My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2011-At eight o'clock in the evening, Mary became anxious again after waiting.

Her mother's cell phone finally rang.

She picked it up and saw that it was an unfamiliar number. She quickly pressed the answer button.

On the opposite side, came that foreign yet familiar voice." Mary? I'm your father. I took your mother bacak to the Northwest today. Some things required her attendance."

"Dorian, what did you do to my mother? This is equivalent to a kidnapping. Do you believe that I wouldn't call the police to arrest you?"

Mary's temper exploded in an instant at the man's light and nonchalant tone, as if nothing big happened. She lashed out angrily.

"You'd better be polite to my mother, and tell Shaylene Lambert, to stop trying to bully my mother. If my mother loses even one hair, I will never let her go!"

She tried but could not control her emotions at all.

Not until Andrius stretched out his hand and held her left hand tightly that her mood slowly calmed down.

"Tell me, what exactly do you want?"

Dorian listened to Mary's roar the whole time without making a sound. Only after she stopped, he replied slowly." Whenever is convenient for you, could you come back?"

"Dorian, don't try to hide. Tell me, what exactly do you want to do? You took my mother away just to make me submit."

Enveloped by Andrius's soft eyes, Mary's voice was steady and unhurried as she waited for Dorian's next words.

“Okay, I’ll be straight with you. For your happiness, I decided to marry you to Mr. William Calcraft of the Calcraft family in the Northwest. He is very outstanding and considered to be the Calcraft heir in the future. If you marry him, then you don’t have to work hard anymore! Your mother could live a good life too!”

Mary was completely stunned.

Immediately, she laughed indignantly. “Dorian, how I wish I could spit at you! How could someone like you be my father? My mother is great at everything, but terrible at her choice of men!”

This sentence was said calmly.

Finally, Dorian on the other end of the phone fluctuated. He lowered his voice and growled. “What did you say? Are you questioning me, your biological father?”

“That’s right, I’m just questioning you. What are you capable of? You’re just a sorry excuse of a man who had a business through profit-making marriages and beneficial connections! I heard that your eldest daughter, Ashley, was married off this way. Now you’re planning to repeat this nonsense on me?”

There was a sudden beeping sound on the phone.

The line was disconnected.

There was a smile on the corner of Mary’s mouth. She could imagine how her words sliced through that man’s dignity.

He must be very angry!

“What? Dorian intends to marry you to someone else for profit?” Andrius understood the general idea, and his face suddenly turned gloomy.

Mary nodded but immediately threw herself into Andrius’s arms and hugged him tightly.

“I would never agree to him! He just wants to slowly brainwash my mother, and finally use my mother to convince me. However, I believe in my mother, she would never be deceived by him again!”

After all, Dorian was seen in the surveillance to have ordered the bodyguards to take Camelia away by force.

Therefore, Camelia must have disagreed.

“Yes! I know that.” Andrius began to make plans in his heart as he held his beloved.

‘Looks like we could only go to the northwest and bring Auntie Wilson back. I don’t give a damn for whatever arrangements Dorian has!’

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2012-“Mae, go ask for a few days off from my sister-in-law. I will go to the northwest with you, we must bring Auntie Wilson back!”

Andrius made up his mind. He quickly picked up the phone and asked his assistant to book the flight tickets.

Mary nodded and called her best friend.

Rosalie agreed to Mary’s request for leave to go back to the Northwest for a few days to deal with some matters.

However, that got Rosalie thinking. She asked, “Mae, what are you going back for? Is Andrius going to ask your father for your hand in marriage? I think you don’t need to pay attention to that man, he doesn’t care anyway. You can just pretend he doesn’t exist. There’s no need to invite more trouble!”

In desperation, Mary searched for excuses to convince Rosalie.

‘After all, my bestie is pregnant now, there’s no need to worry her unnecessarily.’

She hesitated, then made up an excuse to pacify Rosalie. “ No way, why could I care about that man’s opinion? Andrius is going to accompany me and my mother and to pay respect to our late ancestors, so we thought of sightseeing for an extra few days. Don’t worry. I have nothing to say to a father like that!”

“That’s good. Don’t contact them when you go back. If there is anything, remember to tell me at any time.” Rosalie reminded her.

After Mary hung up the phone, her heart felt warm.

Now, she was no longer alone without support. She would never have to be afraid now that she has her best friend and the man she loves.

To travel smoothly, Andrius dispatched a dozen bodyguards as well as they headed to the northwest together.

Dorian had great influence in the Northwest. There would be mishaps if things turned awry.

In the early hours of the morning, the plane departed from Coast City Airport and flew directly to the largest city in the northwest.

When they arrived at the airport after nearly three hours of flight, the bodyguards lined up to protect Andrius and Mary as they walked out of the airport. Immediately, business personnel from Lawrence Corporation in this city came to receive them.

“Hello, Mr. Quirke! The hotel has been booked. If you have any orders, please feel free to request!”

Andrius nodded, took off his overcoat, and put it on for Mary.

The weather in the northwest was already icy.

The convoy of vehicles took advantage of the setting sun, traveled quickly, and arrived at the best five-star hotel in the city.

This hotel was also Lawrence Corporation property. The entire hotel treated Andrius’s arrival like preparation for battle, thinking that the headquarters had come to make a surprise inspection.

At this time, Mary was already sleepy. Andrius told her to take a bath quickly, while he picked up the computer and looked up the business of the Calcraft family in the Northwest that Dorian was talking about.

Upon careful inspection, the business was nothing more than some traditional industries, most of which are natural resources. Presumably, it was also monopolized through networking.

Andrius had no interest in this kind of businessman. To put it bluntly, the person was just lucky to be born with a silver spoon, with highly debatable personal ability.

He thought about how to conduct himself after meeting with Dorian.

‘If I forcibly take Auntie Wilson away, will that trigger Dorian’s violent reaction?’

Mary took a lovely hot bath and soaked in the bathtub for a long time. The skin all over her body turned rosy and glowed.

She felt inexplicably relieved during this trip. The kind of happiness wrapped in a strong sense of security brought a faint smile to the corner of her mouth.

Suddenly, an astonishing idea popped up in her mind. Her cheeks, which were already flushed from the steam, became redder. She felt that her body temperature was also rising rapidly.

“Dorian, I can’t go forward with your arrangement! I’m destined to be Andrius’ woman!”

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2013-The next morning.

A row of luxury cars lined up in the courtyard of Claymore Villa.

Dorian was in the hall, receiving the Calcraft father and son.

Roy Calcraft was in a breezy mood, talking and laughing happily with Dorian. His son, William, sat beside him quietly, looking elegant and handsome.

“Mr. Calcraft, Mary should be back within two days. I will arrange for her to meet Mr. William then, so they can get to know each other better!” Dorian said with a smile.

Royce nodded and echoed. "I heard that Miss Mary is now the director of a hospital. She has achieved such success at a young age, how amazing! I feel that my son is a bit unworthy. Hahaha "

"Hahaha, you are one to joke, Mr. Calcraft! There is no reason why Mr. William is unworthy. This young man is talented. He helped to secure two big projects for the Calcraft Group at such a young age. Such an achievement, he is indeed the creme of the crop!"

After some business flattery, Dorian got up to send off the guests.

When the hall became quiet, he turned and went upstairs. Then, he pushed open the door of the guest room.

At this time, Shaylene was still trying to psychologically influence Camelia. "There were so many grievances and grievances in the past, but we're both so old now. I know, you can hate me all your life. However, you should consider it carefully. You're getting old, you need to think about your daughter's future."

As her husband Dorian walked in, Shaylene shot him an angry glance.

Whether it was coercion or persuasion, Camelia would not budge. Up to now she had not said a word, nor nodded her head in agreement.

However, Camelia must be present if they wanted to negotiate this marriage of interest. The Calcraft father and son also said that they should respect Mary and her mother's opinions.

Dorian waved to Shaylene, signaling her to go out and let him communicate with Camelia.

Shaylene's eyes sank. She glanced viciously at Camelia's back and then left.

"Dorian, don't waste your time. You can't arrange Mary's marriage at will. Besides, you have never regarded her as your daughter. You have ignored her all these years, even basic child support was not given. How dare you?"

Camelia's gaze moved back from the windowsill, staring at Dorian angrily.

"Camelia, I know. I owe you in this life. So, now I..."

Just as Dorian wanted to defend himself, Camelia interrupted him immediately. “Really? What do you owe? You had a great life. I completely understood after some time. I admit that I was blind and bewitched by you. There is no such thing as feelings for a person like you! All you care about are your interests!”

Dorian’s face froze, his brows were furrowed heavily as if he was already angry.

“Okay Camelia, let’s not talk about feelings, let’s talk about interests. As long as you can get Mary to agree to marry the heir of the Calcraft family, I’ll promise you both a few houses as compensation, plus a company. That would guarantee that you both would be able to gain a foothold in the Northwest in the future.

“That offer should be sincere enough, right? No matter how hard Mary worked in Coast City, she would only just be working for others!”

Camelia was stunned.

Sure enough, this man only had self-interests in his mind forever. He thought that people all over the world can be bought by interests.

There was a slight bitterness at the corner of her mouth. She could no longer recognize him. Any fantasies that remained in her heart before were crumbled into pieces.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2014-No matter whether Dorian threatened or lured her, Camelia was completely indifferent.

In the end, she said calmly, “Dorian, you can forget about it. Get out now, I don’t want to see you!”

Suddenly, veins appeared on Dorian’s forehead, and his eyes turned cold. “Camelia, if you don’t agree, then I’ll lock you here for the rest of your life.”

Camelia smiled. She smiled so wide that Dorian could not figure it out.

“Don’t worry, I won’t be here forever. My daughter will come and rescue me soon.”

“Hmph, what ability does your daughter have to take you away from under my nose?” Suddenly, Shaylene pushed open the door and walked in angrily.

She was so insecure that she kept eavesdropping outside the door, worrying whether her husband would rekindle a flame with his old lover.

“Shaylene, I know you don’t believe me! Don’t worry, it’ll happen, including your retribution. You have done so many things that hurt me and my daughter, God will punish you!” Camelia looked fearless, eyes staring angrily at Shaylene.

Now, Shaylene could not hold her anger anymore. She walked around Dorian, rushed to Camelia, raised her hand and slapped her across the face.

Loud, crisp-sounding slap.

“You! Who do you think you are, wanting me to get retribution?” Shaylene gritted her teeth. One slap was not enough to vent her anger.

Dorian quickly pulled her away. “Shay, what are you doing? You forgot who you are!”

On Camelia’s left cheek, a huge red five-fingerprint quickly appeared.

She could no longer remember the number of times she was slapped in the face by Shaylene in the past.

Her character was extremely timid in the past. She could only curl up every time, not daring to resist at all.

Now, with her daughter’s encouragement, she had gone through hell and back. She did not want to be beaten in vain anymore. She stood up quickly and raised her hand to give Shaylene a harder slap in the face.

“Smack!”

Shaylene’s entire face froze after the loud smack. She was stunned, full of disbelief.

Dorian was also stunned and looked at Camelia in surprise.

In his impression, Camelia was the kind of gentle woman who could never fight back her whole life.

“Shaylene, do you think you can treat others like animals just because you are rich? Do you think can hit and scold if you want? Who do you think you are?!” Camelia did not intend to stop slapping her, raised her hand, and intended to hit her again.

This time, Dorian reached out and grabbed her hand firmly.

“Camelia, that’s enough!” Dorian shouted coldly and immediately pushed hard.

Camelia stumbled a few steps back and fell to the ground.

After Shaylene came back to her senses, a monstrous rage erupted. She looked like she wanted to strangle Camelia to death.

She cursed and wanted to slap Camelia a few more times, but Dorian pulled her back.

“All right, all right, what’s the fuss about? How can we talk like this? Shay, calm down!”

Finally, Dorian dragged Shaylene and left the guest room.

In the room, there was no grievance on Camelia’s face, but a cheerful smile appeared.

Dorian was a stranger to her now, and she will not be stupid anymore.

There was no holding back.

Right now, she was anxious about how to get in touch with her daughter. ‘My daughter must be so worried to find me missing when she comes home.

‘However, with Andrius accompanying her, she should be alright.

‘Dorian will threaten her to come to the Northwest.

‘Will Andrius accompany her?

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2015-Shaylene was so angry that she wanted to stomp off. She was still yelling and cursing when they reached the living room.

“It seems that you still love that woman. Why won’t you let me beat her? This woman is bored living. How dare she touch me!”

She waited for Dorian angrily, but Dorian’s expression was as dark as a pool of black water.

“Shaylene, don’t forget. What is our purpose? If the marriage with the Calcraft family falls through, the weight of Claymore Group’s debts will explode later. At that time, the wall will fall, and everyone will push back. Then, everything will be over for us!”

The words silenced Shaylene slowly.

If it was not for the Claymore Group’s crisis, she would not care about who that illegitimate daughter would marry. She could not care less even if Mary married a cat or a dog.

“You can see how Camelia is so uncooperative, right?! Do you still have other means?”

Dorian’s face became pensive for a while.

A servant came and reported. “Mr. Claymore, the meal is ready.”

“Take it to the guest room and let the guests eat. If she doesn’t eat, you can resign and go home!” Dorian waved his hand.

The servant’s face immediately turned bright. He nodded quickly and went upstairs with the food.

The servant knocked on the door and brought the food in.

Camelia took a look at the food and found that it was high quality. She picked up the cutlery and started eating without waiting for the servant to speak.

The servant was stunned for a moment. She thought that this guest would refuse to eat.

Camelia was no longer as stupid as before. The only thing that could happen without eating or drinking was to make herself weak.

She needed to eat and drink well right now and restore her body to its best condition. She must fight harder if she could fight Shaylene again.

Moreover, in this way, she would not be too worried when she sees her.

‘After living half my life, I should know this.’

It was already one o’clock in the afternoon when Mary woke up from the hotel.

Last night as they rushed to catch the plane and land, she still had expectations after taking a shower. So, she walked out of the bathroom wearing a bathrobe.

However, Andrius was probably too tired and slept on the sofa.

So, she had no choice but to bring a blanket, cover him up, and return to the room to sleep in a dispirited mood.

“Mae, are you up?” Andrius called at the door.

Although the two of them have confirmed their relationship, Andrius never took a step further.

Without Mary’s permission, he would not rashly open the door.

“Come in!” Mary got up in her bathrobe and went to the bathroom to wash up.

Only then did Andrius open the door and come in. “Lunch is ready. I’m afraid you’re too tired, so I let you sleep a little longer.”

He glanced at Mary, the loose bathrobe couldn’t cover it at all, that hourglass figure and a pair of beautiful legs were unscrupulously exposed.

He could not help but take a second look.

Mary noticed the man’s eyes as she smiled slightly.

After washing up, she carelessly walked towards Andrius and threw herself into his arms.

Andrius panicked for a moment. Out of habit, he wrapped his arms around her waist with his right hand.

She noticed that the touch of his hand was unusually strong, then he relaxed slightly.

Mary was amused to find the man was still so reserved. She tiptoed to kiss the man's cheek.

"Later, after food, we will head towards the Claymores immediately and bring Auntie Wilson back. Before you arrive, Dorian will not do anything to Auntie Wilson!" Andrius was stunned for several seconds, then scrambled to say something quickly.

Mary nodded. "I'll get changed then, please wait for a while!"

Then, she went to the suitcase and rummaged through her clothes.

When Andrius heard that she was going to change, he immediately left the room on his own accord.

Mary sighed softly. "I never expect him to be quite conservative. Maybe, he has never experienced it?"
