My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2041-Mary's sweet vacation with Andrius ended. When she came back, she heard that the hospital was gone.

She was the hospital director by name only!

"Rosalie, what's going on? Why did the hospital change its name? Shouldn't you give me a reasonable explanation?"

Rosalie remained calm as she faced her best friend's complaints. She invited Mary to come to the manor and chat in detail.

Andrius arrived first before Mary, and threw out a lot of local specialties, as well as many delicious treats.

"Byron, sister-in-law, I bought this for you and the kids from our trip," Andrius's current state was refreshed, as if he had become several years younger.

"I heard that you both even discussed marriage this time?" Byron had a playful smile on his lips.

There was no shame on Andrius' face. He nodded and admitted plainly. "Yes, we had plans. We're still picking a date! I sent Mrs. Wilson back home and both our parents will talk first!"

Rosalie was impressed. "You two progress really fast!"

There was no sound in the beginning, but now it was like thunder stirring the ground.

Not long after, Mary arrived. She was stunned to see Byron and Rosalie drinking tea leisurely.

"I heard that you were fired?" She asked Rosalie.

Rosalie nodded.

"So, the hospitals, research institutes, drug companies, are all gone?" she asked again.

Rosalie nodded again.

“My God, you are now a rich and affluent wife, but what about me? I still have to rely on this job to support my family! Rosalie, you better give me an explanation!”

Mary rolled her eyes fiercely. If it was not for Byron’s presence, she would have complained even more ruthlessly.

It happened that the many gifts that Andrius brought were held together by tape, so Rosalie picked up a piece of tape and exclaimed. “Here you go, tape it!”

“Rosalie, tell me quickly, what’s going on?” Mary was about to go mad with frustration.

So Rosalie had no choice but to briefly summarize what had happened.

Then, she comforted Mary. “Don’t worry! I’ll build a bigger hospital later; you can still be the hospital director then.”

In Rosalie’s plan, although she lost control of the original hospital, she could still find a way to buy it back.

The hospitals and drug companies had essentially been losing money. It was after Mary became the director that she started to make a small profit.

Therefore, GK Group would definitely sell the hospital off in the future.

Mary still did not quite understand. Andrius was beside her and gave her some knowledge about the structure of the group and its subsidiaries.

Finally, she calmed down once she realized that she could keep her job.

Out of the blue, Rosalie teased and laughed. “Actually, you don’t really need to work. You can be a rich and affluent wife too!”

With that, she deliberately turned her attention to Andrius.

Mary panicked immediately. Her cheeks flushed as she turned to look at Andrius. She whispered, “What did you say?”

‘He did not tell them what I did after I got drunk, right?’

If Rosalie found out, she would definitely be laughed at for the rest of her life.

Andrius said with a straight face, "I didn't say anything. I just said that we are going to get married soon. My lips are sealed, don't worry!"

"Andrius, Mary, congratulations! If you need anything for your wedding, please tell me anytime!" Byron looked like an experienced veteran.

"Sure, thanks buddy. You are more experienced in this!" Andrius said inadvertently.

Immediately, Rosalie and Byron were stunned. Two death glares cast on Andrius in an instant.

"Haha, that's right...You've both been married twice after all," Mary snickered immediately.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2042-Faye thought that this time the audit management team would be able to run more smoothly than last time. She imagined being able to integrate the research institute, pharmaceutical company, and hospital more thoroughly, so as to achieve an explosive increase in profits.

However, the financial team told her that pharmaceutical companies were losing money every day, and the previous drug prices were too low to cover production costs, let alone R&D costs.

As for the hospital, although it could bring a certain amount of profit, after the name change, those wealthy patients suddenly stopped coming to the hospital for in-depth medical examinations and lost a huge amount of capital at once.

At the same time, some patients wanted to be discharged as soon as they heard that the hospital director had changed.

While Faye was busy firefighting, Mr. Loewe kicked into action as well. The latest batch of technicians who came in submitted their resignations simultaneously.

Finally, after losing the patent and the lucrative profits provided by Petal Talk Group, Faye found out that Rosalie had actually prepared for this time. What was left to her was actually an empty shell.

Cash flow pressure, technicians leaving, patents lost...

In less than two days, Faye left Coast City and headed back to the GK Group headquarters to coordinate with the board of directors and find a way to recuperate their resources. Otherwise, GK Group would never have a chance in the domestic market.

On the other side, Rosalie's plans were also in full swing.

Lucas and Yves were absorbing the technicians from the research institute.

Linda was busy preparing to build a new hospital.

Andrius was busy preparing for a new pharmaceutical company, incorporated all the patents into this pharmaceutical company, and then linked them to Petal Talk Group.

Soon enough, Rosalie's business plans will return to its original state.

Of course, Byron's full support was indispensable.

In addition, Byron was not only a commercial support, but also a full-time caregiving master for pregnant mothers.

Today, he excitedly took Rosalie to the Women and Children's Hospital. They had planned to have an ultrasound scan to see how the little baby was progressing.

After the ultrasound scan came out, the chief doctor congratulated the two of them.

"Congratulations to Mr. Lawrence and Ms. Jacobs, you have a pigeon pair! You are so blessed!"

"Pigeon pair..."

The husband and wife looked at each other. There was an immediate joyful ecstasy.

Especially Byron, who almost jumped up to his feet.

“That’s great, that’s so wonderful! Now there’s no need to argue for the kids. They would have both a younger brother and a younger sister!” Byron was so happy that he could not contain his joy. He took another look at the inspection report again, the fetal shape which was slightly bigger than the palm of his hand.

His eyes were full of doting tenderness.

“That’s it, now we have five! We can form a basketball team! Byron, let me just put on a disclaimer. No more babies after these two,” Rosalie pouted and muttered.

Byron had a cheeky smile, “It’s just the basketball team. Why can’t it be the football team?”

The chief doctor also smiled. “With the brains and brawn of the two of you, it is actually possible to have a few more children.”

“Doctor, you’re not the one having back pain when you stand and talk!” Rosalie complained quietly.

The chief doctor burst out laughing and advised the followup matters.

Byron talked about his caretaking process during this period and received a burst of compliments. He had a sense of accomplishment all over his face.

After leaving the hospital, Byron immediately began to mutter again in the car.

“Honey, you need to start controlling your sugar level. It is very easy to get diabetes during pregnancy. In addition, remember to drink folic acid on time. Also, soak your feet every day to prevent severe swelling of your legs in the later stages of pregnancy...”

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2043-That night, the Lawrence family was in a sea of joy.

When Benedict and Melody heard that the couple were expecting twins, they were so excited that they were on the verge of tears.

Back then when they took care of little Estie, they were filled with worry and anxiety. They were not able to fully enjoy being grandparents.

Now, with these two newborns, they could finally enjoy being grandparents properly and competently.

Raising Estie was considered in a difficult mode, and this time they hoped it was changed to an easy mode.

When the three little kids heard that they would have a brother and a sister at the same time, they were so happy that they kept clapping their hands.

They warmly praised Daddy and Mommy for their abilities and being amazing.

This made Byron and Rosalie a little embarrassed.

This 'ability' does not need much recognition.

Next, came the most intense and exciting part for the family.

Naming the future twins.

Coincidentally, last time Byron asked the three little kids to prepare two names, one for a boy and one for a girl.

This was great. They could now choose two names, and the probability of their suggestion being selected increases.

"Okay, then the Lawrence family naming contest officially begins. First of all, we invite the first contestant, Mr. Lucian Lawrence! We are looking forward to what beautiful name this logical-thinking kid would come up with. Everyone, let's give a round of applause and encouragement!"

"Clap clap clap clap!"

Amidst bursts of applause, Lucian stood in the center of everyone, took out a drawing board in his hand, and quickly wrote down two names.

Micah Lawrence, Dawn Lawrence!

Everyone nodded, a burst of applause and encouragement ensued.

“Okay, now for our second contestant Mr. Nox Lawrence. Let’s invite this tech-whizz to see what better name he can think of.”

Nox wrote down the name he’d been thinking about for a longtime.

Connor Lawrence, Desiree Lawrence!

Similarly, he also received a burst of praise. Although the names were simple, it was meaningful.

At this time, beside him, the little girl quickly altered her answer.

She muttered under her breath, “What, I thought the names would be more traditional. I didn’t expect my two brothers to pick such modern names!”

After Estie complained, she did not wait for her father to announce her turn. She stepped forward and raised the drawing board in her hand.

The two names she thought of were Micah and Desiree!

Everyone present was immediately stunned.

“Isn’t this...” Before Nox could say the word plagiarism, Lucian tightly covered his mouth and dragged him aside.

Benedict and Melody also looked at each other in blank dismay.

Immediately, Rosalie immediately stood up and supported Little Estie. “Indeed, there is no rule in our competition that you can’t share the same name as others. Therefore, it is not wrong that Little Estie and her two brothers share the same ideas!”

“Alright, Mommy. I think the names I’ve picked are a bit of a mouthful to pronounce. So, I think I’ll pull out of this competition. However, I think my brothers’ suggestions were great. It doesn’t matter, I will try again next time!” Estie frankly admitted her shortcomings.

“...” Rosalie’s forehead was about to break out in cold sweat.

‘There would be no next time!’

Finally, the voting began.

The name Micah Lawrence gets all the votes.

The name Desiree Lawrence was also unanimously approved.

Therefore, the boy's name would be Micah and the girl's name would be Desiree.

"Micah and Desiree, these names are so lovely!" Although Estie did not choose it, it turned out to be her favorite. She jumped for joy immediately.

Lucian and Nox were also happy. They successfully named their younger siblings in an incredible way and felt they had accomplished their rites of passage.

"Lucian, Nox, Estella, Micah and Desiree! This rolls off the tongue quite easily!" Rosalie repeated the names once more. They were indeed easy to remember, so it was convenient when introducing the kids to others.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2044-In the blink of an eye, the weather turned cold.

It was Somerland people's traditional festival, and the Spring Festival had just passed. Many people were still immersed in that warm, festive atmosphere, unable to fully return to work mentally.

Andrius and Mary's wedding had been finalized not long after the Spring Festival.

Lucian and Nox were preparing for their godmother's wedding gift.

Estie was also busy designing her godmother's wedding dress.

Rosalie started developing morning sickness, which lasted for two weeks. As a result, she could not eat all the food during the Spring Festival. That was a bummer for her.

At this time, the iron gate of an unknown detention center in Coast City slowly opened.

Chloe Lincoln walked out slowly. She had already changed out of her prison uniform. She wore a down jacket, and her hair looked slightly disheveled.

She did not tell her family that her jail sentence had ended.

After saying a brief goodbye to the prison guard, Chloe looked at the long winding path, unable to see clearly ahead. Everything was covered with snow.

She paused to think and planned to call her friend to help her call a car to pick her up.

She did not expect that two white cars were racing in the snow towards her. It did not take long before they arrived in front of her.

Opening the car door, Lucas jumped down. He looked at Chloe and exclaimed, "Chloe, I'm here! Although you deliberately conceal it, don't underestimate our ability."

Andrius also walked down, holding the wish bottle that Chloe had buried before. He nodded and said, "I even know that after you get out of prison, you planned to just discreetly meet your parents, and then book a ticket to leave Coast City, right?"

Chloe was shocked.

Within a few seconds, her eyes that were blurred by wind and frost flickered.

Her gaze was immediately attracted by the wish bottle.

Her thoughts returned to more than ten years ago in an instant.

At that time, Byron, Lucas, Andrius and her grew up together as childhood friends.

In a flash, such a long time had passed just like that.

She had forgotten what she wished for at that time.

Andrius' footprints on the snow, causing a rustling sound.

He walked up to her and handed the wish bottle into her hand. He grinned. "No matter what you decide in the end, we hope you take a look at your previous wishes before making a decision!"

She was on the verge of tears, but fortunately it was snowing. Her tears seemed to be frozen, so it did not flow out in the end. Her eyes did turn a little red.

She picked up the wish bottle and pulled out the cork gently. Then, she tipped the bottle for the paper inside to slide out.

Lucas smiled, "Don't worry, we didn't take a peek! However, if you think it's appropriate, we would like to take a look now. N

Chloe glanced at him faintly. "No way, don't even think about it!"

At this moment, there was doubt in her mind. Back then, how did she feel about Byron? Could it be that the love she had developed for Byron in the past few years was really just a possessive desire?

She opened the note, and it was densely packed in small handwriting.

Suddenly, she was stunned.

She raised her eyes several times and looked at Lucas.

She kept muttering. "Impossible, impossible, how could I not remember what I wanted at that time?"

A lot was written on the paper, some things about the four of them and their pasts.

However, there were more records about Lucas inside.

The reason was that Lucas's former home at that time was next to Lincoln's former home. She and Lucas had gone through even more together.

Among them, she even wrote, 'I hope Auntie Tamsine will get better soon! I hope that Lucas' face can return to the way it was before, that he wouldn't constantly worry in secret/

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2045-“What did you write exactly? Let us see!” Lucas was really curious.

Chloe panicked and immediately crumpled the paper into a ball, holding it tightly in her hands.

“Nothing to see! Just some silly childish scribbles. There is nothing to look at.”

She secretly glanced at Lucas when she spoke. Her cheeks were slightly flushed.

Fortunately, in this icy and snowy place, it's normal to blush from the cold. Andrius and Lucas were none the wiser.

Andrius looked serious and asked, “Are you still planning to leave?”

A cold wind howled past, and the atmosphere suddenly turned sentimental.

After all, they were childhood buddies who have grown up together for so many years. No one knows when they would meet again if Chloe went her way this time.

Maybe by that time, they would all be married with families. The pure relationship they once had will no longer exist.

Chloe smiled faintly. “Originally, I really wanted to escape. However, you two came, and it suddenly gave me the courage. I should face this head-on. I'm not leaving anymore! N

The wish bottle from many years ago did remind Chloe of some things.

Now she could not remember at all why she had such emotions towards Lucas back then.

‘Could it be that I had feelings for him?’

‘Why did it become Byron later?’

Hearing her affirmative answer, Andrius and Lucas both nodded and smiled at each other.

“This is so strange. This wish bottle not only changed Andrius’ habits, but also made Chloe stay,” Lucas sighed.

Andrius and Chloe had already gotten into the car, turned around and sped off.

“Where are you going?” Lucas quickly got into his car and chased after them.

Andrius did not expect that what Chloe wanted to do now was to find Rosalie.

The car arrived at Lawrence Manor, and he drove into the courtyard like usual. Everyone could see at a glance that Byron was building a snowman with Rosalie in the thick snow.

The manor courtyard was enormous. There were countless snowmen in all kinds of shapes and sizes. Rosalie’s face was flushed from the cold, but she was indeed dressed warmly. She had multiple layers of winter coats on her, bundled up awkwardly.

Otherwise, Byron would not allow her to go outside, let alone build a snowman.

Seeing Andrius, both of them shouted excitedly. “Andrius, come here. The snowman you built yesterday has fallen to pieces.”

It turned out that this pile of snowmen was not just Byron and Rosalie’s masterpiece, but also the three little kids’ creation. Andrius and Mary also participated.

Andrius smiled, and Chloe also opened the car door and got out.

Rosalie and Byron were stunned for a moment.

Immediately, Byron nodded and said, “You’re back!”

His tone moved Chloe, like the reunion of a long-time friend.

Immediately, she smiled and greeted Rosalie, “Ms. Jacobs... How have you been?”

Rosalie pursed her lips, showing a modest and warm smile.” I’ve been good. It’s cold outside, let’s go inside and chat!”

She never expected Chloe would visit as soon as she was released. She pondered, ‘What does Chloe want to do?’

They all entered the house, then Lucas arrived.

In the hall, there was plenty of heating and the temperature was right. Byron was gently helping Rosalie take off her coats. She had three coats in total.

Chloe’s eyes did not fluctuate in the slightest upon seeing this gesture. Her eyes were very calm.

After being seated, Byron made hot tea, and made another cup of jasmine tea for Rosalie.

Then he casually asked, “Chloe, what are your plans next?”

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2046-Chloe’s eyes fell on Rosalie and noticed that Rosalie’s right hand was inadvertently holding her lower abdomen, so she said, “Congratulations, Miss Jacobs on your latest pregnancy. You and my buddy, Byron are indeed a good match!”

Everyone was taken aback.

After all, in the past, Chloe never addressed Byron this way.

Rosalie could tell that Chloe was implicitly hinting at her, that she no longer has entanglements with Byron.

Rosalie also responded simply. “Yes, I’m pregnant and they are twins. The house will be so lively now!”

“That’s great!” Chloe sighed sincerely.

Immediately afterwards, she suddenly said, ‘Miss Jacobs, I am really sorry for my mistakes in the past. I’ve done you wrong! I sincerely apologize to you!’

Her face was very solemn and serious.

Although Rosalie hesitated in her heart, she still answered quickly. "It's okay, it's over!"

Byron kept silent, but Andrius nodded slightly, as if he was making a guarantee for Chloe.

Then, they all chatted easily. '

Chloe expressed her plan that she still wanted to start a business. In this regard, everyone was supportive.

Halfway through, Andrius received a call from Mary. He needed to prepare for the wedding and left first.

In the end, it was Lucas who sent Chloe back.

When everyone left, Rosalie looked at her husband and said sadly, "It seems that Chloe has really changed. Otherwise, she would never come to me."

"That would be best!" Byron spoke cautiously on this issue.

It made Rosalie chuckle. "You don't have to be so nervous. I believe you; Chloe probably won't like you now. Don't worry, you are still childhood friends. Relax!"

Byron nodded. "I know my boundaries. The most important thing now is to take good care of my wife. I don't want to bother with other things."

Lucas drove Chloe home. Chloe, who was sitting in the passenger seat, glanced at Lucas from time to time along the way. 1

It made Lucas frowned slightly and felt something was wrong. "Chloe, is there something wrong with my face? Is it because I haven't shaved, or do I have pimples?"

Chloe panicked for a moment, but quickly covered it up.

"Lucas, do you still remember what happened when I was a kid? My house is next door to yours, and you introduced Byron to me back then!" Chloe sighed lightly.

Lucas's attention was all on driving. Without turning his head, he nodded. "Yes, I introduced you. Not to mention, you were so overwhelmed by Byron the first time you saw him. Both Andrius and I could see that girlish infatuation from you!"

With that said, there was a burst of teasing laughter.

Chloe frowned suddenly. "Where? Really? Why can't I remember?!"

Her memory was really fuzzy. It seemed that she remembered something but could not remember whether it was Lucas or Byron.

The two were in the car and talked about many things in the past. In Chloe's mind, it was as if a movie was playing, turning the records on more and more past events.

"Chloe, something isn't quite right here. Byron, Andrius and I still remember these things. How could you forget? Did something happen during the years you went abroad?" Lucas was rather surprised.

Immediately, Chloe was also dumbfounded by the question.

She tried her best to recall but still could not remember many details of the past. Especially when she got to know Byron during the first and second year.

'What's wrong with me? Amnesia?'

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 2047-There is still a week to go before Mary's wedding.

Rosalie and Byron both went to Mary's house to help with the decorations.

Andrius was focusing on putting up the wedding centerpiece.

His father, Xavier Quirke and mother, Clara Chase, were chatting with Camelia in the living room, about the details of the wedding.

The two of them deeply respected Camelia's wishes. They urged her to speak up if she has any opinions, as long as the Quirkies can fulfill it, they will deliver without hesitation.

Mary has not returned home yet in order to get the new hospital up and running as soon as possible.

"Sigh, it's true that the bystander is more concerned than the person involved. I clearly told Mae not to worry about the situation in the hospital, but she had to go through all that trouble and didn't even prepare for her own wedding." Rosalie discovered that her best friend's bridal dress had wrinkles on it, so she brought an iron to smooth them out.

Byron smiled deeply. "It's okay, we don't need to be anxious. Someone will be anyway!"

After speaking, he glanced at Andrius.

Andrius took the hint. "Buddy, sister-in-law, you can go downstairs and have some tea. I can handle this by myself. I'm indeed more anxious about this wedding than Mae!"

Hearing his candor, Rosalie and Byron both smiled.

Downstairs in the living room, the two families chatted very harmoniously. Xavier and Clara already heard from their son about Dorian Claymore, so they avoided talking about this person.

When Byron and Rosalie walked down, Camelia immediately greeted them with warmth and a smile.

"Rosie, don't worry about Mae's affairs. You are pregnant now, carrying two precious babies. Come and sit down!" Camelia said enthusiastically.

After Byron sat down with Rosalie, they listened to their chats and helped to make up some matters needed for the marriage.

Not long after, Mary came back.

Xavier and Clara were completely satisfied when they saw their daughter-in-law. They took the initiative to help her take off her coat, and immediately served a cup of hot tea.

From what was displayed, Rosalie was certain that Mary would be treated well after she married into the Quirke family.

Mary was just going to report the progress of the new hospital to Rosalie, but Rosalie told her to hurry up and prepare her boudoir.

After a while, Byron and Rosalie planned to go to the academy to pick up the kids.

While on their way, the servant in Rosalie's old home suddenly called her anxiously. "Mrs. Lawrence, this is bad. Your father is in trouble! Can you come over right away?"

When Rosalie heard this, she frowned. "Okay, I'll be right over!"

Immediately, Byron turned around and drove towards Rosalie's old house.

Last time, in order to find Rosalie's mother's clothes, they had to dig three feet into the old house and yet they still could not find it.

Right now, the old house has been renovated inside and out.

When the two arrived at the spacious courtyard, they found two servants calling out. "Mr. Jacobs, Mr. Jacobs...wake up!"

Byron quickly got out of the car with Rosalie in his arms, and the two quickly approached.

The two servants quickly moved out of the way for them. Rosalie glanced at the old man, immediately squatted down, and took his pulse.

Gordon's face was flushed, obviously something was wrong.

The reading on his pulse made Rosalie's face darkened.

His breathing was as fragile as butterfly wings, as if he was about to die at any moment.

'Something's wrong. He looked pretty good a few days ago. Even if he was getting sick, it wouldn't happen so soon!'

Rosalie thought to herself, looking at her husband.

Byron's reaction was also quick. He immediately picked up the frail Gordon and entered the house.

As Rosalie walked into the house, she asked the servant." Has anyone been here before? Has anyone had contact with my father? Did he eat anything wrong?"
