My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1976-Rosalie turned around and looked at Byron.

“Byron, it’s Stellar Group!” she whispered.

Byron’s expression turned gloomy, and he frowned.

Mary was in a puzzle to see the reactions of the husband and wife. “What’s so special about Stellar Group? As I know, isn’t this one of H Land’s largest global trading companies?”

Byron nodded. “You’re right, but it’s possible that they won’t give us the antidote!”

“Why?” Mary was confused.

Rosalie’s heart sank. “It’s because the person in charge of Stellar Group is Mr. Vanderbilt, Kelly’s man. I’m sure you know who Kelly is, right?”

Mary was dumbfounded upon learning that.

Kelly was the mastermind behind what had happened before. She was Wendy, who had been holding a grudge against Rosalie.

That woman was once Byron’s fiancée.

“So, everything that happened today is Kelly’s conspiracy!” Byron looked angry.

They had been wary of Kelly, but she still managed to backstab them.

It was a humiliation to his intelligence network.

Damn it!

This woman kept haunting them! She was sure that Rosalie would come to help out with the situation at the hospital. Her target was to infect Rosalie with the pathogen.

However, Kelly might not know Rosalie was pregnant.

Her ruthless means had reached the point of being murderous.

Upon looking at Mary, who seemed flustered, Byron glanced at the name of the company and said calmly, "I can settle the problem with the drug. We don't have to get it from Stellar Group. Just manage the spread of the infection. It'll only take me an hour to get my hands on the drug!"

Mary was startled.

Rosalie could not believe it. Even if they got the medication from M Nation, they could only get their hands on it within a day at the soonest. It could not be delivered in just an hour.

However, Byron seemed confident. Something flashed across her mind, and she smiled as she nodded.

This couple's reaction dumbfounded Mary. She could not understand how they would be able to smile so calmly at times like this.

"TH make a call right now and get it done!" Byron quickly left the office.

"Rosie, what are you and your husband going to do? Tell me!

I don't know what you are talking about. Two dozen doctors and nurses have already been infected. Coupled with the two of us, that's a lot of medicine needed!" Mary was still worried.

Rosalie smiled. "Don't forget. I have a research institute! Once we have access to the steps to make the drug, I'm sure that in less than two hours, our institute will be able to produce similar drugs. So, that's why Byron said we still have time!"

Only then did Mary recall what had happened before this. Xander had drugged Rosalie, and it was Rosalie who produced the antidote.

With Rosalie here, Mary felt more at ease.

After a while, the Health and Epidemic Prevention Department entered the hospital to find Mary and learn more about what had happened. She hurried to the conference room to make some presentations.

When Byron returned, he seemed calm as if everything had settled.

“I spent 300 million to get information on the composition of the drug. They’ll get back to me on it in about 15 minutes. You can get Old Master Loewe to produce it. It won’t take long. By the way, now I can be frank with you. It’s very likely that I’ve been infected as well, and I also feel like coughing!”

After saying that, he did not suppress his urge to cough anymore.

“Byron, Kelly is vicious, indeed! I really want to make her feel the pain of suffering a great illness. She’s out of her mind,” Rosalie gritted her teeth and said.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1977-Even though her best friend and best friend’s husband had ensured everything would be fine, Mary still felt her stress increasing.

Many people denounced the unprofessionalism of the hospital and clamored to get the hospital director to be responsible for it.

Moreover, they requested the hospital to transfer their relatives to another hospital. Otherwise, they would report this hospital.

Subsequently, some family members rushed to the hospital gate. A row of vehicles was parked outside the hospital, and the people were cursing.

It alerted the reporters who had a sensitive sense of the news. They rushed to the hospital to film the scene.

“Leaders of the Health and Epidemic Prevention Department, please allow us to enter the hospital for interviews! What could be so bad that a hospital needs to be locked down?”

“The patients are in a rage and are about to explode. We need the truth! Call Dr. Wilson out to accept our interview. She has to let the public know what’s going on inside.”

“Why won’t the hospital allow the patients to transfer? Now, this matter has spread on the internet. Please let us enter!”

Opposite the hospital, in the building opposite, Beatrice saw this scene and smiled.

“Rosalie and Mary... They must have been infected.

Moreover, the drug to cure this pathogen infection is in Mr. Vanderbilt’s hand. Let’s see what Byron can offer to get the drug.”

She could not help but say everything she was thinking.

Beatrice was startled for a moment. She snapped out of her joy and frowned. “Mr. Vanderbilt from Stellar Group? Kelly, so your motive is to seek revenge on Byron and Rosalie and gain some benefits. So, you’ve been using me. I thought you came to help me.”

Facing Beatrice’s question, she sneered and said, “Miss Murray, it doesn’t matter whether I did it to help you. This is what you wanted. If the rumors continue to spread, Mary won’t be able to keep her job and might even be arrested.”

“But it’s a fact that you used me!” Beatrice felt uncomfortable about it.

At the same time, it was chaotic outside the hospital.

Suddenly, a Rolls-Royce arrived and stopped right before the crowd.

All eyes were on it.

From the car, a man slowly got out. He was calm and had firm steps.

Andrius wore a suit that fitted him well, making him look tall and handsome.

His gaze was sharp, and he raised his hand to beckon everyone to remain silent.

Unexpectedly, all the noisy people suddenly became quiet at this moment, and the media reporters were taking photos.

“Hello, everyone. I’m Andrius Quirke! Please keep quiet and listen to me.”

His voice was not loud, but it was firm and determined.

Everyone's anxiousness and rage were suppressed by it for the time being. They waited to see what he would say.

Judging from the man's clothes and car, they could see that his status was not simple.

After calming everyone down, Andrius said, "I'm making this announcement on behalf of the hospital director, Mary Wilson. Firstly, something has happened in the hospital, but we have a solution for it. However, it'll take three hours.

After that, everything will go back to normal. Secondly, I can answer all your questions only if you control your emotions."

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1978-At the entrance of the hospital, a nurse was cooperating with the Health and Epidemic Prevention Department to maintain order.

She saw Andrius come to stabilize the ruckus. She filmed everything and posted it in the hospital's group chat.

When Mary saw the scene, she was surprised.

What surprised her most was that Andrius said he was her representative. That made her heart pound with joy.

She felt Byron must have told Andrius about what happened in the hospital.

However, Byron would never ask him to say that.

Did he think of saying that himself?

Immediately, Mary's stress dissipated, and she was touched.

Byron answered Andrius' call and knew he had calmed down the uproar. Moreover, Andrius' arrival had warned reporters not to spread rumors because they knew who he was. Most of them reported about the measurements the hospital was taking.

Andrius was still at the hospital gate, answering questions from the patients' family members.

At the same time, Beatrice noticed Andrius. She had been staring at what was happening outside the hospital gate. She could even see Andrius' expressions.

She gritted her teeth, and jealousy struck her.

"Three hours? Just now, my people told me that Andrius mentioned they could solve the problem in three hours! No way. Even if they identify this pathogen and buy the drug from M Nation, getting the drug in three hours is impossible!" Kelly was also taken aback.

On second thought, perhaps Andrius had deliberately lied to appease the patients' family members.

It was impossible for them to resolve this matter in just three hours. Even Byron could not do that.

She comforted herself and told Beatrice she had to return to Mr. Vanderbilt's side.

Beatrice was not in the mood now. Her focus was on Andrius. All she did was nod and say, "Alright."

Kelly looked at Beatrice meaningfully. She noticed this woman was as foolish as her by putting all her efforts into a man.

Since she was leaving, this scheme would have nothing to do with her.

As long as she returned to Mr. Vanderbilt's side, Byron could do nothing to her, even if she was in Coast City.

Behind Mr. Vanderbilt was not only Stellar Group but also the power of H Land.

Beatrice's mood was indeed affected by Andrius.

The last thing she wanted was this.

Vaguely, she always felt that Andrius had changed somehow.

Before, she thought that the man was straightforward and cute.

Now, Andrius was different. He was lively and showed the reserved and mature charm of a man.

What happened to Andrius in such a short time? How did he change?

Beatrice did not know why. However, she felt more infatuated with Andrius, and her jealousy toward Mary increased.

A few minutes later, Kelly arrived on the ground floor of the building. When she stepped out of the elevator, she could see the hospital on the opposite side, and the original noise and commotion had disappeared.

At the hospital entrance, nurses wheeled several patient representatives out to chat with families and talk about the situation.

A hospital patient told his relative, "We're doing well here. Dr. Wilson has been taking good care of us. There's nothing big happening inside. Did someone deceive you guys?"

"Really? Good, then. I heard about some kind of infection, and I was worried. Everybody was worried, so I wanted to get you out of here. It seems it was a false alarm! Later, we'll visit you when we can enter!" The patient's relatives were happy to see the patient looking fine.

A few other hospitalized patients came out to meet their relatives, and the crowd at the scene gradually dispersed.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1979-Kelly saw this scene, and a vicious look flashed across her eyes. She grinned.

Even if public opinion was temporarily suppressed, it would certainly not be possible to contain the outbreak of this new pathogen in a few hours.

The bacteria infection would break out in just six to eight hours, and there would be many more seriously ill patients in the hospital. The infection would continue.

No matter how powerful Rosalie's medical skills were, they were just traditional methods. Kelly felt dry-needling only brought out a psychological effect and could not actually cure patients.

After convincing herself, Kelly smiled as she stepped out of the building and headed toward the parking lot.

Before she could step out of the gate, she noticed a few figures approaching her at a quick speed from both sides.

"Yes, it's her!"

"Get her!"

The head bodyguard looked at the photo on his phone, and it was indeed the woman in front of him.

Byron issued the order to capture this woman by all means, even if they needed to fight her.

Thus, he brought dozens of people along to prevent their target from escaping like before.

However, the head bodyguard noticed that Kelly was defenseless. That made him focus on getting her.

In just a few seconds, the bodyguards rushed over, which frightened Kelly. She was pale, and her eyes widened in shock.

"Are you Kelly?" The bodyguard who rushed to the front first shouted.

Kelly froze and quickly shook her head to deny it.

However, her expression had proven that she was! Several bodyguards immediately surrounded and blocked her furiously. It scared her so much that she shuddered.

Panicking, she did not think about the situation and habitually picked up her phone.

She needed to tell Mr. Vanderbilt about this!

Only he could save her!

However, Kelly's actions fell in the eyes of this group of retired soldiers who now worked as bodyguards. She was like a three-year-old kid. As soon as she took out her phone, the bodyguards snatched it.

"Who are you, and what do you want? Somebody, help..."

Kelly could care less about other things now. All she could think of was to attract the attention of the people around her.

However, the bodyguards were fearless. They ignored everyone around them and hit Kelly unconscious.

Kelly felt her vision turn black as she lost consciousness.

Her body was about to collapse, and the two bodyguards immediately carried her on their shoulders as they headed back to the car.

"Quick! Get her to the hospital! The patient has fainted!" The head bodyguard saw that many people were looking over. In order not to cause any trouble to President Lawrence, an idea struck him, and he acted.

"My sister is mentally ill, and we've just found her. Let's send her to the hospital opposite!"

With this, the five bodyguards carried Kelly and headed to the hospital opposite.

Meanwhile, Byron was still in the director's office.

His phone rang, and it was a call from the head bodyguard.

He gently pressed the answer button and placed the phone by his ear.

"President, we've caught Kelly!" The head bodyguard's voice was mechanical as he reported his work.

"Okay. Bring her to the director's office!" Byron's expression turned gloomy.

He had made the right guess. Kelly was behind all this.

Moreover, he also guessed what kind of things Kelly would do according to her character.

For example, the people behind the scenes liked nothing better than to admire their work from high up.

Thus, Byron asked the bodyguards to surround the three tall buildings around the hospital.

He had only randomly spread a net but had caught a big fish!

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1980-“They got Kelly!” Byron said.

At this time, Rosalie was still on the phone with Old Master Loewe, explaining the details of imitating the drug. She was startled and almost missed out on what Byron had just said.

Mary heard it and repeated, “President Lawrence said Kelly, the mastermind behind this, has been caught.”

“Old Master Loewe, please carry on with the next step immediately. Lives are at stake, and the number of infected people at the hospital has increased. It’s over 30 now!”

After hanging up the call, Rosalie tried to digest her husband’s words.

“Honey, you’re really good at guessing. You planned in advance and managed to capture Kelly?” She used a lot of exaggerated expressions to express her admiration for her husband at this time.

Byron’s serious expression disappeared, and he looked at his wife gently upon hearing her praise him.

“Where is she? I want to slap her!” Mary felt the urge to hit Kelly as her anger rose.

“She’s coming soon! I told my bodyguards to bring her to the office!” Byron looked at his wife and was afraid she might be agitated.

Unexpectedly, Rosalie showed a relieved expression.

She was a little calmer than expected.

"This woman, who has set me up so many times, is finally going to meet me again," she whispered.

Mary was so mad, as though she was facing her own enemy. "Rosie, you have to teach her a good lesson. She's also definitely going to jail. Look at all the things she's done. Each one is more despicable than the other. I really didn't expect that there would be such women in the world!"

While Mary was swearing, the head bodyguard knocked on the door outside the office.

"President Lawrence, we've arrived!"

"Come in!"

Byron said, and the door opened. Kelly was carried into the room while unconscious.

Her facial features looked plastic at one glance.

In the plastic surgery industry in H Land, the models that could be chosen were limited, and they were always only that few choices.

However, from the figure, Rosalie could recognize that Kelly was Wendy.

The two bodyguards showed no mercy and threw Kelly on the ground.

They stood up and waited for Byron's next order.

"You can go out now!" Byron waved his hand, and the bodyguards left.

Mary's gaze was on Kelly, and it was filled with hatred as she observed her. "Is she pretending to be unconscious? I'll get some water and wake her up!"

After saying that, she really went out to get water.

At the moment, Rosalie's mood was unexplainable. She looked at the unconscious Kelly with a complicated gaze.

"Byron, she has come into contact with us and might soon be infected by the bacteria," Rosalie blurted out.

Byron nodded. "This is what I wanted. Moreover, she won't get the drug to cure her. Unless Mr. Vanderbilt carries the medicine on him all day."

There was not a trace of emotion in his voice.

This woman had tried to frame and hurt his wife. She even wanted his wife's life, so Byron would never take her as Wendy, whom he once had feelings for.

She had chosen her path, and this was her punishment.

Even if Byron did nothing about it, she would go to prison for what she had done.

"Byron, honestly, I don't think I need to talk to her about anything because it's meaningless."

Rosalie had no interest in saying even a word to Kelly.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1981-If You Apologize to Me

Mary did bring with her a huge bucket of water. She did not even care about how inappropriate it might look. She clenched her teeth and splashed the water onto Kelly viciously.

She made sure that every part of Kelly was drenched, and it was chilling to the bone.

"If murder wasn't illegal, I would have splashed scalding molten iron all over her!" Mary stared venomously at Kelly, waiting for her reaction.

Byron and Rosalie watched quietly from the side-lines, waiting for the look on the woman's face when she realized what had just happened.

It was after a few seconds when Kelly slowly opened her eyes.

She looked dazed at first, and a shocked look next appeared on her face as she turned to look at Byron and Rosalie.

Kelly snapped out of it.

There was panic on her face. When she saw how completely drenched she was, she immediately coiled up and kept retreating with a complicated look in her eye.

“Looks like President Lawrence has me cornered. It’s no surprise that this came from the man I was once obsessed with. Such intelligence!”

When she saw how close Rosalie was leaning onto Byron, all that was left in Kelly’s eyes was deep hatred. She glared at Rosalie.

Rosalie was not one to be intimidated by that look in Kelly’s eyes.

She felt that this woman did not dare to look straight at her husband.

Rosalie knew that Kelly was trying to provoke her, but Rosalie was not in the mood to reply that woman.

She was not worth the time.

Talking to her was just a waste of energy.

Byron was not bothered with her as well. All he did was reach out to hold his wife’s hand with a loving look in his eyes.

Such a scene deflated Kelly’s arrogance.

She had wanted to display a nonchalant attitude and show them that there was nothing for her to be afraid of, but in the end, she was unable to face the truth, that Byron and Rosalie belonged to each other.

“Kelly Payton, were you behind everything that happened in this hospital?” Mary realized that this woman was still arrogant enough to act so brazenly.

Before Kelly could answer, Mary slapped her.

The loud slap came so suddenly that Kelly was not prepared to defend herself.

A red mark immediately appeared on her cheek, but the vicious look in her eyes did not vanish. She tilted her head and looked straight at Mary and a smirk appeared on her lips. “I was the one who did it. What can you do about it? Did you enjoy the surprise?”

“Surprise... Those are dozens of lives. You call that a surprise? Alright, let me show you today what a real surprise is like!”

Mary was in a furious temper. She did not even care about her image as she grabbed Kelly’s hair and gave her two more slaps, one on each cheek.

Kelly did not even attempt to struggle. Blood dripped from the corner of her mouth she began laughing crazily.

“Haha. Rosalie Jacobs, Mary Wilson, I must have gotten you good. It’s fine if you want to kill me now! I feel great about it! It won’t be long before both of you will be completely infected by the new virus. You’ll die too when the time comes!”

Rosalie watched Kelly getting full of herself and replied coldly with a calm look one used when facing a mad person.

“Cough cough...” Rosalie could not help coughing as she felt an itch in her throat.

Byron was in no mood to deal with Kelly. He asked his wife in concern, “How are you feeling? Are you okay?”

He picked up a cup of water with his other hand and passed it to his wife.

“Hahaha! You’re indeed infected. It looks like you’re infected too, Mary Wilson! You won’t be able to escape from a closed space like this!” Kelly was heinously excited about this.

She turned to look immediately at Byron and her expression immediately turned calm. “I admit that you’re a very capable person, Byron Lawrence, but you won’t be able to get the medication for this so easily. I guess you must already be infected too. If you’re willing enough to apologize to me, I might be able to help you solve this.”

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1982-“Stop looking like you’re in love, Kelly Payton! I’ll take care of my husband’s illness. As for you, you should just pay attention to yourself now that you’re infected too!”

Rosalie had planned to stay silent.

However, Kelly was about to die and still would not give up threatening her husband.

When she spoke up to Kelly, there was sympathy in Rosalie’s eyes.

What a stupid yet pitiful woman!

However, there was still a look of jest on Kelly’s face. She smirked in delight as she shook her head and said with confidence, “Hmph. It doesn’t matter how great your medical skills are, Rosalie Jacobs. There is nothing you can do this time. I don’t believe you would be able to create a cure in three hours. If you want to continue living, you would need to use me to exchange the medicine with Mr.

Vanderbilt.”

Mary could no longer continue listening to her. Mary sneered instantly. “Ho, I know you won’t believe it, but don’t you realize how calm we are? Use that stupid brain of yourself and think about this.”

Kelly was taken aback and immediately looked at all three of their faces closely.

In the end, she could not stop shaking her head. “No, it’s not possible. This isn’t possible! Even if M Nation delivers those medicine over here immediately, they won’t be able to arrive in three hours. You’re just trying to stall!”

“Stall? Do you think I’m the kind of person who would allow others to decide if I live or die?” Byron could not stand listening to her. There was something in his tone that was chilling to the bone.

Kelly did not want to believe Rosalie and she was not convinced by Mary. However, Byron’s words broke her instantly.

This man always had things under control. Whatever he said would always come true.

That was why it meant that Rosalie would be able to get her hands on the medicine!

“This would mean that you have no value in any negotiation. I won’t allow you to leave!” Byron added calmly.

“That’s not true. How did you do it, Rosalie Jacobs? How is it possible?!”

Byron’s words were equivalent to giving Kelly’s fate a death sentence.

However, she still did not want to give up as she stared at Rosalie.

“How pathetic are you, Kelly Paxton?! We don’t need any medicine to be sent to us from M Nation. All we need is the formula and Rosie’s research institute would be able to develop it. The institute doesn’t even need three hours. Are you finally willing to give up now?”

Mary shook her head and told Kelly everything.

It was then when Rosalie’s phone rang.

She took a look and saw that the call was from Master Loewe. She answered it.

“Rosalie, the medicine has been produced and will be delivered to the hospital immediately. How are all of you doing? Your condition hasn’t worsened, has it?!” Master Loewe was quite anxious with concern.

“We’re all fine. You can deliver the medicine over. There is no need to rush. Safety first!” Rosalie gave some simple instructions and hung up.

After that, she nodded confidently at Byron and Mary.

‘The medicine is ready? It’s only been a little more than an hour!’ Mary looked instantly relieved as she glanced at Kelly with some interest.

“Heard that, Kelly Paxton? We’ve got the medicine! Do you believe now?”

Kelly's expression froze.

There was a stunned look on her face and she was not able to snap out of it.

It was half a minute later when her entire body began to tremble. She went completely weak as she crouched and leaned against the wall.

"I've lost. I've absolutely lost. I... I can't take revenge on anything. I hate you, Rosalie Jacobs. I've been cursing you with death every single day, but why is luck always on your side... You deserve a terrible death, Rosalie Jacobs..."

There was a sudden glaze over Kelly's eyes as she began muttering to herself.

However, the look on her face turned agitated within a few seconds as she suddenly stood up and made a crazed lunge at Rosalie.
