My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2026-Meanwhile, Violet was in a villa in the suburbs of Coast City.

Upon receiving a call from Gordon, she learned he had cancer and was about to die soon.

However, Violet was only startled for a while before she scoffed. Then, she responded coldly, "Gordon, it serves you right. You deserve it!"

He was silent momentarily before calmly saying, "Violet, I'm calling you today just because of one thing. Do you remember Rosie's mother's belongings? Please, give them back. I want to return the items to Rosie."

"Gordon, what are you talking about? I never took them!" Violet flared up.

Next to her, her son, Ethan, with dark circles under his eyes, kept yawning as he asked, "Mom, who's calling?"

"Your father!" Violet answered in rage.

On the other end of the call, Gordon tried to negotiate humbly, "Violet, I'm dying. I hope you still have a shred of conscience. Return the items, and you can have nothing to do with me for the rest of your life!"

"Gordon, let me be clear with you. I didn't take them! I didn't take them! Back then, I did want to have them. I almost dug up the house, but I couldn't find them. Whether you believe it or not has nothing to do with me! Don't ever call me again!"

Violet hung up the call after yelling at Gordon.

Ethan knew his mother was angry, but he did not care. Instead, he urged her, "Mom, make some food quickly!"

Looking at her useless son, Violet felt angry and scolded, "Ethan, get a job! You're gambling day and night, almost turning yourself into trash! Don't you care about your family at all?"

Ethan frowned and glared at his mother.

“Why do I have to care about them? I’m getting divorced. I’m looked down on because of Gordon! I can’t even get a proper job. What did I do to face all these?”

After Ethan snapped at his mother, he went to the kitchen and began to find something to eat.

Violet was left startled in the living room.

Fortunately, her daughter married a wealthy businessman, and they had a villa to live in. Otherwise, she would have been doomed if she had expected to rely on her husband or son, who were worthless and useless.

Meanwhile, Gordon calmly analyzed things after Violet hung up on him.

Rosalie and Byron were waiting next to him.

Gordon told them Rosalie’s mother had left some things for her, and Violet might have stolen them. That was why Gordon called Violet.

“Gordon, maybe Violet has sold them.” Byron thought of the possibilities.

Rosalie had no feelings for anything in that house anymore. However, when she heard that her mother had left some things for her, she wondered what they were.

Gordon shook his head and denied Byron’s guess.

His brows still furrowed. “That’s not likely. If Violet had taken them, she wouldn’t have said that she had searched the house in and out. She doesn’t have to lie to me now.”

“What did my mom leave behind? Are they worth a lot? Violet is so despicable that she even wanted to take my mom’s belongings!”

Rosalie looked angry as she spoke.

Byron comforted her, preventing her from getting anxious and agitated.

“Since Violet didn’t steal them, I think the relics left by your mom must still be in the house. We just have to search, and maybe we can find them somewhere!”

Gordon nodded. "Rosie, I'll look for them and give you a call if I find them!"

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2027-Melody and Benedict asked them about Gordon's condition back in the manor.

Noticing his wife was tired, Byron told her to head upstairs to rest.

Then, he told his parents about Gordon's situation.

"That's great. Rosie's medical skills are amazing, indeed. Previously, the doctor said Gordon didn't have more than half a month. Now, Rosalie has extended his life to three months with her treatment!"

Benedict praised.

Melody responded calmly, "Gordon doesn't deserve to live so long. He had such a good daughter but never appreciated her and treated her well."

Byron reminded his parents not to mention Gordon dying before the kids.

Then, Benedict headed to the school to pick the kids up.

When the children returned, they all wanted to talk to Mommy. However, Byron stopped them and explained, "Mommy is a little tired today. Let her sleep for a while!"

The three little ones nodded obediently.

After sleeping more than an hour, Rosalie woke up feeling much better.

It was normal to feel exhausted in the early pregnancy period.

The children heard the noise when she left the room and rushed up, chuckling and shouting, "Mommy, you're awake!"

Rosalie's mood brightened, and her tense mind relaxed when she saw the happy kids.

“Mommy, I have a present for you!” Estelle kissed her mother and ran into her room. When she came out, she had a very beautifully woven scarf in her hand.

Rosalie crouched and carried her.

Estelle immediately wrapped the scarf gently around her mother’s neck. After that, she asked her mommy, “Mommy, is it comfortable? Does it feel warm?”

“Estie, you’re amazing! This scarf is so beautiful and exquisite. The design is genius, and it’s fluffy and soft. It’s perfect for me. Thank you so much.” Rosalie had always been generous when praising her kids.

Estelle smiled brightly and glanced at her brothers as if she had won.

Lucian and Nox looked at each other and thought that the present they brought forth their mommy might not be as good as Estelle’s.

“Mommy, I have something for you, too!”

“Me too, Mommy. Winter is coming. Look at what I’ve got you!”

The two little boys returned to their room at once and brought the presents to her.

That made Rosalie puzzle. It made her wonder what a special day this was and why her children were giving her presents.

Just as she pondered, something struck her.

It seemed to be her birthday today.

She had almost forgotten that her birthday was at the start of the winter season.

The gift Lucian prepared for his mother was an emerald necklace. “Mommy, this is a piece of emerald that I went to the crystal market and found. It’s hundreds of years old, but the owner didn’t know it. I bought it at a reasonable price and polished it!”

Rosalie looked at the emerald gently and felt the cold and smooth emerald between her fingers. The crystal was smooth, and she could see Lucian had put a lot of effort into polishing it.

She immediately leaned over and kissed Lucian. “Mommy likes this gift very much!”

“Mine! It’s my turn. Mommy, I have a present to give you, too!” Nox was anxious and opened the gift box, revealing his present.

Rosalie smiled but was amazed when she saw the exquisite wooden sculpture Nox gave her. It was exquisite and beautifully carved.

“Mommy, I bought the material at the lumber market. It’s a type of wood that has been soaked in the water all year round. I could only buy a small piece. That’s why the carving is small.”

The image of the wood carving was an angel.

Rosalie looked at the carving and felt that the craftsmanship was professional. She immediately praised Nox, “This is a piece of art! I like it very much. Nox, you’re very talented.”

After saying that, she told the three little ones, “I like all the birthday presents you gave me very much! Thank you so much!”

She was alarmed. How would she prepare that many exquisite and meaningful gifts for her kids on their birthdays?

That would be a challenge!

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2028-Hearing the children’s laughter, Byron shouted from the living room downstairs, “Honey, it’s my turn! Come down quickly!”

Rosalie smiled and walked down the stairs with the kids.

On her birthday many years ago, Byron had accompanied Wendy instead of her.

She still held a grudge over that, so she wanted to see what this man had prepared for her.

Before she could see where Byron was, the lights downstairs went off, and the living room was dark.

“Here we go again. That’s what happened last time when you proposed!” Rosalie muttered silently, but she did not panic.

The kids did not panic either. They had rehearsed it with their daddy before.

All of a sudden, the ceiling was covered in stars.

The living room was illuminated too.

Rosalie and the little ones lifted their heads and looked at the dazzling nebula and the starry sky, which changed sequentially.

It was the most beautiful sight.

The starry sky felt real like they had fallen into the galaxy and were floating in it.

Suddenly, the image of a blue planet appeared, and they were getting farther from Earth.

They could see the gorgeous Earth covered in blue water. At first, they could see many of the famous scenic spots in the country. Gradually, as the planet got farther and farther away, everything got smaller.

“Whoa! It feels so real!”

“It’s great! The Milky Way is beautiful!”

“It’s amazing to travel through space!”

The three little ones gasped. The view of the sky changed again.

They could see the eight planets...

The children identified them one after another.

Estelle also pointed to Pluto and said it was a pity that it was no longer a planet.

Although not as excited as the children, Rosalie also felt like it was a dream.

However, she was still waiting.

Where was the gift Byron had prepared for her?

As the scene changed, the children exclaimed, “Mommy, we’re heading for the moon! That’s our moon!”

“How can there be a man on the moon?”

“Oh my god, Daddy’s on the moon! How did he do that?”

The sound of the children exclaiming also attracted Rosalie. She looked over and was shocked.

Indeed, from a distance, a figure stood on the moon’s surface.

She took a closer look and noticed it seemed to be Byron.

‘These are just illusions! They aren’t real. Byron must have used imaging technology to get his image into this cosmic projection!’ Rosalie reminded herself not to be deceived by this image.

However, the more she looked, the more she felt he looked real.

Step by step, Byron got closer. She could soon see his gentle smile and his affectionate gaze.

Rosalie was startled. There was a bouquet of roses in his right hand and an exquisite box in his left hand.

Finally, Byron’s figure suddenly flew out of the moon and floated slowly toward her.

Before long, the starry background in the living room faded a little, pulling them back to reality.

The countless stars shone and focused on Byron instead.

He slowly came down from above the living room.

“Whoa! Daddy is back from the moon!”

“Daddy is so cool! He went up to the sky to pick the stars for Mommy?”

“Sure enough, TV shows aren’t lying about picking stars. Daddy has just done that for Mommy!”

Immediately, Byron descended like an angel in a tuxedo. He brought the flowers and gift to Rosalie.

Rosalie could only sigh deep down. ‘You win! This sure is romantic!’

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2029-“Honey, happy birthday!”

Byron presented the roses and opened the gift box, revealing his present.

Like a star, it was a brilliant gem with a mild blue glow.

“Wow, what a beautiful gem! Daddy, the star looks like it’s been made with Eastern Star!”

“The Eastern Star is only found in M Nation, but this looks similar. Daddy, how’d you find it? It’s very hard to find!”

“Mommy, this gem is really beautiful!”

Rosalie realized her husband might have gone through a lot of trouble to get her this gem from her children’s professional discussion.

She felt loved and happy. She took the gem and kissed Byron.

‘Thanks, hubby!’

Just then, the lights in the living room lit up, and someone sang the birthday song.

Rosalie thought Byron had invited a professional singer to come and sing.

When she turned around, she saw her mother-in-law, Melody.

Unexpectedly, her mother-in-law was so good at singing. It surprised Rosalie.

A second later, the maids walked out, singing along with smiles on their faces. Their wishes were sincere and warm.

Benedict pushed a cart with a seven-layered cake into the living room.

The children jumped up and down, singing and drooling over the cake.

Seven layers of cake, and each layer was made with different ingredients. It was colorful and beautiful.

Rosalie was touched.

Her birthday had always been celebrated hastily in the past years. Only a few people in the world remembered it.

After having children, her birthday celebrations were better. The boys would eat cake with her and wish her the best wishes.

This year was the biggest birthday of her life.

Her eyes shimmered with tears. After suppressing her emotions, she smiled and cut the cake.

She gave the kids each a slice. Then, she handed two slices to her in-laws. At last, she divided the cake equally among the maids.

The living room was filled with laughter and joy. Rosalie was not drunk, but the surging joy made her feel tipsy.

She hoped her life would always be as happy as today.

Mary had taken a week off from work, and that was enough time for her to travel back to Coast City.

However, seven days had passed, and they had only finished half the journey.

The Northwest was to be blamed for that. There were so many scenic spots. It was off-season for tourism, so few tourists were around the area. Thus, it was the best time to travel. Andrius took the opportunity to plan the stops at a few more scenic spots.

Along the trip, Mary finally saw how good Andrius was in coaxing her mother and taking care of her. He was meticulous and a good planner.

Her mother also took the opportunity to discuss with Andrius about their marriage.

When staying in the hotel at night, her mother constantly locked Mary outside the room and urged her to sleep with Andrius.

However, Mary could not tell her what actually happened every night. Even when she was prepared for a passionate night, that gentleman would always ask for an extra bed.

Mary wanted to tell him that he could get rid of his respectful and gentlemanly behavior.

Come to think of it, Andrius seemed more conservative than her. She felt they might only sleep together on their wedding night.

However, Mary could not resist her urge when she smelled his scent after he took a bath.

She watched the handsome man walk out of the bath every night, but nothing ever happened between them. Mary could not control her mind from imagining, so these nights had been difficult for her.

That night, Camelia chased Mary out of the room again.

Mary hugged her pillow as she rang the doorbell opposite her room helplessly.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2030-Andrius smiled upon opening the door, "Did Aunt Wilson chase you out of the room again?"

'Yeah, my mom snores every night, and I'm not used to sleeping with her either.'" Mary made an excuse and walked into Andrius' room with her pillow.

Andrius' laptop was still turned on. He seemed to be working.

'He must be tired, planning the trip during the day and working for the company at night.' Mary felt sorry for her man.

She entered the room and looked around. The room was so clean and tidy as if no one was staying here. Every corner of the room was spotless.

Then, she took a look at the minibar. Sure enough, the drinks inside were placed neatly by him.

He was pretty obsessed with neatness, like usual.

Mary knew being like that might even be torture to him.

As usual, she opened the refrigerator and deliberately messed up the drinks.

Then, she immediately chose a random bottle of fruit wine.

She glanced deliberately at the man to see how he would react.

People with OCD, in severe cases, would quickly become agitated when others disrupted their arrangements and plans.

However, Andrius smiled at her as if he was relieved.

“Andrius, my current identity is your girlfriend, but I’m also a doctor. So, I can’t help but say that you don’t need to stress yourself so much in the future. We can check the travel guide together. You don’t need to be perfect in everything, okay?”

Mary did not mention anything about him being obsessed with neatness, but she was hinting at him about it.

She was worried that after the man returned to work, he would be under too much pressure, which may cause him to fall into depression once more.

“Mae, I know. I understand your feelings. I even know that only you can cure me!”

Andrius said that from his heart.

Sometimes, sincerity could be the sexiest thing in a man.

Mary could not look into Andrius’ eyes. She was afraid she might lose control after being mesmerized by his sincere confession.

Immediately, she opened the bottle and took out the glasses.

A bottle of wine was just the right amount for two glasses. She took the glass, approached Andrius, and handed one to him.

“Sometimes, a drink can relax the mind. You have to take a break from work sometimes!”

Mary wanted to have a drink because she wanted to have a good sleep. Otherwise, the sound of water when Andrius showered would make her fluster and imagine those hearthammering scenes.

“Alright, let’s have a drink.” Andrius took the glass and smiled. His smile was so alluring.

Mary did not dare to take a second glance. She even started to doubt if Andrius was seducing her on purpose.

After toasting, they both took a sip and chatted.

They talked about the scenery, mentioned things at work, and discussed some exciting things from the past.

Mary felt comfortable being with him.

Time passed, and they drank up the wine in their glasses. Mary took another bottle of wine from the minibar.

“It’s sweet and has a really good mouthfeel.” Mary did not realize the sweet and refreshing wine would be a strong wine.

It was just that the alcohol had not gotten her tipsy yet.
