

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 665

Rosalie frowned slightly and wanted to explain to the little girl that these matching sets were meant for parents and children.

“Wow, this sweet girl has such good taste. These gowns are perfect for you and your mommy!”

The shop assistant said before her.

Hearing this, Rosalie could not help but glance at the little one subconsciously, then turned to look at the shop assistant, wanting to deny their relationship.

Before she had time to speak, the little girl unexpectedly hugged her arm and called out sweetly, “Mommy!”

When Rosalie heard what Estie said, she was stunned for a moment and did not know how to react.

However, the little girl was full of anticipation.

‘Anyway, Daddy said that he would let Auntie Rosalie be my mommy, so there’s nothing wrong with me calling her Mommy now!’

Rosalie was stunned for a long time before turning to look at Byron, wondering how he would react.

‘Byron has deep love and affection for this child. Come to think of it, this little one’s biological mom must also have a very important position in the man’s heart.

‘Now that the little one has made such a blunder, he’ll definitely correct her swiftly.’

When he met her gaze, he frowned slightly. He was silent for a few seconds before he walked over with a blank face and stood over the child. “Estie, that’s inappropriate.”

Estie did not expect Daddy to chastise her when she was helping him get close to Auntie.

Hearing his daddy’s stern tone, the little girl’s eyes turned red all of a sudden, she muttered aggrievedly, “Estie isn’t being inappropriate. Estie wants Auntie to be my mommy!”

After speaking, she looked at her Daddy again accusingly. “Daddy, you clearly said...”

Seeing that he was about to be betrayed by the little one again, he frowned with a deep headache. His tone became a little deeper. “Estelle Lawrence, don’t cause trouble for Auntie. If you like the gown, I’ll get it for you.”

On the side, the shop assistant did not expect their relationship to be so complicated, she awkwardly added, “sir, our clothes here are all sold in sets...”

Byron looked at the woman beside him and said without changing his expression. “Then I’ll take these two.”

The little girl knew what Daddy meant. He planned to just buy both gowns, but it was only to get the small gown for her.

Realizing this, the little girl felt both wronged and angry. "No! I don't want it anymore!"

She wanted to wear the gowns with Auntie!

Byron frowned deeply and looked at the angry little girl calmly.

For a while, the atmosphere between the father and daughter was in a deadlock.

Rosalie looked at Estie's watery red eyes and also at Byron's straightforward education method, she felt bad for the little one.

"Estie darling, did you want to wear this gown with me?" In order to appease the little one, Rosalie leaned over and looked into the little girl's eyes, asking her what was on her mind.

The little girl sniffed and nodded vigorously.

Seeing this, Rosalie suppressed the strangeness in her heart and smiled at the little one. "I understand. Let's try the gowns on together?"

After speaking, Rosalie got up and took the two gowns from the shop assistant.

Hearing Rosalie's words, the little girl's eyes slowly brightened again. She glared angrily at her father, turned her head, and took Rosalie's hand into the fitting room.

After a while, the two changed their clothes and walked out of the fitting room.

Rosalie took the little girl to the mirror. When Estie saw their reflection in the mirror, she beamed with joy. They both seemed to be enlarged and mini versions of themselves.

