Chapter 371

Chapter 371 Did She Hear Her Right?

As if knowing what Morgan was thinking about, Jenny said, "I'll handle the money. Don't worry."

"Jenny, I..." Morgan gaped. "I don't think you know how...big a sum my family needs to make things up." If they needed less, they wouldn't have thought about an arranged marriage in the first place. "How much do you need?" Jenny asked casually.

Morgan stared at her in surprise and mumbled, "One billion."

Not a hundred thousand, not several hundred million, but a billion.

Jenny grew silent at the number, to no one's surprise.

"I know you want to help me, Jenny. You've helped me so much already. You really don't have to do

"I'll cover it," Jenny interrupted steadily, making Morgan sit back in shock.

"Sorry, what did you say...?"

Where was Jenny going to find one billion dollars? Not even her divorce settlement with Alec would've garnered that much money.

The car slid to a stop by Jenny's neighborhood.

"You really don't have to worry about the money. Just tell your dad to be careful about the Murrs antics."

It was highly likely the Murrs would bear a grudge against the Goldings after what happened tonight.

Morgan nodded, following Jenny's lead. "Alright. I'll tell them."

When they were in the elevator, Morgan asked again, "Jenny, where would you get one billion dollars?" It's not that she didn't believe Jenny's words. It was just that her being able to have that much money so soon was too strange. Jenny was an incredible doctor, but her salary didn't reach millions annually.

Jenny took out the key to her front door. "I invest in my spare time, so I have some savings."

It wasn't as easy as it sounded, though. But she wasn't worried. She could borrow some money from Zack. His work was going pretty well...

And if she still couldn't find enough funds, there was Gilbert...

"Nah, not Gilbert, Jenny thought.

"Invest?" Morgan stared at Jenny in surprise. She was just discovering this about her colleague. Jenny didn't reveal further, though, so Morgan didn't pursue the topic any longer. I really don't know how to repay you for your help, Jenny."

Jenny placed a hand on her shoulder and smiled. "You don't have to, Morgan. I'm not some saint." "Huh?"

"Can you arrange a meeting for me with your parents tomorrow? I want to talk to them about becoming a shareholder," Jenny explained.

Shareholder?

It took Morgan a second to understand what Jenny was saying. Still, she was deeply grateful for her help. "You have a good heart, Jenny. You have no idea how much help your investments will be to my family."

No one in their right mind would invest in their company right now, so Jenny's willingness to invest surprised her.

"Get some rest for the night. Your family's problem is solved now, yeah?" Jenny urged, then showed Morgan to her guest room. She then went to bed straight away, already exhausted from the event of that evening.
