My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2038-In the general manager's office, Rosalie took her seat and calmly began brewing hot water to make tea.

Faye followed her in and sat down opposite her. The others did not enter the room.

The two confronted each other head-on.

Faye's eyes were cold.

"Rosalie, tell me. What exactly do you want for you to hand over the research institute? You're now a rich and affluent wife. You don't need a career! So, I hope your conditions won't make me too upset!"

Rosalie responded in silence as if she had not heard a thing.

This pissed Faye off even more. "What? Are you mocking me? Don't forget when you were in Europe back then. If I hadn't helped you, you might be sleeping on the streets now!"

Rosalie finally stopped her actions, raised her eyes, and nodded.

"Yes, I've always kept your care in mind. That's why I handed over the previous research institute to you directly. Now, it's redundant for me to remind you about the annual profits that the research institute generates for GK Group, right?"

Faye was stunned for a moment, unable to find any words to refute.

Indeed, the drugs developed by the previous research institute were still contributing to nearly one-third of GK Group's net profits.

"So?" Faye asked back.

"So nothing. Since you mentioned the favor you previously did for me, then I shall remind you of my contributions too. Not to mention, your small favor has been repaid in abundance. At least, I have a clear conscience!" Rosalie's response was lukewarm to the least.

The water boiled as the kettle whistled. Rosalie picked up the kettle and began to brew a pot of Darjeeling tea.

In less than a few seconds, the air was filled with fragrance.

She poured the tea into the teacups and immediately waved her hand. "Senior Faye, let's have some tea first!"

Faye hesitated for two seconds but picked up the teacup anyway.

She could not grasp her junior even more now. When did she start to possess this indifferent and free-spirited attitude?

Of course, Rosalie did not reveal that this was a power move taught by her husband.

Whether it was business or a negotiation, nonchalantly drinking tea in stillness would subtly put psychological pressure on the other party.

"So, let's get things straight. What exactly do you want? How much subsidy do you want? Or what kind of benefits do you want to fight for your employees?" Faye urged anxiously, becoming increasingly impatient.

Seeing that the time was right, Rosalie spoke slowly.

"The research institute naturally belongs to GK Group. However, with so many patent achievements, they can't all just be attributed back to the group. After all, you should know how much money I've spent on GK Group since its establishment until now."

"What do you mean... Are you setting your eyes on the patents?" Faye immediately put down her teacup and almost jumped up.

Immediately, her expression that had just eased a little suddenly showed annoyance. "Impossible! I'll never agree to this. In itself, these patents are the most important to the group. Why don't you just come clean with me? How much do you want?"

Rosalie's reaction did not change at all. She simply ignored her senior's outbursts.

“There’s a total of 13 patents! There are about four patents that can be directly transferred to the group’s ownership. The remaining nine patents must reach a cooperationsharing model with GK Group! This is the condition I want.”

Faye thought she had heard wrong.

After being stunned for a few seconds, she finally came to her senses.

Immediately, she was furious as she stood up. “No, I’ll never agree to your conditions! You don’t want to talk at all. You’re blackmailing!”

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2039-Rosalie sneered when she heard the word ‘blackmail.’

The patents were obviously the result of her and all the technicians toiling hard day and night, sometimes at the expense of sleep and food.

Now, Faye had said she was blackmailing for fruits of her own labor?

Although she was disappointed, she had expected her senior to react like this.

“Faye, you should consider this carefully. This is the best solution I can give. Even if you get Professor Luke to come, I won’t give in!”

With that, Rosalie continued to drink tea with a relaxed demeanor.

“Rosalie, listen to this. I won’t agree, not even over my dead body! Since you insist on this, then go ahead. Even if you follow the procedure strictly, you’ll be kicked out sooner or later!”

Faye uttered harsh words one after another, still hoping that it would work.

However, no matter what she said, Rosalie did not even bat an eye.

This greatly challenged her dignity and caused her to lose her mind.

At this time, Byron’s voice came from outside the door.” Honey, I’m back!”

The majestic king of business was so gentle to his beautiful wife. This infuriated the already envious Faye even more.

Byron walked in, glanced at Faye, who was furious, and then at his wife who was calm. He probably knew that the negotiation must have failed.

"It's all taken care of!" He smiled faintly at Rosalie.

Rosalie nodded in understanding.

Then, she said lightly to Faye, "Faye, you're right. According to the procedure, the research institute should belong to GK Group. I've suddenly figured it out. How about this? I'll hand the research institute to you!"

Faye wondered again if she was hallucinating.

Staring at Rosalie cautiously, she asked, "What... What tricks are you playing now?"

"Tricks? How could I compete with you? You use this kind of assault every time to acquire the entire institute. If it weren't for Mr. Loewe and the others who refused to cooperate just now, I'm afraid they would've been swallowed up by you long ago!"

A faint sneer appeared on the corner of Rosalie's mouth. Since her husband had settled the matter, she had nothing to be afraid of.

"What's the matter? You threatened and enticed me when I didn't want to give up the institute to you. Now that I want to give it to you, you're hesitant to accept it?"

Faye was indeed hesitating.

After a few seconds, she nodded and replied, "Okay! Since you offered, I'll boldly accept it. I don't believe you can do anything about it."

Rosalie and Byron walked out of the general manager's office.

Yves had been waiting at the gate of the institute for a while. He quickly reported to Rosalie.

“Nine patents have been temporarily transferred to the company arranged by President Lawrence according to your instruction. The official seal is still in my hands. Do I need to send it back?”

When Rosalie heard that, the huge boulder on her heart fell to the ground.

She just made an estimation and delayed Faye in the name of negotiation.

This was the only way her husband and Yves could have time to transfer the patents.

Of course, she clearly knew that there was nothing to talk about with this senior who only had interests on her mind.

“It doesn’t matter if you send the official seal back. It doesn’t matter if we hand over the entire research institute either. Anyway, we can always purchase the scientific research equipment needed at any time. Yves, please let Mr.

Loewe know we’ll cooperate completely. We’ll get all the benefits we deserve. Then, we’ll follow up with batches of resignations. All employees will go to the research institute under Petal Talk Group!”

After Rosalie finished speaking, Yves immediately nodded in agreement. He turned and entered the research institute.

The corners of Byron’s lips upturned when he saw his beloved wife’s resolute execution in the business operations.

According to how she handled this, there was a high chance she learned it from him.

“My wife’s business ability has become even more powerful! ” Byron’s big palm covered the woman’s head as he rustled her hair with deep affection.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2040-Faye pondered for a long time in the general manager’s office. She went into a panic when something suddenly occurred to her.

She immediately asked her subordinates to search for all the patent certificates belonging to the research institute.

In the end, there were only four patents left.

These four patents among the many have been authorized by patent agents. Previously, Rosalie had used this agency method to earn enough cash flow.

“Damn it! So I’m getting an almost empty shell of a research institute!” Faye was so angry that she yelled at the subordinates she brought.

“Trash, you’re all trash! You should’ve gotten all the patent certificates first. They were taken away right under your noses!”

The so-called high-level management staff members, in her opinion, were simply useless idiots.

She was trembling with anger, but all the subordinates were silent and dared not answer.

At this time, Yves suddenly knocked on the door.

The door was already opened. He could not bear to disrupt this hilarious scene and wanted to enjoy it for a while longer.

However, he had to get back to work, after all. He walked up to Faye and said respectfully, “Manager, this is the resignation letter from Ms. Rosalie, the person in charge of the research institute. In addition, this is my resignation letter. It’s been a great honor for me to work in GK Group. However, due to health problems, I’m no longer qualified for the position. Please approve the resignations!”

Yves said it loud and proud.

Faye’s eyes fell on the two resignation letters. Her teeth were clenched in anger, and her heart was convulsing with rage.

“Very well! I approve!”

She glanced at Yves in disgust and immediately waved her hand.

Yves was sensible and left immediately, taking advantage of the opportunity to put the official seal under Faye’s nose.

“Rosalie, damn you! I was a fool!”

When Yves left, he closed the office door behind him.

However, Faye’s roar was still too loud. She was still audible even though he was far away.

In the evening, Yves, who had just left his job not long ago, had already arrived at the office of Petal Talk Group’s president. He was ready to apply for a position.

Lucas listened with great interest to Yves as the latter explained the whole story.

With that, Lucas could not help but applaud Rosalie’s bait- and-switch.

“So, from today onward, I can only work under you, Mr. Montgomery. Please take care of me, Sir!”

Yves was the first to return to Petal Talk Group in order to prepare for the re-opening of the research institute.

At least in this way, he could take care of Mr. Loewe when the old man returned with so many technicians later.

“Yves, don’t be shy with me. You’re a rare all-rounded talent with both technical acumen and business operation ability. Even if not for my sister-in-law, I would’ve been eager to give you a position!” Lucas said this in all seriousness, i

After all, he still had a family business to inherit!

“I’ll follow your arrangements, Mr. Montgomery,” Yves smiled with ease.

“Well, from today onward, you’ll be the vice president of Petal Talk Group. Help me more in the future, and don’t just involve yourself in the institute’s affairs.” With that, Lucas relieved himself of a lot of responsibilities. He was secretly happy about it.

On the other hand, Yves’ face was full of astonishment.

He never thought that he could get such a position. Initially, he thought that it would be good enough to be a supervisor and set up a research department.

more? Or ask Chairwoman Jacobs' opinion on this?" Yves was really flattered.

However, Lucas shook his head and waved his hand," Although my sister-in-law is the chairwoman, the decisionmaking power rests with me. I say you can do it, so don't refuse anymore! Next, when the news of Petal Talk Group having an independent research institute is announced, the value of the entire company will rise again!"
