knew that this must be Byron's revenge now that Lancer Corporation had fallen to this point!

'If these people know that Lancer Corporation not only got in trouble but also offended the Lawrences, they will abandon us!'

Therefore, even if Old Master Lancer's heart was breaking, he could not say it. There was only regret in his heart.

'It's all because I was too blinded back then. Why didn't I see that Xander was wild with ambition?

I'm the one who handed the Lancer Corporation over to Xander!

'I was the one who destroyed the Lancer legacy!'

For a moment, the old man was deep in self-blame.

His heart was weak, to begin with. Linder extreme grief and indignation, he could not catch his breath and passed out on the spot!

When Xander's assistant arrived, he saw the old man collapse. He rushed over to help him up.

"It's him! He is Xander's assistant!"

Someone recognized him and shouted.

Immediately afterward, the living room became a mess.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1745-"Where is Xander Lancer? Come out and give us an explanation!"

Everyone surrounded the assistant, asking about Xander's whereabouts.

The assistant struggled to support the old man with one hand, while trying to appease the crowd. "Mr. Lancer is waiting for you at Lancer Corporation. Everyone, please go ahead. I'll send the old man to the hospital first."

Everyone did not think much about it. In addition, the old man had fainted, so they did not want to stop him. They could only watch the assistant leave and then rushed to the company angrily.

The century-old foundation of the Lancer family collapsed overnight.

Andrius raised his eyebrows at Byron when he read the news. "Can we go in and see my sister-in-law now? She had been looking for you since she woke up!"

Byron reluctantly accepted the outcome, adjusted his expression, put away the hostility around him, then opened the door and walked in.

Everyone looked over as the door opened.

Linda whispered. "President Lawrence is here!"

Among these people, she was the only one who did not know.

Mary looked at the man at the door, then at her best friend. She smiled and led the three little ones to her side. "Come on, Godmother will take you out for some delicious food. You've been busy all night, are you all hungry? "

The little guys nodded sensibly and smiled at their Daddy.

Old Master Loewe also found an excuse to leave.

Everyone tacitly gave them space to be alone.

The two looked at each other from a distance, and there was silence in the air.

"Where were you?"

Rosalie was the first to break the silence, with some worry in her eyes.

Byron stepped forward, sat down beside her, and looked at her deeply for a while, just to confirm if she was okay.

Rosalie pursed her lips and smiled at him. Her voice was soft. "I'm fine now. The experts checked it out. Old Master Loewe also checked it out for me. Just rest for a few days and I'll be fine."

Byron completely relaxed when he heard this. The corners of his eyes were filled with tenderness.

"Last time, Lucian and Nox always said that you were the most powerful doctor in the world. I thought it was an exaggeration. Now, it seems that they are right."

Rosalie chuckled helplessly. "Lucian just said that too! You both have such great chemistry."

Byron raised his eyebrows coolly. "We are indeed right. If it weren't for your excellent medical skills, I might've lost my true love, so thank you for this."

From wife to true love, Byron expressed his love more bluntly.

His declaration of love stunned Rosalie for a moment. Her face gradually blushed, and she lowered her eyes shyly.

Byron looked at the person in front of him. The fear from the past few days lingered. He murmured in a whisper. "I'm serious. I almost lost you..." 'Looking back now, this woman came to me every time in every situation between them.

'At the beginning of our marriage and the reunion six years later.

'In both incidents, on the brink of death, this woman exhausted every effort to save herself just to be with me.'

These thoughts rendered Byron helpless as he plummeted into a deep sense of guilt and self-reproach.

When Rosalie heard him stop mid-sentence, she raised her eyes in puzzlement and looked over.

As their eyes met, she saw the emotion in Byron's eyes.

Rosalie's heart moved slightly. She thought that he was still immersed in the worries of the past few days. She just reached out to touch his face. "Don't be afraid. Look, I'm all okay now, right?"

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1746-Make Him Pay

Before she could finish, the man suddenly grabbed her wrist.

His lips were already over hers before she could react.

Rosalie was stunned for a few seconds, then slowly closed her eyes and leaned into his arms.

The man's assertiveness paused slightly as he sensed her giving in to him, then his advances became forceful again.

Rosalie was breathless from his kiss. She opened her eyes slightly and saw the back of her best friend on the window of the ward. That made her shy as she struggled slightly.

Byron stopped sensibly but still held her tightly in his arms.

'A person who had always been calm, unexpectedly showed a rare emotion of fear.'

Realizing this, regret flashed across Rosalie's eyes and just let him hold her.

Not sure how long it took before Byron finally let go of his embrace. He returned to his usual calmness.

"You've worked hard these few days," Rosalie spoke in distress as she watched the man in his most vulnerable state, unable to hide his fatigue.

Byron just looked at her straight. "I'm glad you are fine. I will never go easy on those who make you suffer!"

Rosalie was slightly taken aback, and then suddenly said, "Just now..."

She knew this man too well.

She woke up from a coma and the little ones were beside her.

Although she felt strange about Byron's absence, it did not occur to her immediately.

Thinking about it now, Byron must have returned the favor to Xander.

"Sorry for not being by your side when you woke up."

Byron apologized deeply. His brows were slightly furrowed, and there was still worry in his eyes.

He was worried that the little woman would think he did not value her enough.

Rosalie noticed the subtle emotion in his eyes, and her heart was moved again.

'Once upon a time, who would have thought that Byron would look at me with such eyes?

'He was afraid that I would be upset.'

She smiled gently and held Byron's hand to comfort him. Then, she asked about Xander situation.

"What's the situation now? You have to be careful, Xander is insidious. I'm afraid...he will have a backup."

Byron turned slightly serious. "Don't worry, he has nothing to threaten me except you and the kids. Lancer Corporation is just a fish in a barrel now. If Xander dares to hurt you, I will make him pay!"

Rosalie breathed a sigh of relief and felt incredibly grateful.

"Fortunately, he only targeted me and didn't come after the kids." 'If the three little ones suffered as I did...'

Rosalie felt she would readily comply with whatever request Xander made of her at that point!

Even if it was Byron, there would be no other choice!

‘Fortunately, I was the one who suffered...’

Thinking of the little ones, Rosalie subconsciously raised her eyes to look at the man in front of her.

After this incident, she realized even more how important it was for the kids to have a father.

‘This man is their biological father.

‘If Byron and the children knew their true identity, they would be very happy, right?’

‘But.

Rosalie’s heart ached as she thought of Melody’s attitude towards the two little boys.

However, this time, her heart gradually tilted towards confessing.

With some hesitation, Rosalie opened her mouth and looked at the person in front of her.
