My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2036-Make Both Parties Satisfied

“Rosalie, what’s the meaning of this?”

Faye’s face was totally mean-spirited.

Suddenly, she noticed Byron and could not help being in awe.

“This is...”

Byron’s aura had reached a point where no one could ignore him.

Faye often met powerful people on important occasions, but when she saw Byron, she instinctively knew this man was so noble that everyone looked up to him.

However, she could not believe it when she saw Byron standing so closely beside Rosalie.

“Senior, he’s my husband, Byron Lawrence!” Rosalie answered lightly.

In an instant, Faye’s eyes froze for two seconds. ‘It’s true!’

She got the news back in D Nation that Rosalie and her ex- husband had gotten back together again. She also heard that the man was a big shot with a powerful background.

She did not expect that it would be so hard to peel her eyes away from Byron after seeing him.

Suddenly, the habitual jealousy surged in her heart.

‘Why is Rosalie always so blessed?’

In terms of medical skills, Rosalie was much better than her. Professor Luke had three apprentices, but Rosalie learned the fastest and had the deepest comprehension. Even her needling technique was considered to have surpassed Professor Luke’s, who only ever had high praises for Rosalie.

In terms of research and development technology, Rosalie's thinking was always one step ahead of anyone else. She boldly took risks and got it right every time.

Now, Faye found out that Rosalie even had such an enviable husband.

"Hello, Mr. Lawrence. I'm Rosalie's senior, Faye Whitrock!" Out of politeness, Faye reached out for a handshake.

However, Byron had a cold expression on his face. He just reluctantly nodded in response. "Hello, Miss Whitrock."

He did not want to acknowledge her as Rosalie's senior.

Embarrassment flashed across Faye's face, but she immediately frowned and looked at Rosalie, questioning her. "Rosalie, what's going on today? I think you need to give me an explanation, right?"

It was a huge taboo for a manager to blatantly lead their employees to resist the headquarters' order, no matter what company it was.

Rosalie sensed the other party's aggression and changed her previous habits as well. She replied slowly. "Sorry, Senior. You came without notice, and it's normal that the research institute staff don't know you. You must want to investigate the information urgently, but if this behavior was seen in other companies, I'm afraid that conflicts would've broken out long ago!"

Faye's eyes suddenly became gloomy and uncertain.

It was hard to believe that this junior, who had always been submissive, dared to refute her.

"Heh, a group was dispatched for the task this time. At the same time, Professor Luke was the one who arranged to conduct a surprise investigation. Naturally, it was impossible for us to inform you beforehand. Now, please make a public announcement. From now on, my team will take over the management of the institute!" Faye looked determined to get her way.

She knew that Rosalie's kryptonite was Professor Luke. Since she had mentioned the professor's name, Rosalie should give in obediently.

However, she was wrong again.

Rosalie turned her face to the side and saw the encouragement in her husband's eyes. She immediately responded in an understated tone, "Senior, I'm sorry, but I can't follow the headquarters' order this time. I won't agree to give up management rights without proper discussion over the matters!"

Faye's eyes were filled with astonishment.

"Are you really going against the professor's arrangement?" she gritted her teeth and questioned fiercely.

Rosalie maintained a neither humble nor overbearing tone as she calmly replied. "Perhaps we should talk about it again in detail. If both parties can be satisfied, then I'll definitely cooperate!"

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2037-Good Discussion

They had not seen each other for only a year, and Faye felt that a great change had taken place in Rosalie.

Are you so confident now just because you've reconnected with your ex-husband?'

Lawrence Corporation did not occur to her when she heard Byron's name just now.

Now, she remembered. Byron Lawrence was now the number one figure in domestic business. He never appeared on the list of wealthy people, but everyone knew that he was at the top.

Even the conglomerates and the powerful in Europe deeply respected Byron.

Realizing this, Faye was full of astonishment and shock. Finally, she was filled to the brim with deep envy and jealousy.

‘Why is Rosalie so lucky? Why her?’

Faye was filled with resentment inside. She naturally would not give in to Rosalie. “I don’t think there’s anything to talk about. If you really want to go against the professor’s arrangement, then I have nothing to say. Let us all leave immediately!”

She left her harsh words with a determined look on her face.

She thought Rosalie would be intimidated.

Unexpectedly, Rosalie replied with indifference, “This time, it’s not about me alone. I’ll stand my ground to the end. If you don’t want to talk, that’s fine with me. Please leave. You know your way out!”

This time, even if Rosalie did not fight for herself, she must stand up for the future of Yves, Mr. Loewe, and the team.

‘If Faye is allowed to control the research institute now, she’ll definitely eradicate dissidents and eliminate everyone who opposes her.’

Faye’s face froze when she heard Rosalie’s answer.

She clenched her teeth and hissed a cold retort. “You really don’t take our professor seriously, do you?”

“I’ll explain the situation to him for sure.” Rosalie immediately ignored her, turned around, and nodded toward Yves and Mr. Loewe.

The message conveyed in her eyes was clear— ‘Everyone back to work and stop entertaining these people.’

Now, it had become awkward for Faye.

The originally murderous audit team that planned to draw blood with their sudden attack unexpectedly encountered such a fortified resistance.

She knew that it would be embarrassing to give up now.

She could not help but regret why she stopped to find out how Rosalie was doing. Perhaps it would not have been a bad idea to accept Rosalie’s suggestion to discuss earlier, especially if Rosalie could come up with a good offer.

Faye caught a glimpse of the playful sneer at the corner of Byron's mouth.

She felt a stab in her chest.

This was equivalent to Rosalie getting a checkmate.

If she left just like that, who else in the entire group would listen to her in the future?

"Rosalie, wait a minute. Perhaps we could have a good discussion. Forgive me for being impulsive!" Faye spoke up while holding back her frustration.

Rosalie paused after barely taking a few steps forward. She turned her head, but her eyes were eerily calm. "Really? Then you're welcome to my office to have a discussion, Faye."

She walked up to Mr. Loewe and said in a firm voice, "Mr. Loewe, let everyone go back to their posts and just do their jobs well. I promise to negotiate an acceptable outcome for everyone!"

Mr. Loewe should be relieved with Rosalie's promise, but he still could not help himself. "Rosalie, the whole institute was built by your painstaking effort. You have to think more about yourself. We'll never worry about any kind of crisis. After all, the rewards from Petal Talk Group are already enough. Every technician is very grateful to you."

Rosalie was suddenly moved and nodded.

Immediately, Mr. Loewe led everyone back to their respective positions. Rosalie and Faye went to the general manager's office.

Yves pulled Byron abruptly with vigilance in his eyes. "Mr. Lawrence, Chairwoman Jacobs gave me an order just now to deal with something immediately. I hope you can help me. r*

Byron did not even wait for an explanation. He just nodded and agreed.
