My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1871-That night, when Rosalie returned from the research institute, she saw the three little ones pouting their lips in displeasure.

Especially Estelle, who looked angry as she said, "Mommy, you promised to take me to the design exhibition, but you were too busy! In the end, it was Daddy who took me there."

"Estie, please don't be mad at Mommy. Mommy was busy at work. She's a miracle doctor with such a big research institute to manage. It's hard not to be busy with so much work."

'Yeah, Sis. We can ask Mommy to compensate us by taking us somewhere else the next time, okay?"

Both the boys were explaining on Rosalie's behalf and coaxing Estelle.

Rosalie felt bad. She squatted and apologized to Estelle.

"It's my fault. I forgot the deal I had with you. It's a terrible mistake. I'm sorry. Please forgive me."

Her motive was to show a good example to her kids.

Estelle was only unhappy and did not expect Rosalie to apologize so seriously. She immediately shook her head and pounced into Rosalie's embrace.

"It's okay, Mommy. I've forgiven you. However, can you please let me know when you can't go the next time? I got up early and got ready, but I couldn't find you," Estelle felt wronged as she spoke out her feelings.

Rosalie immediately nodded and agreed. She kissed her cute daughter's cheek and said, "It's my fault for not considering your feelings. I'll keep what you said today in mind. Why don't I make it up to you by letting you request two things from me? I promise I'll do it."

Estelle did not request rashly and asked for time to consider what she wanted.

Byron walked down the stairs after leaving his study. He took the initiative to explain to the kids why Rosalie had to work on this weekend.

It was because she had to save her fellow researcher's life. Lucian and Nox immediately understood.

Estelle also nodded. "Mommy, since you went to rescue someone and did something great, I'll request only one thing. I've already considered my request. Let's go and look for Godmother tomorrow. I haven't seen her for some time."

'Yeah. Mommy, what's Godmother doing recently? Why doesn't she have time to visit us? We haven't seen her for quite a while. We miss her.'

Lucian and Nox agreed.

Rosalie and Byron nodded. They decided to visit Mary's place the next day.

Rosalie called Mary to let her know about it. When Mary heard that the kids missed her, she was touched.

Even she started missing the children so much that she wanted to meet them.

After accompanying her triplets, Rosalie headed upstairs to take a bath.

Benedict and Melody suddenly came to visit. When they were in the living room and saw Byron, they quickly asked for Rosalie's whereabouts.

"Dad, Mom, what's wrong? Why do you look so anxious?" Byron asked as he added, "Rosie is taking a bath. I'll let her know you're here after she's done."

"Of course, we're anxious. Byron, we've decided on a date for the wedding, but your dad has just remembered something important. We've been planning the wedding but forgot the most important guests!" Melody frowned as she said thoughtfully.

Byron could not understand what she meant.

Benedict, on the other hand, calmed down and sighed." Have you forgotten? Rosie's parents! We already owe Rosie a lot before this. We should make up to her by planning a proper wedding. So, all the details must be perfect.

However, we're not quite familiar with Rosie's family. How could we be so careless and forget about this?"

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1872-Byron knew they did not invite Rosalie's parents.

It was because he had noticed that Rosalie never mentioned her parents.

Byron had tried asking Lucian and Nox, but they had never seen their grandparents from Rosalie's side either.

This meant Rosalie was trying to avoid having anything to do with her family.

It made Byron recall what had happened years ago. Byron and Rosalie married for the first time because Rosalie's parents wanted money.

To be precise, it was her father and her stepmother.

"Dad, Mom, I think you shouldn't rush into things on this matter. Rosie's family is a little complicated, and they might be unable to attend the wedding."

Byron felt Rosalie might have no feelings for her father and stepmother.

Thus, looking for Rosalie's father and stepmother might not be a good idea.

Benedict and Rosalie looked at each other.

A memory of the past struck them when Byron said this.

Then, they realized what he meant.

"Now I remember! Rosie's father, Gordon Jacobs, had a decent factory in Coast City. However, because of some financial issue, he sold his daughter to us by marrying her to you!" Benedict nodded as he said.

"Yes! I remember her stepmother's name is Violet Curtan. We met once. She was almost 40 years old back then and wore quite heavy makeup. I could see her disdain toward Rosalie."

When Rosalie was married to Byron for three years in the past, Violet had always tried to flatter Melody.

However, Melody disliked Rosalie back then and did not take the marriage seriously. To her, it was only a marriage to help Old Master Lawrence.

"Rosie hasn't been keeping in touch with them. Maybe she might be upset if we invite them here abruptly," Byron explained.

Byron's parents were relieved that they had not made a mistake.

If Rosalie were in the living room, they might have made Rosalie feel uncomfortable if they barged in and asked this abruptly.

“So, what should we do now? Are we really not going to invite her parents? I wonder where her father and stepmother are now. They should be flattering Rosalie since she returned as a successful woman this time. It’s weird that they’re nowhere to be seen.”

Melody’s doubts were what Byron had been wondering about.

“I might know something about this. Her father isn’t in Coast City anymore. After Rosie divorced Byron, the people he had debts with felt he had lost his financial support. So, they asked him to pay his debts, and the interest snowballed. In the end, he fled to another city because he failed to clear his debts.”

Benedict’s explanation might be why Gordon was not seen around Rosalie.

“So, there’s no point inviting a dad like him and a stepmother who’s money-minded to the wedding. However, Byron, you should still ask Rosalie’s opinion.”

Byron nodded, agreeing to his mother’s words.

Then, Benedict and Melody sighed, feeling sorry for Rosalie before they left.

After Rosalie took her bath, changed, and blow-dried her hair, she did not see Benedict and Melody. Thus, she asked, “Honey, didn’t Mom and Dad come over just now? I heard their voices. Where are they?”

“They came but just to inform us that they’ve chosen our wedding date. It’s just right around the corner.” Byron could not hide his joy.

“Really? Alright. Let’s have a wedding, then.” Rosalie smiled sweetly.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1873-On the ground floor of Sherot City Plaza in Coast City, the biggest official store under the Petal Talk Group Rosalie established was holding its opening ceremony at 9.00 a.m. A few hundred people were already queuing outside the store.

Their queue had blocked other stores on the same floor.

Many other branded stores from abroad were envious of Petal Talk’s many customers.

When the staff heard rumors about Petal Talk opening a few more stores in Coast City, they even considered resigning and applying for a job at Petal Talk.

To deal with the customers, Chloe arrived at the store early and was in the storeroom, counting the stocks.

They had only produced a few thousand sets of products, which were insufficient to sell.

At her order, the employees put on a smile and opened the door of the store. The customers gushed into the store like a tsunami wave.

“Dear customers, please line up. We’ll distribute number tickets. Please don’t cut queues or push around. Each customer is allowed to purchase two sets at most. Those who have already bought the products, please don’t queue again. Please pay attention to your safety.

“We have also prepared chairs and drinks. Please queue according to your number. We hope to provide you with a pleasant shopping experience.

“Dear customers, we’ll distribute the number tickets to No. 500. After that, the numbers will be distributed again. We’re selling a total of 4,000 sets. Stocks will be filled in for the next seven days. So, please don’t rush.”

Chloe could not feel the excitement she had before this, even when she looked at the crowd.

All this might be gone by the time of the third launch of this product.

She was heartbroken. Her business instinct told her this was a good business opportunity that could make her millions of dollars or more.

However, she had to carry out Kelly’s plan.

By then, even if she were the one who took over Petal Talk, it would be a broken company.

“I can only try to use public relations to help. I can hire good personnel at a high price.”

She pondered silently. Then, she left the official store and headed toward the research institute.

After half an hour, she arrived at the research institute. As she put on an excited smile, she pushed open Rosalie’s office door.

“Rosie, the sales are a hit! I’m sure we can sell the 40,000 products in three to four days instead of seven. Do you think we can increase the production of the product if they’re all sold?”

Compared to Chloe’s excitement, Rosalie looked calm.

She shook her head and rejected her suggestion.

“The employees at the factory are working 24 hours a day following a shift system. Accidents might happen anytime, especially during night shifts. So, we can only wait for the new factory to be built to increase production. We’ll do the same for the second batch. Let’s see if we can increase it on the third batch.

Chloe was displeased deep down.

Rosalie’s management style differed from hers. She could see that even if they cooperated in the future, they might have conflicts that would be troublesome.

Research and development was an important part of a company, but it did not mean that they could control selling the products.

It was Chloe who had followed up on the project personally, from the launching to the training of the employees.

However, Chloe grinned and said, ‘Til let you decide, then. I’ll do my part in the sales section.”

Rosalie nodded, put on her lab coat, and left Chloe in the office alone as she headed to the lab.

Just as Chloe was leaving, she noticed a red invitation card.

It made her wonder whose wedding it was.

She took it and was startled to see the writing on it.

It was Rosalie and Byron’s wedding. They planned to invite people to attend it.

As for the date... It would be held in 20 days.

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1874

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1874-Chloe’s gaze turned cold.

She felt she was like a clown.

Wendy was better than her. At least Wendy had a good time with Byron and had even been his fiancee.

Meanwhile, she was Byron's childhood friend, yet she missed every chance she had.

She wondered what Byron's feelings were for Rosalie. Was it really love or was it because Rosalie's ability had increased tenfold?

Six years ago, Rosalie was worthless and was casually kicked out of the Lawrence family.

Now, Rosalie owned a research institute, a hospital, a company, and Petal Talk.

Therefore, were Byron's feelings for her not because of her change?

Maybe as long as she could own Petal Talk and become a powerful woman, Byron would look at her differently.

Chloe's heart was a mess.

From the time Rosalie and Byron decided to hold a wedding, Byron had been preparing everything himself. He chose the location, attire, and music band and even listed the guests they wanted to invite.

He even suggested getting some celebrities over. In any case, many top celebrities in the entertainment industry were friends of Byron.

Rosalie disagreed. She did not want to see their wedding in the headlines. Their kids' exposure might cause netizens to comment about them, and the kids would face criticism.

Byron had been busy with the wedding, so Luther was in charge of most of the company's affairs.

Andrius was mainly responsible for the strategic aspects, while Luther took control of the specific implementation.

Their main work at this stage was to seize the African market and prevent Cerelor Group from getting it.

Africa had always been a base of raw materials for various non-ferrous metals. If they got this, it was equivalent to having more development rights in the future.

Since the failure of the foreign trade market in Europe last time, Cerelor Group invested a lot this time, and the price was much higher than Lawrence Corporation.

For a moment, it seemed that the other party might win.

However, Andrius did not panic because he reported the situation to Byron daily. All Byron told him to do was wait.

Andrius believed in Byron's judgment.

Sure enough, a week later, Cerelor Group got into big trouble.

The mining area they bought for a lot of money encountered serious war.

The worst part was the war ended in a matter of days. The new administration, however, overturned the original trade agreement and deemed it invalid.

In other words, all their investment had gone down the drain.

In the CEO's office of Cerelor Group, Alistair's desk decorations suffered the same fate as the last batch.

Alistair smashed them in a rage. He shoved them off his table, causing them to shatter into pieces.

Then, Alistair roared, "Rubbish! All of you are good for nothing. Contact the people in charge of this project. I want an explanation from them. Since they were in Africa for so long, why had they not considered this possible risk?"

Douglas answered as he endured the scolding, "President, I have contacted them, but the few guys didn't answer their calls, and they've sent their resignation letters!"

"What?" Alistair clenched his teeth angrily. After a while, he thought of something crucial.

"Did these guys take from the company's funds?" He had thoroughly figured it out. No wonder the prices reported back were always higher than before.

It was always 50% higher than Lawrence Corporation.

However, Alistair approved it because he wanted to snatch the resources.

Now, he figured out why Byron followed the competition for some time but suddenly gave up.

Byron had set another trap for him!

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1875- A Real Man

Douglas dared not say a word even though the responsibility was not his.

Alistair hired these people himself.

“We are doomed this time. Two billion dollars of capital is gone!” Alistair was so mad.

He had been in business for years, yet he was like an elementary student before Byron.

His family only gave him two billion dollars to try his luck.

If he failed, Cerelor Group in Coast City had to declare bankruptcy.

Not only that, but there was also the pressure from those extended relatives of the family. After all, their money was also hard-earned.

Alistair was in despair. “Byron! He set me up again and again. I’m so silly that I didn’t consider the risk of doing business abroad.”

He waved his hand and beckoned Douglas to leave.

Before long, Beatrice knocked on the door yet heard no response. She opened the door and walked in.

Seeing her brother’s gloomy face, Beatrice smiled and waved to the secretary outside, letting her come in to clean the shattered glass on the ground.

After sweeping, the secretary left. Beatrice smiled and threw the report before her brother.

Then, she announced calmly, “The funds have been used up. We’ll have to face staff costs, office costs, and all other problems. We should either raise money or borrow from banks.”

“Sister, I might really not be able to defeat Byron!” Alistair raised his head, looking lost.

“Really? It’s just a failure, isn’t it? That year, Grandpa failed too, yet he managed to build up the Murray family in the north! We’re just at the beginning of the game. It’s not like there’s no chance!”

Beatrice smiled, ignoring her brother’s emotions as she continued, “I’ve observed that the minerals that Byron got aren’t big, and they can be rapidly developed. At the same time, he also has a certain relationship with the team that caused the riot. They ensured the safety of the resources in advance. So, we can only say that our investigation wasn’t deep enough.”

“Sister, this is not the time to analyze this! I’ve failed. I really don’t know how to face the pressure of those people at home!” Alistair grabbed his hair and looked like he was in pain.

Beatrice snorted, gradually revealing her disappointment in her brother.

“If you don’t analyze things, you’ll fail again next time. In fact, both times, you were the cause of the failure because you wanted quick success. If you observe Byron, you should understand why he’s not anxious. The only reason is that he has already set a trap for you to fall!”

Beatrice retorted and told her brother the cause of his failure, asking him to think about it himself.

He should take this analysis, return to the family to report the situation, admit his mistakes, and obediently accept the punishment. That was what a man should do.

Beatrice walked out of the office as she pondered about Andrius, who carried out Byron’s plan.

She was overjoyed.

“Andrius, from his appearance, seems very easy-going and even a little honest. However, his power and courage are so strong that he seems to have some ability deep down!”

She evaluated in her heart, and she fancied Andrius more.

“What a fascinating man! I just don’t know when I can win his heart.” Beatrice smiled as she wondered.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1876-Two days later, Cerel Group declared bankruptcy.

The relocation of thousands of employees was carried out in order.

Beatrice handed the compensation plan for employees to Andrea for implementation. She was following her brother back to the North.

She could at least speak up for her brother. At least, her brother would not be pushed to a dead end.

Andrea brought all the finance department staff and began to compensate the employees. Each person got two months of extra salary.

Such compensation made the employees feel pity for losing such a good job.

Getting paid an extra salary after being on the job only for a month was a kind act. The company even ensured that everyone's resignation report clarified that the company was not doing well so that it would not affect the employee's resume.

That day was a busy day. Andrea only finished dealing with the matter at night.

Andrea was worried about Alistair's condition. She thought of calling him but gave up upon the thought that she could not help him.

She looked at the empty office building with mixed feelings and finally walked out.

Before leaving, she turned around and glanced again at the building.

She finally understood that her ability was weak. Compared to Beatrice, she was nothing.

She could not even dream of comparing herself to Rosalie. After all, Rosalie's Petal Talk was now rising.

Only one or two million of investment and it had instantly achieved a market value of three billion. Moreover, after the second phase of the product launch, the market value was still increasing.

Meanwhile, Alistair's two billion investment had gone down the drain in the blink of an eye.

Thinking about it, she wanted to get a taxi back to the villa.

Just as she turned around, she bumped into someone familiar.

It was her brother, Andrius.

"Brother..." Andrea called out subconsciously.

She now understood the meaning of her brother's words.

Byron was indeed a scary opponent, and it was good that the Quirke family was the Lawrence family's ally.

"Do you want to go home with me? Alistair might be away for quite some time," Andrius asked casually.

Andrea shook her head and rejected her brother's kindness.

She was grateful that her brother did not hold a grudge or laugh at her at all.

However, she was unable to go back. Because of the price of medicinal materials, she had lost the qualification to return to the Quirke family.

If she went back, she would make things difficult for her family.

After all, it might spike Byron's anger.

"Brother, I've learned my lesson. You don't have to worry about my future. Maybe I'll go abroad to study for a while or start up a small company from scratch. As for Alistair, whether or not he's sincere to me. I'm not sure right now. Maybe I'm just a pawn he's using. However, brother, I have realized my mistakes. Thank you!"

Taking advantage of this encounter, Andrea apologized from the bottom of her heart.

She had thoroughly reflected on a lot of things. Indeed, she had made many absurd mistakes.

Her brother's actions were out of his concern for their family.

Andrius froze for a moment before nodding and agreeing.

"Call home more often whenever you're free. Mom and Dad are also worried about you. Don't be stubborn. With me around, Byron and Rosalie won't do anything to you."
Andrius took out a new bank card from the car.

"There's about three to four million in it. Take it! You didn't suffer much growing up, and now you don't even have a car. I'm sure life is tough for you." Andrius placed the bank card in Andrea's hand.

Andrea wanted to refuse instinctively, but she hesitated before accepting it.

"Well, take good care of yourself. I'm leaving!" Andrius sat back in the car, waved to his sister, and said goodbye.

Looking at the car gradually driving away, Andrea's tears rolled down her cheeks uncontrollably.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1877-“Mommy is going to marry Daddy!”

Looking at the big pile of wedding invitations and a beautiful photo of Mommy and Daddy, the three little ones jumped for joy.

There were still about ten days from the wedding date.

Byron had been busy lately. His phone kept ringing, and even his message notifications kept popping on the screen.

Everyone sent blessings, and many of them obviously wanted to get an invitation.

After all, Byron had only booked 500 seats for this unprecedented wedding.

Those who could get the invitation were those who were rumored to be those with the standards of the rich.

In addition to relatives and friends, there were not many seats left. Thus, Byron had to carefully select the guests.

“Daddy, Daddy, is there anything we can do to help?”

Lucian took his brother and sister to Byron, wanting to help prepare for the wedding.

“Yes, there are many things you can do. Lucian, you check on the invitations that have been made and the list that has been written. Then, check if they match the one I have in my hand. See who else has not gotten their invitations yet.

“Nox, take this gift list and do the statistics. We will donate the money to poor children in rural areas.

“Estie, you have artistic talent. Help me check on the clothing, venues, fireworks, and everything provided by the planner. Check if we’re short of anything.”

The kids immediately got into action.

Soon, Byron’s burden lessened as he handed the smaller matters to the kids.

Not long after, Benedict and Melody also rushed over. They gave Byron a list, and they discussed the details of the wedding.

Meanwhile, Rosalie was also busy. She was working in her office at the research institute. As Chloe predicted, the second batch of products was sold out in three days.

The stock accumulated by the factory warehouse that had required a large amount of manpower and overtime work was all sold. There was even a lack of products in the past two days.

After tax, Rosalie received 200 million in cash flow in the account. The entire company's financial situation was suddenly abundant.

Rosalie did not plan to keep the money. According to the expected plan, a big portion was used to reward the research and development personnel, and the other part was to reward every factory employee.

As for herself, according to the original agreement with Chloe, her annual salary of ten million would not be issued to her this time.

What troubled Rosalie was how many products to launch in the third phase.

The business was vigorously expanding on Chloe's side. There were more than a dozen stores in Coast City. They even planned to open at least 300 stores nationwide in modern and well-to-do cities.

They might be unable to distribute the stocks evenly with so many stores.

Linda knocked on the door and sent in a statement. At the same time, she reported, "Miss Lincoln requested to upgrade the office. Cerelor Group renounced the office building, and several years of the lease are left. She has negotiated the price. It's big enough for us!"

Rosalie reacted only after pondering for a while. Cerelor Group was the new company opened by Byron's rival. A month later, it declared bankruptcy.

Sure enough, the road to entrepreneurship was risky.

Chloe won the lease at 40% lesser. She was indeed good at doing business.

"No problem. Linda, please tell Miss Lincoln that she doesn't need to report to me about the operation of the company in the future. She has direct control."

Rosalie was only going to be in charge of the product, and Chloe was definitely better at marketing than she was.

As she read the report Linda had sent her, she exclaimed, "

What? 300,000 sets?! T-That's a lot!"

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1878

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1878-At the same time, the office Celelor Group moved out from was in a mess. The desks and chairs were all over the place.

20 floors of office and up to three years of lease with a 40% discount. Chloe still felt it was a loss of money.

The reason was simple. Perhaps it would not be long before Petal Talk faced the same situation as Cerelor Group.

The thought of it made her feel sad.

She had worked hard to bring up the image and reputation of Petal Talk. The company was now even an important training target of the officials. It had the potential to strive into a big company.

However, she had to destroy what she had built up with her hands!

It felt like strangling her child.

Chloe could only pray that after the incident, it would have less impact on the company and more on Rosalie.

Her phone rang, and she saw that the caller ID was Kelly again.

Lately, Kelly had been pushy and called her frequently to urge her.

Chloe had been delaying things with the excuse that the production of the third phase had not started.

"I saw that the second phase of products have been sold out. The third phase should be starting soon. Get ready to carry out the plan." Kelly's voice was emotionless.

Annoyed, Chloe responded, 'Yes, I'm ready. More than 300 flagship stores have been opened one after another, and the products for the third phase will surely spread.'

"Hahaha, that's good. At that time, no matter how powerful Byron is, I'm afraid he can't handle such a big problem. I'm pretty excited right now."

"How about me? I might also be affected by it. If I can take control of Petal Talk, you can have a share!"

Chloe felt fear linger in her upon hearing Kelly's laughter.

This was hysterical madness that disregarded the consequences. Therefore, she might also lose a lot when Rosalie got into trouble.

After all, Kelly knew many of her secrets. She had to flatter Kelly by giving Kelly part of Petal Talk's share.

"Okay! Since you're so thoughtful, I'll take it. It's our reward for defeating Rosalie. I don't need a lot. Just give me two billion and help me find my family." Kelly's tone eased a little.

That was putting them in the same boat.

Chloe felt more secure since Kelly had said so.

Kelly's parents were still in the country. That was also what she could use to control Kelly. Otherwise, Kelly might betray her after she carried out the plan.

"No problem. I'll help you find your family. Tell me what else you want."

After discussing this, Chloe walked out of the office building.

Suddenly, Rosalie's call came in, and Chloe squinted her eyes.

"Chloe, why were you on the phone for so long? I have something urgent to talk to you about!" Rosalie was indeed anxious and had been dialing Chloe's number a few times but could not get through to her.

Chloe thought some relatives or friends were trying to ask for her help in purchasing the product and ignored them. That was why she did not notice that they were calls from Rosalie.

Feeling a little guilty, she lied, "I was discussing the franchise with someone and didn't notice you called."

"Well, never mind that. I'm just wondering if we really need 300,000 units. I think 200,000 units will be enough. Such production pressure is too great. How about you give me ten more days? The stipulated time isn't enough!"

Rosalie had considered many aspects, including the production rate of the factory and her wedding, which was around the corner.

She had to take a few days off to prepare for the wedding. Otherwise, Byron might get mad at her.

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1879

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1879—"Rosie, we have no choice. This time is also the period when those foreign brands focus on launching new products. If we don't increase the number of goods, it'll be equivalent to giving away market share and wasting the effort we've put in so far.

"We've opened so many franchise stores. We'll be breaking the contract if we don't provide them the product. If that happens, we'll have to pay the compensation.

"The online platform has also stated that its sales and access to e-commerce platforms require a certain amount. No one would be willing to help promote it for only a few thousand units."

Chloe stated the reasons, making it hard for Rosalie to reason with her.

Fortunately, factory production had increased, and there were many more assembly lines.

At this moment, to Rosalie, Chloe was indeed a pioneer in the business field and a genius with strong marketing ability.

However, she never knew everything Chloe did was preparing a storm for her.

After telling Linda to give the researchers a bonus, Rosalie went to the hospital in person to visit the researchers who fell ill last time and gave them a separate bonus.

Only then did she have time to have afternoon tea with Mary.

When they met, Mary started complaining.

Days ago, Byron and Rosalie brought the kids to Mary's house and caused her a lot of trouble.

It was mainly because Mary's mother liked the triplets.

Naturally, she started urging her daughter to get married and hinted at her daughter each time she spoke to her daughter.

That had become a habit. Now, Mary had to hear her mother's nagging two to three times a day. She had been praising the three little ones in all kinds of ways.

That increased Mary's stress.

However, Andrius had shown no reaction apart from the time he gave her the gift.

“Did he give you that to help you get healthier?” Rosalie laughed so much that she could not control herself.

Mary rolled her eyes. She pouted and said, “I didn’t ask for that. I’m not sure what’s in his mind. His brain CT shows that it’s normal.”

Rosalie found it amusing and interesting. Thus, she asked Mary to continue.

Finally, she summarized, “Andrius is indeed interesting. Maybe he just wants to give you the best thing he knows. After all, it’s an expensive gift! Hahaha...”

“Stop laughing!”

Rosalie’s laughter attracted the attention of the customers around them. It embarrassed Mary so much that she wanted to cover Rosalie’s mouth.

‘Well, let’s not talk about that. Let’s get down to business. How is Andrius’ gastric condition?’

Rosalie quickly diverted from the topic, preventing her best friend from feeling more embarrassed.

“As a doctor yourself, you know best. Gastrointestinal problems have to be cured slowly. He won’t be cured so fast. However, the inflammation has disappeared, so he can stop taking the medicine from my side and you can cure him with your treatment plan.”

Mary sounded calm again.

Rosalie glanced at Mary and noticed she was hiding something from her expression.

Actually, Mary was worried that Andrius was not suffering from gastrointestinal problems. Instead, he might be suffering from depression.

She wondered if Andrius had been taking sleeping pills secretly to cure his insomnia.

“Oh, right. I figured out the identity of Beatrice for you. I can’t believe she’s Alistair’s sister. It’s strange. Andrius’ sister, Andrea, is dating Beatrice’s brother, Alistair, isn’t she?”

‘What...?’

Mary was stunned for several seconds.

Since Beatrice was Alistair's sister, it meant she was from a wealthy and noble family. Instantly, Mary's expression turned gloomy.

Read My Ex-Wife And Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1880

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1880-The two talked for a while, and Rosalie saw through her best friend's lack of confidence and encouraged her.

However, Mary still smiled bitterly. Eventually, she diverted the topic to Rosalie's wedding.

Actually, Mary was not worried about Beatrice's background. The confidence and temperament of the upbringing of that kind of family feared her.

She was different from Beatrice. Her life was bumpy, and she had to face reality since she was young.

Mary was an illegitimate daughter, abandoned by her scumbag father. She had been living with her mother.

Moreover, she could feel Andrius, who was depressed, needed someone to bring him joy and warmth.

Perhaps, Beatrice was indeed more suitable for Andrius! At least, that was what she thought to herself.

Mary suppressed her emotions and talked to Rosalie about the wedding to prevent her best friend from worrying. She even told Rosalie she wanted to prepare a gift for Rosalie.

However, when Rosalie asked, she said she had not thought of what to prepare. Rosalie rolled her eyes.

It was getting late when they left the cafe.

Back at the villa, Rosalie saw everyone in the family busy preparing for the wedding.

As an important character at the wedding, Rosalie felt embarrassed for being so at ease.

"Mommy, drink some water and have some rest!" Estelle was sensible and was always the first to approach Rosalie when she got off work.

Lucia and Nox were also good kids. They held Rosalie's arms and spoke to her.

"What are you doing? Do you want me to agree to something? Just say it!"

Looking at the children, Rosalie felt they were acting strange.

Byron smiled and shook his head. "They're not asking for anything. They're just happy. I went through the photo album with them, and they all understand how hard you've worked these past few years."

"Yes. Rosie, life must have been hard for you, especially all those years abroad, with two kids, medical school, and a career. I really admire you! In the past, I was blind and didn't realize how good you were!"

Melody praised sincerely.

She had changed a lot.

Rosalie had even doubted her sincerity at first, wondering if it was all in her imagination.

Benedict nodded slightly and smiled, obviously feeling Melody's praise was slightly over the top. It seemed as though she was flattering Rosalie.

"Well, let me know if there's anything I can do to help. It's my wedding, after all, and you guys can't do everything yourselves." This was the kind of family atmosphere that any woman would dream of.

Rosalie still felt that everything was so unreal. She could not just stand and do nothing. She had to do something so that she would remember this pleasant moment.

However, Byron shook his head. He pondered and glanced at Rosalie's belly.

"There's only one thing you can do now. The kids are waiting to have a brother or sister. My mom and dad have the same thought in mind. After all, when Estie was a baby, they couldn't take good care of her because she was ill.

Moreover, Estie was also reluctant to be close to them. So..."

Rosalie suddenly realized why everyone was so nice to her.

They were waiting for her to bring them a baby.

She did have such a plan in mind.

As her husband said, everyone in the family had certain regrets.

The last time they got married, it only lasted three years, and they brought up their kids alone for six years. It was not what a normal family should do.

If she got pregnant again and gave birth to a baby, the baby would be blessed with the love of a big family. It would also bring joy to the Lawrence family!
