

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 793

Rosalie vaguely noticed something strange. She pursed her lips and said nothing.

On the other hand, Mary noticed the strange atmosphere between the two and retracted her feet into the car. She sat silently, waiting.

The behavior of her best friend's ex-husband was so strange that once again, it made her have her doubts.

If it was not for Rosalie who admitted it to her personally and Byron saying that he wanted to pursue her, Mary would never have believed Byron would chase after anybody.

Moreover, all of Byron's behaviors did not seem to be a romantic pursuit but more like he was conquering a territory.

Mary watched the interaction between the two of them from a distance, and her heart was more and more sure about Byron's territorial behavior.

"Are you going out?" Byron suppressed the anger in his heart, glanced coldly at Rosalie's dress, and intentionally asked despite knowing the truth.

Seeing the man's gaze, Rosalie felt a little guilty inexplicably.

However, she then thought, 'I'm only meeting Xander for work.'

This gave her more confidence in her heart, and she explained calmly. "There's a signing ceremony I need to attend soon. I can't invite you in, so please forgive me, President Lawrence."

Byron frowned slightly and continued. "With Xander?"

Rosalie was stunned. "How do you know?"

'Even I only received the notification last night. This man has nothing to do with the project, so how could he know about this?'

In the living room, the little boys heard their mommy ask this question, and guilt was written all over their faces. They silently turned around and continued playing with Lego bricks.

Rosalie did not even think about the little boys but wondered if the man in front of her was investigating her again.

Byron guessed what she was thinking, and his eyes darkened. "I have my own ways."

Hearing this, Rosalie became suspicious, and she looked a little more alert in her eyes. "No matter how you know this, I need to go out soon. Please hurry up and leave too."

"What if I don't? I came over today just to prevent you from participating in this signing ceremony." His voice also became colder.

To be precise, he was trying to prevent this woman from meeting Xander!

Rosalie only felt that he was being unreasonable. "Byron, stop messing around. I just want to go to work. What do you want to do?"

Byron pulled his lower lip. "Your so-called work means stealing something away from me?"

Rosalie frowned, not knowing what he was talking about.

'I'm going to attend the signing ceremony between Lancer Corporation and Heronial Corporation. What does it have to do with Byron?'

"Heronial Corporation initially wanted to sign a contract with Lawrence Corporation, but I don't know what Lancer Corporation used to make Herolian Corporation call off our agreement and refuse to sign a contract with us. Lancer Corporation's actions have made me very unhappy. So, I'm not going to let their signing ceremony go smoothly."

Byron said without changing his expression as if this was his true thoughts.

Rosalie stared at him suspiciously for a few seconds, suspecting that he was making excuses.

'But there's nothing different from the man's face.

'In other words, what Byron said is the truth...'

Realizing this, Rosalie felt a strange feeling in her heart.

'Therefore, during this period of time, all the man's dissatisfaction with Xander stemmed from the friction between the two in business, not because of me as he said.'

Furthermore, about the matter of being misunderstood by this man about her relationship with Xander, she was concerned that it would bring trouble to Xander.

It turned out that she had been wrong all along.
