

Ye Chen 5051

Chapter 5051

"Many." Duan Liye replied, "There are also gas companies, large farms and shipyards in Turkey, in addition to that, there are also some garment processing factories, stone processing factories, basically all walks of life, and the overall market value is around eighty billion dollars."

In Turkey, with a total market capitalisation of US$80 billion, it can already be fully described as a super business empire, and this is only the industries under the responsibility of one of the deputy governors of one of the five military capitals under the Broken Clear Society.

If it was any deputy governor who was divided to the economically developed Western Europe, the closed loop he was responsible for might have a market value of over hundreds of billions of dollars.

In this way, I am afraid that the strength of the assets of a single right viceroy would have easily surpassed the Ye family.

Ye Chen suddenly thought of his brother-in-law again and hastily asked, "What is the public identity of your Vice Governor in the community? Will it be disguised as a business tycoon?"

"No." Duan Liye shook his head and said, "The official position of the deputy governor is that of the governor's colleague, and below that there is the governor's commander (qiān), and then there is a special envoy like me, and from the special envoy upwards, one should never have a well-known identity in society, and generally keep a very low profile. That's why I came to Cyprus with the ship in name only, and our deputy governor's public identity is that of an accountant at the copper refinery."

"Accountant?!" Ye Chen frowned and spoke, "In that case, the head of the copper refinery, on the contrary, has a lower status in this closed loop of yours?"

"Right." Duan Liye nodded, "The chairman is just pretending, as for the heads of the other industries, they are all just spokesmen arranged within the Broken Qing Society, and many of them are the sons of the primus inter pares."

Ye Chen asked him, "Sons of the Primus Guards?"

Ye Chen asked curiously, "Since you are so concerned about secrecy, these fifty-odd enterprises, how do you manage them to ensure that you do not reveal secrets? It can't be that all the employees of these fifty enterprises are your own people, right?"

Duan Liye shook his head, "Most of the enterprises have no explicit relationship with each other, as well as with the deputy governor, and moreover, each enterprise is not all our people, we don't have that many grassroots staff, but the people openly in charge of each enterprise are all descendants of the primus inter pares."

"The descendants of the primus inter pares?" Ye Chen pursued, "Why are they descendants of the Primus Guards?"

Duan Liye replied, "Because the primus guards were all promoted from dead soldiers who had performed well and even had meritorious service, so the Broken Qing Society, in order to give these primus guards a sense of psychological superiority compared to dead soldiers, specifically allowed them to have their third child break away from their primus guard status after every three children."

Chapter 5052

"Leaving the primus status means that this offspring can grow up without having to practice martial arts, but instead receive a formal education within the Broken Clear Society from a young age, and it is a basic education wherever the person is, for example, in Turkey it is four years of primary school, four years of secondary school and four years of high school, so that child learns all the content of primary and secondary school within the Broken Clear Society, and after getting legal status in high school, he or she local public high school, then normal university entrance exams, after graduating from university, they can directly go through the social recruitment channel to work in the enterprises within our closed loop, and gradually be trained to be the successor of different enterprises."

Ye Chen asked him, "Why are they sent out to study at high school?"

Duan Liye replied, "Children who are too young lack self-restraint, and if they are allowed to go to a social school, it is easy to say more than one thing and make more than one mistake, so the Broken Qing Society will first educate them internally, teaching them academics while having their parents constantly reinforce their sense of secrecy, and after the children start going out to high school, they will start giving them medicine so that they also have a strong poison in their bodies in order to ensure control."

One is that they don't need to practice martial arts hard, and the other is that they don't have to take the antidote once a week, but once every six months, like me, and if they study well and do have real talent, they will be able to live in society as white-collar elites, or even famous entrepreneurs, after they take over businesses in the future. living in conditions that are far better than those of the Primus."

When Ye Chen heard this, he could not help but realize.

In that case, it seemed that his brother-in-law, and her family, should not be considered high-end members in the Broken Qing Society, and were probably also descendants of the Primus Guards, except that they had the opportunity to live a normal life in the real world.

Thinking of this, Ye Chen asked Duan Liye, "During your years in the Qing Breaking Society, have you ever heard of the Qing Breaking Society sending people into society, and then deliberately letting that person get close to a particular person and get married, making them become undercover agents planted by the Qing Breaking Society on the other side?"

"I have heard of it." Duan Liye nodded and said, "This kind of thing is normal, after the children of these Primus Guards are sent into society, the Qing Breaking Society will set up a point system for them, as long as they create contributions for the Qing Breaking Society they will be able to increase their points, the greater the contribution, the more points they will have;"

"If the points can reach a certain level, then they will be able to use the points to bail one of their family members out of the Primus;"

Chapter 5053

“If they continue to make significant contributions, then they can even bail out all of their loved ones, once their family member is bailed out, then their family member doesn’t have to do anything and can regain their freedom to a certain extent, as long as they don’t threaten the safety of the Broken Clear Society, they can go wherever they want and do whatever they want, but the poison in their body can’t be cured, they can only upgrade from taking the antidote once a week to taking it once every six months.”

“If they contribute enough, they can even redeem themselves, and after that, the Broken Clear Society will give them a generous sum of money to let them and their families take care of themselves, but it’s still the same premise, not threatening the safety of the Broken Clear Society, while taking the medicine regularly.”

Speaking here, Duan Liye added, “Because of this mechanism in place, every Primus will try to have three children, or even multiples of three, and every child who is sent to study will have a huge sense of responsibility instilled in them from a young age by their parents and older siblings, making them realise from a young age that they are on a mission to change the fate of their entire family, so almost all of these children are academic bully, once they enter society they are in the elite cla*s, these people don’t have to be surprised who they marry or marry to, maybe the pillow of any billionaire is the offspring of a primus inter pares.”

Ye Chen couldn’t help but laugh dumbly and asked him, “It’s the ancient scholar who took the imperial examinations?”

“Right.” Duan Liye said, “The ancients say that no one asks questions under the window for ten years, but once you become famous, the world will know, whether it’s the ancient scholar or the scholar of the Broken Qing Society, all of them are trying desperately to change their lives and make the cla*s leap by studying and taking exams.”

Ye Chen nodded gently, thinking in his heart, “I originally thought that my brother-in-law had to be a descendant of a ‘Jin Yi Wei’ at high or low, but according to him, my brother-in-law, odds are that she is a ‘scholar’, odds are having studied hard for more than ten years, with a mission to save the whole family, was placed in some university to get close to that brother-in-law of mine .....

“Moreover, the fact that she managed to marry into the An family is proof enough that she is definitely at the top of the group of ‘scholar’.”

Thinking of this, Ye Chen also couldn’t help but feel a little chill at his back.

Although the Broken Qing Society was not well known, it had actually spread its power all over the world, and had already completed its infiltration of the upper cla*s society.

God knows how many of the global tycoons on the Forbes Rich List are actually the other half of this organisation’s “bookies”.

Moreover, even if some “scholar” married the richest man in the world, the Society would still have absolute control over her through the poison in her and her family’s bodies and the antidote in its own hands.

Moreover, this chain of control has already formed a closed loop, which is invulnerable and unbreakable .....

Chapter 5054

At this moment, Ye Chen’s heart could not help but think of his third aunt whom he did not know again.

And in Ye Chen’s mind, he could not help but rely on the clues provided by Duan Liye, as well as his own imagination, to outline the tragic life of that woman.

During her teenage years as well as her youth, she had probably been studying hard in order to change the fate of her entire family.

Her father had probably experienced first-hand the misery of the dead soldiers and so must have instilled in her at an early age the belief in studying hard to save the whole family.

And she must have lived up to his expectations and with her hard work, she got into a top university.

At this time, because she excelled in her studies and was outwardly excellent, the Broken Clear Society gave her the difficult and momentous task of preparing to get close to her brother-in-law, An Zhaonan.

Li Yalin had once told Ye Chen about the process of his brother-in-law’s acquaintance with his brother-in-law.

Back then, Brother-in-law was in the second year of his master’s degree at Harvard University, while Brother-in-law had just entered Harvard for his master’s degree. The two met through a clichéd drama of a hero saving a woman, while Brother-in-law, through his contact with her, was surprised to find that the woman catered to all his requirements for the opposite sex, both internally and externally.

The An family, along with Li Yalin, also, because of their speculation, were probably, at that time, the secret informants that the enemy had deliberately planted around their brother-in-law.

But according to Li Yalin, after the death of his brother-in-law, the matter was just an uncorroborated speculation.

However, one could now be sure that their speculation was 100% accurate.

Although her brother-in-law was twenty-two or thirty years old when she met him, it was likely that she had been trying to become the kind of woman that her brother-in-law would have liked and even become obsessed with since she was fifteen or sixteen years old.

It took years of preparation for her to have a “love at first sight” moment with her brother-in-law at Harvard University.

What he didn’t know was that it was all just an elaborate show built around him.

He has been with this woman for almost twenty years, she has given him two daughters, and the family of four seems to be very close, but he could never have dreamed that this woman, who has been with him for twenty years, has always had a false tooth filled with a highly toxic substance in her mouth from the day she met him.

A husband who has been with him for twenty years and two of his own daughters have not been able to stop his sister-in-law from selling her life for the Broken Ching Society.

On the day of Gu Qiuyi's New York concert, this woman acted as an inside man, cooperating with the dead soldiers of the Qing-breaking Society to wipe out the entire An family.

Chapter 5055

Only, Ye Chen did not know if this sister-in-law and her two daughters were on the Qing Breaking Society's kill list in the first place.

If they were also on it, then I wonder if this young aunt-in-law herself was clear in her heart.

However, judging from the fact that at the last moment, she was determined to bite her teeth and choose to commit suicide, her heart had not escaped the control of the Society even to her death.

It was likely that her suicide was to protect her family members who were still under the control of the Society.

This, too, was what Ye Chen felt was the most powerful aspect of the Qing Breaking Society.

Just as Ye Chen was feeling emotional in his heart, someone knocked on the door and said respectfully outside the door, "Lord Envoy, in half an hour, our ship will be docking."

Ye Chen sensed that this person was not a martial arts expert, so he said to Duan Liye in a very low voice, "Send him away."

"As you wish!" The other party answered and turned around to leave this floor.

Ye Chen then asked Duan Liye, "These people on the boat, are they all your people?"

"No." Duan Liye shook his head, "The bodyguards on this ship are all Turkish primus guards, as for these crew members, they are all some peripheral members who are only responsible for driving the ship, they don't know anything about the specifics."

Ye Chen pointed to the man standing motionless in the corridor inside the door and asked him, "What is he?"

Duan Liye said, "He's my second-in-command."

Ye Chen frowned and asked, "Your deputy, do you usually still have to satisfy your needs in that area?"

Duan Liye replied, "He wanted to join the Huben Battalion, but to join the Huben Battalion, he needed a recommendation from someone who had been trained in the Huben Battalion, so that's why I used that as a condition to ask him to satisfy my ....."

Ye Chen held out a hand to interrupt him, "Alright, you don't need to say anything."

Duan Liye immediately shut his mouth.

Ye Chen then asked, "Is there any way you can get me to blend into the copper mine with you in a while?"

Without thinking, Duan Liye said, "This is simple, you just need to wrap up in a black robe with me."

"Black robe?"

"Right." Duan Liye stood up, took off two black robes from the hanger behind the door and said to Ye Chen, "Because I am a special envoy, my true face is only visible to my superiors and my deputies, in front of the rest of the organisation, I am wrapped in robes so that no one can see any features."

Ye Chen nodded and asked again, "The person in charge of the copper mines in Cyprus, have you ever seen your true face?"

Chapter 5056

"No." Duan Liye shook his head and said, "If you want to go in, later on you just need to disembark the ship wrapped in black robes like me, and after we disembark, the primus guards of the copper mine will pick us up and take us there."

Ye Chen asked again, "Then when will you return?"

"Tomorrow." Duan Liye said, "After the ship has docked, the primus guards on this ship will gather all the crew members into the engine room and not allow them to see the outside world, then the primus guards from the copper mine will start unloading the goods, and after all the supplies are unloaded, they will also start loading the copper ore, and after it is full in the morning, we will set sail back."

Ye Chen asked him, "What about you?"

Duan Liye explained, "I will stay at the copper mine tonight to supervise the primus guards taking their medicine, and then supervise the dead soldiers taking their medicine, after making sure everyone has taken their medicine properly, it will almost be dawn."

"Good." Ye Chen nodded his head and said, "Then I will go in with you!"

After saying that, Ye Chen asked, "Where is the antidote you brought?"

Duan Liye pointed to the wardrobe in the corner of the room and said, "The antidote is in the cupboard."

Ye Chen nodded and said, "You take out the antidote."

"Okay!" Duan Liye immediately walked to the wardrobe, carried out a heavy backpack from inside, and placed it in front of Ye Chen.

Ye Chen opened the backpack and found that it was filled with four-square packages like chalk boxes, with more than thirty boxes.

He took out one of the boxes and found that the top lid of the box had a circular emblem printed in fire lacquer. The design of the emblem was very complicated and one could vaguely see that the totem as a whole showed the word "break".

Ye Chen opened the box directly and found that inside was a cylinder of kraft paper rolled out with the thickness and length of an index finger.

The two seals on the top and bottom of the cylinder had a fire-painted seal.

He put the pills under his nose and sniffed them, and found that the antidote was similar to the one he had configured himself.

In his own antidote, the vast majority of them were ordinary herbs that nourished the body, and only a very small portion of them were really effective in detoxifying the poison.

The same is true of this antidote.

Most of the herbs were effective in strengthening the body, while the part that really worked was an ingredient that had been refined by a special method.

Ye Chen recognised at once that this ingredient contained an extremely small amount of spiritual qi within it, and although it was only minuscule, Ye Chen could still clearly perceive the presence of spiritual qi.

This caused Ye Chen's expression to flinch, it seemed that the person who had refined this antidote, like himself, was able to master spiritual qi!

Chapter 5057

The aura in the antidote was minimal, and while this would allow Ye Chen to conclude that the person who had made the elixir must also be proficient in aura, Ye Chen was unable to guess the other party's cultivation through the elixir.

After all, the potency of this antidote was just a little too low, and Ye Chen felt that its greatest use was not to be able to suppress the poison in the person taking it, but rather it seemed to be just to send a signal for the severe poison in his body to not rush into action for the time being.

As he looked at these antidotes, he could not help but speculate in his heart that if the Broken Qing Society had ten deadly bases around the world, then together with the deadly soldiers, their families, and the Primus Guards, there were probably at least tens of thousands of them.

In addition to this, there were also "scholars", "guides", "envoys", "governors", and "tiger battalions" scattered around the world. In addition to these, there were "scholars", "guides", "envoys", "governors", "tiger ben battalions", "speedy transport companies" and various other supporting staff.

It is roughly estimated that there were at least 100,000 men and women under his command, if not more.

With over 100,000 men and horses, the vast majority of them would have to take one antidote every week, which means that the Qing Breakers would have to produce 10,000 to 20,000 antidotes or more every day.

With such a large demand, it was impossible to put experts who mastered aura in charge, otherwise, it would be like pressing the strongest handful of people into a sweatshop for manufacturing antidotes, which was really a big use of resources.

Therefore, Ye Chen estimated that the Broken Qing Society should have a sizeable elixir processing base, where the Ying masters, or those under their command who mastered aura, would refine the core elixir and then hand it over to the processing base to be diluted with a specific recipe.

At present, the clues Ye Chen could find were all basically very independent, and it was difficult to find an actual clue that linked this deadly base in Cyprus, to the higher levels of the organization.

But now it seemed that the only thing that ran through all the links of the Broken Clear Society was the production and transportation of the antidote.

The antidote is a real physical link that would connect all the external organisational structures to it with the transport routes of the antidote, and if we can find the output path of the antidote sent all the way down, we can find this elixir processing base.

This Pill Processing Base is not isolated from the headquarters of the Society or from the higher echelons of the Society, because the pills it produces must have aura pills as the core raw material, so there must be an input path for aura pills upstream of it.

Once he found this input path, he might be able to follow the vine all the way to the true core of the Broken Clear Society.

Having made up his mind, Ye Chen then asked Duan Liye, "You just said that the time and place for the antidote to arrive in Turkey are random, tell us specifically what the process is for you to receive the antidote."

Chapter 5058

"Good." Duan Liye said respectfully, "Generally, without any warning, we will receive a coordinate and a six-digit return code sent via satellite communication, the coordinate could be anywhere in Turkey, and we will rush over to receive it immediately after receiving the address."

Saying that, Duan Liye added, "They usually choose a wilderness ridge to place the safe, since the coordinates are accurate to the meter, so after we arrive at the designated coordinates, we can soon find the location of the safe by trying to dig on the flat ground."

It seemed that this gang's process was indeed meticulous, a place like the wilderness, without any surveillance equipment, and the other party had chosen the location randomly first, so it was simply impossible to set up control in advance.

And by the time the other party had calmly planted the antidote, there would still be enough time to clear away all the clues before informing the other party of this coordinate.

It is even possible that the other side could have planted multiple safes in Turkey at once, only to announce the coordinates of one of them at intervals down the line.

Then, Ye Chen asked, "Whenever you guys went over to receive the safe deposit boxes, did you find any traces left behind when they placed the safe deposit boxes?"

"No." Duan Liye shook his head, "I also paid special attention to this, but every time I received the antidote, I didn't find any traces, no footprints or wheel marks, either they had specially handled it when they left, or they had buried the safe long enough for the wind and sun to naturally cover up the traces they left, or it could be both. "

Ye Chen couldn't help but smack his lips and asked him, "What about after you find it? Want to give them feedback?"

"To." Duan Liye said, "The safe has a password input area, but this area is not used to open the safe door, but to send a return receipt to the organization, as long as the correct return code is entered, the organization will be able to confirm that we have received it safely."

Hearing this, Ye Chen didn't know for a moment what kind of method he should use to catch this clue of the other party's antidote.

At this time, the ship emitted a very piercing whistle, while the speed of the ship also slowed down quite a bit, which made Ye Chen realise that the ship was about to dock.

So, he immediately threw the antidote that Duan Liye had brought back into his wardrobe and wrapped himself in one of the black robes, then he said to Duan Liye, "I will disguise myself as your deputy and go to the copper mine with you.

Duan Liye nodded without thinking: "As you wish!"

After saying that, he also took a black robe and skilfully put it over his body and covered his head completely with a huge hood.

Ye Chen followed suit and used the hood of the black robe to cover his head.

He found that the hood of the black robe was very wide and the fabric of the hood was light and sandy, so even if the hood covered his face, it did not obstruct his vision.

Chapter 5059

Subsequently, Ye Chen and Duan Liye came to the door and looked at the martial artist who was standing still like a wooden plank and said in a cold voice, "Listen, if anyone other than the two of us dares to enter this room, kill without amnesty!"

The other party was immediately controlled by Ye Chen's psychological implication and immediately nodded respectfully, "My subordinate follows orders!"

When the two of them stepped out of the room, the outside had already started to get busy.

Most of the primus guards who were on guard had returned to the bridge building, and after the ship had stopped, they would take all the crew members into the engine room so that they would not spy on any clues.

The ship, at this point, was only a kilometre or two away from the pier.

On the deck, two crew members and two primus guards were standing on the port side of the ship, waiting for the cable to be thrown to complete the docking.

Ye Chen could already see that the modest pier ahead of them was lit up with lights, and many trucks and loaders were already standing by at this point.

In addition to that, Ye Chen also saw a few small cars, thinking that they should be waiting to meet Duan Liye's convoy.

The cargo ship started to reverse thrust when it was about to dock, and then the sailing speed quickly dropped and it leaned sideways to the pier.

Once the ship had come to a standstill, Duan Liye took the lead and made his way down the inner deck spiral ladder, while the hatch below had been opened by two crew members.

At the same time, the crane next to the cargo ship had started to move slowly, and it seemed that it was time to start unloading the cargo.

As Ye Chen had told Duan Liye to follow the normal handover method as before, Duan Liye, at this point, was fully into his usual rhythm of docking.

When he stepped out through the hatch, there were already a number of men waiting outside, and when he saw Duan Liye and Ye Chen walking down, the man at the head immediately said respectfully to Duan Liye, "Lord Special Envoy, you ..... You've had a hard journey!"

Ye Chen could hear that the man's tone carried a bit of nervousness and apprehension.

Looking at the others around him, each one was also nervous.

Ye Chen surmised that he should be apprehensive because of that defeat in Bergen a few days ago.

After all, Lin Wan'er was the person that Lord Ying had personally named, and as a result, their people had failed to complete the arduous task.

And now it happened to be time to deliver the antidote, and they were afraid that Lord Ying would repeat the tactics he used twenty years ago and put everyone in this base of theirs, to death.

Faced with the respect and apprehension of several people, Duan Liye only gave a faint muffled sound between his nostrils, and without even looking at the man, he walked straight towards the three small cars.

The man at the head of the group hurriedly took a few quick steps, rushed to the middle Mercedes and helped Duan Liye pull open the door, and then helped Ye Chen pull open the passenger door.

Duan Liye, who was dressed in black robes, took the lead and sat in the back of the car, while Ye Chen followed suit and got into the passenger seat.

Chapter 5060

The greeting men then quickly got into the front and rear cars, and the convoy quickly left the pier and drove towards the copper mine, which was only about a kilometre away from the pier.

The caravan circled the quay and in the blink of an eye reached the main gate of the mine, the automatic gates opening early to allow the three vehicles to drive in without slowing down.

The copper mine, on the outside, looked somewhat similar to the base of the Ten Thousand Dragons Temple, although it was much smaller in scale.

It could be seen that the place was very heavily guarded.

The caravan drove straight to an office building and stopped, and at that moment, there were already many people waiting downstairs.

The middle-aged man at the head of the group was well dressed and had the look of a big businessman.

Next to the middle-aged man, stood a young man wearing glasses. The young man was thin and tall, and looked very bookish.

However, Ye Chen found that the middle-aged man did not have much cultivation, not even a martial artist, but this young man with a strong bookish aura was also a Dark Realm expert, but his rank was relatively low, only two heavens of the Dark Realm.

Combined with Duan Liye's previous confession, it was estimated that this middle-aged man should be the ostensible manager of this copper mine, while the young man beside him, who was an assistant in general, was probably the real controller of this place, the sectarian ambassador as the seven primus guards put it.

Behind this young man, there were several other martial arts masters, although the strongest of these remaining ones was only an old man at the Great Perfection of the Ming Realm.

However, the expressions on the faces of these people at the moment were all tinged with a bit of trepidation, thinking that they too were all on tenterhooks over their last defeat.

After the car stopped, the young man who looked like an assistant took the lead and opened the car door for Ye Chen and Duan Liye respectfully.

As soon as Duan Liye got out of the car, the well-dressed man stepped forward and said respectfully, "Lord Special Envoy, you have worked hard!"

The young man from the First Sky of the Dark Realm also bowed slightly and said reverently, "Lord Envoy, you have worked hard!"

Those behind him bowed in unison and shouted, "Lord Envoy has worked hard!"

"Good! This way please!" The young man hurriedly made a respectful gesture of invitation, and then took a few quick steps to lead the way.

Duan Liye followed closely behind him, while the middle-aged man followed him and said, "Lord Envoy, our operation report for the recent period has been written, so please take the time to read it later."

Duan Liye gave a hint and didn't say much, this cold attitude made the middle-aged man even more nervous.

Ye Chen followed behind Duan Liye and took in the performance of these people. Seeing their fearful appearance, he relaxed in his heart.

The primus guards and the dead soldiers here must be having a hard time sleeping and eating these days, so this was the perfect time to turn them around!
