My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2033-
Management Has Landed

Yves' ability was indeed better than Linda's.

In less than half a month, Linda bowed down and became his assistant.

After all, he was the only person who could strike a balance between the degree of commercialization and the depth of technical research.

As the CEO of Petal Talk Group, this was Lucas' evaluation of him.

The products of the group must come from the research institute, and only Yves could act as a bridge to make the process smoother. At the same time, he could also manage the development of new low-cost drugs, which would benefit many patients.

Petal Talk Group's product launch speed had slowed down, but new drugs were launched into the market one after another.

Yves took the initiative to get in touch and negotiate the purchase.

Mr. Loewe admired this quality very much. He felt that Yves could really embody Rosalie's will.

On this day, an international flight from D Nation landed at Coast City Airport.

A beautiful figure dressed in professional business attire and in high heels stepped out of the airport quickly with the wind blowing by her feet.

Behind her, there were 20 or 30 people, all dressed in neat suits and leather shoes. They were all from a diverse range of ethnicities and ages.

The older ones looked around 40 or 50 years old, and the young ones looked about 20.

The entire team turned the heads of the surrounding passengers. They were all amazed by the resolute auras on them.

A knowing eye could tell at a glance that this must be a negotiating team for international business negotiations.

The purpose of their slightly intimidating auras was to deter opponents.

Faye Whitrock was 29 years old. Among the three apprentices publicly acknowledged by Professor Quentin Luke, she was the first to join his team. According to seniority, she was Rosalie's senior. Her current position was the administrative general manager of the European GK Pharmaceutical Group.

She arrived in Coast City from D Nation, and her goal was to take over all the business in the entire region.

This was because the group was very disappointed with Rosalie's performance this year, especially after learning that Rosalie founded Petal Talk Group by herself and its valuation kept skyrocketing. Therefore, the board of directors decided to remove Rosalie from all positions.

Faye did not give Rosalie a heads-up. What she wanted was a decisive decision to confront Rosalie directly and find the evidence that was needed by the group.

Before long, the huge management team arrived at the research institute.

Although Yves had never met Faye before, he immediately recognized her when he saw her outfit that represented the European headquarters. Those from the headquarters would don a violet pattern on the collar of their shirt.

Faye bulldozed her way into the institute. A few burly men were responsible for clearing the way for her. They locked down the financial office of the research institute immediately and then quickly sealed the general manager's office.

In the end, they hastily sealed all the materials in the R&D room by putting on a brand new lock, which shocked Mr. Loewe. The poor man kept asking who they were.

Someone wanted to call the police, but Yves stopped him and explained, "Everyone, let's cooperate. They're the upper management of this research institute. They have the right to do so!"

Immediately, Yves nodded toward Faye.

Faye smiled a little and agreed with Yves. "I remember you. You almost entered the management of the company back then but came to Somerland with my junior."

"Yes! I remember you too, Miss Whitrock. Looking at the size of your team, this must've been an order by the higher-ups. I have no authority to stop you!"

Having said that, Yves had already secretly dialed Rosalie's phone number.

Rosalie was asking Yves what had happened, but she never got an answer.

That was until she heard the clear conversation between Yves and Faye.

She hung up the phone in a hurry and frowned. Then, she quickly asked the housekeeper to prepare the car before she headed to the research institute.

Once Faye saw that everything was going as planned, she immediately ordered her subordinates, "All the accounts for the past year must be thoroughly investigated. Sort out every single technical patent for the new drugs too."

Everyone followed her lead and acted immediately.

Soon, all the laboratories in the institute had to stop operations. All the technicians came out, looking at all this in puzzlement.

Yves explained to Mr. Loewe that due to the shareholding structure of the research institute, the place was indeed not owned by Rosalie alone.

However, Mr. Loewe interjected, "Yves, I don't understand these technical terms. Then, tell me this, did Rosalie alone create the composition of the research institute and all subsequent research and development, including the series of operations that created profits?"

Yves nodded silently.

Yes, although this research institute was under GK Pharmaceutical Group on paper, it had never taken much money from the headquarters since its establishment. At most, it had only taken some to make up the upfront cost.

Everything that followed was done by Rosalie at her own risk. Everytime she expanded the business, she would report it to the board of directors and proceed with approval.

When Petal Talk Group was founded, many senior executives of the board of directors even supported her to independently earn profits. After all, one could not hold back a talent like her.

“Since you’ve confirmed that it’s Rosalie who built this institute, why should people from the headquarters be allowed to come and meddle now? Miss Whitrock here is being rather aggressive.” Mr. Loewe’s face suddenly turned grim and intimidating.

He said it aloud, right at the door of the general manager’s office.

Faye naturally heard him. Her face suddenly turned ugly as she raised her brows. “Mr. Loewe, I’ve heard my teacher mention you. GK Group was made big by my teacher, Professor Luke, and many investors. Rosalie has always been one of GK Group’s, and she hasn’t resigned. Therefore, all her business activities essentially represent GK Group!”

“Stop beating about the bush. Rosalie isn’t here yet. You have no right to mess with any of this.” Mr. Loewe frowned heavily. He was furious.

Immediately, before Faye came back to her senses, the old man waved his hand. All the technicians who had followed him for many years immediately took action and rushed into the general manager’s office like a tidal wave.

They immediately surrounded the people brought by Faye.

“Put down all the materials! Chairwoman Jacobs hasn’t arrived yet, so you’re not allowed to touch anything here!”

“Yes, I don’t care what headquarters you’re from. In this research institute, we only take orders from Rosalie.”

“We must protect the financial department, the R&D department, and all the materials. No matter what, let’s call the police first. These people are just thugs, robbing things as they please. How unreasonable!”

There was a burst of collective indignation, which stunned Faye and her team members. Many of them were even frightened by the increasing number of research staff.

Everyone’s eyes fell eagerly on Faye’s face as they waited for her next instruction.

Yves originally thought that when Rosalie found out, Byron would definitely come with her.

At that time, this external audit conducted by Faye could still be prevented.

He just never expected Mr. Loewe’s imposing aura to be so terrifying.

He was worthy of being highly respected!

Linder Mr. Loewe’s orders, the team took back the documents that Faye’s team had just opened. Some of Faye’s staff even attempted to copy the data on the computers, but the institute’s team snatched the various hard drives away.

Mr. Loewe walked straight upto Faye and said coldly, “I’m sorry. Until Rosalie arrives, you can’t do anything rashly. Otherwise, the lot of you won’t be able to leave this research institute at all!”

Faye was completely stunned.

She really did not expect the team under Rosalie’s control to dare oppose the headquarters’ arrangement. This was not Rosalie’s management style.

It was the same thing three years ago in Europe. Rosalie led a very professional research institute. However, when the headquarters took back the management rights, they encountered no obstacles at all.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2035-You Are Far Too Kind

Luther accelerated, but Rosalie told him to slow down and take it easy.

Byron, who was beside Rosalie, looked away from the phone screen and said lightly, "This senior of yours seem to have impeccable timing. Last time when you were in the research institute in Europe, while the technical team was at its peak performance, she parachuted in with the management team and took away your fruits of victory."

The corners of Rosalie's mouth were slightly downturned, showing a wry smile. "Yup, it's the same trick again this time. n

"Back then, why didn't you fight back?" Byron was puzzled.

Rosalie's eyes suddenly became a little dark as she answered simply, "I was able to form a team to realize my dream, but I couldn't do it in the beginning. It was Faye. She had many useful contacts in D Nation and finally drew a huge investment, which gave me the opportunity to carry out my plans!

"In addition, she's always been kind to me. After I gave birth to Lucian and Nox, I didn't have much income for a while, so she helped me."

It was for this reason that Rosalie did not have much desire to fight her.

No matter what, she could still make some good medicines in the early stage and supply them at a low price to benefit many patients.

She just did not expect Faye to come in such a hurry this time. It had only been a year, and they had already come to take over all management rights.

Professor Luke was the head of GK Pharmaceutical Group in name, but, in fact, his hands were tied by the many investors brought by Faye.

Byron shook his head after listening to his wife's recount." You're far too kind. These technical teams and the institute's achievements are a result of your leadership and efforts. No matter what, you should have a certain share. Your senior simply treats you as a cash cow! She knows your ability but is unwilling to give you anything. This is too much!"

Rosalie nodded, admitting that her husband was right.

However, as long as her teacher's name was still affiliated with GK Group, she could never turn her back on him.

Byron carefully supported her out of the car when they arrived at the research institute and immediately walked through the gate with her.

The two immediately heard a bustling sound. They looked over and saw that hundreds of the research institute's employees had gathered in front of the office building, while the team led by Faye was blocked at the outermost.

These people all had different expressions. Some were conflicted, some were panicked, and some were stern.

Faye's face was the ugliest, with a sharp coldness in her eyes.

"Chairwoman Jacobs is here!" someone shouted.

Yves and Mr. Loewe immediately approached them.

When they arrived in front of the couple, Yves had not even opened his mouth yet when Mr. Loewe had a look of uncontrollable indignation on his face.

"Rosalie, you can't just give up the research institute like this. After all, this is everyone's hard work. We won't recognize GK Group; we only acknowledge you!"

More and more people gathered toward Rosalie.

Rosalie took a look at the indignation of the employees and quickly waved her hands to appease everyone first.

"Mr. Loewe, don't worry. I haven't heard anything about the headquarters' sudden decision. This time, I'll try to communicate with Faye properly!"

In the car earlier, Byron kept encouraging Rosalie to know when to fight for her own rights.

Right now, she was even more convinced by seeing so many people supporting her.

However, just as Rosalie finished speaking, Faye quickly approached her and stopped directly in front of her, casting a cold glance at her.
