

Ye Chen 5451

Chapter 5451

For Ye Chen's prudence, Wan Bajun did not question it half a bit at all.

He said without a second thought, "Alright Mr. Ye, now that the entire copper mine has collapsed into ruins, and with such a big commotion today, the Cypriot officials will definitely take over the investigation, by then, not to mention that there are no clues left at the scene, it won't be too easy for the Broken Qing Society to even enter the scene to investigate and collect evidence!"

One is that they could find a way to infiltrate the ruins of the copper mine, or find a way to bribe the Cypriot officials, so as to get the residue of the close defense gun warheads in the ruins of the copper mine, and the other is that if they are lucky enough and hardworking enough, they might be able to get the DNA of that Count of the Temple of All Dragons' DNA;"

"The latter would allow them to make sure that the Count was dead as a doornail, while the former would allow them to know what their Count died of, and if they followed the trail of the near-fire cannon, it would only lead to Blackwater in America;"

"And the trail on Blackwater's side has been made into a broken trail by us, if Broken Clear will investigate into them, it will only relent to Blackwater Group as we envisioned, and if they get into a pinch with Blackwater Group, it will be even more interesting."

Ye Chen smiled faintly and spoke, "That would be best! After this incident, I'm sure we can give the Broken Clear Society, that Lord Ying, and the three remaining Counts a good knock, I guess they will be overshadowed by this for quite some time, these people have probably long forgotten what it's like to be afraid, this time I'll let them reminisce."

Wan Bajun laughed, "Mr. Ye, if they knew how that Count died, they would probably be scared half to death, and I'm afraid they would have nightmares in their sleep ....."

Ye Chen smiled, remembered something and instructed again, "Right Broken Army, you and all the generals of Wan Long Temple who participated in the Overthrowing Nest Project, evacuate with the ship for now, don't go back to Syria in the near future, make sure that after everyone is evacuated from Cyprus, don't have anything to do with Syria in the meantime, so that Broken Qing will not focus on Wan Long Temple."

Saying that, Ye Chen added, "Although this plan was executed beautifully, the overall strength of the Ten Thousand Dragon Hall is definitely still a big gap compared to the Broken Qing Society, now is not the time to clash with them head on."

Wan Breaking Jun immediately said, "Okay Mr. Ye, then subordinate will stay on the ship first, if you have any matters that you need subordinates to do, feel free to inform subordinates, subordinates will borrow a way to go ashore from other countries."

Ye Chen said, "How about this, these days you first stay with the ship, after ten days and a half months, you can then find a way to borrow another country and come to China with a different identity, in addition, last time I asked you to arrange for the most trustworthy and most promising brothers to come to Jinling for further education, this time you can also arrange for them together, the venue in Jinling is almost ready, next, you should also focus on The next step is to focus on improving your cultivation.”

Wan Bajun respectfully said, “Yes, Mr. Ye, I will make arrangements and report to you at the end of August in Jinling!”

At this moment.

The explosion at the Cyprus copper mine had already attracted the attention of the Cypriot officials.

When the staff, as well as a large number of police officers, arrived at the copper mine, everyone was shocked by the horrifying sight before them!

For these people, they had seen mining areas cave in, but they had never seen a cave-in like this!

This was no longer a mere cave-in, it was an unprecedented major production accident!

In their eyes, there were nearly 1,000 workers and their families living and working here, and now that the mine had completely collapsed into rubble, the safety of nearly 1,000 workers and their families became the biggest problem at the moment.

They immediately tried to contact the people in charge of the copper mine, but there was no one to contact at the moment.

Chapter 5452

Tensions were high and Cyprus began an emergency excavation of the cave-in site to try to find clues to the victims while keeping the news under wraps.

At the same time, Wu Shutong, the governor of the right army in Naples, was on the verge of making contact with the Cypriot governor, Ni Zhenyu.

According to the plan he had worked out with Ou Bojun, he would give Ni Zhenyu a top secret mission over the phone and ask him to send someone to Rome.

And if Ou Bojun wanted to find out if there were any problems with Ni Zhenyu and the other primus inter pares, he would have to wait until after this phone call of his own before he could start.

At the moment, Wu Shutong was like a referee with a gun in his hand, no one could run first until he gave the order.

Strangely enough, his dedicated phone line, which was used to contact Ni Zhenyu on a single line and was available 24 hours a day, could not be reached when he called again.

Such a thing had never happened in the past twenty years.

This abnormal situation immediately made Wu Shutong nervous.

He then called Ou Bojun again, but Ou Bojun’s phone was also unreachable.

This instantly gave him a sense of foreboding in his heart.

However, due to the special structural framework of the Qing Breaking Association, he had no other subordinates in Cyprus that he could contact directly, apart from the sectional governor Ni Zhenyu.

So, the best thing to do now is to send someone to Cyprus to find out what is going on.

The best person to do this would be an envoy from the copper refinery in Turkey, which is so close to Cyprus that it would not take long to fly there by helicopter.

However, since Ou Bojun was one of the Four Counts, the fact that he had lost contact with the entire Deadly Warriors' compound was already a major change within the Qing Breaking Society, so Wu Shutong did not dare to take the initiative, but immediately got up and went to his secret room.

The so-called secret room is actually a room that is completely isolated from outside sounds and shielded from all wireless signals.

In this room, there is only one internet phone connected to a network cable, which is the only way to communicate with the outside world.

If someone were to install a bug or other device here, the electromagnetic shielding would be sufficient to ensure that the other party would not receive any signals.

Wu Shutong went to the secret room, picked up the internet phone and dialled an encrypted number.

Soon, on the other end of the line, the voice of Lord Ying, which had been processed by a voice changer, came out in a low tone.

“What’s going on? I can’t believe you’re using a dedicated line to contact me again.”

Within the Broken Clear Society, Lord Ying had a special line of telephone for direct contact with the five great governors.

This special line had the highest level of secrecy and was also of the highest priority, and was basically equivalent to the air-raid siren within the Broken Clear Society, once it was used to contact them, it meant that something major and urgent had happened.

According to the British Lord’s request, no governor was allowed to use this line to contact him as a last resort.

Originally, the five special lines were rarely connected even once in a period of several years, but the special line of the Right Governor’s Office has been activated twice by Wu Shutong during this recent period.

The first time was when the Primus guards who had gone to capture Lin Wan’er disappeared, and Wu Shutong used this line to report the situation to the British Lord;

This time, it was Jian Gong Bo Ou Bo Jun, who went to investigate the prime-rider guards, who was nowhere to be found, and the entire dead soldiers’ station was also out of contact.

Wu Shutong was also nervous at this time, he wiped his cold sweat while he said with great apprehension, “Lord Ying ..... Jian Gong Bo he ..... he ..... ”

Lord Ying said in a cold voice: “What happened to Uncle Jian Gong?”

Wu Shutong swallowed his saliva and spoke with difficulty, "Back to Lord Ying ..... Uncle Jian Gong he ..... lost contact ....."

Chapter 5453

"What did you say?!"

Lord British's voice suddenly rose an octave as he questioned incredulously, "What's wrong with him?! Let him carry out the mission, and he even engaged in a lost connection?!"

Wu Shutong hurriedly said, "Lord Ying ..... may not be that Jian Gong Bo himself initiated the disconnection ..... because ..... because... .."

Lord Ying's voice was cold and incomparable as he questioned, "Because of what?! From now on, if you stammer again, you will cut your tongue off yourself!"

Wu Shutong's heart trembled and he said in a panic, "Back to the British Lord! The Cypriot sectional envoy, Ni Zhenyu, can't be contacted now either, and even the alternative sectional envoys that we have placed by his side have also lost contact at the same time ....."

Wu Shutong continued, "Under normal circumstances, both Ni Zhenyu and the alternate ambassadors must be in communication 24 hours a day, this is the most basic requirement ....."

"Especially the alternative section envoy, he personally also has a special contact method, because once the section envoy appears abnormal, he is to immediately fill in for him, and even if necessary, he has to decapitate the section envoy, so even if the section envoy loses contact, he should never lose contact ....."

The British Lord on the other end of the phone, silent for about two seconds, whirled off and asked, "You mean to say that the Cyprus base is finished?!"

Wu Shutong's voice trembled as he said, "Lord Ying, my subordinates do not have a definite news now, but things are really bad nowadays, my subordinates are worried that not only the base in Cyprus, even Jian Gong Bo ..... has met with misfortune!"

"How can that be!" Lord Ying blurted out, "Ou Bojun has already mastered aura, his strength is too much beyond ordinary martial artists, ten of you may not be his opponent, besides me and Chang Sheng Bo, I don't know who else in this world can kill him!"

Wu Shutong said helplessly, "Lord Ying ..... recently many things are too strange, could it be that there is another top expert who is secretly working against us ..... in all these years since Ye Chang Ying and his wife were killed by Uncle Changsheng There has never been such trouble ....."

Lord Ying said in a cold voice: "I originally only sent Uncle Changsheng to find out the whereabouts of Lin Wan'er, but the reason why I sent the other three earls this time is to let them do a proper search for relevant clues and see if they can dig out the person behind the curtain ....."

At this point, the British Lord immediately added coldly, "Now is not the time to consider this matter! You immediately go to Cyprus personally at once, I don't care what methods you use, before dawn, I want to know what is really happening in Cyprus!"

Without thinking, Wu Shutong said, "Don't worry, British Lord, I'll set off right away!"

The British Lord urged, "If anything changes, withdraw all the men arranged in Turkey at the first opportunity."

Wu Shutong hurriedly asked, "Then where should my subordinates evacuate these people to?"

The British Lord was silent for a moment and said in a cold voice, "Don't they have a ship specially designed to transport copper ore? Take them all on board and say that they are to be evacuated to the other bases of the Right Army Governorate in Africa, then take the freighter to the high seas and simply blow it up and sink it."

Wu Shutong said in horror, "Is the British Lord ..... going to sink them all at sea?"

The British Lord coldly said, "If something has really gone wrong with the copper mines in Cyprus, then it proves that the other side has figured out the situation of the copper mines, and the Turkish copper refineries, as enterprises closely linked to the copper mines, must have been exposed to the enemy;"

Chapter 5454

"At this time, if we still bring these people to the other premises of the Broken Qing Society, wouldn't that be leading the wolf into the house!"

"So the best thing to do is to control all of these people and settle them once and for all! That way, the copper mine and the copper refinery line, we can even give up completely, and at the same time, we can also isolate the potential danger for the time being!"

Wu Shutong had no choice but to respectfully say, "Yes, Lord Ying, I understand, don't worry, I will get this done!"

The British Lord admonished, "Before you sink the ship, you must not let any of them see through your purpose, once they know that we are going to kill them, then they may fight to the death to reveal our secret, I want them to get on the ship willingly, set off with longing, and then die without a word!"

Wu Shutong immediately said, "Don't worry, Ying Lord, I will do as I am told!"

Lord Ying said, "Seize the time to go to Cyprus, and report to me at the first sign of any situation!"

"My subordinate obeys!"

Half an hour later, a private plane took off from Naples airport.

Wu Shutong took a few of his inner circle, carrying aerial drones and other equipment, and set off for Cyprus.

Once the plane landed, they repeated the route of Jian Gong Bo Ou Bo Jun, yes. Ah, out of the airport and hired a car to drive to the location where the copper mine was located.

And by this time the entire copper mine was surrounded by official Cypriot investigators who were blocking information while they urgently excavated the site.

The purpose of the excavations was to find out how many casualties there were.

However, to the surprise of the Cypriot authorities, soil and building debris were excavated at several locations in the collapse zone and samples from the excavations were quickly tested by experts, only to find that none of the samples contained any human tissue, or blood or even DNA.

In other words, there may be no one here at all, or there may be no victims at all.

This left the official investigators in Cyprus in a state of disbelief.

The entire copper mine had collapsed into a deep ruin, but there seemed to be no one inside, so where had the people in the same frame gone? Had they evacuated early?

But how could they have evacuated in time for such a catastrophic accident, which must have happened so suddenly?

The only possibility is that all these people had fully completed their evacuation before the disaster struck.

If that were the case, then this would not be an accident or a natural disaster, but a premeditated man-made destruction.

But this was all the more inexplicable because this was, after all, a copper mine that had been in operation for decades, with an entire investment of at least several hundred million dollars, and the owners of the mine, why would they destroy it into ruins?

While they were puzzled, an excited voice suddenly came over the intercom at the scene: "We've found a metal object that looks like a warhead here, and there seems to be blood on it!"

The commander on the scene immediately blurted out, "Quick! Bring the object up, and remember not to contaminate the traces and blood on it!"

Soon the staff brought over the excavated metal slug in a sealed bag.

Although the commander was not a weapons expert, he was able to instantly recognise that it must be a warhead, and that it was of a thick calibre, so it was not an ordinary bullet warhead at first glance.

So he immediately took a picture of the warhead and sent it to the weapons expert, who quickly replied that it appeared to be a 30mm calibre close-in artillery warhead.

The biologists on the scene also managed to detect human blood and dna from the warhead.

For a moment, the entire field command was in an uproar!

Chapter 5455

Finding human dna in such a large ruin is not really a surprise to the command centre.

But to find a bullet head from a close-in artillery gun in a place like this is just a little too bizarre.

The discovery of a close-in artillery warhead would mean that the area had been subjected to close-in artillery fire.

Combined with a range of less than four kilometres, the gun was, if not inside the mine, at least not far from it when it fired.

Whether it was someone inside the mine attacking someone else with a close-in gun, or someone outside attacking the mine with a close-in gun, it was incomprehensible.

At this point, one of the adjutants put forward the idea: "Could the copper mine have been subjected to a terrorist attack?"

This idea was immediately echoed by most people.

Over the years, terrorist attacks in the Middle East had never ceased, and those extremists had to make some big noise every now and then, so could they have targeted Cyprus this time?

However, the commander on the scene had a different idea.

I've consulted the experts, and this Soviet-made close-in gun weighs nearly two tonnes empty, and with all the ammunition and the complete fire control system, it would weigh at least three to four tonnes. Besides, although the close defence gun is very powerful, after all, its calibre is only thirty millimetres. If it is used to hit a building, hundreds or thousands of shells may not be able to collapse a building, but this place has been blown up to the present state, so a lot of explosives must have been used to blast it internally. Since the terrorists can already blow up the whole copper mine into rubble, why did they go to the trouble of getting a close defence gun over? "

"This ....." Everyone on the scene immediately fell into contemplation.

The commander had a point, although the proximity gun was very powerful, compared to such a big movement as blowing up a copper mine, it was just a few bites from a mosquito, there was absolutely no need for the terrorists to bring a big two or three tonne or even three or four tonne weapon here to cause trouble.

The crowd was at once at a dead end.

However, the multi-point excavation at the site was still going on.

The excavation site where the close-in artillery warheads had been found earlier soon unearthed more warheads, and soil containing human dna was also found.

However, there were no similar findings at the other excavation sites.

The samples from the other excavation sites were almost all copper ore remains, with no human presence and no clues to the presence of any close defence guns.

By now the sky was beginning to lighten up and Wu Shutong, leading several of his inner circle, was on his way to the copper mine.

During this journey, they had noticed heavy machinery convoys and army convoys heading towards the mine at great speed, which made Wu Shutong even more uneasy, so when they were still three kilometres away from the mine, they found a hidden location and stopped.

Not knowing the actual situation of the mine, Wu Shutong did not dare to drive any further, so the group ran along the coastline at a great speed.

Wu Shutong was a master of the Transformation Realm, and although his combat ability was not as good as Ou Bojun's, his body could move very fast and it was difficult for ordinary people to find him.

The few people accompanying him were also all late Dark Realm experts, so a distance of three kilometres was no big deal to them.

The reason why they chose to go on foot was that they were worried that the area around the copper mine was already surrounded and blocked by the Cypriot officials, in which case the car they were travelling in would have no chance of getting close.

However, when the group sneaked all the way to the copper mine, they were able to blend in easily with their far superior strength and skills.

Chapter 5456

Not knowing the actual situation of the mine, Wu Shutong did not dare to drive any further, so the group ran along the coastline at a great speed.

Wu Shutong was a master of the Transformation Realm, and although his combat ability was not as good as Ou Bojun's, his body could move very fast and it was difficult for ordinary people to find him.

The few people accompanying him were also all late Dark Realm experts, so a distance of three kilometres was no big deal to them.

The reason why they chose to go on foot was that they were worried that the area around the copper mine was already surrounded and blocked by the Cypriot officials, in which case the car they were travelling in would have no chance of getting close.

However, when the group sneaked all the way to the copper mine, they were able to blend in easily with their far superior strength and skills. Funky Corner

As Cyprus had mobilised a large number of personnel and equipment from various departments to support them at this moment, the scene was mixed, and the troops responsible for the perimeter were focused on keeping the media reporters away, so they didn't even realise that Wu Shutong had bypassed them.

When Wu Shutong arrived at the outskirts of the copper mine without a sound, he was completely amazed by the sight before him.

He had never imagined that the huge copper mine, which had taken decades to complete, had now become a ruin more than ten metres deep!

Inside the ruins, a large number of construction machines were excavating at different points.

There were even several drilling machines at the site, which were constantly drilling into the ground, trying to bring out the composition of the soil hundreds of metres underground to see if there was human DNA in it, so as to determine whether there was anyone at the bottom when the copper mine exploded.

Wu Shutong looked terrified and froze for a long time before taking out his mobile phone to take some photos of the scene, ready to send them back to Lord Ying.

He then saw a number of marching tents set up on the air around him, so he planned to feel his way in to find out what the Cypriot officials were doing at the moment.

When he noticed that samples were being delivered one by one to one of the marching tents, he immediately leaned in silently.

Through the tent's tarpaulin, he heard the conversation inside.

One of them spoke up, "Commander, we have found many more warheads one after another at the location where we found the close-in artillery warheads before, and so far we have found more than thirty of them, including a total of four warheads with human dna.

This statement made Wu Shutong's heart horrified!

He couldn't help but think in his mind, "A close-in defence gun? How could there be a close defence cannon at the dead soldiers' quarters?!"

At that moment, the commander spoke up, "Immediately have the biology experts check the human dna on these 4 warheads to see if they are the same person."

The reporter said, "Yes Commander, I will arrange it now."

The commander added, "Right, there is one more thing."

The reporter said respectfully, "Commander, please speak!"

The commander said, "I need to know exactly where these close defence shells came from, whether they came from the inside of the copper mine or from the outside of the mine, so the immediate priority now is that you must find me the shell casings for the close defence guns!"

The commander added, "Tell the team excavating the site to keep an eye on the rubble for near defence shell casings, and tell the second team to look for clues to shell casings within a two kilometre radius of the copper mine!"

The reporter immediately said, "Yes commander, I'll arrange it now!"

As soon as the words left his mouth, a voice came over the intercom, "31 reporting, 31 reporting, we've found some 30mm close-in gun casings within the rubble, ask the weapons expert to take a look and see if these casings match the warheads found earlier!"

The commander perked up at this and blurted out, "Get the casings to me immediately!"

A few minutes later, a crew member ran frantically all the way into the tent holding several shell casings that had been crushed and deformed in the rubble.

After receiving the photos, the remote weapons experts also gave their preliminary opinion that these shell casings were indeed those of Soviet-made 30mm close-in artillery shells, which matched the calibre and type of the warheads very closely, basically concluding that they belonged to the same batch as the warheads.

After receiving the reply, the commander exclaimed, "These close defence guns were actually inside the copper mine ..... That means that this copper mine was not subjected to a terrorist attack ..... but they had quietly equipped themselves with close defence guns! "

Chapter 5457

As soon as the commander said this, the few staff members around him immediately became horrified!

Wu Shutong, who was eavesdropping outside the tent, was even more frightened out of his wits!

When he heard this and combined it with what had happened before, he immediately guessed the whole story.

Originally, they had long suspected this line of Cyprus and the possibility of a leak.

At first they had thought that the enemy should have set their eyes on this place, or that the festival ambassador here was colluding with the enemy from within and without.

But now he realised that this place had long been completely controlled by the enemy! Funky Corner

If the enemy hadn't taken complete control of this place, how could they have quietly prepared a great killing weapon like the Close Defence Cannon here?!

The enemy even knew that Ou Bojun was coming, which is why they had laid a death trap for him here in advance!

Combined with the two clues that Jian Gong Bo Ou Bo Jun had disappeared and that human dna had been found on the close defence cannon shells at the scene, he also guessed in his heart that Ou Bo Jun had probably been sieved or even reduced to ashes by the close defence cannon that the enemy had hidden here in advance!

He knew that after so many years of development, they had always been in the shadows of all their enemies, and they had always been the ones to design ambushes and plant their own eyes around their enemies, but they had never been infiltrated by the enemy from within themselves.

This time, however, everything had changed forever.

The enemy had actually infiltrated the Broken Clear Society without a sound, and had even taken over an entire Deadman's Quarters without the Broken Clear Society's complete knowledge, and then taken out a Count who had mastered the aura!

And at this moment, Wu Shutong was not the only one who was appalled.

The commander inside the tent, as well as his subordinates, were also speechless with shock at this discovery.

After a long silence, the commander's adjutant was the first to break the silence: "Boss, this is just a copper mine, it's not a military base ..... if they are equipped with ak47s or even with rpg man-portable rocket launchers, I can accept and understand all this, after all, copper mines have their own security needs, getting some man-portable weapons and setting up a security team is not very strange ....."

But ..... it's just a copper mine, not a military base, why would they need such a sick heavy weapon as a close-in cannon ..... it's too unbelievable, isn't it? "

"Yeah ....." the commander said with a sad face, "I can't figure out what you're talking about at all either ....." "

With that, he suddenly brightened up and spoke, "What was the first thing you just said?"

"Me?" The adjutant thought for a moment and said, "I said it's not strange if this place is equipped with AK47s ....." "

The commander waved his hand, "No, another sentence."

The adjutant thought for a moment and said, "I said this is just a copper mine, it's not a military base ....." "

"Right!" The commander suddenly widened his eyes and blurted out, "That's the problem! If it really is just a copper mine, then it doesn't even need to be equipped with close defense guns!"

With that, the commander continued with some excitement, "But now that it's equipped with close-in guns, that in turn proves that this is not an ordinary copper mine! Most likely, it's a military base that we don't know anything about!"

"A military base?!" A crowd of people were even more shocked and speechless.

To find a military base in one's own country that did not belong to one's own country was indeed mind-boggling.

However, the logic of the commander's judgment was reasonable again, the fact that the other party was able to master a weapon like the close defence gun proved that the other party must not be an ordinary person, but definitely an armed element with strong experience in actual combat.

Chapter 5458

Then this copper mine as the place where the militants used the close-in defence gun to defend, it was likely that it was indeed a military base.

Even if it is not a real military base, at the very least it has a huge and unknown secret!

The commander said nervously, "No..... this is a matter of great importance, I need to report it to the President immediately!"

After giving a detailed report of the situation, he respectfully hung up the phone and instructed the men around him, "Gentlemen, the President has ordered that the collapse of the copper mine may lead to unrest, so it must be kept strictly confidential and no news must be revealed to the foreign media, especially not a word about the close defense guns! Don't mention a word about it!"

The men looked at each other, and the adjutant could not help but say, "Boss, it is not a problem to keep the news from the outside world, but with all the commotion going on here, it will be difficult to hide it from the public, and what if there are doubts at home?"

The commander said, "I will immediately inform the people in charge of the surrounding cities and have them announce to the people in their jurisdictions that this copper mine has been depleted and has also reached its design life, moreover, due to the over-exploitation inside, there is already a tendency for it to collapse, so in order to prevent uncontrollable collapse from causing damage, this time it is a planned artificial abandonment, and all the people inside the copper mine have completed evacuation, so that there is no need for everyone to panic."

This was a reasonable statement, and everyone thought there was no big problem, after all, only one person's DNA was found here, which proved that everyone else had already evacuated before the explosion and collapse occurred, causing no casualties.

Since there were no casualties, the matter could naturally be suppressed.

So, the crowd was relieved.

The commander then ordered, "Immediately notify everyone that all excavation has been stopped, and all drilling has been stopped immediately.

The men nodded their heads.

The commander added, "Also, we need to find a way to mobilise a large amount of construction rubbish from the surrounding construction sites as soon as possible, so that the collapsed part of the copper mine can be refilled within 72 hours!"

The adjutant asked, "Boss, even if we fill up the area, the warheads and shells inside will still be there, and there is still a chance that they will be discovered in the future!"

The commanding officer said, "Don't worry, what the top brass is saying is that after filling the area, they will immediately harden it and then seal it off and put a special guard on it, and then a trusted department will take over after the wind has passed.

The crowd was suddenly enlightened.

If this was the case, it would basically put an end to any future problems.

So, all of them said in unison, "Yes, sir!"

After saying that, they immediately left the tent and each began to follow the commander's orders.

At this moment, Wu Shutong outside the tent was already so nervous that he was covered in cold sweat, and his body could not help but tremble.

In his heart, he was already terrified to the extreme.

Such a major accident was the first time in the entire history of the Qing Breaking Association in several hundred years.

The point is, as the governor of the right army capital, he could have had the entire base of dead soldiers stolen under his nose, and also ambushed and killed Jian Gong Bo Ou Bo Jun here, if this were to reach the ears of the British lord, I am afraid that he would not escape death .....

Chapter 5459

At this moment, Wu Shutong made up his mind almost immediately that he must not report the actual situation here to the British Lord!

At the very least, he could not tell the British Lord that the warheads and shell casings of the close defence guns had been found here.

At the very least, the British Lord must not be informed that the bullet head of the gun was still carrying the DNA of a person, and that person was probably Jian Gongbo, Ou Bojun.

Because this thing, the close defence gun, was simply too sensitive, and the fact that the cartridge casing was found within the confines of the copper mine would be enough to prove to the British Lord that this deadly garrison had long been under the covert control of the enemy under his own rule, and that would be too serious a dereliction of duty on his part.

Coincidentally, at the moment, Cypriot officials were also planning to conceal the news of the close defence guns and were going to fill in the entire collapsed area, which meant that everything that had happened here would soon be dead on arrival.

As long as he didn't say anything, it was unlikely that the British Lord would know about the existence of the guns.

In that case, he could play dumb and simply say that he could not find any valuable clues as to what had happened here, and eventually package the matter as an unresolved case and blame it on the mysterious enemy.

In this way, even if Lord Ying chastised himself, it would not be too serious.

After all, even the British Lord himself could not find out the reason for that hidden enemy, not to mention that there were already two precedents in New York and Northern Europe.

Thinking of this, Wu Shutong was relieved.

He felt that although his own affair this time was a bigger stir than both New York and Northern Europe, the worst he could do was to lose his position as governor of the right army capital, or at least keep a dog's life.

Soon, the heavy machinery that was still digging up the wreckage and spotting and drilling stopped almost instantly.

Immediately afterwards, they began to withdraw one by one from the collapsed area to the outside.

The excavation and drilling work, according to the instructions of their superiors, was now completely finished.

When Wu Shutong saw this, he felt more secure, so he immediately sent a signal to the other men to evacuate as well.

After they met outside the copper mine, Wu Shutong deliberately asked the others, "Have you found any clues?"

All of them shook their heads repeatedly with shocked expressions.

Among them, Wu's younger brother Wu Shuhang said, "Governor, I just went inside the cave-in area and saw that the entire copper mine had been turned into rubble, and the difference between the centre and the surrounding flat land was more than ten metres, so there was no way to investigate! If you want to find out what's going on inside, it's impossible without heavy equipment."

Another man said, "But they've already started pulling out the excavation tools, so they probably don't want to investigate any further."

Wu Shutong spoke up, "I just heard their commander say that they have orders from above to fill the place up completely within 72 hours."

Wu Shuhang said helplessly, "In this situation, if there is no heavy machinery, it is impossible to find out any clues, now that they are not investigating, it is impossible for us to mobilize equipment to come over and continue investigating, and when they fill the place up, it will be even more impossible for us to find out any clues .....

"No way." Wu Shutong sighed in mock despondency and spoke, "They will soon withdraw all the personnel from the collapsed area, by then it will be impossible for us to blend in under their noses to look for clues, and it won't take long for them to start backfilling, there is no need for us to stay here anymore, so we might as well evacuate this place first and return to Lord Ying to see what his old man What are his orders."

"Good!" Several people knew that there was no good solution at the moment, so they all agreed to do so.

Afterwards, several people returned to the place where they had parked before.

Wu Shutong said to the few people, "You few walk farther away, I have to go to the car to report to Lord Ying."

Several people nodded at the same time and walked a long way in the opposite direction.

Only then did Wu Shutong get into his car, take out his mobile phone and use the special contact software to make a voice call to Lord Ying.

When the call was answered, Lord Ying asked him, "Have you ascertained the situation?"

Wu Shutong hurriedly said, "Back to Lord Ying, my subordinates have gone into the location of the copper mine to investigate, but now the entire copper mine has collapsed from the bottom, along with the above-ground part of the copper mine has also completely collapsed into ruins, the entire site is full of collapsed construction rubbish, there are no more clues to be found .....

Chapter 5460

The British Lord questioned sternly, "How could this happen?! A large base, just like that, is gone? Where are the people inside? Have they all been killed?!"

Wu Shutong said in fear, “My Lord, I have no idea what happened to the people inside! I was hoping for an official investigation by the Cypriot authorities, but they have now ordered the entire site to be filled in and declared that the copper mine has reached the end of its life and has been artificially abandoned.

The British Lord asked in a cold voice, “Why is the Cypriot government in such a hurry to fill up the site? Is it because they have discovered something that cannot be revealed to the public?”

Wu Shu Xin’s heart tightened, he did not expect that the British Lord had caught the key point of the problem in an instant.

However, there was no turning back from the opening bow.

He did not dare to take the responsibility that the entire Deadman’s quarters had long since been taken over, and that even Ou Bojun had been strangled. He only wanted to let Lord Ying know that the reason why this place had been razed to the ground was all because the mysterious enemy was too powerful, just like the loss of New York and Northern Europe, it was not that his side was too rookie, but that the enemy was too strong.

So, he could only say with a stiff upper lip, “Ying Lord, my subordinate thinks that the people in the dead soldiers’ quarters, as well as Jian Gong Bo, have probably all died, and it is highly likely that the enemy took advantage of their unpreparedness and bloodied the place .....

“Bloodbath .....” Lord Ying muttered, “Jian Gong Bo was extremely strong, what could have bloodbath him?!”

Wu Shutong lamented, “Lord Ying, my subordinates do not know exactly who did it, please punish Lord Ying!”

After a long time, Lord Ying said decadently, “It’s just that, it seems that this world, is not what I thought it was, I was too optimistic .....

After saying that, Lord Ying added, “All right, you guys withdraw back, don’t mention this matter to anyone, if you violate, kill without amnesty!”

Hearing these words, Wu Shutong completely put his heart down.

As the Governor of the Right Army Governorate, he was one of Lord Ying’s most trusted and powerful ministers, and he knew the underlying logic of the inner workings of the Qing Breaking Society.

In the Broken Qing Society, the five capital governorates all operated independently of each other, and no one knew the specifics of the other four capital governorates, where they were, how many people they had under their command, how many death quarters, how many Dark Realm or even Transformation Realm experts.

Moreover, there is a tight firewall of information within each of the capitals.

Although the copper refinery in Turkey was his superior and was responsible for all the supplies and antidote distribution for the dead soldiers, they did not have the authority to command Ni Zhenyu.

If the copper refinery in Turkey and the copper mine in Cyprus disappeared at the same time, this line would naturally go unnoticed.

The British Lord had allowed himself to conceal this matter for no other purpose than to stabilise the army and keep the others completely ignorant of that mysterious enemy.

On the other hand, since Lord Ying had said so, he should not intend to pursue his own responsibility anymore.

With excitement in his heart, Wu Shutong ended his call with Lord Ying before using his mobile phone to call all the others back.

When several people returned, Wu Shutong's younger brother, Wu Shuhang, seeing his brother sitting in the passenger seat, went straight into the driver's seat, but did not rush to start the car, but asked him with a nervous look on his face, "Brother, what did Lord Ying say?"

Wu Shutong frowned and reprimanded in a low voice, "I've told you many times, you can only call me brother in private, you should call me Dudu at other times!"

Wu Shuhang hurriedly said, "Yes ..... Duvu ..... my subordinate is not worried about you ..... afraid that Lord Ying will condemn you... .."

Wu Shutong smiled faintly and spoke, "This kind of thing happened, it is far beyond my ability, even Jian Gong Bo can hardly escape the clutches of the other side, how can I be able to."

After saying this, Wu Shutong waved his hand, "Go back, it's almost time."

Wu Shuhang nodded and handed Wu Shutong a bottle of water and said, "The governor will drink some water to calm his nerves, we will return now."

Wu Shutong was already extremely relaxed at this point because he had a sense of survival after the robbery, and after relaxing, he did feel thirsty, so he took the water and unscrewed it to take a few sips.

A few seconds later, he suddenly changed his face and stared at his brother Wu Shuhang, who was sitting in the driver's seat, and said with difficulty, "Shuhang you ..... you ..... you poisoned the water?!"
