

Signing In For Eight Years, I Was Exposed As A Zillionaire!

Chapter 11

Patek Philippe Duke Watch (1)

Then, Ye Xuan went to the washroom to wipe the lipstick mark on his head. He felt like his Big Sister did it on purpose.

After Ye Xuan was done, he took the elevator to the sixth floor of Huaxing Plaza.

...

He could see the Patek Philippe shop from afar. The classic combination of black and gold made the shop look very high-end.

The window that spanned from the floor to the ceiling was spotlessly clean, and many customers could be seen sitting inside.

Ye Xuan stood at the main entrance and listened to the customers asking the staff for details. There were many people but it didn't seem messy.

It was indeed a top luxury brand. The quality of the customers who entered the shop was excellent.

Ye Xuan simply walked in and nodded at the dazzling array of watches on the counter. Every one of them was extremely beautiful. Of course, the price was also very beautiful.

Because Ye Xuan was short, the shop assistants didn't notice him for the time being.

Instead, a middle-aged woman accompanying her lover to choose a watch saw him and said in surprise, "Look, a child has entered. He's super cute."

Everyone was stunned for a moment before looking in the direction of the voice.

Ye Xuan's skin was very fair, and his big eyes were dark and bright. They could not help but think of a fawn's watery eyes.

However, Ye Xuan looked different from normal children.

He was clearly an adorable seven or eight-year-old child, but he had a mature aura that did not match his appearance.

"Which customer brought this little master?" A round-faced sales lady walked out of the counter and held Ye Xuan's hand.

The group of guests shook their heads. Meanwhile, the woman who noticed Ye Xuan covered her mouth and snickered, "Such a beautiful boy. If he was my son, I would be happy even in my dreams."

The other guests nodded in agreement. This boy was too cute, like a little prince from a fairy tale.

The sales lady reached out and touched Ye Xuan's smooth face. She smiled and said, "Looks are really important. Prettier children are cuter!"

She had seen many pretty children, but this was the first time she had seen such a cute one.

She even guessed that this child's parents must be a handsome man and a beautiful woman. Perhaps they were a celebrity couple!

However, Ye Xuan didn't like such intimate contact. He dodged the sales lady's claws and leaned against the counter to observe the watch designs.

The guests chuckled again when they saw how serious he was.

"This child has a bright future! You're so young, yet you already know how to look at luxury watches!"

“How can he know about luxury watches at such a young age? I’m guessing that he’s probably attracted by shiny things!”

“It’s dangerous for such a beautiful child to get lost. Do you want me to help contact your family?”

The round-faced sales lady nodded in agreement. Children were their parents’ treasure. Their parents would definitely be anxious if their children got lost.

She walked over and squatted beside Ye Xuan. After maintaining the same height as him, she asked softly, “Little kid, where are your parents? Didn’t they come with you?”

The sales lady’s actions made Ye Xuan feel respect for her.

Usually, he had to look up to others. This kind of equal communication made him feel very comfortable.

He looked at the sales lady and shook his head. “I came alone. I’m not lost. I came to your shop to buy a watch.”

The guests burst into laughter.

This child?

The guests’ eyes instantly widened slightly. They could not believe what they had heard. This child was really interesting. Had he come here to buy a watch? One had to know that this was Patek Philippe, the most famous watch brand in China and even the world.

It was simply not something that ordinary people could afford.

Even they only came to take a look and did not insist on buying a watch.

Everyone felt that Ye Xuan was really interesting. His voice was so young but his tone was so old.

A couple who had already made a deal walked in front of Ye Xuan. The more the woman looked at Ye Xuan, the more she liked him. She pulled his hand and walked into the shop that specialized in selling children's watches.

Ye Xuan was silent. He thought, "Be careful or I'll sue you for child trafficking. If it wasn't for the fact that you have 88 appearance points, I wouldn't care. However, if only you were ten years younger..."

Time was like a butcher's knife.

There were all kinds of digital watches with cartoon heads and some exaggerated children's quartz watches in this shop.

The woman looked around and found a phone watch that could be used to make calls.

"If you like any piece, just tell me. I'll buy it for you." The woman really liked Ye Xuan. This bit of money was nothing to her. If she could bring happiness to a child, it would be worth it.

The woman picked the most expensive watch. It was an Ultraman watch that could be used to make calls. She waved it in front of Ye Xuan as if she was presenting a treasure. "Do you like this design?"

A seven or eight-year-old boy would probably idolize Ultraman, right?

The man couldn't stand it. Before Ye Xuan could answer, he asked, "Little kid, before you buy anything, you should confirm if you have the ability to buy it. Don't you think so? Do you have enough money to buy these watches?"

Ye Xuan calmly glanced at him. Then, he looked ahead and shook his head. "These watches are too cheap."