

Signing In For Eight Years, I Was Exposed As A Zillionaire!

Chapter 13

I'll Just Buy Another Piece If It's Broken

At this moment, President Chen could not be bothered to buy a watch for Ye Xuan. He called his wife and returned to the Patek Philippe shop.

Although he could not wear and own such a noble watch, it was fate that he could see the real thing with his own eyes.

...

It could more or less make up for the regret in his heart.

At the same time, President Chen also wanted to meet this legendary and mysterious tycoon. Perhaps he could exchange business cards with him. He would gain something from this trip today.

No, to be able to befriend such a mysterious tycoon was definitely a huge gain!

The manager walked back to the store and suddenly turned around to ask the round-faced sales lady, "I forgot to ask you. Did anyone come to the store today to pick up a watch?"

The manager thought that the mysterious Mr. Ye might have already been to the store, and sweat almost dripped from his forehead.

This was a major oversight. If she really offended this level of customer, she would lose her job as the manager.

The round-faced sales lady quickly recalled. It seemed that other than the little cutie, Ye Xuan, no one else came to the shop to get a watch.

How could a seven or eight-year-old child order their most expensive series?

“No, Mr. Ye shouldn’t be here yet,” said the round-faced sales lady.

The manager heaved a sigh of relief. She was really shocked.

Then, she saw Ye Xuan behind the round-faced sales lady and asked curiously, “Eh, why is a little kid in our shop? Are you lost?”

Ye Xuan took two steps forward and shook his head. “I’ve said it a few times. I’m here to pick up your watch.”

The manager was stunned for a moment before she burst out laughing.

Whose child was this? He really knew how to follow how others acted.

He even learned it so well.

If he was a dozen years older, the manager felt that she might really be intimidated.

The round-faced sales lady also smiled helplessly and explained, “This little kid is probably spoiled by his parents. He’s very interesting.”

Ye Xuan sighed helplessly.

He didn’t want this either, okay?

With such a childish face, not only was he easily taken advantage of, but he was also always questioned.

So what if he was young? Couldn’t he have luxury goods when he was young?

Wasn’t it just a watch worth 20 million yuan?

Ye Xuan took out a phone from his pocket and quickly operated it. He looked up at the manager and said, “I paid in full yesterday. This is the pickup code. You can scan it.”

The manager felt her vision blur. The QR code that Ye Xuan handed over seemed especially eye-catching.

Was this real?

Could she believe it?

Should she believe it?

For a moment, the manager felt that her worldview was about to collapse.

Under everyone's shocked gazes, the manager picked up the QR code scanner in a daze.

As if she had made up her mind, she quickly scanned the QR code in Ye Xuan's hand.

Ding dong!

With a crisp sound, the QR code scan was successful.

The computer page behind the counter displayed Ye Xuan's order information.

It was the Duke Rainbow Disc, which was worth more than 20 million yuan.

The payment method column showed that the payment had been made in full.

The others present were shocked and speechless.

That sound just now...

Had the scan actually succeeded?

Boom!

In an instant, the entire watch shop fell silent. They could not believe what they had heard.

Did this little boy really buy a watch worth 20 million yuan?

Wasn't this too unbelievable?

How old were they? They couldn't even afford one piece!

At this moment, everyone felt like they had fallen into an ice cave. The hair on their bodies stood on end, and their bodies trembled.

Everyone looked at each other helplessly, then looked at Ye Xuan in disbelief.

Was this really a seven or eight-year-old boy?

That was more than 20 million yuan. Which child would have so much pocket money?!

Ye Xuan looked at the manager who was almost in a daze and was a little dissatisfied. He reminded her, "The verification is successful. Can you retrieve the goods for me now?"

The store manager was speechless. Her mind exploded and her values collapsed. She originally thought that it was a big client, but a little kid had bought a watch worth 20 million yuan!

This...

She apologized profusely and hurriedly entered the storeroom to take out the wristwatch.

The sales lady also quickly took out a gift box. It was a gift box that was usually used to box goods for guests.

When the manager saw this, she immediately scolded her. "Mr. Ye is the most respected customer in our shop. How can you use an ordinary gift box set?"

After saying that, the manager personally entered the storeroom and chose a new gift box.

When the gift box was taken out of the box, a bright light shone on it, making it shine with a seven-colored light.

“It’s actually the refraction of seven-colored light. Is it made of crystal?”

“Isn’t this box a little too beautiful? As expected of Patek Philippe. I like it so much!”

“With this design, it’s obvious that it’s expensive to build!”

Hearing the discussions of the surrounding people, the manager proudly introduced the box. “This is a high-end gift box set prepared by Patek Philippe for the top customers. The crystal at the top is already worth as much as 200,000 yuan. Overall, it’s worth more than 500,000 yuan.”

Everyone subconsciously swallowed their saliva, once again experiencing the might of Patek Philippe.

A gift box was worth 500,000 yuan. It was too heaven-defying.

Unexpectedly, Ye Xuan didn’t even look at it. Instead, he simply put the watch on his wrist.

Ye Xuan was very satisfied as he admired the color change of the colored diamond under the light.

“Alright, I’ll take my leave first.”

When President Chen saw Ye Xuan turn around and leave, he reminded him, “Little guy... Uh, Mr. Ye, you haven’t taken your gift box and warranty card!”

“If your watch is broken, you can still replace it or repair it. As for this gift box, it’s a gift box worth 500,000 yuan,” said President Chen as he swallowed. Just this gift box alone was the same price as his new watch!

Ye Xuan didn't even turn around. As he walked out, he said, "Oh, it's fine. If it's broken, so be it. I'll just throw it away and replace it with another piece."

President Chen simply could not believe his ears.

These words actually came from a seven or eight-year-old child.

It was something worth more than 20 million yuan, but he wouldn't even repair it if it was spoiled?

He would simply... throw it away and replace it with another piece!

He thought about his many years of hard work...

President Chen could not stay any longer. He ran out of the shop dejectedly and even forgot to call his wife.

Today, he had been ruthlessly slapped in the face.

As for the sales lady, the manager, and the customers, they were all stunned and couldn't extricate themselves for a long time. They were all embarrassed by Ye Xuan. Not only were their values subverted, but their confidence had also suffered a huge blow.

However, Ye Xuan ignored them.