My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1784-The Relationship Between Medical Families

Old Master Lancer looked away guiltily when he saw Rosalie.

Rosalie took the initiative to approach upon seeing his reaction. She took over the drip stand from the lawyer and looked at the drip medication that was about to finish.

Mr. Caleb was slightly surprised. ‘You are...?’ “I’m a friend of the Lancer family. I’ll take care of Old Master Lancer,” Rosalie responded as she greeted Mr. Caleb.

Mr. Caleb nodded in response. After all, there was nothing much he could do to help. Thus, he let go of Old Master Lancer and returned to his office.

Old Master Lancer still looked guilty and could not face Rosalie.

“Miss Jacobs, Xander did something terrible to you and almost killed you. He made you suffer so much. He deserves it for what he has done to you. There’s nothing I can do to compensate for what he has done. I’m sorry!”novelxo

He apologized sincerely with a choking voice.

Rosalie saw the old master in such a helpless state. He looked older than before, and it made her feel sorry for him.

She held Old Master Lancer’s arm and shook her head. “I won’t forgive Xander for his mistake, but it has nothing to do with you, Old Master Lancer. I came here today because I found out that your illness struck you.

I prescribed some medicine for you, and I hope you’ll take it.”

Old Master Lancer was at a loss for words.

He lifted his head and was startled. His hands trembled.

“This... isn’t appropriate. The Lancer family almost became your enemy! We’re the ones who disappointed you. Why are you being so kind to me now?” The tears that had dried off began to flow again.

“Old Master Lancer, you’ve made a lot of contributions to the medical industry of our country, and you’ve saved the lives of countless civilians. You spent your life on your career without thinking about gains or losses.

Therefore, what I'm doing now has nothing to do with the Lancer family. I'm only showing my appreciation to you, a senior doctor."

Rosalie was honest and carefully helped Old Master walk. After a few steps, she noticed the IV drip had finished, so she took out the needle.

Old Master Lancer was in a daze upon hearing that, and he looked far into the distance.

Rosalie added, "I'm sure you don't have much money now, Old Master Lancer. They must have seized the Lancer family's assets. Considering that you'll need a lot of nursing expenses, I've prepared some money here. You must accept it, please!"

As she spoke, she took a bank card from her bag and added, "The password is very simple, 123456. Please remember it!"

After Rosalie stuffed the bank card into Old Master Lancer's hand, he quickly let go of it and shook his head.

"No, no, no. I can't take any money. The medicine is good enough for me. I'm ashamed of what my grandson has done!"

Rosalie sighed. She had guessed Old Master Lancer would not accept it. Thus, she continued persuading, "Old Master Lancer, no matter what, you're a senior. My mentor has told me a lot about you and even told me to take care of you. Don't think too much about this sum of money. I'm just acting on my mentor's words. Please take it. Think of it as a gift given by a fellow doctor of the medical field."

Those words moved Old Master Lancer, and he finally accepted the bank card.

Rosalie smiled, feeling relieved.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1785-Rosalie gave Old Master Lancer her phone number after giving him the bank card.

"Old Master Lancer, you must take care of yourself. If anything happens, call me, and I'll be there."

Old Master Lancer stood in a daze momentarily before nodding as he lamented.

"Miss Jacobs, it's rare to see such a dedicated doctor like you. My grandson is a real bastard. He doesn't deserve you."

With a smile, Rosalie helped Old Master Lancer hail a cab.

The cab soon arrived. Rosalie opened the door and carefully helped the old man take his seat.

Suddenly, as if Old Master Lancer had thought of something, he froze.

“What’s the matter, Old Master Lancer?”

Rosalie was confused, but Old Master Lancer looked at her excitedly.

“Miss Jacobs, the Lancer family has a book of ancient medical techniques which suits you. It’s called the ‘Greenbloom Needling Technique.’ I wonder if you’ve heard of it?”

Rosalie was momentarily stunned.

Greenbloom Needling Technique. She was surprised to hear this method existed. Her mentor had once mentioned that it was a method that was passed down and it had gone extinct.

Her mentor had also told her that this needling method was to cure strange drugs and poisons that had special effects. It was a rare medical treasure for detoxification, and it was done through needling.

By some coincidence, it was in the Lancer family’s collection.

“Miss Jacobs... Miss Jacobs...”

Old Master Lancer called out twice, snapping Rosalie out of her thoughts.

She nodded and answered, “Yes, I have. My mentor said it’s a precious and ancient medical skill.” “Your mentor is right. It’s indeed an ancient medical skill. However, this needling method is a waste in the Lancer family. It’s because it requires a woman to carry out the technique. The female approach has more finesse and a subtler control. A man can’t do that. So, it’s been kept in our collection for years.

“If you’re interested, I’ll give it to you. Do you want it?”

Old Master Lancer’s voice sounded casual as if he was only giving Rosalie a simple gift.

However, it was a shocking offer to Rosalie.

“Can you give it to me?” She did not hide anything, including the look of desire in her eyes.

That was the ancient Greenbloom Needling Technique!

“Of course. I’m grateful that you’re willing to help me, Miss Jacobs. Moreover, you’re a talented doctor. You’re the most suitable person to practice this.”

Old Master Lancer looked at Rosalie and finally revealed a smile.

‘Thank you very much. Old Master Lancer, thank you so much.’

Old Master Lancer shook his head. The driver was urging Old Master Lancer to get into the car so he could set off. Little did he know that the book these two were discussing was a valuable ancient book.

“I’ll call you again tomorrow and set an appointment for us to meet. I’ll give it to you myself.”

Rosalie was pleasantly surprised and nodded.

After watching Old Master Lancer enter the car, Rosalie still could not calm down. She had a smile plastered on her face.

She could not wait to call Byron and share with him her joy.

Byron was happy for her. “My wife is a better person than I am when it comes to getting along with others. It’s not a skill; it comes from the heart.

So, good fortune comes naturally to you. Congratulations!”

Rosalie felt sweet and loved upon hearing the way Byron addressed her. “Hey, when did I say that you could call me that?”

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1786-The weather was sunny during the weekend. It was windy, yet not too dry, which made it comfortable.

Byron and Rosalie took the triplets to the aquarium early in the morning.

It was a promise to the kids. As parents, they should keep their word.

Fortunately, it was early and not as crowded. Even so, many visitors were already there.

After buying the tickets, Byron carried two bags filled with the kids’ clothes, hats, sunglasses, and food.

It was not because they were worried about the cost of food outside. It was just that the couple did not want the kids to eat food that was not as hygienic to ensure their health.

Although the bags were heavy, Byron was happy to carry them.

“Honey, put on some sunscreen. It’ll get sunny later, and UV rays are bad for the skin.” Just as they entered the aquarium, Byron started his job as a husband.

Rosalie glanced at him. She felt that Byron’s temperament seemed to have changed. It made her wonder where the domineering and cold President Lawrence had gone.

The three little ones were cheering and arguing about which sea creature to see first.

Lucian had planned it out and insisted on following the left path. “Only by going against most people’s route can we avoid the crowd. So, I still choose to start with the Sea Lion Pavilion. We shouldn’t start with the most popular dolphin section. It’s best to keep the best for the last.”

Nox nodded, but he stated an opposite opinion, “Brother, many might think like us. So, the left path might be more crowded than the right. Look, let’s start from the right. We can make a detour back to see the dolphin show later.” “Lucian, Nox, I don’t care. I want to see the penguins first. Let’s go and see the penguins first.”

Estelle did not care about plans. She just wanted to see the penguins first.

At last, the three little ones looked to their daddy and mommy for advice.

“Let’s vote to see which path we should take, then. Let’s start voting on Estie’s suggestion. Those who agree should raise their hands!” A fair approach was adopted.

“Okay, now let’s vote. Those who want to see the penguins first, raise your hands!” Rosalie started the vote.

In an instant, Estelle raised her hand high.

Afraid of being despised by his daughter, Byron lifted his hand quickly.

Then, Lucian raised his hand.

Nox also did the same.

Everyone laughed upon seeing that.

Estelle leaped happily upon seeing this.

“Ok, let’s go see the penguins!” Byron ordered, leading the group to their first station.

Lucian whispered to Nox as they walked.

“Nox, this is all because of you. Why did you tell Estie she had to adopt a penguin to register for that social media account?” Lucian glanced at Nox speechlessly.

“I was only joking. I never thought she would take it seriously.” Nox grinned.

When Rosalie heard this, she frowned and asked, “Did you bully Estie again?”

The little boys shook their heads at once. “No, absolutely not. Estie... might have placed a virus in your laptop again.” “It was Lucian who taught Estie to make a new virus. He said they needed a place to try it out, so he chose your laptop!” Nox decided to ‘betray’ his brother.

Rosalie was startled. Just as she was about to scold them, Lucian and Nox ran off.
