

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1811

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1811-Chloe was in a puzzle. Melody was a woman of etiquette, but she was now being a little impolite by applying a face mask before her guest.

However, on second thought, it meant Melody took her as family instead of a guest. That was why Melody did not pay much attention to etiquette.

Noticing Benedict was still around, she smiled and said," Uncle Benedict, I brought delicious fruits. I'll go and wash them!"

Benedict immediately rejected her kindness and went to wash the fruits himself.

He knew what was on Chloe's mind. She was trying to use this excuse to create some space for her and Melody.

It made him wonder what Chloe wanted to say to his wife.

He hoped his wife would not make the same silly mistake again, just like what she did about Wendy's crush on Byron.

Chloe smiled and looked at Melody when Benedict entered the kitchen.

Her purpose was simple. She wanted Melody's help to give her a chance to get along with Byron.

She even had a great excuse for it.

"Aunt Melody, I got to know a piece of news today. The old principal of the junior high school Byron and I attended is ill. It might be cancer or something, but the old principal is poor and has little savings. He won't be able to seek treatment in time. I wonder if you can help me talk to Byron about it. I'll go with him to visit and donate some money for the old principal's treatment."

Chloe explained slowly. She believed Melody would understand her intention.

All she wanted was to have some time to get along with Byron to improve their relationship.

She was not too worried that Melody would refuse.

"Really? That's the right thing to do. However, Chloe, I've been busy with my physical examination recently. Byron is probably busy with business too. You can ask him yourself. He should be able to spare some time."

Melody's answer made Chloe freeze.

That was a gentle refusal. Melody did not only avoid agreeing to Chloe's suggestion, but she did not even want to convey her words to Byron.

Chloe frowned slightly before hiding her displeasure.

"Oh, alright. Are you feeling okay?" She then brought up the topic of Melody's health.

She pondered Melody's attitude toward her.

It was different from the last time when Melody was eager to get Byron and her together.

"It's not a big deal. It's just a routine check. Don't worry about it."

Melody smiled, but the face mask covered most of her expression, making the smile look insincere.

After exchanging pleasantries, Chloe felt she could only contact Byron herself and left the Lawrence family's mansion.

After she left, Benedict came out with the fruits and nodded to his wife. "Finally, you've learned your lesson."

Melody did not respond but was thinking about what her husband had said.

If she had not frantically supported Wendy at that time, would she have continued to make mistakes till the end or would she have thought things through in time? Perhaps the Fuller family would not have perished.

Melody felt like she was a sinful person. Suddenly, she looked at her husband and asked, "Benedict, am I a person with many flaws in my character? I want to make up for my sins by praying to God. Do you think it'll work?"

"Yes, it is good to believe in God. Anyway, it'll never be too late to pray and realize your mistake from the heart sincerely."

Benedict fed his wife the fruit.

Although she still had the mask on her face, tears still flowed down her cheeks.

Her husband was so kind to her. He spoiled her so much, causing her to become a paranoid person.

However, she forgot to cherish his love for her.

Recommended Novels

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1812

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1812- Don't Deserve

Chloe pondered and decided to call Byron to tell him about her suggestion.

However, of course, she did not mention going alone with Byron.

Byron agreed immediately. "Okay. I'll spare sometime. Let's go and visit the old principal. I'll ask if Rosie is free. She can check on the principal's condition. You know how good her medical skills are."

All Chloe could do was give up her intention since Byron said so.

"Sure. Miss Jacobs is so skillful in medicine that she might be able to treat the old principal. That's great! Let me know once you've confirmed the time. I'm available any time."

"Alright."

Chloe's expression immediately turned gloomy when Byron hung up the call. She did not want to see Byron and Rosalie acting lovey-dovey before her.

Frustration struck her.

"You always miss the chance! Chloe, just give up. Aunt Melody has changed her mind. You'll have no chance. You should just wish them the best. Isn't that better?"

The more she convinced herself, the sadder she felt.

Why did she have to be so egotistical? She might have already married Byron if she had been bold and confessed her feelings to Byron in high school.

After pondering for some time, Chloe calmed herself down and headed downstairs.

Her father and mother noticed her listless expression. They asked her about it with concern.

She said she had delivered the gift to the Lawrence family. Then, she said nothing more and played with her phone.

“Chloe, your uncle wants to introduce you to a young man who studied abroad. Do you have time to meet him?” Yvette grinned and said softly, afraid it might annoy her daughter.

Chloe froze upon hearing this and looked at her mother angrily. “Mom, can’t you stop? Three in a week. That’s a lot. Those guys are great, but I don’t like them. Your daughter doesn’t deserve them, alright?”

Awkward, Yvette looked at her husband.

Everett’s forehead puckered, and he said seriously, “Watch your words. We’ve told you not to think about getting Byron anymore. He has explained himself, and you were the one who agreed to help him with the fake marriage. It’s impossible for you to date him. Miss Jacobs has already given birth to triplets for him. Why can’t you just give up?”

That pissed Chloe off.

She stood up, shot her father a cold glance, and walked out of the hall.

“You...” Everett’s anger flared, and Yvette quickly comforted him.

Chloe felt suffocated.

Sure enough, no one in the world could understand her. The guys she was introduced to were nothing compared to Byron.

Chloe knew it was impossible, but she could not resist liking him!

She drove her Porsche, called some friends, and headed to the bar.

Meanwhile, Rosalie walked out of the lab and into the office.

Her face bloomed in joy.

Not long after, Old Master Loewe also came over, looking excited.

“It worked, Miss Jacobs. You’re amazing. Once we found the substance, we made it many times more effective than before. We’ll be able to introduce new drugs as soon as possible through special application channels.”

Rosalie nodded. “Thank you for leading so many researchers and working around the clock. You’re the reason we succeeded!”

Old Master Loewe was shy to hear this. "How can this be my credit to claim? It's your ability that brought us to success. Hahaha, but either way, we're doing a service to all our patients! It's a great thing!"

"Well, there are other projects to start. Let's work together!"

As expected, with Old Master Loewe joining their team, their efficiency increased.

Rosalie believed that in the future, she would be able to create more medicines that will meet her mentor's expectations.

Recommended Novels

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1813

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1813-Rosalie was in a bright mood that day.

She invited her best friend to celebrate her success that night.

Then, she called Byron, asking him to bring Andrius to the celebration meal.

After that, she drove to the kindergarten, picked up the kids, and headed to a Western restaurant.

They happily had the celebration meal.

Mary had dressed up and put on delicate makeup for that celebration.

"Godmother, you look beautiful!" Lucian and Nox were flattered.

Estelle also said, "Godmother, you're almost as beautiful as Mommy!"

Mary was taken aback to hear Estelle calling her ' Godmother.' She looked at Byron and Rosalie. They seemed fine with it.

"So, these three children were strangely separated but are now together again? To be honest, I've suspected it for a long time, but I still can't process this."

Mary was happy to see Rosalie and Byron finally getting back together.

"However, what do you mean by almost as beautiful as your mommy? So, your mommy is still the prettiest, huh? You sure are good at talking, little girl!" Mary carried Estelle and stuffed a piece of steak into her mouth.

Estelle was chewing the steak and could not speak.

She looked adorable, wanting to speak but could not since her mouth was stuffed with food. Everyone chuckled upon seeing this.

At this time, Rosalie noticed her best friend occasionally glancing at Andrius.

She immediately thought of something.

Oh! She had not noticed this. Her best friend dressed up for a reason.

When did it start? Rosalie tried to figure it out.

Byron was a gentle dad. He did not eat much. All he did was drink champagne and feed the kids.

"Congratulations to Miss Jacobs for inventing another new drug. Each one is more popular than the last, and now the value of your research institute is getting higher." Andrius picked up the glass and toasted Rosalie.

Rosalie lifted her wine glass immediately but noticed Byron's cold gaze. She grinned and changed into a glass that was filled with grape juice.

The color was similar to red wine.

After drinking, Byron looked more relaxed and praised, *

Lawrence Corporation's share price rose because we cooperated with the research institute. It's all thanks to you."

Byron took the wine glass and drank. Rosalie toasted him too and drank another glass of juice.

"When you think about it, you can understand why Xander was so frantic about getting Miss Jacobs. Miss Jacobs' potential is immeasurable!" Andrius flattered Rosalie after what Byron said.

"Of course! My best friend is capable of many things." It was rare for Mary to voice up, and she did so to follow up on Andrius' words.

Andrius smiled at her, yet Mary seemed flustered and looked away.

Even Byron noticed that and looked at Rosalie, trying to get an answer.

Rosalie lifted her eyebrows with a smile. With that, Byron understood what she meant and smiled back.

It seemed that it should be easy to get Andrius and Mary to date.

After eating and drinking, Rosalie decided to announce something.

That made Byron curious. They were not in the company or the research institute. Why would she announce anything?

“To thank my best friend, Miss Mary Wilson, for caring for my kids and me for years, I’ve decided to give her a villa as a gift of appreciation! What do you think about this gift?”

Byron and Andrius immediately clapped upon hearing this.

The children cheered along.

“Godmother, say yes! Mommy is going to give you a villa!” Startled, Mary looked at Rosalie in disbelief.

Recommended Novels

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1814

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1814-“Alright then. I’ll accept the gift since my best friend is a wealthy woman!”

Mary did not stand on ceremony and accepted after being startled momentarily.

Rosalie was satisfied. That was how a best friend should be. They knew each other well. If Mary rejected, that would mean their relationship was not that close.

Of course, Rosalie had other plans in mind.

“However, there’s a condition for you to get this villa!” Rosalie sounded mischievous when she said that.

Mary rolled her eyes. “I knew there would be conditions. Alright, what do you want me to do?”

Byron and Andrius were curious what was the condition Rosalie would mention.

“It’s not a difficult request. From now on, you’ll be the director of the hospital. What do you think about it? You should be able to carry this responsibility, right?” Rosalie asked with a smile as she looked at her friend.

Mary was taken aback again.

Was that a promotion? A quick promotion?

She had been working as a doctor in the hospital under the research institute Rosalie worked. She had high wages and received good treatment. Although her job was not easy, she was happy doing it.

However, she did not expect Rosalie to entrust her with important responsibilities one day. Before this, the position of the hospital director had been empty.

Now, she panicked. It was not only a higher position, but it came with more responsibilities too.

“Don’t you dare to accept it?” Seeing her still hesitating, Rosalie tried to trigger Mary’s competitive spirit.

When the three children heard Mary could be promoted, they immediately encouraged her, “Godmother, agree to it!”

“Is being the hospital director more powerful than our headmaster?” Estelle asked cutely.

Byron and Andrius looked at each other. They never expected Rosalie to hand over such an important position to Mary.

After all, the hospital was the research institute’s benchmark hospital and bore many social responsibilities.

Mary pondered, but she finally agreed when she lifted her head and her eyes met Rosalie’s eager gaze.

“Alright, I accept. I’ll manage the hospital to the best of my ability and live upto your expectation!”

‘That’ll do. I have to provide a car for you as well. As to what kind of assistant you want, choose for yourself.”

Rosalie was swift and decided what Mary needed.

The celebration meal’s main character became Mary.

Of course, one day in the future, Mary would have successfully made the hospital the best in the Eastern countries. However, that was years later.

After a while, the children began to feel tired, so they finished the meal.

Mary had drunk a lot, and her face flushed red. She staggered when she walked, and Rosalie held her.

Byron looked at Andrius with obvious intention. "Why don't you send Miss Wilson back? Of course, you shouldn't drive. Ask your chauffeur to pick you up."

Andrius nodded. Rosalie immediately pushed Mary gently to him.

"Hold on to her. I need to carry Estie. Look at her, she's getting drowsy." Rosalie immediately let go and carried Estelle.

Estelle seemed to smell the scent of her mommy. She lay on her mommy's shoulder and dozed off.

Andrius held Mary's arms carefully. "Miss Wilson, are you alright? I'll send you home!"

Mary was still conscious. She looked at Rosalie and noticed Rosalie's meaningful gaze, indicating she should grab the chance.

She seemed to understand what Rosalie meant, and her heart hammered.

Byron carried Lucian and Nox each in one arm and beckoned Rosalie to leave.

Luther had arrived. After they got into the car, Luther stepped on the accelerator, and they left.

When Andrius helped Mary to the door, the family of five had already long left.

Recommended Novels

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1815

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1815-Puke Bag

Andrius carefully helped Mary enter the car when the chauffeur arrived.

Then, he went to the trunk, took out the puke bag, and got ready.

Mary felt heavy-headed, but she was in a conscious state of mind.

It shocked her that Andrius was so 'meticulous.'

Andrius sat beside Mary and handed the puke bag to her. Then, he ordered the chauffeur to drive slowly.

After that, he sat straight up as he looked outside, as though she had nothing to do with him.

She finally understood why a handsome and wealthy gentleman like him would still be single.

She had drunk a lot of wine because she was happy. At this moment, she was drunk and drowsy.

She closed her eyes and looked like she had fallen asleep.

Andrius glanced at her and noticed her head was swaying. She kept trying to keep it still, but it tilted to his side eventually. Her eyes were closed.

"Miss Wilson, are you asleep?" he asked.

Mary was now half-asleep. She had nowhere to rest her head and felt uncomfortable.

She longed for him to lend her a shoulder to lean on.

However, Andrius did nothing and did not intend to approach her further.

As she pondered, she dozed off.

One side of her body could not support her head this time, and it slid toward Andrius.

Her head rested on his shoulder.

She was still somewhat conscious but felt that her sleep was uncomfortable. Thus, she subconsciously moved her body toward him.

However, Andrius had his hand on her head.

She woke up instantly because the man's hand was pushing her head away from his shoulder hard.

"Miss Wilson, wake up and don't fall asleep! You might puke if you sleep in the car!" Andrius' voice was deep and gentle.

Speechless, Mary distanced herself from Andrius.

This man was hard to get!

She sighed and slowly fell asleep again.

After arriving at the residence, the car stopped. Andrius immediately got out of the car, wanting to help Mary out.

However, Mary had already sobered up and got out of the car herself.

‘Thanks for the puke bag, Mr. Quirke!’ Her face flushed, and she looked mad. She stuffed the puke bag into Andrius’ hand.

Then, she strode into her residential area.

Andrius rubbed his nose awkwardly. He could not understand why Mary seemed angry.

Was the air conditioner too cold?

Looking at her departing back, Andrius called Byron to tell him he had dropped Mary off at her house.

“Okay. Not bad. Did anything happen?” Byron asked casually.

“What? Nothing happened. I did as you told and sent Miss Wilson back home,” Andrius answered seriously.

Byron was startled and nodded. “Okay then!”

Immediately after Byron hung up the call, Rosalie’s phone rang. It was a call from Mary.

“Rosie, can you believe it? When I got in the car, he gave me a puke bag! Oh my god! He didn’t offer me a hangover drink or water. He gave me a puke bag! Rosie, do I really deserve to be single?”

Mary complained.

Rosalie felt helpless. She never expected Andrius to be insensible to this extent.

Before, she thought Andrius was self-disciplined as he had been helping the Quirke family with their business and that was why he was single.

Now, it seemed that this was apparently not the reason!

Recommended Novels

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1816

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1816-Rosalie accompanied Mary by chatting with her that night on the phone.

After Mary dozed off, Rosalie felt a cramp in her lower abdomen.

Her menstrual period was coming.

Rosalie felt uncomfortable each time she experienced it. However, she had always endured it because of her work.

She thought Byron had gone to bed. Unexpectedly, he returned from the kitchen with a cup of hot ginger tea.

“Why don’t you drink this? I’ll give you a foot massage.”

Rosalie was bewildered. Byron was the chairman of Lawrence Corporation and was a leader. He had always been cold and ruthless.

However, he was gentle to her, making her feel touched.

She reached out to take the cup. The man asked her to wait, and he blew on the tea to make it warm and easy to drink.

Then, the man casually headed to get a basin of water for Rosalie.

Rosalie drank the ginger tea and felt her cramps getting better. The ginger tea tasted nice.

Now, she understood why Mary had been complaining about Andrius. She even compared Andrius to Byron, saying that there was something wrong with the man for missing out on the chance.

Rosalie smiled, feeling blessed.

The man brought the basin of water to her. After helping her sit upright, he tested the temperature of the water. Then, he massaged her feet.

“TH massage you after you massage me.” She was flattered to be treated like this.

She wanted him to experience a nice massage from his wife as well.

“I don’t go through menstruation. Moreover, you’ve been standing in the research institute all day. Massaging your feet can help you ease your tiredness and prevent varicose veins. Am I right?”

Rosalie nodded. Byron was right.

Still, she could not believe how nice Byron was to her.

The next day, Rosalie drove the kids to the kindergarten early in the morning and headed to the research institute.

Linda called her in a hurry. "Dr. Jacobs, I checked the accounts today, and there's something wrong with our raw material purchase price. There's suddenly a huge overcharge! I continued to investigate and found that the medicinal materials supply company was once under the Lancer family. They've increased the price of medicinal materials. The purchasing department didn't tell me about it in time!"

"How much did they increase it by?" Rosalie frowned in a puzzle.

The Quirke family had purchased the Lancer family's medicinal material company. Why would Andrius suddenly increase the price?

"At least 50%. Some of the herbs were even increased by 200 %. Our new drugs are priced too low. We'll lose money!" Linda's voice was worried, and it was clear that she was angry too.

"Please sort out the materials with the price increase first and do a table with the price comparison. Please send it to me after you're done. I'll find out what happened before going to the research institute!"

Rosalie hung up the call and pondered.

'Does Byron know about this matter? It might be inappropriate to go to his office and ask him. Why don't I call him and ask him to meet me outside?'

Rosalie told Byron the situation and suggested meeting him in a cafe near Lawrence Corporation.

After Byron arrived, she showed him the document she received from Linda.

The man immediately frowned. It was indeed a huge price increase.

He asked the Quirke family to purchase the company to control the supply and price. Now, what was the difference between the sudden price increase with what Xander had done before?

"Don't worry, I'll ask Andrius about this!"

Recommended Novels

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1817

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1817-Before long, Andrius arrived at the cafe.

Rosalie did not even have time to talk to him about his insensible act to Mary last night.

"Are you the one who determined the price increase?" Rosalie asked, straight to the point.

Andrius shook his head, but he knew what had gone wrong.

He passed the management of this business to his sister. She must have had something to do with this sudden price increase.

Byron glanced at Andrius and did not ask further. He coldly told Andrius to investigate this matter.

Andrius nodded and assured Rosalie. "Miss Jacobs, I'll immediately deal with this matter. You don't have to pay for the materials this time. I can take care of it."

After saying that, he angrily returned to the Quirke family's mansion.

As soon as he entered, he bumped into the well-dressed Andrea, who seemed to be heading out.

With a cold expression, he questioned her.

"Did you raise the price of the medicinal materials? We were given this business essentially so that we could safely earn profits. It was also to prevent others from coveting it. Why did raise the prices? Give me a good explanation!"

Andrea did not show much reaction. She even glanced at her brother with despise.

"Brother, business is business. We're just the integration of resources, the middle person. What can I do to control the price of the medicinal materials? I'm just passing on the cost. Isn't that good? Why does the Quirke family have to bear the cost to provide Rosalie with the medicinal materials?"

She had already thought of a good excuse, so she was unafraid of her brother's investigation into the supply price.

Most importantly, under her watch, this company could make more money.

In this way, the employees would be more loyal to her.

As for the suppliers under Quirke Enterprise, she would sooner or later get them all to join her side. By then, her brother's resources would be all hers.

"Are you sure? Is it really not for your benefit?" Andrius did not believe it. Over the years, the price of the medicinal materials under his management had undoubtedly risen but in a very mild way.

It would definitely not be that high!

"You can look into it. I can even get Rosalie to cancel the agreement and sell the materials to someone else for the same price."

Andrea glared at Andrius coldly. Then, she arranged her makeup table and took her handbag.

"Don't go too far! Don't make me find out your real intention!" Andrius was angry.

He immediately picked up his phone and started contacting the suppliers.

He made several calls and found out the price had indeed increased.

Many of his suppliers were complaining to him and hinting at the price increment.

The initiator of all was indeed Andrea. She raised the purchase price directly and swept up many medicinal resources in the north and south.

"What is she trying to do? Is this the man's instruction?" Andrius did not dare to cover up for her again.

Immediately, he told Byron everything.

He even referred directly to the man his sister was in contact with.

"I'm sorry, Byron. I thought I could hold my sister down and watch the man's movements! It turned out I was wrong." Andrius' voice sounded apologetic.

Byron sounded calm. "I know who the man is. It's Alistair Murray from the Murray family in the north! Back then, his family went against my grandfather and my grandfather won. So, they've been waiting to counter-attack. It's okay. We can settle this matter together!"

"Thank you. I should never have trusted my sister with so much of my supply chain."

Andrius regretted it, but it was too late.

Recommended Novels

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1818

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1818-‘This month, expenses have increased due to increased acquisition prices. Our downstream manufacturers are also collecting money. The biggest part is Dr. Jacobs’ research institute and factory. If they pay the money, the profit will be far more than before!’

After the staff reported, Andrea sighed the papers and beckoned the staff to leave.

Before long, the office door was pushed open.

Alistair entered with a bouquet of red roses for Andrea.

She was so overjoyed that she quickly got up and dashed toward him.

“Don’t do this. This is your office. Your office is only covered with frosted glass. They can see shadows from outside!

Alistair smirked. He put the bouquet down and hugged Andrea’s waist.

“I don’t care. I don’t even mind telling everyone you’re my man!”

Andrea indulged entirely in this sweet love.

She was obsessed with this man.

This man taught her to raise the price of the materials so that the owners of the medicinal companies would gradually come under her command.

At the same time, it could also create enough obstacles for Rosalie. As long as the prices for raw materials were high, it would be impossible for her to sell her cheap drugs.

She did what Xander did not manage to do!

It was all thanks to this man’s secret plan.

It would be hard to control the price of drugs now even if Byron interfered. Everybody in the chain was making more money. How could he reverse the situation?

“You’ve been doing very well lately! I’m free today. Let’s have dinner together when you get off work. I’ll take you to a nice restaurant.” Alistair was satisfied with this woman’s obsession with him.

He had always had that kind of power to get women to do anything for him.

“Wait for a minute. I’ll get off work soon.” Andrea was happy, and she pecked the man on his lips.

Alistair left her office, walked downstairs the building, and entered a Bentley.

He picked up his phone with a sneer and sent the list to his assistant.

Immediately, he got a call. “Contact all the clients on the list one by one. I don’t believe they won’t want money if we can increase their profits by 20% from the price Lawrence Corporation offered.”

The assistant hesitated. “President, do you really want to contact all? It’s too big a target. What if someone reports it to Byron?”

Alistair was confident. ‘They won’t! This is a normal quotation process. Many companies must have done the same! Even if they refuse, they won’t reveal it and ruin their future.’

The assistant finally accepted the order and began carrying out Alistair’s attack plan.

The Western countries were the biggest export routes for Lawrence Corporation, and Alistair planned to snatch this business.

Of course, this time, the force behind him was not just the eager families of the north.

Many losers in the South who had been pushed too hard by Byron also joined in. They wanted to see Lawrence Corporation collapse.

“It is time to settle the grudge between you and me. This time, I will defeat you!”

Alistair’s gaze gradually turned cold and vicious.

Recommended Novels

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1819

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1819-Andrea was in a smug state. She asked her assistant to urge Rosalie’s research institute to pay for the materials.

She wanted to make things difficult for Rosalie so that she would yield and speak to her nicely.

Before long, the assistant smiled and opened the office door.

“Miss Quirke, the payment has been debited into our account.” The assistant was thrilled, waiting for Andrea to praise her or offer her a bonus as a reward.

However, Andrea’s smile faded. She asked, “Paid? Did she pay in full?”

The assistant could not understand why Andrea looked gloomy even after she got the money.

She stopped smiling and nodded. “Yes. The payment is complete.”

Andrea could not understand what had gone wrong.

She thought Rosalie would hold on to the matter and investigate it first.

She had charged Rosalie more than ten million bucks.

No company would readily pay such a high price.

Worried, Andrea beckoned her assistant to leave, and she dialed Alistair’s number.

After explaining the situation, she asked anxiously, “Alistair, do you think Byron and Rosalie might be up to something?”

Alistair pondered yet could not figure out what they might be up to.

Normally, when suppliers suddenly raised prices, downstream manufacturers would generally resist. Then, they would have a negotiation.

“Hold your horses. Now that you’ve made your money and are able to keep these companies firmly in your hands, what’s there to be afraid of?” Alistair comforted Andrea.

“Alright, I’ll meet you at the villa tonight.” Andrea missed him.

He did not refuse. After hanging up the call, he pondered.

Before long, he suddenly realized something and his face sank. “It seems that I’ll lose a pawn again.”

In the afternoon, Andrius carried out the plan Rosalie and Byron had come up with.

Since his sister had increased the price maliciously, they would start a price war.

The method was simple and crude. They would increase all the prices and make them higher than what Andrea had charged.

With this, the suppliers of Quirke Enterprise would be delighted and not fall into the hands of others. They would also supply a huge amount of medicinal materials.

Meanwhile, Andrea would lose the trust of the boss of the companies she had convinced.

Lancer Corporation had left behind 14 companies. That evening, ten companies requested to cooperate with Andrius.

By dinnertime, three more came.

Andrius accepted all of them and signed the contract. The price would be updated based on the seasonal price.

The price would increase this season no matter what.

The bosses of these companies were shocked by the price offered by Andrius and did not pay attention to the dozens of pages of contracts. They signed the papers one after another.

After Byron and Rosalie had dinner, Andrius called to report the situation.

“As a result, all the 14 companies controlled by my sister have signed strategic cooperation agreements with me. According to this estimate, the estimated loss is close to two or three billion this quarter, but they’ll have to expand production next quarter, bringing prices back down. The pharmacists won’t be making much less. The whole thing was a mistake on my part, and the Quirke family will bear the loss.”

Byron smiled. The call was on speaker mode, and Rosalie heard it.

Rosalie immediately answered, “The Quirke family doesn’t need to compensate for the loss. My research institute can grant a patent to a European pharmaceutical company. It’s worth about one billion. We could take 200 million from it to make it up for your side. That’ll be enough.”

Recommended Novels

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1820

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1820-Rosalie hung up the call, not giving Andrius any chance to refuse.

"It's good enough for you to advise me in these matters. If Quirke Enterprise bears the cost, it'd be equivalent to you spending the money. It'd be meaningless."

Rosalie was worried Byron would be displeased and quickly explained.

However, the man was smiling. "How you're dealing with this shows that you're already a very qualified businessperson!"

"Really? That's good! After all, if Andrius can control the price, it'll help me save a lot of money. Spending only 200 million bucks would be very cost-effective."

Rosalie turned around and brewed Byron's favorite black tea.

The tea was fragrant. Rosalie also took a sip and enjoyed the sweetness of it.

"Rosalie, come with me to my junior high school tomorrow. I made an appointment with Chloe. The old principal there is seriously ill. Let's go and visit him!"

Byron carefully watched Rosalie's reaction.

Rosalie smiled. "Um, since you and Miss Lincoln have made an appointment, you should go with her since you're former classmates. I don't think it's appropriate for me to go along.

It doesn't matter. I'm not jealous!"

Rosalie was frank. She knew how to express herself after six years.

She did not need to be jealous. Byron had done enough to prove his love.

Moreover, he must have told Chloe that he wanted to bring her.

Rosalie had no reason to be displeased.

"It's not that. Have you forgotten that you're a miracle doctor? I thought of taking you there to help treat the old principal. Perhaps the old principal can miraculously recover with your medical skills."

"I see. I'll go, then. You can pick me up at the research institute. I have to be at the research institute early tomorrow morning."

At nine o'clock in the morning, the alarm clock rang. Chloe woke up in a daze.

She could only feel the throbbing pain in her head.

She was so drunk last night that she could not remember what the alarm clock was for. She wanted to turn it off and go back to sleep.

After all, she could forget her upset feeling if she was asleep.

However, it suddenly struck her that she had made an appointment to meet the old principal with Byron.

She opened her eyes and quickly got up to wash herself up.

The appointed time was ten, and she still had an hour to dress and cover up her haggard state.

After showering and getting dressed, she quickly put on makeup. She gurgled her mouth a few times to remove the alcohol odor.

It had been more than a decade. Standing at the old school gate, Chloe could not help but think of the times when she was always with Byron, just like a couple.

She could not forget how he had taken her on a bicycle and they went around the campus together. Many gossiped about them at that time.

Finally, even their class teacher advised them not to date considering how young they were.

They were asked not to fall into puppy love.

It would be great if she had really dated Byron back then.

In a trance, a shallow smile appeared on her face.

A few seconds later, the smile vanished.

Byron's handsome face, which was the dream of many women, could be seen inside a Rolls-Royce.

However, the sight of Rosalie sitting next to him made Chloe feel uncomfortable.

"Sure enough, he brought her. Well, I knew it would be like this." Chloe tried to comfort herself.

She tried to convince herself to accept it.

Byron got out of the car with Rosalie and walked toward Chloe.

"Chloe, have you been waiting a long time?"

Byron's voice always made her feel a burst of fascination. She nodded but looked at Rosalie.

"Miss Jacobs, the old principal is ill and in great pain. Thank you for coming this time!" She spoke in a friendly tone.

Rosalie nodded. She had noticed Chloe's affectionate gaze on Byron.

However, she was calm. An outstanding man like Byron would indeed attract women's adoration.

There was nothing she could do to stop that.

The man's attitude would decide everything.

Recommended Novels